LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"This dainty comedy is full of clean English humor," says the New York Herald, "spiced with catchy Americanisms filched from us by the author when he last visted us. But the theft is forgiven for the material has helped to make "Merely Mary Ann" a delightful play to which one can take his mother, sister or daughter without fear, and that means much now-a-days. To appreciate the beauty of this comedy one must see it, with its naive heroine who wins all the womankind and that means that all the men must go. The date booked for the attraction here is Tuesday, March 16.

At the New Plainfield theatre on March 17 Henrietta Crossman, will give the first local performance of "Sham," her newest and, said to be, best comedy success, which has been written in three acts by Geraldine Bonner and Elmer B. Harris. Miss Crossman has not had so pretentious a play since her production of "The Christian Pilgrim" and although the dramatization of Bunyan's story would seem to be a pinnacle of literary merit on the stage. Miss Crossman's manager, Maurice Campbell, has succeeded in finding a comedy which, it is predicted, will add to the star's already long list of successes.

Already the interest manifested broadcast among out best theatre going people over the advance notice of Theodore Kremer's strong melodramatic appeal, "For Her Children's Sake," to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre March 19, has been sufficient to predict one of the biggest ovations ever seen at this local theatre. The author has followed up his successful "The Fatal Wedding" with this brand new hit, and fairly bids to out-do its predecessor from every standpoint. This has been no difficult task, but Manager H. R. Travis, who admits of no obstacle to gain a point, must have the public satisfied, and neither expense or pains have been spared.

Florence Lester, who created the role of Berenice Dorian in Paul H. Liebler's production of "The Conflict," the psychic drama by Mr. Maurice V. Samuels, which is creating so much discussion, is an alumnus of Bryn Mawr; a fact of which that talented young woman is inordinately proud. In the role of Berenice, Miss Lester has ample oportunities to display the qualities which has made her the best ingenue of the American stage today, for she portrays the spiritual feature of the play, child like, loving, unselfish and typifies Goethe's aphorism, "the ever womanly lifts us above." "The Conflict," with a superb cast headed by Robert Drouet, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre March 20 on and unquestionably will be the dramatic event of the season.

David Warfield proved in "The Music Master" that from an actor's standpoint much can be accomplished toward reaching the affections of the public by the elusive combination, the laugh and the tear. This personality is a wonderful asset for any artist to possess, and there is no one who has it to a more pronounced degree than Rose Stahl, who is to be seen here in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," at the New Plainfield theatre, March 29.

Still In Doubt.

"I refuse either to affirm or deny that I am to marry the lady you mention," said the society bachelor.

"Have you any objection to my asking the lady about it herself?" ventured the reporter.

"Not the slightest. And, say, come back and tell me what she says, won't you?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

DO IT NOW.

Plainfield People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they became serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's Disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Albert Naylor, 519 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was afflicted with a dull aching in the small of my back and sharp pains when I stooped or lifted. I was told that Doan's Kidney Pills were a sure cure for such troubles and getting a supply, I began their use. Two boxes fixed me up in good shape and I have often recommended the remedy since to other persons suffering as I did."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WHY THAT IS THE REAL THING—
You Can't Tell it from the Actual Human Voice!

That's what people say every day upon hearing the VICTOR. Do you know what the VICTOR is like?

You owe it to yourself to hear it. I will gladly play any VICTOR music you want to hear.

Prices Range from $10 to $200.

AMUSEMENTS.

Blanche Bates will soon reach the 200 mark at the Belasco theatre where the Belasco star and her vivid play, "The Fighting Hope," are proving magnets to draw appreciative capacity audiences.

Frances Starr's truthful portrayal of the weak, and vascillating Laura Murdock of Eugene Walter's play, "The Easiest Way," has placed this Belasco star in an enviable position on the American stage. After witnessing Miss Starr's enactment of the role at the Belasco Stuyvesant one cannot imagine another actress successfully playing the part, which is a true tribute to this young artist's genius and to David Belasco's judgment in selecting Miss Starr to portray the difficult character.

After it was informally arranged between Charles Frohman and William Collier some five or six years ago, that Mr. Collier should come under Mr. Frohman's management, the comedian was invited to the manager's office in the Empire theatre for a little chat. The manager's office is on the third floor of The Empire theatre building, and is approached by the lobby of the Empire theatre itself, past walls that are lined with the golden framed portraits of the various Frohman stars. As soon as a new name is added to the list of "what Mr. Frohman is fond of calling his children," a new face is added to the walls of the lobby of the theatre itself. They are rather elaborate frames, especially designed by Thomas Hastings, the architect, who erected the theatre itself.

The engagement of that distinguished Shakespearean player, Robert Mantell, at the New Amsterdam theatre is of more than ordinary moment to lovers of the classic and the serious drama. The leading tragedian of his time and with a repertoire of unusual variety, he has chosen Shakespeare's historical drama, "King John," for his season. No incident of the present theatrical year exceeds this revival in literary importance and interest. The rarity of its presentation has precluded the present generation from an acquaintance with this tragedy. Garrick undertook the role with success in the Victorian era, and MacCready produced the play at the Theatre Royal, Druary Lane, London, in a style of unaccustomed magnificence. Later, Charles Kean introduced it to the American public at the old Park theatre. Edwin Booth also included "King John" in his repertoire. It is pertinent to add that unusual significance attaches to this present revival, which will be made in most elaborate fashion.

UNDER A WRONG IMPRESSION.

"If a man has got his house and his household goods insured," asked the caller with the scarred-up face, "he gets paid for whatever's damaged in the building by fire, doesn't he?"

"Usually, if the fire is an accident," answered the insurance agent.

"Just so. Well, I'm insured here. We had a little blaze at my house Christmas eve, and I thought I'd drop in and tell you about it."

"I see. You had the tree all lit up, and one of the candles got too near to something and set it on fire. Was that it?"

"That's about the size of it."

"What do you estimate the damage to be?"

"Well, I thought I'd better leave that to you."

"Leave it to us? What was it that took fire?"

"It was me. I was the Santa Claus."

"Do you mean to say your clothes took fire?"

"You bet they did! Look at me. Don't I look pretty considerably damaged?"

"You do. Did you get all those scars in that fire?"

"I did. Hain't been out of the house since until today."

"Any household goods destroyed?"

"No."

"Were you carrying any accident insurance?"

"Not a cent's worth."

"Well, my friend, you haven't any claim on us. We simply insure your house and its contents. The contents include furniture, carpets, books, bedding and the like. This isn't an accident insurance company. Sorry for you, but we can't do anything."

"Just as I expected," said the scarred-up man, buttoning his coat about him. "I might have put in a claim for 50 cents' worth of cotton batting I was using for hair and whiskers, but you'd kick against paying that, too, I reckon. It went all to nothing in two seconds. We'll let it go, though. You couldn't afford to pay it, I guess. Next time I deal with an insurance company I'll know what I'm doing, begosh, and maybe I'll spend a whole lot more money with your company. Oh, yes."

With a leer on his scarred face designed to express withering sarcasm he walked away, his head up straight and his toes pointing directly ahead.

"That was a bad break Brown made."

"What was that?"

"He credited an automobile story to President Lincoln."—Detroit Free Press.

A Gentleman From Mississippi!

By THOMAS A. WISE.

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs.

Copyright, 1909, by Thomas A. Wise

"Great God, sir!" exclaimed Langdon. "You are going too far, Peabody. You state what is false, and you know it, you—you"—

"Then you are willing that others should have their rightful share?" put in Stevens. "Oh, I understand now, senator."

"No, no, no!" cried Langdon. "You do not understand, Senator Stevens, and I must say I am ashamed to speak of you by the honorable title of senator, sir. I will not listen to any person enriching himself at the government expense, and I am your enemy, you, Peabody, and you, Stevens, beyond recall. You both know you misrepresent me."

Langdon walked over to Stevens and faced him directly.

"Do you remember, Stevens, Lorimer Hawkslee, back in wartime?"

"Yes," said Stevens, puzzled, "I remember him—a very fine gentleman."

The old planter sneered.

"Yes, a very fine gentleman! You remember he got rich out of contracts for supplies furnished to the Confederate government when it wasn't any too easy for the Confederate government to pay and when he was in that government himself. I never quite thought that the act of a gentleman, Stevens. It seemed to me to be very like dishonesty. I refused to speak to Lorimer Hawkslee in the Carroll hotel at Vicksburg, and when the people there asked me why I told them. I want to warn you, Stevens, that I'm likely to meet you some time in the Carroll hotel at Vicksburg."

Stevens backed away angrily. "I catch your insinuation, but"—he received a warning glance from Peabody and broke into a pleasant smile calculated to deceive the old planter—"this once I will overlook it because of our old friendship and the old days in Mississippi."

"You are a fine talker, Langdon," said Peabody, coming to Stevens' rescue, "but I can readily see what you are driving at. You want an investigation. You think you will catch some of us with what you reformers call 'the goods,' but forget evidently the entirely simple facts that your family has invested in Altacoola lands more heavily probably than any one else among us. You want to raise a scandal, do you? Well, go on and raise it, but remember that you will have to explain how it happened that there is $50,000 invested in the name of your son and $25,000 in the name of your daughter, Miss Carolina, not to mention a few thousands put in by the gentleman who, I am given to understand, is to be your son-in-law, Congressman Norton.

"How about that, Norton?" Peabody asked, turning to the congressman, who had followed Stevens.

"I corroborate all you've said," remarked Norton. "I can state positively that Senator Langdon knew that his money was going into Altacoola land. I will swear to it if necessary," and he glared bitterly at Carolina's father, feeling certain that the girl would cling to him as opposed to her parent.

"I'm likely to meet you some time in the Carroll hotel."

Langdon made a threatening move at the congressman.

"I consider my riddance of you mighty cheap at the price," he cried.

"Come, come, Langdon," fumed Peabody, "I must get away from here to catch the midnight train. Let's get through with this matter. You must realize that you cannot fight me in Washington. You must know that men call me the 'king of the senate.' I can beat any measure you introduce. I can pass any measure you want passed. I can make you a laughing-stock or a power.

"Why, my friend from Mississippi, I can even have your election to the senate contested, have a committee appointed to investigate the manner of your election, have that committee decide that you bought your way into the honorable body, the senate of the United States, and on the strength of that decision have you forfeit your seat! What a pretty heritage to hand down to posterity such a disgrace will be! Why, the very school children of the future will hear about you as 'Looter Langdon,' and their parents will tell them how particularly degrading it was for a man of your reputation to drag into your dishonest schemes your son, sir, and your daughter. For who will believe that this money was not put in these lands without your consent, without your direction, your order? Did you not sign the mortgage on which this $50,000 was raised?"

Senator Langdon waved his hand deprecatingly. "I'm learning the underhanded ways of you professional politicians. I'm getting wise. I'm learning 'the game,' so I know you're bluffing me, Peabody. But you forget that the game of poker was invented in Mississippi—my native state."

Pressing a button, Langdon summoned a servant and said: "Send in Mr. Haines. I guess I've got to have a witness for my side."

"It's no bluff," spoke Stevens as Haines entered. "Peabody can and will break you like a pipestem; he's done it to other men before you who—who tried to dispute his power. But I'll try to save you. I'll ask him to be merciful. You are not of any importance in the senate. We do not need to deal with you"—

"Then why do you both spend so much time on me?" asked Langdon innocently. "Why doesn't Peabody go to Philadelphia?"

"Langdon," said Peabody, "you know my control of the senate is no piece of fiction. But I will forgive your obstinacy, even forget it. I"—

"Look here," cried Langdon, "just because I'm a fat man don't think that I can't lose my temper." He stopped and gazed at his two colleagues.

"Now, you two men stay still one moment, and I'll tell you what really

"Because I'm fat don't think I can't lose my temper."

will happen tomorrow," he exploded, "and I'm only a beginner in the game that's your specialty. The naval base is going to Altacoola"—

"Good!" simultaneously cried both Peabody and Stevens. "You're coming in with us!"

"No, I'm not, but I'll pass the bill so that nobody makes a cent, just as I said I would. I'll fool you both and make you both honest for once in spite of your natural dispositions."

Stevens and the Pennsylvanian stared at each other in disgust.

"Furthermore," continued Langdon, "Altacoola must have the base because I've known for some time that Gulf City was impossible. But some crooked senators would have made money if they'd known it, so they didn't learn it. Altacoola, that proud arm of our great gulf, will have those battleships floating on her broad bosom and the country will be the better off, and so will the sovereign state of Mississippi—God bless it—but neither Senator Peabody of Pennsylvania nor Senator Stevens of Mississippi is going to be any better because of it. No, and if you men come to my committee room at 12:30 tomorrow noon you'll have a chance to hear how all that's coming about. If you are not there by that time I'll bring in a minority report in favor of Gulf City just to show you that I know how to play the game—this Washington game"—

"Come, let's go. We can do nothing with him," said Peabody to the senior senator from Mississippi.

"Well, senator, in the name of goodness, what are you going to do? How can you win for Altacoola without letting these grafters make money out of it?" asked Haines in astonishment as the other two walked away. "What are you going to do at 12:30 tomorrow?"

Langdon turned to him and rolled his eyes toward the ceiling despairingly.

"I'm blamed if I know!" he exclaimed.

CHAPTER XXII.

LOBBYISTS—AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

WASHINGTON has known many lobbyists in its time, and it keeps on knowing them. The striking increase in legislation that aims to restrict unlawful or improper practices in business, the awakening of the public conscience, has caused a greater demand than ever for influence at the national capital, for these restrictive measures must be either killed or emasculated to a point of uselessness by that process which is the salvation of many a corrupt manipulator, the process of amendment.

Predatory corporations, predatory business associations of different sorts and predatory individuals have their representatives on the field at Washington to ward off attack by any means that brains can devise or money procure and to obtain desired favors at a cost that will leave a profitable balance for the purchaser. When commercial tricksters, believing in the lobbyists' favorite maxim, "The People Forget," feel that they have outlived the latest reform movement and see "the good old days" returning, the professional politicians introduce a few reform measures themselves, most stringent measures. They push these measures ahead until somebody pays up, then the bills die. The lobbyist knows all about these "strike" bills, but does not frown on them. No, no. Perhaps he helped draw up one of these bills so that, with the aid of his inside knowledge of his employer's business, the measure is made to give a greater scare than might otherwise have resulted. The bigger the scare the bigger the fund advanced, of course, for the lobbyist to handle. All this also helps the lobbyist to secure and retain employment.

Not all the Washington lobbyists are outside of congress. The senator or congressman has unequaled facilities for oiling or blocking the course of a bill. Sometimes he confines himself to the interests of his own clients, whoever they may be. But sometimes he notices a bill that promises to be a pretty good thing for the client of some other member if it passes. Then he begins to fight this bill so actively that he must be "let in on the deal" himself. This is very annoying to the other member, but the experience is worth something. He has learned the value of observing other people's legislation.

The outsiders (members of the "third house") and the insiders have a bond of freemasonry uniting them; they exchange information as to what members of both houses can be "reached," how they can be "got to" (through whom) and how much they want. This information is carefully tabulated, and now prices for passing or defeating legislation can be quoted to interested parties just as the price of a carload of pork can be ascertained at a given time and place. Perhaps it is this system that leads grafting members of short experience to wonder how knowledge of their taking what is termed "the sugar" got out and became known to their associates. Did they not have pledge of absolute secrecy? Yes, but the purchaser never intended to keep the information from those of his kind. Lobbyists must be honest with each other.

Not all lobbyists are men. The woman legislative agent has been known to occupy an important position in Washington, and she does yet. She is hard to detect and frequently more unprincipled than the men similarly engaged, if that is possible.

A woman with a measure of social standing would naturally prove the most successful as a lobbyist in Washington because of the opportunities her position would afford her to meet people of prominence. And just such a one was Mrs. Cora Spangler, with whom the Langdons had been thrown in contact quite intimately since their arrival at the capital.

Pretty and vivacious, Mrs. Spangler bore her thirty-seven years with uncommon ease, aided possibly by the makeup box and the modiste. Her dinners and receptions were attended by people of acknowledged standing. Always a lavish spender of money, this was explained as possible because of a fortune left her by her late husband, Congressman Spangler of Pennsylvania. That this "fortune" had consisted largely of stock and bonds of a bankrupt copper smelting plant in Michigan remained unknown, except to her husband's family, one or two of her own relatives and Senator Peabody, who, coming from Pennsylvania, had known her husband intimately.

He it was who had suggested to her that she might make money easily by cultivating the acquaintance of the new members of both houses and their families, exerting her influence in various "perfectly legitimate ways," he argued, for or against matters pending in legislation. The Standard Steel corporation kept Mrs. Spangler well supplied with funds deposited monthly to her account in a Philadelphia trust company.

She avoided suspicion by reason of her sex and her many acquaintances of undisputed rank. Senator Peabody was never invited to her home, had never attended a single dinner, reception or musicale she had given, all of which was a part of the policy they had mutually agreed on to deaden any suspicion that might some time arise as to her relation to the Standard Steel company. It was well known that Peabody had been put into the senate by Standard Steel to look after its interests.

He had found Mrs. Spangler chiefly valuable thus far as a source of information regarding the members of congress, which she obtained largely from their families. He was thus able to gain an idea of their associations, their particular interests and their aspirations in coming to congress, which proved of much use to him in forming and promoting acquaintances, all for the glory of Standard Steel.

Pumpkin Turnover.

A modernized form of the pumpkin pie is the pumpkin tartlet, which, while none the less savory than the old time pie, is a little more dainty and attractive to the eye, and, when the company to be served is large, it is much more economical because there is no waste in cutting. To make pumpkin tartlets, prepare a mixture as for pumpkin pie. Have patty-shapes baked empty, but not browned. Half fill each shape with the custard, then bake until well "set." Take from the oven and cover each with the meringue heaped high in the centre; return to the oven and brown slowly.

Just Deserts.

If e'er it chanced a square deal was
The thing all people got,
Some people would be happy, but
Most people would be hot.

MOTHER GOOSE AFFORDS A WHOLE LOT OF FUN

Under the auspices of the younger members of the First M. E. church Sunday-school, a Mother Goose song recital was given in Vincent chapel, last night, before a large and enthusiastic audience. In all about seventy-five children took part in the affair, representing the various characters in the Mother Goose story. Miss Helen Joy made an excellent "Mother Goose," while all the other children took their parts well. All were in appropriate costume.

During the first part the Mother Goose songs were rendered, after which the characters appeared in pantomime. Features were a minuet by the children from Miss Edna French's kindergarten class, duets by Virginia Sminck and Wallace Zimmerman and Mildred Burnet and Edward Crone, a vocal solo by Miss Helen Whitney, assisted by Hahhan Bingaman, Gertrude Prior and Lucile Ewart, who acted the parts.

There was also a pleasing song drill by Edward Crone, Mildred Burnet, Alling Campbell, Elizabeth Hicks, Harold Hile, Ruth Seal, Clarence Skiff and Edith Little. Miss Elsie Schwed delighted all with a vocal solo, Mistress Mary," and a piano solo by Frank Rowley, won much applause. The affair was a great success in every detail. In addition there was a sale of candy, Miss Irene Miller being in charge.

The women in charge of the whole affair were Mrs. M. H. Ewart, Mrs. Arthur E. Crone, Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, Mrs. A. W. Burnet, Mrs. Maurice McGrath, Miss Edna French, Mrs. J. R. Roundy and Miss Myra Emmons. The last two named assisted at the piano. The profits from the entertainment, which will be about $70, will go to the missionary societies of the church.

LONG DISTANCE REPORTING IS INVENTED BY COURIER.

A long distance report, emanating from the over-worked brain of an over zealous reporter of that journalistic master-piece, the Courier-News, concerning a lecture delivered at Vincent chapel on Thursday afternoon has caused many a laugh among some members of the First M. E. church. As the bit of fiction ran, Professor Edward Howard Griggs, who is well known to Plainfield audiences, was reported as delivering a lecture on an old Welsh castle in Ludlow, and although the "cooked up" story stated that that was his "theme,' it also told at length how he referred to "The Pursuit of Knowledge." The names of great Englishmen engaged in that pursuit in olden times were recorded in detail.

Here's where the joke is. Professor C. T. Winchester delivered a lecture at Vincent chapel on Thursday afternoon on the subject "An Old Castle." Prof. Griggs' lecture on "The Pursuit of Knowledge" does not take place until March 25.

HARRY KNIGHT'S FUNERAL CONDUCTED BY JR. O. U. A. M.

Funeral services were held last night for Harry Knight, whose tragis death occurred in Philadelphia Tuesday night. Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which organization he was a member, was in charge of the ceremonies, Past Master David Bodine officiating.

Interment was made at Hillside cemetery this afternoon at 3:30. Thes were the pallbearers: Jast Counsellors David Bodine, Roy DeCamp, Frank C. Blatz and George D. Wilson; Counsellor Charles S. Wilson and William J. Firstbrook.

Surprised Estella Force.

A birthday surprise party was given to Miss Estella Force at her home on West Front street, last night. The affair was arranged by Miss Evelyn Hillman and the evening was spent playing all kinds of games, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Estella Force, James Manning, Evelyn Hillman, Russell Miller, Elsie Stanley, Howard Armstrong, Elsie Organ, Herbert Hillman, Daisy Gahagan, Earl Lynn, Jessie Stewart, Arthur Briggs, Edward Mosher, Cedric Ostrom, Helen Abel, Arthur Force and Vivian Dunn.

Party at the 'Plains.

Trinity Reformed Sunday-school will be represented on the baseball diamond by a team organized by the "Young Men's Bible Class," better known as Mr. Sheppard's class. The class has applied for membership in the Sunday-school Baseball League that will be formed in Plainfield this year. The material is promising and a good team is looked for. Teams wishing games will please address all communications to E. W. Bennett, 20 Vine street, North Plainfield.

N. Y. LAWYER WILL SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A. TOMORROW.

Frank H. Sincerbeaux, said to be one of the most brilliant members of the New York bar, comes to address the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Sincerbeaux is a graduate of Yale, class of 1902, and of Columbia Law School, class of 1905. In Yale he graduated second man in a class of three hundred, held the Waterman scholarship, the largest in the University, won the Thacher prize for excellence in debate and was chosen repeatedly to represent Yale on her debating teams. He was elected class orator and delivered the class oration upon graduation. After leaving the law school, he entered the offices of Bowers & Sands in New York, with whom he is now associated.

For a number of years Mr. Sincerbeaux has been an active worker in the Young Men's Christian Association. His powerful address on "The Manliness of Christ" has been given before many great association audiences. He will give this address tomorrow afternoon. Charles L. Lewis will sing. All men are invited, especially college men and prospective college men. Boys over fourteen will be admitted. Mr. Herrman's class meets at 5:15 to discuss "The Distribution of Wealth."

BALLAD OF THE FIVE-SPOT MILLIONAIRE.

He comes from near, he comes from far.
A grand impression he'd convey;
Those of the common sort he'd bar.
He's something more tres recherche.
A haughty mien he would essay.
He greets you with a stony stare;
With "those high up" he's very gay.
He is a five-spot millionaire.

He rides no doubt the "Private car,"
And talks a lot to little say;
He smokes a banded big cigar.
And is a symbol of decay.
To pass the tedium away,
Reclining in an easy chair.
A little game of draw he'll play.
He is a five-spot millionaire.

Of course, he's most particular.
He motors somewhere every day.
A bag of wind, vesicular.
The universe he tries to sway.
He thinks he owns the whole highway.
Of other's rights he's not aware;
His ears are long, his voice a bray.
He is a five-spot millionaire.

He wants to be the one bright star.
But tradesmen's fears he must allay;
Their duns his little game might mar.
A little on account will stay.
Exposure would his bluff betray.
He does not seem for else to care;
Il ne tient l'honneur sacre.
He is a five-spot millionaire.

Removed Shot from Finger.

Through the use of the X-ray, Dr. A. H. Dundon has relieved William J. Counihan of a troublesome affection of the thumb. Two years ago, while Mr. Couninhan was playing with an air rifle, he accidently put a small shot into the thumb. It pained him considerable at the time, but the piece of lead could not be located. In a short time the trouble disappeared but it returned again recently and Mr. Counihan decided to submit to the X-ray. Dr. Dundon quickly found the shot and removed it without much difficulty.

ANOTHER SEWAGE CONFAB

Township Committee Attends Conference at Borough Mayor's Office.

TO ASCERTAIN SENTIMENT.

Mrs. Brown, Whose Estate Adjoins Kraemer Farm, Engages Counsel as Does "Bob" Fitzsimmons.

The proposition being considered by the city and borough with Dunellen for a joint sewer was discussed at a meeting in Mayor Samuel Townsend's office in the borough Saturday afternoon, when the North Plainfield Township Committee appeared in opposition to the proposition to use the Kraemer farm as a site for a disposal plant. Both Mayor Townsend representing the borough and Councilman F. E. Mygatt, chairman of the trunk line sewage commission, representing this city, favored the idea. No conclusions were reached and no definte action was taken, but it was agreed to study the matter carefully and hold another meeting in the near future.

The township committee is composed of Albert Brokaw, J. M. Lewis and Mr. Archibald. These members expressed themselves as antagonistic to any proposition from the borough and city to enter the township with sewer mains connecting with sewage beds in their midst, yet they desire to learn the wishes of the voters in the matter. They will note with interest what action is taken by the North Plainfield Council tomorrow night, when the engineer submits a report of his investigations.

Mayor Townsend is working assiduously in favor of the plan since the estimated cost of the trunk sewer proposition has made that scheme prohibitive.

Mrs. Helen Brown, whose handsome place adjoins the Kraemer farm, has engaged Jersey City counsel and will put up a bitter fight against locating the proposed filtration beds in that vicinity. Her estate is worth $75,000, and it is said that its value would be greatly deprecated were the Kraemer farm used for such purposes.

As counsel for "Bob" Fitzsimmons, the rear of whose farm adjoins the Kraemer farm, City Judge W. N. Runyon has communicated with his client who is now starring in vaudeville in Scotlad, and will join with the protesting property-owners against the scheme.

FICTION NEWS.

Courier-News Reporter Has Great Imagination.

Another fairy tale appeared in the Courier-News on Saturday, when with scare headlines that paper described the narrow escape of Mrs. George Mehl, of Madison avenue, from being fatally burned. The true facts of the story are that Mrs. Mehl had removed a pan of grease from the oven in her kitchen range and placed it on the porch. The high wind fanned it into a blaze.

Just as Mrs. Mehl appeared on the porch to take care of the pan of grease, James J. Marsh, of the telephone company, came along and offered to extinguish the blaze. She thanked him for assistance, but with her own efforts put out the fire. Her dress did not catch fire, neither was she in danger of being burned nor did she run from the house screaming.

Taylor-Scudder Engagement.

The engagement of Miss Mary Louise Scudder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D'Arcy Scudder, formerly of Trenton, to David Taylor, third, of New York, has been announced Miss Scudder is a granddaughter of former Supreme Court Justice Edward Wallace Scudder and great-granddaughter of George King Drake of Morristown. The father of David Taylor, third, was William Francis Taylor, of Jersey City, who was a colonel in the Seventh Regiment, New York, and who served on Governor Abbett's staff.

Jonathan Belcher's Picture.

The historic First Presbyterian church of Elizabeth, has received from Miller Crane Earl a likeness of Jonathan Belcher, Colonial Governor of New Jersey for ten years under King George II. The picture is an excellent photograph copy of an oil painting cherished by Princeton College.

CITY-METUCHEN TROLLEY COMMITTEE AT TRENTON

A committee of Board of Trade and Merchants' Association members, comprising Herman Schwed, F. A. Duttenhofer, J. Fred MacDonald and J. V. E. Vanderhoef, went to Trenton this morning to present before the State Legislature the bill for the revival of the charter for a trolley line between this city and Metuchen. The bill will be introduced in the lower house either this afternoon or tonight by Assemblyman Rene V. P. Von Minden, of New Market, assemblyman from Middlesex county. The committee took with them the petition for the revival of the old charter, signed by several hundred residents of this city, South Plainfield and Metuchen.

A charter for the construction and operation of a trolley line between this citly and Metuchen was granted to a company of ten Plainfielders in 1871, but the conditions were not fulfilled, and after being kept valid until 1900, the charter lapsed in that year. As a longer franchise term can be secured by the revival of this old charter than through the granting of a new under the present State laws, an effort is being made by the introduction of the bill today. The proceeding in the case requires that the measure be referred to a committee and a date set for a public hearing.

COUNTY FREEHOLDERS INSPECT CAMDEN ROADS

Director Benjamin King, County Engineer J. L. Bauer, together with the road committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, are in Camden today inspecting the new types of roads recently constructed there. Several weeks ago the county engineer inspected the roads and was much pleased and his report led to today's trip.

Owing to the heavy automobile traffic in the State road building is being revolutionized. The old style is no longer lasting, as the surface is quickly torn and destroyed. Various new methods for road construction have sprung up, but as yet nothing satisfactory has been found. Several roads in the county have been adopted as State aid roads, the construction of which is being held up by the State authorities, pending the selection and approval of some good construction material.

CLEVELAND MEMORIAL PLANNED FOR THURSDAY

The Cleveland Memorial Committee appointed by Mayor McClellan, of New York, Thursday, and charged with the duty of holding meetings in memory of Grover Cleveland and of arranging for a permanent memorial to him, has perfected its plans for the public meetings in Newark.

Those will be held March 18, the seventy-second anniversary of Cleveland's birth. An afternoon meeting will be held at Carnegie Hall, New York, at 3 o'clock, at which the Mayor will preside and make an address, and President Taft, Chief Justice Fuller, of the Supreme Court of the United States, and Governor Hughes will make addresses. A letter from Theodore Roosevelt will be read. Richard Watson Gilder will read a poem, the invocation will be offered by the Rev. Dr. William Rogers Richards, and Walter Damrosch will direct the music. The New York Symphony Orchestra and the German Liederkranz, under the direction of Arthur Classen, will particitpate. The benediction will be pronounced b ythe Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman.

In the evening a public meeting will be held in the great hall of the College of the City of New York. Mayor McClellan will preside, and addresses will be made by Senator Elihu Root, Judge George Gray, of Delaware, and Governor Hughes. Though he will not speak a second time, President Taft will attend this meeting. The music will be supplied by the Philharmonic Orchestra and the United Singers of New York.

Annual Meeting Baptist Church.

The annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Wednesday night, March 24, for the purpose of electing three deacons, each for the term of two years, to succeed William M. Tallman, Isaac R. Giles and Charles F. Dayton and for the election of a church clerk for one year to succeed H. C. Runyon and for the election of a treasurer of benevolent fund, for the term of one year to succeed James F. LaRue, all of whose terms expire.

DAY NURSERY'S BENEFIT

The Edgewood Club Gives Musical and Tea for a Worthy Cause.

PROGRAM DELIGHTS AUDIENCE.

Entertainment at the Home of Mrs. F. A. Weeks provided by Young Women.

Under the auspices of the Edgewood Club, composed of young women, and for the benefit of The Day Nursery, a charming musical and tea were given Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. Weeks on West Seventh street. Despite the inclement weather nearly one hundred persons attended the affair and the profits amounted to $65.

The first part of the afternoon was devoted to the musical. The program was a choice one and it was rendered in a finished and perfect manner. The audience was enthusiastic and the artists responded cheerfully to the numerous encores. It would be difficult to decide upon the features of the musical, there being such uniform excellence.

Miss Elizabeth Martin, who is but eleven years of age, delighted all with her piano playing. She is remarkably far advanced for one so young and her interpretation of the most difficult numbers always incites admiration.

Miss Grace Carroll, contralto, who is always a favorite, favored the audience with several of her best selections, while the violin numbers by Miss Helen M. Patterson pleased everyone. Other features were the piano selections by Miss Martine Weeks and the baritone solos by Arthur H. Chamberlain. They added greatly to the enjoyment of the program which was as follows:

Piano solo, "Spinnlied," Bohm, Miss Elizabeth Martin; contralto solos, "Jess MacPharlane" (Old Scotch), "All Through the Night," (Old Welsh), "The Little Red Fox," (Old Irish), Miss Grace Carroll; violin solos, "Romantische Stricke," Dvorak; "Canzonetta," d'Ambrosio, Miss Helen M. Patterson; baritone solo, selected, Arthur H. Chamberlain; contralto sols, "If Thou Wert Blind," Johnson; "Myrra," Clutsam; "Happy Song," Del Riego, Miss Grace Carroll; piano solo, "At Morn," Miss Martine Weeks; baritone solo, selected, Arthur H. Chamberlain; violin solo, "Gypsy Dance," Miss Helen M. Patterson.

After the program there was a tea and sale of candy. Mrs. Joseph Field, of Bound Brook, poured tea and Mrs. J. R. Martine poured coffee. Ice cream was also served by the members of the club. Those in charge of the candy table were Miss Marie Sullivan, Miss Martine Weeks, Miss Elizabeth Martin and Miss Dorothy Stelle. The home was elaborately decorated for the occasion, yellow being the prevailing color and gonquils being used with excellent effect in the dining room, where the reception was held.

CHRIST WAS A MODEL OF MANLY VIRTUE.

Frank H. Sincerbeaux, of New York, was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon. His subject was "The Manliness of Christ." The lecturer sought to demonstrate that Christ was a combination of goodness and greatness; that, though he was gentle in manner, he possessed a strong and determined mind.

Abraham Lincoln was suggested as a modern example of such a combination. Other men, like Napoleon, were powerful in mind but weak morally; while some were strictly righteous, but lacked force.

Birthday Party.

Fifty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Angerbauer in East Third street yesterday, having arranged to tender Mrs. Angerbauer a shower postal in honor of her birthday. The afternoon was spent enjoyably, a musical program being provided. After refreshments were served, music and humorous recitations were enjoyed. Mrs. Angerbauer received more than fifty souvenir post cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Shea were formerly residents of this city, living on West Third street up to about three years ago. This daughter was their only child.

Elizabeth Elks to Move.

The Elizabeth Lodge of Elks will give a farewell reception to its members Thursday night, the occasion being the departure of the lodge from its old headquarters in the Masonic Building to its fine clubhouse in Westfield avenue, which is almost completed.

POLICE HUNT FOR DOG AFFLICTED WITH RABIES

A dog afflicted with the rabies is at large in this city and Police Chief Kiely has all his spare men out in an effort to run the animal down as quickly as possible. It will be dispatched to dog heaven as soon as located for the chief says he will take no chances of letting it get away again.

The dangerous animal, which belongs to Mr. Higgins, of 303 West Fourth street, has been acting strangely of late and Dr. Butler, after an examination, declared that it was suffering from the rabies. In some way the dog broke loose and Mr. Higgins has been unable to catch it. Dr. Butler reported the matter to the police this afternoon and Chief Kiely at once sent his men out to run the animal down.

All owners of dogs are warned by the Chief to keep their dogs in doors until the afflicted animal is located. Dogs found at large tomorrow morning will be gathered in by the police as a precaution. "Human life is too valuable and drastic measures must be put in force," says the Chief.

M'CAULEY'S JAIL RECORD IS FORTY DAYS LONGER

James McCauley, "no home," left today to spend forty days at Elizabeth as the guest of the county police authorities. He will occupy a barred chamber in the county jail, and made the trip at the suggestion of City Judge Runyon, who spoke to him about the matter at the session of the ctiy court today.

For Jim was drunk again yesterday, and Officer Charles Flynn arrested him on Somerset street at about 10:30 in the morning. A heavy night of it over the bottles made it hard for the man to navigate and he refused to keep off the streets.

It is about a month since McCauley faced the city judge, for his last drinking bout landed him in a cell the night of Lincoln's birthday. That was the first time his name had been entered on his card at police headquarters this year, so the Judge suspended sentence. That Jim likes to live at the county jail is shown by the fact that during 1908 he was in jail for 150 days for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and might have spent more time at Elizabeth, except for the fact that Judge Runyon banished him from this city for six months after one arrest during the year.

The man had been giving the borough police trouble earlier in the day yesterday, but is said to have remarked that he stood a better chance for leniency from Judge Runyon than from Recorder Dolliver, so crossed the county line and was arrested on this side.

THIRD SMALLPOX VICTIM TAKEN TO CITY'S HOSPITAL.

Willard Hammond, aged 30 years, of 682 West Third street, was removed to the isolation hospital today ill with smallpox. The young man was taken ill several days ago and the health authorities had the case under serveilance since Friday. This morning it was diagnosed as smallpox. Where he contracted the disease is as much of a mystery as in the other two cases. He does not know John Woodston, the colored boy, who is ill with the disease, and has not been near James White the third case. The health authorities are still maintaining a vigilant watch hoping to discover the source of infection.

Young Woodston, who has the dicease in light form, is sitting up today and is improving nicely. James White is also doing well, although he has not yet reached the second stage of the disease.

As an extra precaution The Day Nursery was thoroughly fumigated today and every means of prevention adopted. This was done because many of the children come from the neighborhood where the smallpox was discovered and those in charge of the nursery do not want to take any chances.

Plainfielders on Petit Jury.

The following Plainfielders were drawn for petit jury service in the Union county court, this morning: Edward Dorman, James Everett Kimball, W. P. Aspinwall, George H. Fountain, William H. Pope, Samuel Randolph, Richard E. Bohan and Frank Shattle. They will serve for two weeks beginning next Monday.

TO ERECT APARTMENTS

F. T. Woodhull and E. C. Martin to Build on the Embury Property.

OF THE PHILADELPHIA TYPE.

Need of Restricted, Low Renting Apartments Has Made Such Building Necessary—Wetzel's Plans.

Plans are shortly to be drawn for six up-to-date two-story apartment houses, to be erected at East Front and Church streets and their completion in the near future will fill a long-felt need for restricted apartment houses here at a low rent. The property, which was recently purchased by Floyd T. Woodhull and E. C. Martin, was prominently mentioned as a probable site for the proposed Federal building, but is now no longer available for the new postoffice.

The owners of the property have been making a careful study of the local needs and of modern apartment house construction, and have practically decided to have the buildings on their property of the type of Philadelphia apartment houses of the latest style and equipment. The plan of having a half dozen of the houses, each for the accommodation of two families, probably, will best meet the needs of the local real estate market.

Brokers here say that it is impossible to meet the wants of the people who come here seeking homes. In many cases, strangers to this city do not care to immediately purchase property and build a home, seeking rather to "see how they like the place." The New York apartment dweller, who comes here to live, requests apartments at a moderate rent—from $25 to $35 a month—and in many cases after a "try-out" of the town, get the "suburban habit" and become home-owning commuters.

Plans for the new apartments are not definitely decided upon as yet, for the owners have been making a series of visits to other cities in an effort to determine just which style of apartment will best meet the local needs. They have announced that the new buildings will be strictly up-to-date in every particular, and that as soon as they reach an ultimate decision about the plans, the contracts will be let and work of construction will be pushed forward rapidly.

It has become known that Charles H. Wetzel, who has recently purchased the property adjoining the Embury place on the east, is also planning to erect apartments there. He is considering plans and the character of the buildings to be erected by Messrs. Woodhull and Martin will probably have some bearing on the improvements to be made on his property.

STRAIGHT FOR THREE YEARS HIS JAG COST HIM $5.

Charles Mercier, who lives on Mountain avenue and is a painter by trade, went on a jag Saturday night and was found early yesterday morning by Detective-Sergeant Flynn trying to navigate his way along Carlton avenue. He seemed to have an idea that his home was somewhere in that vicinity, and was disappointed because he couldn't get in some of the most familiar looking houses.

It was St. Patrick's Day, 1906, that Mercier was last arrested and he had been drunk then. At that time he was fined $5. Judge Runyon repeated the sentence in city court today, and Mercier paid, rather than spend twenty days in the county jail.

Condemn Immorial Pictures.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church, Elizabeth, yesterday condemned the sacriligious nature of moving pictures exhibited in Elizabeth, and passed resolutions expressing the sentiment of the members on the matter. The Mayor and City Council will be asked to lend their aid in eliminating the objectionable films and preserving the morals of of the young, while Holy Name Societies of other Catholic churches will be asked to take like action.

Another Family Leaves the Borough

Augustus V. Heely, of Willow avenue, has purchased the Graydon property at Central avenue and West Eighth street, and will take possession April 15. This is one of the finest residential properties in the city. The sale was made through Joseph T. Vail, real estate broker.

Baptized at Trinity Church.

Harry Wolf, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schwartz, of West Front street, and Stanley, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Higgins, of Somerset street, were baptized yesterday morning by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

BOW-WOW SLAUGHTERS SOME FIFTY CHICKENS

A scrubby mongrel dog, said to belong to Charles Debele, of North Plainfield, started on a murderous chicken-hunting expedition all by himself in the early morning hours yesterday and spilled pullet blood in three chicken coops in the West End. William Kitchen, who lives on Everett place, heard a Gallinaean disturbance in his chicken coop at about 7:30 yesterday morning and securing his shot-gun, marched out and slew the ravaging dog, which had gained entrance to the coop and fatally niped the necks of fourteen fowls.

The total list of chicken-house fatalities reached fifty. Of these, twenty-four fowls belonged to Mrs. Lewis, of 320 Evona avenue, were found dead, and across the street, at Charles Sandburg's chicken coop, there were an even dozen dead hens. The dog evidently did the killing in a spirit of "pure diviltry," for none of the fowls were eaten, and the animal worked very rapidly. Mr. Kitchen is haled by his neighbors as a public benefactor for his quick and accurate work with the gun, and the sight of the dog's dead body proved a real balm to the bereaved chicken raisers, for cackling is scarce in that section of the West End today.

SAILOR SAW MESSINA; RETURNS FROM CRUISE

William Ross, of South Second street, a gun-sighter on the U. S. S. Connecticut on the cruise around the world, arrived home yesterday morning for a short furlough. His ship is at the Brooklyn navy yard, and the sailors are seeing "Yankee Land" for the first since they started with the Connecticut on the now world-famous cruise. The Connecticut was the flag ship of Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans and Rear Admiral Sperry.

Ross was one of the United States sailors who was delegated to temporary land service at Messina, where his ship touched shortly after the recent earthquake. Several of his friends took occasion to call on him yesterday to give him a "welcome home," and got him to spin the yarns of his experiences in the various countries of the East and his impressions of the disastrous earthquake.

CHURCH ABETS HABITS THAT LEADS TO CRIME

The Rev. William P. Squires, of the First Church of Christ, in his sermon last night, criticised the attitude of many of the present day churches toward dancing, card playing and drinking. He declared that he was opposed to the custom of instructing the police to arrest gamblers and drunkards, so long as the church continued to teach and encourage the forming of those habits.

He bemoaned the fact that some churches have dance halls in connection, and that women of respectable famillies gamble at bridge whist, often neglecting their children to the care of nurses. "Sow cards and reap gambling; sow drink and dancing and reap crime," he declared.

New Soprano Soloist.

Miss Jeannette Grant, of Springfield, Kansas, has been engaged as soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church, to succeed Miss Anna Lucretia Case, and will begin her duties on May 1. Miss Grant is now living at Roselle, while pursuing a musical education in New York, being a pupil of Edward Johnson. She has a sweet voice of great possibilities and those who have heard her have been much pleased with her singing.

Gift to Church.

A tablet suitably lettered in gold, and bearing the name of the church and that of the pastor as well as hours of service has just been placed on the front of the Temple Baptist church, on East Third street. It is the work of Jeremiah VanWinkle, the sign artist, and was presented to the church in the name of his "shut in" daughter, Miss Bessie Van Winkle, of East Seventh street.

Will Give a Musicale.

Under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist of the First Presbyterian church, a musicale will be given by the quartet choir on Thursday night, April 29, assisted by the Mendelssohn Glee Club, of Elizabeth. This will be Miss Anna Lucretia Case's last appearance at the church as a member of the quartet.

IN ST. PATRICK'S HONOR

Father Bogan Pays Eloquent Tribute to Ireland's Faith and Patriotism.

UNION CO. A. O. H. PRESENT.

Divisions from Elizabeth, Westfield, Cranford, Rahway and Elsewhere Attend Solmen Vespers.

At the solemn vesper service at St. Mary's church last night, nearly a thousand persons gathered to participate in religious exercises in honor of St. Patrick, the occasion being the annual gathering of the various divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Union county. Members of the organization were present from Elizabeth, Rahway, Cranford, Westfield, and North and South Plainfield.

The celebrant of the solemn vesper service was Rev. B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's. Rev. Daniel Hogan acted as deacon, and Rev. Vincent Sciolla, as sub-deacon. The augmented church choir and chancel choir rendered the responses. The hymn to "St. Patrick" was sung by the members of the organization and the congregation.

During the service Rev. Father Bogan delivered the following scholarly address in his usual eloquent manner:

"It would be an interesting procedure, did the occasion permit, to demonstrate that throughout the world's his ory patriotism has been pure, enlightened and effective just in proportion as religious feeling has been genuine and intense; that, in every age they best served their country who were most devout to their gods, or to God. Of the intimate union between the Catholic religion in particular, and the most enthusiastic patriotism, there is one classic instance which the mere mention of Faith and Nationality irresistably suggests to the student of history, and reference to which is not irrevelant in any such address as this to the American Catholics. For fifteen centuries the Irish race has stood pre-eminent among all peoples for both the fervor of their religious feelings and the ardor of their patrotic sentiment. The world has long since learned that when, in 432, St. Patrick on the Hill of Tarra wedded the cross of Christ to the flag of Erin, He, in the name of God, joined together what man, from that day to this has never been able to put asunder.

We are rather proud of Ireland's record; proud of the ancient civilization that adorned Hibernia when more that half the nations of modern Europe were but wandering tribes and barbarous hordes; proud of the unrivalled splendor of her golden age, when sanctity and scholarship found in Erin a refuge elsewhere sought in vain; proud of the marshal glory of the years that followed when the invincible Northmen recoiled before her impetuous defenders and were swept from the sea-girdled stream-silvered Isle for ever; proud of the dauntless valor that for centuries kept at bay the Norman invader and dyed a thousand battle-fields with foeman's blood, "Ere the Emerald gem of the Western world was set in the crown of a stranger." Aye, and proud, too, of the constancy, the fortitude, the unswerving fidelity to principle that gleamed like myriad stars through the murky canopy of her penal night. True, Tom Moore, singing of that saddest era, tells us that

"While History's Muse the memorial was keeping
Of all that the dark hand of Destiny weaves,
Beside her the Genius of Erin stood weeping
For hers was the story that blotted the leaves."

We, too, those of us who claim the high honor of having Irish blood in our veins, may weep at the recital of that sad story; but our tears are no bitter streams evoked by dishonor or enforced by shame. They are chrystal drops that we joy to shed o'er the countless grave of our martyred dead. As a priest of Ireland's religion and a son of Irish parents, I, for one, glory in those "blotted leaves," for that muse of history never dipped her pen in fame's golden sunshine to emblazon on the tablets of the world's heroism a grander triumph than the victory of Irish nationality and faith which those "blotted leaves" record.

Oh, faithful Ireland, thou hast followed but too faithfully in the footsteps of the Man of Sorrows not to have shared in the glory of His ignomy. "They shall put you out of the synagogues, yea, the hour cometh 'that whosoever killeth you will think that he doth a service to God."

Thus we have from His own sacred lips the prophetic declaration that those who followed Him most faithfully, will have as their peculiar

A NEW DEPARTURE!

Since the first day we threw open our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department its growth has been rapid and successful, but we are not yet satisfied. We know that many ladies go out of town to purchase their outer garments, and pay more for them than we charge, and yet we offer exclusiveness and individuality, which is practically impossible in the large city stores, where hundreds of the one style garments are offered for sale. In order, therefore, to offset any desire on the part of those who contemplate going out of town for their Tailored Suits, Coats, etc., we offer to

MAKE ALTERATIONS FREE OF CHARGE.

This is a radical change, but it means much to those who appreciate onward, upward progressive business methods. The "White Store" always on the alert for methods that will benefit their patrons, knows that this announcement will be of far-reaching importance to thousand of ladies in this section of New Jersey, and we are prepared to meet their demands. STARTING MONDAY and BALANCE OF WEEK WE OFFER THE FOLLOWING:

Ladies' Tailored Suits

New models, all the latest shades, Coats, silk and satin lined, hipless models, Skirts full flared, with button trimming—Materials, Prunella, Serge and Panama Cloth.

Up-stairs and Down-stairs

IF the Main Telephone is downstairs, an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs, a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs in, or near, the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

The additional expense is but trifling—less than two cents a day in connection with a residence contract.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Willie Smith, the twelve-year-old son of W. G. Smith, who was accidentally shot in the leg with a .22 rifle in the hands of a playmate, about three weeks ago, has returned from Muhlenberg Hospital. The wound has healed and he will soon be as strong as ever. He found things congenial at the hospital and was well liked by the nurses, but he is overjoyed to be at home again with his bantam chickens and other pets.

John Schniedler, of Brooklyn, has purchased a lot on Washington avenue and will erect a residence to be occupied by himself and family.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of Plainfield, led the meeting of the Y. P. C. E. at the First Baptist church last night.

Mrs. Mary B. Reidy was the purchaser of the Roach property, which was sold at auction last week.

The stage between the borough and New Market is now occupied by W. J. Downey.

Rev. Henry N. Jordan preached at the Stelton church yesterday morning.

Mrs. T. J. Ronayne has been ill for several days, but is improving rapidly.

A baby girl has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ord.

Mrs. Mahlon Dayton is suffering from an abscess on the right hand.

Miss Anna Hetfield has returned from a trip to the Atlantic coast.

Maurice Coyl is visiting friends at Allentown, Pa.

S. B. Merrill has been visiting his sister in Trenton.

Mrs. H. L. Pearce has an attack of the measles.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Sullard have been entertaining Mrs. Todd Culbertson, of Washington, D. C., at their home in South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hulsizer and family, of Somerville, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Cleef, of East Millstone.

After spending the winter at Rockville, Md., Israel L. Stout has returned to his home at Harris lane, near Bound Brook.

Miss Elizabeth Runge, of Middlebush, is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Reed, in Rocky Hill.

A son was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. William Wall at their home in Main street, South Bound Brook.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. David Perry, of East Maple avenue, Bound Brook.

Mrs. Runyon R. Sutton is ill at her home in East Second street, Bound Brook.

WESTFIELD.

The school election in Westfield is not going to pass this year without a contest. The fight left over from the school meeting last year is sufficient to start another. Four members of the Board of Education are to be elected. Three for three years and one for one year to fill an unexpired term. Two tickets are in the field. The board indorses the members whose terms expire, E. A. Merrill, Leigh M. Pearsall, Charles D. Losse, Randall H. Stearns. The opposition puts up J. A. Dennis, Walter J. Lee, George B. Dickerson. Pearsall is on both tickets. Both sides have printed ballots and are electioneering.

Westfield Riding and Driving Club has secured lease of Fair Acres track, near Garwood, and will hold its meets there this season. The club has been elected to membership in the National Trotting Association, and its meets will be conducted under the rules of that association Two special meetings will be held, one July 4, and another on Labor Day. Beside these, matinee meets will be held twice each month during the season. A racing committee, composed of J. S. Irving, H. W. Evans, C. B. Smith, H. H. Butler and J. G. Ten Eycke, will have charge of the racing.

Funeral services of John J. Ager will be held at his late home, Summit avenue, Westfield. Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, will attend the services as an organization.

Mrs. Howard Riley, of Ithaca, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. W. H. Riley, of Myrtle avenue.

BASEBALL.

"Cy" Seymour is no longer on the Giants' pay-roll, Manager McGraw having dropped him because of an attack he made on Arlie Latham, who is in the south with the team. He will have a month to think over his foolishness, but as he says he is anxious to get away from the Giants he will probably never return. Herzog is showing such good form that Seymour will not be missed.

Manager Listman's aggregation has the advantage in training by being able to use the gymnasium. Many of the members of the team are now in fine condition and if the weather was suitable would be able to play a full game.

Arrangements will be made for at least two or three games between the Clinton Avenues and Y. M. C. A. team this season. Last year these games attracted big crowds and as Manager Listman is assured of a much stronger team, Manager Dorflinger's colts may not have a walk over.

It is doubtful whether Trenton will be a member of the State Y. M. C. A. League this season. It is too far removed from the other towns and it makes an expensive trip for Orange, Summit and Newark. Some other city may be found nearer to complete the circuit.

A meeting of the representatives of the State Y. M. C. A. league will be held in Newark soon, when the schedule will be decided upon and other details completed.

Already Manager Dorflinger of the Clinton Avenues is receiving applications for games and he will have no trouble filling is dates with strong teams.

The Plainfield A. C. is getting busy and with the arrival of the first good weather will be out for practice. The lineup will be the same as last season.

Many Plainfield fans are watching the work of "Red" Waller in the south. It is said that if he continues in his present form he will be retained on the regular staff of the Giants.

Manager Stallings of the Highlanders is evidently doing things. Reports from the training camp point to a strong aggregation, one that will make all the American League teams hustle.

The St. Mary's school baseball team has elected Edward Taylor as captain and Patrick Kiely as manager. Games will be scheduled with teams averaging twenty years.

GOLF.

Dates for two more invitation golf tournaments have been definitely decided upon. The Country Club of Atlantic City has selected April 29, 30 and May 1, while the Montclair Golf Club will hold its tournament on October 14, 15 and 16. The conditions have not been announced but it is understood that the one at Atlantic City will be conducted along the usual lines.

The first day will probably be devoted to an eighteen-hole testing round, while all the match rounds will consist of eighteen holes. The re-arrangement of the course by the sea since the golfers gathered there last fall will doubtless serve to attract a large field.

At the last meeting of the board of governors of the Montclair Golf Club twenty-one new members were elected, and it is expected that the limit will be reached shortly. With the New Jersey State Golf Association championship tournament in June and the invitation affair in the fall, the club will come in for more than an ordinary amount of attention this season.

A. C. Gregson, an amateur golfer here on a visit from England, has astonished the natives at Forest Park by reeling off several remarkably low scores. Using only a driver, and that of antiquated design, Gregson recently made the nine holes in thirty-three, and yesterday contributed two thirty-fives. Nearly all the holes are short.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roome, Jr., of the borough, are sojourning at Atlantic City.

Mrs. J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, has returned from a visit at Charleston, Virginia.

H. K. Ammerman, of Arlington, California, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John B. McMurtry, of manning avenue.

Miss Louise Demarest, of the borough, has returned from a visit with her aunt, Mrs. Edward Mosher, of Elizabeth.

Miss Mamie Brower, of Bound Brook, has been visiting the Misses Carrie and Grace Williams, of Jackson avenue.

Mrs. C. R. Anthoni, of New York, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. J. B. Boveym, of the borough, has returned home.

Mrs. J. H. Cooley, of Westervelt avenue, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Robert M. Steer, of Baltimore, has returned home.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. Campbell, of North Plainfield, preached at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, last night.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, will hold its annual meeting tomorrow night, when officers will be elected.

The women's missionary societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold their annual meeting on Tuesday, March 23. It will be an all-day meeting.

Thre classes of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school are arranging for a social and entertainment to be given on Tuesday night, March 23, for the entire school.

Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades, of New York, considered the prince of preachers on foreign missions, will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday morning.

Prof. Samuel Baldwin, of the College of the City of New York, will give an organ recital at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tonight. Admission will be by ticket.

The Easter exercises of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school will be held on Sunday, April 11, in the church auditorium. The committee is arranging an elaborate program, as usual.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Friday night. The subject will be "The Wicket Gate."

The Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union will meet at Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock. Miss Hawkins will lead the devotional service. Rev. John Musson, of the Temple Baptist church, will teach the review lesson. All superintendent and Sunday-school teachers are invited to attend.

—W. J. Perrin has leased the property at 31 Mercer avenue, through Edmund Rushmore and will soon take possession.

—Miles Roberts, of Kensington avenue, spent Saturday and Sunday at Tolland, Mass., looking after some of his property interests there.

—Mrs. Henry Binger and Mrs. Peter aVn Voorhees, of Elizabeth, will build two stone bungalows on the mountain near Watchung.

—Hans Peterson, of West Second street, who was at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment for cateracts, was discharged from the institution on Saturday.

Mrs. C. O. Lyons, formerly of North Plainfield, but now of Short Hills, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs W. O. Worth, of Washington avenue.

It is stated that a large number of deer have been killed in the forests and swamps of lower New Jersey this past season, than for a long period previously.

There was a small hope with our icemen, a few days since, that they would be enabled to get a limited supply of thin ice, but the warm rain which commenced on Monday dispelled the illusion.

Dr. E. W. South, of the Homeopathic School, has rented of John Tier, Esq., the property on Front street, formerly occupied by Dr. Thorn, and will take possession early in March.

A bootblack in Newark seeing a pickpocket stealing the watch of an intoxicated countryman, gave the alarm, got kicked down by a friend of the thief and locked up by the astute authorities for creating a row.

Don't borrow this paper, because the subscriber wants to read it. If you want one of your own, send us two dollars and you can have it for a year. A man who will borrow his neighbor's paper, when he can get it a year for $2, is about as close as the grocer who caught flies and soaked their feet to get the sugar back that accumulated by walking over his counter. It is no use to be mean for the sake of saving a few cents. You can't take the money along with you when you die, and if you could it would probably be destroyed by fire.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL.

The story that Governor Fort contemplates appointing Wilbur F. Sadler, of Trenton to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of R. Heber Breintnall as adjutant general is a pretty fair sample of the tactics being pursued by Fort's political enemies. In the first place Mr. Sadler has been a member of the State militia for less than a year, having been taken from civil life and commissioned a major on July 9, 1908. At that time he had never had one bit of military experience. It is true that the Trenton man is close to the Governor personally and is most ambitious in certain directions. That is all well enough, but when it comes to raising him many numbers over the heads of men who have served the State long and loyally as officers of the National Guard, that's a different subject.

That such honors should be bestowed upon a man in no sense entitled to them and should be denied to those to whom of right they belong, no one having the interest of the militia at heart would dare advocate. It would not only be a dangerous precedent to set, but it would have a most demoralizing effect at once upon the whole National Guard for it would demonstrate that general efficiency or length of service cuts no figure when it comes to a matter of promotion. Certainly it is unjust to accuse the Governor of using his office for such a purpose.

Funeral of Mrs. S. M. Peck.

The funeral service of Mrs. Susan Miller Peck was held yesterday from the late home, 315 West Sixth street, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated. There was a large attendance of friends. Dr. Zelie spoke impressively of the exemplary Christian life and character of Mrs. Peck and of her patience in suffering. There were many floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

mark, their special crown, the hatred of the world. Ah, surely my brethren; there must be something higher, something nobler, something that appeals more strongly even to weak human nature than any prize the world can offer. Yes, there is something, and it is the Peace of God, the Friendship of Jesus Christ.

But seeing that our Lord has uttered this prophecy is it any wonder that the Church of God should be persecuted, since persecution is her crown? Need it scandalize any one that scenes should be permitted such as even now are saddening the hearts that loved the church, and long for the justice of God? If men, everywhere through lands that owe their civilization to the church; that in olden days sat at her feet, as at the feet of a mother, and learned there the lessons that made them great, and their history glorious; if men, with such a past behind them, have banded together to strike at the very heart of their mother, if they have lifted their impious hands against the representative of Christ among them, if they have sought to dechristianize the people around them is there in all this, I ask, any reason why we Catholics should hang our heads in shame or in dismay, when long long ago our Lord Himself prophetically told us that such things should be? No; never is the church more surely the church of Christ than when she is sorely stricken, even as He Himself was stricken once; and never is Christ's Vicar more easily recognized as the representative of Him, than when He comes before the world crowned with a crown of thorns, like that which Christ, his Master, bore upon His bleeding brow. Nor do I think that there is any country under Heaven, to the heart of which this passage of the gospel will strike deeper home than the land of our forefathers, that can kneel at the feet of God, and offer to Him the Chalice of a persecution more intense and more protracted than has ever yet been suffered by a Christian land. Do you want to know the history of Ireland? Well, Jesus Christ Himself has prophetically told it in this passage of the Gospel: "They will put you out of their synagogues; yea, the hour cometh that whosoever killeth you will think that he doth a service to God"—there is Ireland's history.

Go into other lands which the world deems more favored; you will hear the ring of a thousand hammers, you will see the smoke of a thousand factories, and you will witness on every side tokens of unbounded and ever increasing wealth, you will see a free people using their freedom in the service of the world, aye, and of the flesh and the devil. Go into Ireland; there you will find the people who have but just awakened from a sleep of slavery like the sleep of death. Their hands have felt the chains so long that its very memory seems to bind them still. You will find the land whose glory is in the graves of those who died for the faith they handed down to us. You will come across ruins rich with memories of a race that knew how to die for God. You will come upon lonely mountain passes and hidden glens, of which tradition tells that there a persecuted people fled with their priests, and left their houses to burn, and their land to pass to alien hands, and carried into the wilderness their holy faith, and the altar of their God. Yes; the time came, as Jesus said it would, when the men who slew them deemed that they did a service to God. Yes; that, too, has Ireland seen; that, too, has she suffered. In her history there was a chapter of death, and to that was added a chapter of exile.

The Irish emmigrant turned with tear-dimmed eye and aching heart from the home of his father; and then God gave to these poor-outcast Irish exiles, whom tyranny first smote and then despised, and a mission like the mission of the Apostles of Christ. They went; they turned their backs forever to the land that held their fathers' graves; they sailed towards the sunset, away from the grasp of tyranny and the insolence of oppression, but they bore with them the Cross of Christ, and, spreading in their thousands, to the solitudes of an unpeople land they built in this another hemisphere the altar of their God. And today his risen in a new land on a free soil a new, free Ireland. And it has been given to these Irish exiles to bear in their generous hands, and in their faithful hearts the destiny of the American church. What has persecution done at home? Just this. It has graven deeper on the nation's heart the lessons of the Gospel of Christ. It has done just this. As it sent another Ireland beyond the western wave to raise the banner of the Cross, as it has sent an Irish race to write upon the virgin soil of a new world another glorious chapter in the long history of the church of God, so it has done more than this—it has peopled Heaven with Irish martyrs and with Irish saints. It has sent an Irish race beyond the world, beyond the stars, to sit about the feet of God, to look down lovingly upon the land where they bore the Cross and won the crown, and to put forth their prayers that God may keep the Holy Catholic faith fast rooted in the Irish heart. And, than God, their prayers have been heard. Ireland may have had to stand aside and let the prizes of the world go by, but Ireland has still one jewel shining in her crown, that makes it, crown of thorns though it be, the noblest crown that God and History have ever bound about a nation's brow—the jewel of unshaken fidelity to the Church of God.

Ah, poor Ireland! Man has dealt hardly with you; history has examined you, and found little to record but tears and blood; but God has dealt with you well—Angels have gathered up your blood and your tears, and have offered them to Heaven; your history has been written, not in books that perish but in the eternal memory of God Himself."

HORACE J. MARTIN, 50, GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY.

The fiftieth birthday anniversary of Horace J. Martin was celebrated by a party of friends, who surprised him at his home on Pearl street.

The affair was arranged by Mrs. Martin, and he also received a post card shower. The evening was spent in games and a general good time. Refreshments were served.

John Walsh on Trial.

The case of the State against John Walsh was moved for trial in the Union county court today. Walsh is charged with having obtained money under false pretences. He is said to have collected money from colored people in the city, they being given to understand that by paying so much a week all their groceries would be supplied. Robert Newton Crane represents Walsh.

Deutsche Market" at Trinity.

"A Deutsche Market" will be given at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday night, under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band. Appetizing dishes, many of them Dutch as well as American, will be served to appease hunger. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock. No admission fee will be charged and everyone is invited.

Westfield Had Tryout.

In preparation for the annual interscholastic meet to be held in this city next Friday, the Westfield high school athletic team came to the Y. M. C. BUTTERICK PATTERNS and THE DELINEATOR

The Woodhull & Martin Store

NEW SPRING GOODS

Throughout this entire Establishment there is evidence in abundance of approaching spring. Each department is brimful to overflowing with bright, crisp, new goods, which are more beautiful this year than ever before. Quality and quantity is the keynote of this great showing; not how cheap, but how good, and from past experience we have learned that is what most people appreciate.

Easter Dress Fabrics

Women who desire to have an individual atmosphere apparent in their costumes usually do their shopping here. We make it a point in selecting dress fabrics, especially the better grades, to buy half pieces, so that you won't run across someone else with your dress on. The assortment embraces all the new coloring, such as Wisteria, Catawba, Champagne, Grays, Browns, Navy and Green, and you'll find the prices most moderate.

Women's Neckwear

One of the most beautiful and interesting displays in the store is the showing of Women's Neckwear, all the newest effects are here such as ascots, Stocks, in lace, embroidery and net, mull ties, lace chemisettes and yokes, collar and cuff sets, plain linen and embroidered collars, etc., etc.

Ribbons for Spring

in a wealth of exquisite shades and colorings, many particularly adapted for millinery purposes; also an elegant line of soft finished ribbons for making rosettes and sashes; Persian and Dresden designs in satin and taffeta with faile stripes; Taffeta Sash Ribbons with fancy edge and a beautiful new line of fancy silk beltings in all the latest designs and colorings.

Laces and Nets

Fashions for the coming spring and summer emphasize more than ever the importance of lace for costume decoration as well as many other dress purposes. We have provided liberally for the expected demand. Every variety is now on exhibition. There is a very beautiful collection of all-over laces for waists and gowns. A complete assortment of plain and plaited nets, and an elegant variety of fancy and staple Valenciennes Laces in matching sets.

Embroideries

The very best grades in a beautiful variety of exquisite designs at extremely low prices. There are Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Beadings, Bandings, Medallions, All-over and Flouncings. Those who appreciate the artistic worth of strictly high class embroideries will enthuse over this showing. Embroideries are going to be exceedingly more popular than ever this spring and summer.

New Shirts for Men

The man who is prone to fall a victim to the wiles of a stylish shirt is going to have a hard time to keep from buying more than he needs from our new collection; we have just opened them up and they are the handsomest we have ever shown; all the various well liked colors in pleated and plain, attached and detached cuffs.

Dammers' EYESIGHT SPECIALIST

ONE DAY ONLY!
THURSDAY, MAR. 18,
HOTEL KENSINGTON.
Office Hours: From 9 A. M. until 4 P. M.

We manufacture a pair of glasses as low as $1 with a 10-year gold filled frame.

There is no one today in the United States who fits the eyes the same as we do. If you have ever been fitted to glasses by others, you understand what the test is—how you have to read the letters and tell the optician what you want. We do not fit that way, but take the exact measurements of the eye from the pupil without using any drops, nor do we ask any question or use test cards hung on the wall.

Don't Suffer with Headaches

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, watery eyes, blurry vision and other troubles caused by eye-strain.

We have corrected by the use of glasses cross-eyes and astigmatism by our scientific method.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS ARE IN MUCH DOUBT NOW.

The Legislature has not yet passed the Constitutional amendments which were approved last year, and unless action is taken at this session, without change in the amendments, they can not be submitted to the people, and another attempt at Constitution-making will go on record as a failure. It was said last week that Chancellor Pitney and some other judges were urging the adoption of the amendments, but if so, his intervention can not be said to have improved the situation. There is strong feeling in the Legislature against judicial interference, even for a good cause.

The sentiment generally is in favor of the amendment providing for the election of Assemblymen by districts, instead of counties, but there is very considerable opposition to the changes in the judicial system. Various reasons are given, but they are best summed up by the assertion that the old system works pretty well.

Assemblyman Blauvelt wants an amendment to the amendments, limiting the power of the Court of Chancery to commit for contempt of court. As this would delay any action two years, and would add to the opposition, it is taken as a scheme to defeat any change. The issue is not important, in the opinion of real lawyers, and does not belong in the Constitution anyway. It could be treated otherwise, if necessary. "Mr. Blauvelt is apparently a trifler," was the brief comment made upon his effort.

If the Constitutional amendments are adopted by this Legislature, they will be submitted to the people at a special election, probably next September.

ELOPING NEWARK WIFE FINED AT WASHINGTON.

Mrs. Matilda Slockbower, of Newark, N. J., who, with James P. Mead, of Philadelphia, were arrested while living together in Washington, on March last, by Detective Robert A. Haggerty, of Newark, and Detective Ray Kliendients, of Washington, was arraigned in the police court, Washington, and fined $60. Mead forfeited $50 collateral. The man paid the woman's fine.

Mrs. Slockbower and Mead were arrested in a room in a boarding house at 810 H street, northwest, Washington, where they had been residing as man and wife since January 25.

The police say Mrs. Slockbower deserted her husband and several children last January and went to Washington, where she met Mead, who is alleged to have deserted his wife and children.

TO OPEN ELIZABETH'S GREAT WHITE WAY MONDAY

First street, the main business thoroughfare down-town, in Elizabeth, will be opened as a great White Way next Monday. The event will be marked by a big celebration which is now being arranged by the First Street association, through whose efforts the street is being transformed into a modern business section similar to the Great White Way in Newark.

There will be speakers from New York, Newark and other nearby cities and addresses by the officers of the association, as well as instrumental and vocal music. Bands of music will also play. The street will be ablaze with colors. All the buildings in the immediate vicinity will be elaborately decorated, and the street will be brilliantly lighted. The celebration will last the day and the evening.

According to the plans of the association the street will be brilliantly illuminated at night. There will be an arc light on every corner, and several gooseneck lights on every block which will hang in a diagonal position so that the show windows of all the stores along the street will be plainly seen.

The First Street association is also urging that the thoroughfare be kept clean and in good condition. It also favors the extension of the present trolley system, and has for its main object the promotion of good fellowship among the members and their mutual protection.

NO HELL HEREAFTER.

Pastor Russell Says When a Man's Dead He's Dead and Prayers Won't Affect Him.

Pastor Russell—he does not believe in "reverend" or "doctor" talked in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, on "Where Are the Dead?" This appears to be his pet sermon, for he has given it in Brooklyn before, and thousands have heard it in other cities. There was a large audience, filling every part of the large auditorium, and hundreds were turned away. Pastor Russell has attached two historical names to his regular preaching place, Plymouth Bethel and Brooklyn Tabernacle.

The speaker took up the heathen beliefs, dissected the Catholic faith, spoke of purgatory, and then said:

"I don't know but I'd soon take the heathen view and be a mouse or an elephant and take my chances dodging around. I believe I'd rather take the agnostics' view and believe I am dead for all time when I die as to be troubled about purgatory. I am ashamed to say that you and I as Protestants have the most absurd theory about 'where are the dead.' When those who founded the Protestant religion were at work on the subject they said, 'We will not have any purgatory.' They threw it away bodily because they could not tell where it was, and their Catholic friends could not tell either.

"The reason persons do not know more about what takes place after death is because they devote too much attention to money, real estate and politics. The theory that 'when a man dies he becomes more alive than before he died' is absurd, and the Bible teaches the reverse. The lie about death came first from the serpent in the Garden of Eden, who told Eve if she ate of the forbidden fruit she should not surely die. The lie was passed to Plato and by him on to Christendom.

"When a man's dead he's dead, and all the prayers on earth won't affect him," declared the clergyman. "It is ridiculous, however, that millions of His people who never heard of Him will be sent to Hell, by Him. There is not one word in the Bible about Hell. The words translated 'Hell,' 'Sheol' and 'Hades,' mean the grave, as every well educated clergyman knows. The Apostle Paul never mentioned Hell or Purgatory. He says the incorrigible one shall be punished with everlasting destruction. Death entered the world through one man, Adam. Death is enough punishment for you and your friends, but not for your enemies."

WOULD HAND SCHOOLS OVER TO POLITICIANS.

The bill to take the appointment of the county superintendents out of the hands of the State Board of Education and vest them in the executive is a political move that is causing the educational circles great uneasiness.

The Republicans accused Governor Abbet of endeavoring to make a political machine out of the county superintendents, and when they got in power they made it impossible, by law, for politicians to dictate the appointment of these educators. Since that time it has been the policy of the Republican party to keep politics out of schools.

This partisan movement to politicians in the offices of the county superintendents is strongly resented by all the educators of the State and it is receiving the attention of the patriotic orders.

A. B. Clemens, formerly employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, and at one time assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., but now with the International Correspondence School at Scranton, Pa., was in town today.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

There are details in Zangwell's charming comedy "Merely Mary Ann" that will recall London's humble lodgings to any one who has lived there—the grimy doors, the letters and candles on the hall table, the wrangle with the cabman through the half open door, the accordeon and clarionet on the streets on Saturday nights, and the endless coats and boots to be cleaned of the daily mud. The landlady is unBritishly energetic. "I was a widow at your age," she tells her daughter who simpers timidly over the composer. The show is booked for an appearance at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

"Are you a Sham?" Whether you are counted in among the social set of a metropolis or a provincial municipality ask yourself the question. If you possess a million are you trying to make your neighbor believe you are a multi-millionaire? If you have nothing and are trying to compete socially with those who can afford luxuries are you sure, especially if you are a woman, that your youth and beauty will continue as negotiable assets? These are the questions which form the basic principles of "Sham," the newest comedy which Henrietta Crosman will present at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night.

Theodore Kremer's gift for presenting situations and psychological moments vividly and simply, and his ability to penetrate the hidden potencies of commonplace character and every day life, makes his play "For Her Children's Sake," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night, conspicuous among this season's notable successes. It is written with the charm, the refinement, the sympathetic reticence that characterized his triumph, "The Fatal Wedding."

Intense interest and much discussion has followed the production of Helen Beresford in "The Conflict," at New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night.

"The Conflict," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, a phychic drama by Maurice V. Samuels, founded upon the central conception of Balzac's "The Magic Skin" (La Peau de Chagrin). From all sides it has been hailed as the one play dealing with scientific phenomena in a logical, gripping and convincing manner, replete with stirring and exciting situations, all of which have been demonstrated and which appeal to the popular, as well as the scientific mind.

A little over a hundred years ago it took John Adams 54 days to go from London to Amsterdam. Now he could belt the globe in less time. When the railroad supplanted the stage coach it made the world smaller. Electricity, the telephone and telegraph made it still smaller. But when Lyman H. Howe takes a whole audience around the world in a brief two hours as he virtually does via his Lifeorama at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday, March 27, the world becomes small indeed.

Patricia O'Brien, the heroine of James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," in which Rose Stahl will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night, March 29, owes her existence on the stage to a peculiar combination of circumstances. A train newsboy is in a large measure responsible for her appearance before the footlights. It came about in this way. About four years ago Miss Stahl was riding on a railway train and purchased a magazine in which she discovered a short story entitled "The Extra Girl," written by James Forbes. She read the story and immediately became imbued with the idea that a dramatization of it into one-act form would make an ideal vaudeville sketch. She communicated with Mr. Forbes, with the result that "The Chorus Lady" was brought out as a sketch which served as a headliner for a season or so. It then occurred to Mr. Forbes to further amplify the piece and make it a four-act play. This was done, and the rest of the story is simply a matter of theatrical history.

A Gentleman From Mississippi!

By THOMAS A. WISE.

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs.

Copyright, 1909, by Thomas A. Wise

Senator Holcomb of Missouri told Mrs. Spangler at an afternoon tea confidentially that he was going to vote against the ship subsidy bill. Senator Peabody was informed of this two hours later by a note written in cipher. When the vote was called two days later Senator Holcomb voted for the bill. Standard Steel supplies steel for ocean liners, and their building must be encouraged.

He was going to vote against the ship subsidy bill.

Mrs. Windsor, wife of Congressman Windsor of Indiana, remarked to Mrs. Spangler at a reception that she was "so glad Jimmie is going to do something for us women at last. He says we ought to get silk gowns ever so much cheaper next year." Jimmie Windsor was a member of the house committee on ways and means and was busily engaged in the matter of tariff revision. When President Anders of the Federal Silk company heard from Senator Peabody that Windsor favored lowering the tariff on silk a way was found to convince the congressman that the American silk industry was a weakling and many investors would suffer if the foreign goods should be admitted any cheaper than at present.

President Anders would be willing to do Senator Peabody a favor some day.

Sometimes Cora Spangler shuddered at the thought of what would become of her if she should make some slip, some fatal error, and be discovered to her friends as a betrayer of confidences for money. A secret agent of Standard Steel! What a newspaper story she would make—"Society Favorite a Paid Spy;" "Woman Lobbyist Flees Capital." The sensational headlines flitted through her mind. Then she would grit her teeth and dig her finger nails into her palms. She had to have money to carry on the life she loved so well. She must continue as she had begun. After all, she reasoned, nothing definite could ever be proved regarding the past. Let the future care for itself. She might marry again and free herself from this mode of life, who knows?

So reasoned Cora Spangler for the hundredth time during the last two years as she sat in her boudoir at her home. She had spent part of the day with Carolina and Hope Langdon and in the evening had attended the musicale at their house. But she had been forced to leave early owing to a severe headache. Now, after an hour or two of rest, she felt better and was about to retire. Suddenly the telephone bell rang at a writing table near a window. She had two telephones, one in the lower hall and one in her boudoir—to save walking downstairs unnecessarily, she explained to her woman friends. But the number of this upstairs telephone was not in the public book. It had a private number, known to but two people except herself.

"Hello! Who is it?"

Taking down the receiver, she asked in low voice, "Hello, who is it?"

"Mr. Wall."

It was the name Senator Peabody used in telephone conversation with her.

"Yes, congressman!" she responded.

She always said "Yes, congressman," in replying to "Mr. Wall," a prearranged manner of indicating that he was talking to the desired person.

"I will need your services tomorrow," Senator Peabody said, "on a very important matter, I am afraid. Decline any engagements and hold yourself in readiness."

"Yes."

"I may send my friend S. to explain things at 10:30 in the morning. If he does not arrive at that time, telephone me at 10:35 sharp. You know where. Understand? I have put off going to Philadelphia tonight."

"Yes."

"That is all; goodby."

"Something very important," she murmured nervously as she turned from the desk.

"I don't like his tone of voice; sounds strained and worried—something unusual for the cold, flinty gentleman from Pennsylvania. And his 'friend S.,' of course, means Stevens! Great heavens, then Stevens must now have knowledge of my—my—business!"

She calmed herself and straightened a dainty, slender finger against her cheek.

"It must be something about that naval base bill, I'm sure. That's been worrying Peabody all session," she mused as she pressed a button to summon her maid.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"THE BOSS OF THE SENATE" GAINS A NEW ALLY.

MRS. SPANGLER would have flattered herself on guessing correctly as to Senator Peabody's uneasiness had she heard and seen all that had taken place in his apartment at the Louis Napoleon hotel, where he had hurriedly taken Senator Stevens on leaving the Langdon house.

Not only would the two senators lose their immense profits on the Altacoola transaction if Langdon persisted in his opposition, but they would lose as well the thousands of dollars spent by their agents in purchasing options on hundreds of acres and, where they could not get options, the land itself. This land would be on their hands, unsalable, if the base went somewhere else. Moreover, they feared that Langdon's revolt would bring unpleasant newspaper publicity to their operations.

"There's only one course to pursue, Stevens," snapped Peabody as they took off their overcoats. "That is to be prepared as best we can for the very worst and meet it in some way yet to be determined. But first we must try to figure out what Langdon is going to do—what it can be that he says he will tell us tomorrow at 12:30 if we appear. He must have something very startling up his sleeve if he makes good his assertions. I can't see how"—

"I'm going to send for Jake Steinert."

"Nor I," frowned Stevens, "and my political eyesight is far better than that fool Langdon's. Under ordinary circumstances we could let him go ahead with his minority report for Gulf City, but as things stand he'll have every newspaper reporter in Washington buzzing around and asking impertinent questions"—

"Yes, and you and I would have to go to Paris to live with our life insurance friends from New York, wouldn't we?" laughed Peabody sarcastically. "I'm going to send for Jake Steinert," he added.

"Steinert?" Stevens ejaculated. "What"—

"Oh, that's all right. Maybe he can suggest something," said Peabody, going to the telephone. "We've too much at stake to make a mistake, and Jake may see a point that we've overlooked. Luckily I saw him downstairs in the grill room as we came through to the elevator."

"Steinert is all right himself," continued Stevens, "but his methods"—

"Can't be too particular now about his methods—or ours, Stevens, when a bull like Langdon breaks loose in the political china shop. Fortune and reputation are both fragile."

A ring of a bell announced the arrival of Jake Steinert, whose reputation as a lobbyist of advanced ability had spread wide in the twenty years he had spent in Washington. Of medium height, sallow complexion, dark hair and dark eyes, his broad shoulders filled the doorway as he entered. An filly kept mustache almost hid a thin lipped, forceful mouth, almost as forceful as some of the language he used. His eyes darted first to Peabody and then to Stevens, waiting for either of them to open the conversation.

The highest class lobbyists, those who "swing" the "biggest deals," concern themselves only with men who can "handle" or who control lawmakers. They get regular reports and outline the campaign. Like crafty spiders they hide in the center of a great web, a web of bribery, threat, cajolery and intrigue, intent on every victim that is lured into the glistening meshes.

Only the small fry mingle freely with the legislators in the open, in the hotels and cafes and in the capitol corridors.

Jake Steinert did not belong in either of these classes; he ranked somewhere between the biggest and the smallest. He coupled colossal boldness with the most expert knowledge of all the intricate workings of the congressional mechanism. Given money to spend among members to secure the defeat of a bill, he would frequently put most of the money in his own pocket and for a comparatively small sum defeat it by influencing the employees through whose hands it must pass.

"Sit down, Jake. Something to drink?" asked Peabody, reaching for a decanter.

"No," grunted the lobbyist; "don't drink durin' business hours; only durin' the day."

"Well, Jake," said the Pennsylvanian, "you probably know something of what's going on in the naval affairs committee."

"You mean the biggest job of the session?"

"Yes."

"Sure thing, senator. It's the work of an artist."

"The boss of the senate" smiled grimly.

"Now, suppose a committeeman named Langdon absolutely refused to be taken care of and insisted on handing in a minority report tomorrow, with a speech that read like the Declaration of Independence?"

Steinert jerked his head forward quickly.

"You mean what would I do if I was—er—if I was runnin' the job?"

"Yes."

Steinert leaned toward Peabody.

"Where do I come in on this?" he asked suspiciously.

"Come, come, man," was the irritable retort. "I never let a few dollars stand between myself and my friends."

"All right, senator."

The lobbyist thrust himself down in his chair, puffed slowly at a cigar and gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling.

"Few years ago," he began after a minute or two, "there was a feller who was goin' to squeal about a bond issue. He had his speech all ready to warn the country that he thought a crowd of the pluto-cracy was goin' to get the bonds to resell to the public at advanced rates. Well, sir, I arranged to have a carriage, a closed carriage, call that night to take him to see the president, for he was told the president sent the carriage for him. When he got out he was at the insane asylum, an' I can tell you he was bundled into a padded cell in jig time, where he stayed for three days. 'He thinks he's a member of congress,' I told the two huskies that handled him an' gave 'em each a twenty case note. The doctor that signed the necessary papers got considerable more."

"He was at the insane asylum."

Stevens' gasp of amazement caused the narrator genuine enjoyment.

"I know of a certain senator who was drunk an' laid away in a Turkish bath when the roll was called on a certain bill. He was a friend of Peabody's," laughed the lobbyist to the Mississippian.

"But in his case," said Stevens, "we must be very careful. Possibly some of your methods in handling the men you go after"—

"Say," interposed Steinert, "you know I don't do all pursuin', all the goin' after, any more than others in my business. Why, senator, some of these congressmen worry the life out of us folks that sprinkle the sugar. They accuse us of not lettin' 'em in on things when they haven't been fed in some time. They come down the trail like greyhounds coursin' a coyote."

The speaker paused and glanced across at Peabody, who, however, was too busily engaged in writing in a memoradum book to notice him.

"Why, Senator Stevens," went on the lobbyist, "only today a down east member held me up to tell me that he was strong for that proposition to give the A. K. and L. railroad grants of government timber land in Oregon. He says to me, he says: 'What 'n h—l do my constituents in New England care about things way out on the Pacific coast? I'd give 'em Yellowstone National park for a freight sidin' if 'twas any use to 'em,' he says. So you see"—

"I must go," broke in Stevens, rising and glancing at his watch. "It will soon be daylight."

"If you must have sleep, go, but you must be here at 9 o'clock sharp in the morning," said Peabody. "Steinert will sleep here with me. We'll all have breakfast together here in my rooms and a final consultation."

"Suppose Langdon does not weaken?"

"You won't plan anything really desperate, Peabody, will you? I think I'd rather"—

"Nonsense, Stevens, of course not. Our game will be to try to weaken Langdon, to prove to him in the morning that he alone will suffer, because our names do not appear in the land deals. The options were signed and the deeds signed by our agents. Don't you see? Whereas his daughter and son and future son-in-law actually took land in their own names."

"How clumsy!"

"Yes. Such amateurism lowers the dignity of the United States senate," Peabody answered dryly.

"But suppose Langdon does not weaken?" asked Stevens anxiously as he picked up his hat and coat.

"Then we will go into action with our guns loaded," was the reply.

PLAINFIELD WINS A MEET

State Y. M. C. A. Athletic Championship Captured by Local Team.

LAWRENCE'S WORLD MARK.

Twelve Pound Shot Put Record Is Again Broken by Local Boy in Contests at Paterson.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. won first place in the State Y. M. C. A. Athletic meet held at Paterson Saturday night, and one of its members, Russel J. Lawrence, established a new world's record for putting the 12-pound shot, hurling it 54 feet, 4 inches. The old association mark, which he made also, was 49 feet, 6 inches. At the interscholastic meet in Brooklyn a few weeks ago he threw the shot 54 feet 1½ inches, and the performance was considered wonderful at the time.

The eleven teams participating Saturday night finished in this order: Plainfield, 12 points; Paterson, 11; Trenton, 8; Orange, 6; Newark, 5; Madison, 3; Montclair, 0; Elizabeth, 0; Passaic, 0; Hudson City, 0; Ridgewood, 0.

There were 100 entries for the events, and of these twenty-five were Paterson contestants. The team from this city comprised seven men. Russel J. Lawrence, captain, competed in the shot put, standing high jump and 15 yard dash; Carl Steiner in the potato race and running high jump; Harry Rothberg and Stryker Hoagland in the potato race; John Payne, shot put; Luther M. Shepherd, potato race and 15 yard dash; and Chauncey Murphy, the 15 yard dash. George L. Listman, physical director of the local association, accompanied the team.

These are the results:

Fifteen yard dash—1, Kuhn, Trenton; 2, B. Tum, Madison; 3, Seifert, Paterson.

Running high jump—1, Curtis, Newark, 5:8¼; 2, Wildnauer, Orange, 5:6¼; 3, Steiner, Plainfield, 5:3½.

Potato race, 440 yards—1, Critchley, Paterson, 1:41; 2, McLaughlin, Paterson, 1:41 1-5; 3, Seifert, Paterson, 1:41 2-5.

Standing high jump—1, Lawrence, Plainfield, 4:8¼; 2, Kuhn, Trenton, 4:7¼; 3, Nuemnthaler, Paterson, 4:6¼.

12-pound shot put—1, Lawrence, Plainfield, 54:4; 2, Creed, Orange, 45:7; 3, Payne, Plainfield, 37:5.

LONG'S TEAM TAKE TWO FROM DANIEL'S FIVE

In the bowling match between Daniel and Long's teams at the Park Club, Saturday night, Daniel's five took the first game by a score of 791 to 677, lost the second and third by scores of 816 to 759 and 813 to 810. The match was closely contested from start to finish. Several high scores were rolled, including Wilson's 198 and a 190 by Rogers, while Milne put up a 201 and Long a 199. The scores:

Daniel's Team.

Wilson	198	165	161
F. H. Ball	164	147	183
Knox	120	120	120
Rogers	160	158	190
Daniel	149	169	156
	791	759	810

Long's Team.

Milne	152	160	201

'PLAINS VOTERS WILL CONSIDER SCHOOL ADDITION

At the annual school meeting to be held at Scotch Plains tomorrow night the voters will be asked to consider the question of building an addition to the present school structure. This question has been under consideration for several years by the Board of Education, but it was not until the last year that the need of such improvement seemed to be imperative.

The large enrollment when the school re-opened in September crowded the several class rooms so that the county and State boards called a halt and compelled the local board to take immediate action toward furnishing additional room. At one time it looked as though the children would have to be put on half-time, but it was finally decided to furnish temporary accommodations by dividing the assembly room into three class rooms. This was done in November. The change enabled the board to comply with the demands of the State board, but it is anything but satisfactory, as it leaves the school without an assembly room for the usual exercises.

The present building was erected eighteen years ago and at that time it was believed would meet the demands for at least twenty years. The question of making an appropriation for an addition is an important one and efforts are being made to secure a large attendance of voters at the meeting.

PERSONAL.

George Wilson has returned to his home in Warrenville, after an extended trip through Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. John Billings, of West Fourth street, are parents of a daughter, born to them yesterday

Mrs. Robert F. Scott and son, of West Third street, are spending a few days with friends in Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday at the home of Edmund Rushmore, of Sycamore avenue.

Miss Van Schoick, of Island Heights, N. J., is visiting at the home of her friend, Miss Pauline Denton, of Washington avenue.

Arthur Weaver, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Rutherford, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Frank W. Rowley, of Grove street.

Mrs. R. G. Wempple, of Woodstock, Vt., has returned home after spending a month with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Fincke, of South avenue.

Thomas M. Muir spent a few hours on Saturday among his friends in town, for the first time since entering the hospital, seven weeks ago. He was accompanied by Hoyt Evans, who is also a patient at the hospital for eye trouble.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Pierce, of Cavannah, N. Y., have returned to their home after a visit of one week with Mr. Pierce's parents on Essex street. Mr. Pieree has accepted a call to a Long Island pastorate and will assume charge in the near future.

COMPLICATIONS DUE TO THE FEE BEING DELAYED.

The Supreme Court, in a memorandum filed by Justice Reed at Trenton on Saturday, refused an application of Sanford M. Lafray for a mandamus to compel the secretary of State to file a certificate of payment of capital stock of the United Syndicate Buyers' Company as of May 25, 1908, instedo of May 29.

The certificate in question was received from Robert J. McDermott, of Paterson, on May 25, accompanied by a letter, requesting that it be filed and a bill sent for the fees. In accordance with the usual custom, the office notified Mr. McDermott that the certificate would be filed upon receipt of the fee of $5.

This was received on May 29, when the certificate was filed. In the mean time a thirty-day notice to the officers of the company to file certificates had expired.

Under the corporation act failure to file the certificate within the prescribed time makes the officers of the company liable for all debts contracted prior to the filing of the certificate.

Under this section proceedings were instituted against the officers of the United Syndicate Buyers' Company, to offset which the mandamus proceedings were instituted.

PRINCETON'S OLDEST.

Dr. Hepburn, Now 94, Was Graduated in 1832—A Japanese Missionary.

Dr. James C. Hepburn, noted as a pioneer missionary to Japan, and the oldest living graduate of Princeton University, celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday yesterday at his home in Glenwood Avenue, East Orange. Many friends called and left gifts.

Dr. Hepburn was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1832, and then studied medicine. After a few years' practice in New York city, he entered the medical staff of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and went to Japan. In recognition of his services in that country the Mikado specially honored him.

OUTSIDERS MAY WORK FOR JERSEY

Should the amendment to the civil service law, as proposed by Senator Ackerman, pass the Legislature and get Governor Fort's signature, it is alleged, every Pennsylvanian could come to Jersey and take the examinations for entering the public service. He need not be a Jerseyman, it is said, either before the examination or afterward, to hold positions here.

There is much criticism of this proposed law springing up. Those behind it say that the state cannot get the hospital attendants wanted, and therefore there is nothing to do but take down the bars and let persons from every State compete for the public service. It is impossible to confine the examination of non-residents to this one branch of the service, and therefore comes the opposition.

Physicians say that under this amendment doctors from Pennsylvania and New York could take the civil service examination for posts in hospitals, and, passing such examination, could practice in the hospitals here, despite the fact that the State law makes them pass an examination before the State Medical Board before being eligible to practice in this State.

PATERSON BOY LED ASTRAY BY READING DIME NOVELS.

Sensational dime novels and "blood and thunder" shows had a bad moral effect upon 15-year-old Peter Dekker, son of Frederick G. Dekker, pastor of the First Holland church of Paterson, who ran away from home last Thursday to see the world, only to be returned last night after reaching Providence R. I. When Peter started from Paterson he had $5. At Boston this sum had dwindled down to a single dlolar, and arriving in Providence a further inventory of cash on hand showed but 7 cents.

The would-be globe trotter then appealed to the police and the first thing he asked for was a big dinner. He was turned over to Probation Officer Wallace, the parents were notified and the start for home was made. Wallace and his charge reached Paterson early last night. The young wanderer was welcomed by his father, who, instead of administering the parental slipper, delivered a phillippic against juvenile literature, motion pictures and other classes of amusement.

"I intend," said Dr. Dekker, "to bring this matter to the attention of the police authorities and the show censors. I believe that a censor should be appointed to look after and inquire into the books that children read after school hours. The harm that this class of literature does cannot be overestimated. My boy attends high school. He is not incorrigible and heretofore never gave us trouble, but like any number of other boys he contracted the habit of reading this low literature and has what is called 'Wanderlust.'"

Was Jolted from Wagon.

Lewis Garthwait, of Oak Tree, who fell off a load of wood last Thursday, breaking his right arm above the elbow, is showing improvement, according to a report from the hospital, where he was taken immediately after the accident. Mr. Garthwait, who is fifty-eight years old, was jolted from his seat while passing over a stretch of rough road with the horses on a trot.

There are Parallel Cases.

ORGAN RECITAL PLEASES

Hope, Warren and Bethel Chapelites Hear Crescent Ave. Church Instrument.

S. A. BALDWIN GIVES PROGRAM

C. C. N. Y. Organist Shows Range and Possibilities of Gift Instrument at Largely Attended Concert.

That the congregations of the various chapels of the Crescent Avenue church might have opportunity to hear the new organ at the main church, a recital was given upon the instrument last night by Samuel A. Baldwin, professor of music at the College of the City of New York. Admission to this recital, the second upon the new instrument, was by numbered tickets, and the edifice was filled to its utmost capacity, the audience for the most part comprising members of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels.

The program comprised eleven numbers, which generally strengthened the impression made by the first recital that the instrument is rich in fine solo stops and pleasing combinations, and Mr. Baldwin's playing was marked by excellent technique, and he showed marked skill in his manipulation of the pedals.

The first number was Wolstenholme's sonata in the style of Handel and this selection in itself brought out the possibilities of the instrument. It comprised a stately introduction and charming allegro, largo and minuet passages. Particularly pleasing was Mr. Baldwin's execution of the slower pedal passages of the andante from Beethoven's fifth symphony, which followed the opening number, and the tones were clear and smooth. Two numbers from Bach, an air in D and the Fugue a' la Gigue, were received with great appreciation.

Of particular interest was the Benediction Nuptiale, by Hollins. This selection was written for the marriage of Rev. Hugh Black. The theme is composed on the tones B, E, and B flat, which in German nomenclature are H, E, and B,—the initials of Hugh and Edith Black. Its rendition was used with commendable restraint in this number and in Rubenstein's Kamennoi Ostrow, which followed the Etude Symphonique by Bossi.

The Pilgrim's chorus and song "To the Evening Star," from Tannhauser, Wagner's arrangement, was familiar to many, and for this reason the possibilities of the organ in its rendition were the more keenly appreciated. "Am Meer," by Schubert, which followed Dubois' Toccata in G, was another occasion for the use of the echo organ, and Mr. Baldwin produced an exquisitely beautiful and etherial tone effect by combining it with the swell vox humana. The program concluded with the rendition of Guillmant's "Marche Religieuse, the subject of which is taken from the first motif of the chorus, "Lift up Your Heads," from Handel's "Messiah."

Another organ recital will be given at the Crescent Avenue church next Tuesday evening. On that occasion Archer Gibson, organist of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will play, and he will be assisted by Frank Croxton, bass, of New York.

Collected Many Curios.

Edward Mattox, of the U. S. S. Battleship New Jersey, has returned to his ship after a furlough of twelve days, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mattox, of Stebbins place. He was promoted twice on the long trip of the fleet. He brought home many beautiful things from foreign countries, including shawls, tea sets, pillow covers from Japan and beads from Egypt.

Bishop to Confirm a Class.

Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, will make his annual visit to the Church of the Heavenly Rest tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, when a class will be confirmed. During his stay in the city he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue.

—William R. Ten Eyck, of this city, has successfully passed his examination for a plumber. He was taught the trade by the late James Deady and is employed by George J. Tobin.

ACKERMAN'S AMENDMENT BENEFITS WORKINGMAN

When Senate bill known as the Employers' Liability bill, came up on second reading in the State Senate last night, Mr. Ackerman's amendment relieving employers of the necessity of furnishing "safe tools and implements," was adopted. Mr. Gebhardt's amendment giving injured employes the privilege of instituting action within two years, instead of restricting them to 120 days, was defeated.

Mr. Osborne, who practically made a single-handed fight against the bill, resented Mr. Ackerman's assertion that the measure was in the form of a compromise. "It's no compromise," fairly shouted Mr. Osborne; "it's a vicious bill and is merely a sop to the workingman."

Mr. Hillery opposed legislative action at this time, asserting that it should be deferred until next year. He admitted the fairness of giving injured employes' damages, but added that there was also a danger of imperiling the future of manufacture in this State by indiscriminately penalizing employers for accidents.

Three amendments by Mr. Gebhardt were also deefated. They were intended to change the date when the bill would become operative and also to lengthen the period of time for injured employes to bring suit.

CLERGYMAN TO SPEAK ON "THE BOY PROBLEM"

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, will deliver an address on "The Boy Problem" at the first meeting of the Plainfield Sunday School Institute, which will be held at Grace church parish house Saturday afternoon, March 27.

The Institute, which has been but recently formed, will hold this as the first of a series of meetings, designed to be of value to Sunday-school officers and teachers. All rectors, superintendents, teachers, officers and the older pupils of various schools of this section of the diocese are invited. Rev. Arthur S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, is secretary of the organization.

"Teachers Training" will be the subject of an address to be made at this meeting by Rev. Henry H. Sleeper, Ph. D., rector of Grace church, Elizabeth, and Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, general secretary of the New Jersey State Sunday School Association, will speak on "Methods of the Modern Sunday School."

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND A STAG AT HACKENSACK.

One of the largest stags ever pulled off in Hackensack was that given by the K. O. T. M., Tent No. 32, last Saturday night. The affair was one gotten up in the pure German style, and everything from the Fatherland was in evidence. The evening was spent in a manner that no one had a chance to get weary for the lack of amusement.

Some features were the fencing exhibition given by three members of the Plainfield Fencers' club. Those taking part from this city were L. A. Clement, A. J. B. Clement and J. W. Lyman, who gave three three round contests with the foil. Harry A. Weber, of this city, also entertained the members and their friends with comic songs and monologues. There were also songs, and speeches that were well received. The stag was finished by a three round exhibition bout by two clever boys from the United States regulars at Governor's Island.

Those who went from Plainfield claim that never had a better time and felt more at home.

Fugitive Youth Surrenders.

Roy Snyder, twenty-two years old, unmarried, and the son of a prosperous butcher in Westfield, walked into the Union County Court yesterday and surrendered himself to Judge Atwater. The young man had been a fugitive from justice since February 4. The last grand jury indicted the prisoner on the complaint of Anna McCarthy, eighteen years old, an orphan and a resident of Westfield. Judge Atwater fixed Snyder's bail at $1,500. Mrs. Anna Decker, mother of the chief engineer of Westfield's fire department, went security in this sum for the prisoner's appearance for trial, the date of which has yet to be set by the court.

Hosea Hewlitt.

Hosea Hewlitt, aged thirty years, a brilliant colored man, died at his home in Cranford, Sunday night, of tubercular trouble. He was graduated from the Cranford High School and later was admitted to the New Jersey Bar. He afterward won distinction in newspaper work. He was a member of the Baptist church at Cranford, and had a number of friends in this city.

INSULT - AVENGER IS HELD

City Judge Runyon Decrees That Brennan Must Await Action of Grand Jury.

HIS BAIL FIXED AT $250.

Aleck Kaine, Who Was Badly Mauled in Sewer Trench Fracas, Has Army of Italian Witnesses at Court.

Ruling that Thomas Brennan, of West Third street, was not justified in taking the law in his own hands to avenge an alleged insult of Alexander Kane to his invalid sister, at Brennan's home on February 25, City Judge Runyon today held Brennan under $250 bond to await the action of the grand jury at the April session. The bond was furnished by Zebulon Chadbourne.

The hearing of the case, which has been twice postponed at the city court, developed the fact that the attack on Kane was premeditated, and that Brennan had resolved to "lay for" the contractor after hearing his sister's story of the insult. The court's realization that Brennan had been given ample opportunity as far as time was concerned, to have the insult avenged by bringing Kane to court about the matter made the "beating up" into an attack upon the man.

Kane was on hand bright and early at court today, with an army of Italian witnesses. These were those for whom Lawyer Arthur Murphy, Brennan's counsel, paid $5.10 for issuing and serving warrants, when the case was postponed a week ago. It turned out that but one Italian was on hand when the insulting remarks are alleged to have been passed out by Aleck. This Italian, whose name is Dominick, meekly swore that he had never heard the contractor swear.

When the hearing was begun Dr. Norman H. Probasco, who attended Aleck after the one-sided fistic encounter, testified that the contractor had "general contusions about the chest, face and right eye." He said that it took four stitches to close the "general contusion" of the eye. As far as the testimony of the other witnesses were concerned, it proved a maze of counter allegations, as far as the principals were concerned, mingled by legal cross-examination meant to entangle the witnesses, but in realty only arousing wrath in the case of Brennan. A feature of the testimony by Miss Brennan was the fact that all "cuss-words" were repeated by initial only. Practically the entire alphabet was utilized.

The witnesses for Brennan were Mrs. Kane, a neighbor, the defendant himself and his sister. Brennan declared that he only struck Kane "two or three times," and that the contractor was prepared for the attack. Kane looked as if he'd got caught under a pile-driver after the encounter, and said he had his hands in his pocket when Brennan set upon him. The physician, Dominick and Aleck were considered sufficient witnesses to establish the contractor's case, and the Italians were not brought to the stand.

Francis J. Blatz was Kane's attorney, and called attention of the court to the deliberateness of the Navy Yard's foreman's atttack on his client in his summing up. Arthur Murphy represented Brennan.

WILLIAM F. BERGEN BURIED AT SOMERVILLE.

The funeral of William P. Bergen, 56 years old, was held Sunday at the residence of his brother-in-law, Thomas I. Honeyman, Somerville. The Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church, officiated and burial was in the old cemetery. Mr. Bergen died in Newark, where he had been engaged in the real estate business for the past ten years. Formerly he lived in Somerville, and was prominent in Democratic politics. Long ago he was tax collector of Bridgewater Township. He was a son of former Sheriff John J. Bergen, and a brother of Justice James J. Bergen, of the Supreme Court.

McIntyre Musicales.

The second of a series of Lenten recitals was given this afternoon by Joseph McIntyre at the home of Mrs. B. Foster Wilkinson, Lincoln Park, Newark. The assisting artist was Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold. Tonight the McIntyre Trio, including Hans Letz, violinist, and Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, and Francis Rogers, baritone, will give a musicale at The Montclair Club, Montclair. This will be one of the events of the season in music at that place.

Makes Somerville a Borough.

A bill introduced in the Senate last night by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, provides for the incorporation of a ortion of the township of Bridgewater, Somerset county, as Somerville borough.

TAFT'S TARIFF MESSAGE

President Convenes Congress to Revise the Dingley Tariff Law at Once.

FOR COUNTRY'S INTERESTS.

Party Pledged, Says President Taft, and Business Community Demands It Be Done.

The President's special message on the tariff sent to Congress at Washington today is as follows:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"I have convened the Congress in this extra session in order to enable it to give immediate consideration to the revision of the Dingley Tariff act. Conditions affecting production, manufacture and business generally have so changed in the last twelve years as to require a readjustment and revision of the import duties imposed by that act. More than this, the present tariff act, with the other sources of Government revenue, does not furnish income enough to pay the authorized expenditures. By July 1 next the excess of expenses over the receipts for the curren fiscal year will equal $100,000,000.

"The successful party in the late election is pledged to a revision of the tariff. The country and the business community especially expect it. The prospect of a change in the rate of import duties always causes a suspension or halt in business because of uncertainity as to the changes to be made and their effect. It is therefore of the highest importance that the new bill should be agreed upon and passed with as much speed as possible consistent with its due and thorough consideration. For these reasons I have deemed the present to be an extraordinary occasion, within the meaning of the Constitution, justifying and requiring the calling of an extra session.

"In my inaugural address, I stated in a summary way, the principles upon which, in my judgment, the revision of the tariff should proceed, and indicated at least one new source of revenue that might be properly resorted to in order to avoid a future deficit. It is not necessary for me to repeat what I then said.

"I venture to suggest that the vital business interests of the country require that the attention of the Congress in this session be chiefly devoted to the consideration of the new tariff bill, and that the less time given to other subjects of legislation in this session the better for the country.

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

LITTLE GIRL DIES FROM BURNS AT A BONFIRE

Leanbia Vostono, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Vostono, of Lake street, died last night, as a result of burns received on Saturday while playing about a bonfire. The child was in the company of several playmates of her own age and accidentally her dress caught fire. Her screams attracted the attention of her mother, who rushed to the scene of the fire, picked up her child and carried her to the house.

Dr. F. J. Hughes was called and he has been attending the child. The burns extended over the entire body and it is the opinion of the physician that she inhaled the flames before being rescued. The child lay in a stupor for several days and did not respond to treatment. The funeral will be held from the parents' home tomorrow morning and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Call Rev. W. H. Boocock.

Rev. William H. Boocock, pastor of the First Refromed church, Bayonne, and son-in-law of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, has received a call to the First Presbyterian church, Buffalo, of which Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, formerly of this city, is pastor. Mr. Boocock has been asked to take charge of the moral and religious education department of the church work. It is believed he will accept. He is a graduate of Rutgers College and the Theological Seminary.

Walsh Was Found Guilty.

John Walsh, who was tried in the Union county court, yesterday, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, was found guilty by the jury with a recommendation for mercy. Walsh was found guilty of collecting $19 from colored people in this city on a promise to supply them with groceries. The groceries were never delivered. Robert Newton Crane represented Walsh while Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., assistant prosecutor, represented the State.

MAD DOG FINALLY SHOT

"Beau," Miss Alice Higgins' Pet, Killed in the Borough After Biting 7 Dogs.

AFTERNOON OF EXCITEMENT.

Police of City and Borough Watching for Development of More Cases—Bitten Canines Locked Up.

Running amuck through the borough, afflicted with rabies, the bull terrier belonging to Miss Alice Higgins, of West Fourth street, bit seven other dogs and snapped at several pedestrians yesterday afternoon before it was finally shot by Adam Fritz, of Howard street, who spied the animal after it had bitten the dog belonging to his neighbor, John Lowry. Police of both city and borough had been on the watch for the canine since noon.

As a result of the publicity given to the animal's wild run, city and borough dog owners kept careful watch over their pets yesterday. Mayor C. J. Fisk this morning issued a proclamation forbidding owners to allow their canines to run at large without a muzzle, calling attention to the ordinance providing for a fine of $10 for each violation. Any unmuzzled dog found running at large will be impounded, according to the city's regulations and it will cost the owner $1 additional to again secure his dog, in addition to a charge of twenty-five cents a day for the animal's keep. Unclaimed dogs will be shot at the expiration of four days.

The canines which were bitten yesterday have been locked up by their various owners and are being carefully watched to see if hydrophobia will develop. It is believed that this precaution has been taken in the case of each animal bitten by the Higgins dog, but should dogs be found with open wounds, the police order that they be confined immediately, or else that their discovery be at once reported to the police.

The dogs bitten were owned by Mrs. Henry Rummel, of Park place; Lewis M. VanDyke, of Linden avenue; Charles H. Lowry, of Linden avenue; John Lavinsky, Mrs. Maggie Wilson, of Linden avenue; Frank DeCamp, of Linden avenue; John Lowry, of Howard street and Charles Barry, of Howard street. The dog afflicted with rabies secured admittance to the house of Mr. Lavinsky, rushing into the kitchen and biting the man's pet puppy, which was lying by the stove. The other canines were all attacked in the streets.

Miss Alice Higgins, who owned the dead doggie told a Daily Press reporter today that the animal was valued at $100 and was given to her as a present about a year ago. The animal's name was "Beau Brummel." "Beau was always my pet," she said, "and I don't believe he had hydrophobia. He was always getting in fights with other dogs, and was cross because his jaw had been torn in an encounter. We had Dr. Butler come to the house Sunday to see what was the matter with Beau's jaw, which was so disfigured that he couldn't eat or drink. I examined his mouth, and took care of him Sunday and Monday myself. He ran out of the house Monday and got in a fight with another dog right across the street. Then he went away. Beau always slept on the foot of my bed at night and wasn't bad tempered at all. Dr. Butler didn't tell us he had the rabies, but when he heard that Beau had gone away, he said that his cut mouth had probably been infected and the disease had developed."

Funeral of Mrs. J. B. Morrison.

The funeral services of Mrs. Joseph B. Morrison were held at the late home on Watchung avenue, Saturday afternoon, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. There was a large gathering of relatives and freinds, and there were also many beautiful floral tributes from those who loved and esteemed Mrs. Morrison, for her Christian qualities. The interment was in Hillside cemetery and the bearers were Arthur Stryker, Samuel Sarson, Burt Fluck, Arthur Robinson, Alfred Osborn and James Morrison.

Exit, C. N. Fowler.

A dispatch from Washington states that it is expected that Congressman Charles N. Fowler will be retired by Speaker Cannon as chairman of the committee on banking and currency. Mr. Fowler became chairman by right of seniority on the committee, but his currency views have not met with the approval of Congress.

Purchased a Lancia Car.

George L. Babcock, of Madison avenue, received his new Lancia car yesterday, and today is giving it a good try-out. The machine is capable of doing over fifty miles an hour and is attracting considerable attention. It weighs 2,180 pounds.

Y.W.C.A.'S QUARTERS WILL BE ENLARGED

Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, of West Seventh street, has purchased the property on East Front street, adjoining that of the Y. W. C. A., from Henry Leifke, Eugene M. Laing and B. Frank Coriell, joint owners, and the Y. W. C. A., in which she is greatly interested, will have the use of it to meet the demands for enlarged quarters to carry on its work.

The property consists of a large two-apartment house, which was remodelled during the past year and equipped in modern fashion, and owing to its close proximity to the association property is especially desirable. The officers and members of the association were in absolute ignorance of the deal until yesterday when a meeting was held at the rooms on East Front street.

The transaction was made through a third party and the owners did not know the real purpose until the deed was passed. It was then learned that Mrs. Eleanor Cochran-Stewart was the purchaser, the deed being transferred to her. The association is much pleased over the arrangement, especially as it means protection to its present home and will prevent the occupancy of the newly acquired property by undesirable parties.

MRS. SUSAN B. STRONG SUCCUMBS AT FANWOOD

Mrs. Susan B. Strong, wife of Albert H. Strong, aged 64 years, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. W. Westcott, in Fanwood, from heart trouble. She had lived with her sister during the past two years and had been in poor health for three years. Mrs. Strong was born at Monroe, Orange county, New York, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Heaton, of that place. She was a life-long member of the Methodist church, although her parents were Friends.

Mrs. Strong was a resident of Newton Highlands, Mass., for eight years, and her husband still resides there. Besides a husband she leaves a mother, who is eighty-four years old; a son, W. C. Strong, a sister, Mrs. F. W. Westcott, and one brother, Stephen B. Strong, of Monroe, N. Y.

The funeral service will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Rev. F. K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will officiate. The burial will be in the Baptist cemetery, Scotch Plains.

DENTAL SOCIETY FILES INCORPORATION ARTICLES

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday at the office of the clerk of Union county at Elizabeth, by the Plainfield Dental Society. There are fifteen incorporators, these being the charter members of the organization. There are also three trustees for the first year. These are Frank W. French, B. F. Leonard and G. H. Hillman.

The objects for which the society is formed are to promote social and fraternal intercourse and mutual improvement among the members and to advance the interest of the science and art of dentistry, as well as to maintain the dignity of this profession.

TENNIS EDITOR ELECTED TRUSTEE OF THE P. C. C.

S. W. Merrihew, of this city, has been elected a trustee of the Plainfield Country Club in place of George S. Ring, who resigned, and has been made chairman of the tennis committee. Mr. Merrihew is the editor of "National Lawn Tennis," the organ of the game in this country, and is also an expert player. The club members are greatly pleased over the selection for it means that the tennis department will be well taken care of in the future.

The temporary putting greens and teeing grounds on the golf course are now in commission and golfers are requested to play under winter rules for the present in order to spare the turf. A new club book is to be issued shortly and all changes of address since 1905 should be reported promptly to the secretary.

Gave a "500" Party.

Mrs. James A. Wotton gave a "500" party at her home on West Sixth street, Saturday night, to twenty of her friends. The home was decorated with flowers and ferns. After the play refreshments were served. Those who scored the greatest number of points were Mrs. R. H. Gow and Mrs. E. A. Giddes, H. E. Hudson and Frank Kelley. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Bayonne and this city.

WON'T PAY EXCISE BILLS

Legislature's Appropriation Committee Refuses to "O.K." Commission Expense.

QUESTION AS TO THE LEGALITY

Chairman C. J. Fisk Refuses to Talk—Clerk J. P. Dengler Makes a Statement.

The appropriations committee of the Legislature yesterday made clear that they did not intend paying the expenses of the State Excise Commission appointed by Governor Fort with Mayor Charles J. Fisk as chairman, after the Legislature adjourned last spring, pursuant to a joint resolution which was certified to the governor as having passed both houses of the Legislature.

The committee gave audience to John P. Dengler, Governor Fort's former stenographer, when the chief executive was a justice of the supreme court, and told Mr. Dengler that, inasmuch as the committee was not regularly constituted by joint act of the Legislature, his bill, nor any other bill of the commission, could be paid by an appropriation. The committee made it plain that it did not consider that there lay authority in the body to suggest such an appropriation.

Speaking of the matter to a reporter last night, Mr. Dengler said: "I told the appropriations committee that I had been regularly employed by the commission. It was not my duty to ask them if they had been regularly constituted. I had incurred the expenses in good faith, and I thought it the right thing for the committee to do was to pay the bill.

"But the members took the ground that the commission had not been regularly constituted under the law, and they refused point blank to consider my bill. I offered to give the items to them, but they refused to listen to them after they had told me that the commission had not been regularly constituted."

There is a general impression here particularly shared by those who did some work or other for the excise commission that all the bills will be paid. If the payments are not made from the general fund with the consent of the appropriations commission, it is believed that the Governor will use his contingent fund for the purpose. Among those who have submitted bills are Chief of Police Kiely and J. Henry Crane, the latter for legal services.

When Mayor Fisk was asked today what he thought of the action of the appropriations committee in turning down the bills, he declined to express any opinion. "I sent the bills to Senator Ackerman, chairman of the appropriations committee," said Mr. Fisk, "and you will have to see him. All I know about this matter is what I have seen in the newspapers and I don't make it a habit of expressing an opinion on second-hand information."

NOTICE TO PARENTS TO VACCINATE CHILDREN.

Borough parents are warned to have their children vaccinated. A notice is being sent out from the high school by Superintendent H. C. Krebs. It reads:

The Board of Health of the Borough of North Pluainfield wishes me to suggest to parents the desirability of having their children vaccinated if they have not been successfully vaccinated within the past five years.

The laws of New Jersey authorize the Board of Education to exclude from school any unvaccinated child. Should there be any considerable number of cases of smallpox in this vicinity, this measure would doubtless be enforced. To avoid the loss of time in school that this would necessarily mean to the pupils, vaccination at this time is suggested.

Old G. O. P. Ticket.

Mrs. George W. F. Randolph, of West Front street, while searching through some old papers a few days ago, came across a copy of the Republican ticket nominated in Plainfield in 1872, when the city had but two districts. Among the names appearing thereon are those familiar to the older residents. In that year Mrs. Randolph's husband was elected a freeholder. Among those who were on the ticket and are now living are Samuel T. Varian, Nelson Runyon, Alexander Gilbert, J. D. Spicer, John H. Vincent, now a Bishop in the Methodist church; J. A. Hubbard. The ticket is in excellent state of preservation.

A NEW DEPARTURE!

Since the first day we threw open our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department its growth has been rapid and successful, but we are not yet satisfied. We know that many ladies go out of town to purchase their outer garments, and pay more for them than we charge, and yet we offer exclusiveness and individuality, which is practically impossible in the large city stores, where hundreds of the one style garments are offered for sale. In order, therefore, to offset any desire on the part of those who contemplate going out of town for their Tailored Suits, Coats, etc., we offer to

MAKE ALTERATIONS FREE OF CHARGE.

This is a radical change, but it means much to those who appreciate onward, upward progressive business methods. The "White Store" always on the alert for methods that will benefit their patrons, knows that this announcement will be of far-reaching importance to thousand of ladies in this section of New Jersey, and we are prepared to meet their demands. STARTING MONDAY and BALANCE OF WEEK WE OFFER THE FOLLOWING:

Ladies' Tailored Suits

New models, all the latest shades, Coats, silk and satin lined, hipless models, Skirts full flared, with button trimming—Materials, Prunella, Serge and Panama Cloth.

PUBLIC SERVICE PAYS AN ARMY of WORKERS

IF YOU were to see ten regiments of infantry parading down Front Street tomorrow you would be impressed with the spectacle. Whatever emotions might be aroused within you, the numerical strength of the marching hosts, at least, would fix itself in your mind. And, possibly, after the last file had gone by, you would be moved to remark: "That's quite an army."

It would, in truth, be quite an army, for the maximum strength of a regiment is twelve companies of sixty-eight officers and privates each, and ten such regiments would muster 8,160 men.

Now, try to place within the ken of your mental vision an army of 8,160 men and you will have a very good idea of the number of employees on the PUBLIC SERVICE payrolls.

WORK FOR 8,000 MEN.

The actual number of men in the employ of PUBLIC SERVICE fluctuates. When much construction work is under way the number increases; when such work cannot be carried on, the total grows less, but the average number of permanent employees is, approximately, 8,000.

In round numbers 8,000 men earn their living and support their wives and children, or others dependent upon them, by means of the employment given and wages paid by PUBLIC SERVICE. And to meet the payrolls for this army of men the company must apply from its receipts annually a stupendous sum amounting to approximately $7,000,000. This means a payroll of $134,615 a week.

How many manufacturing concerns, or how many industrial plants are there in the State whose payrolls even approach these figures? And who will gainsay that an industry which pays $7,000,000 a year to wage earners is a distinct benefit to the State, its municipalities and its people? What inducements would not be offered by cities, board of trade and commercial bodies to bring within their territories an industrial concern employing so many hands, and paying such large sums of money in wages? And PUBLIC SERVICE, in a sense, can be justly classed as an industrial concern, for it manufactures and distributes electricity and gas and produces transportation, all of which may be regarded as essential to the public and private welfare.

SUPPORTS POPULATION OF 32,000.

In considering the number of men employed by PUBLIC SERVICE think of the total number of persons who derive their sustenance from the PUBLIC SERVICE payrolls. It is fair to assume that each man represents, on an average, four persons, the working force of PUBLIC SERVICE accounts for a population of 32,000.

Brought together, 32,000 persons would make quite a city. It would be a city with a larger population than either of the counties of Cape May, Ocean, Sussex or Salem. It would mean a population approximating that of the counties of Hunterdon or Gloucester, and numerically would not be far behind the counties of Somerset or Warren, the figures for comparisons being those of the 1905 census. By the same census only ten cities in New Jersey show a population greater than the number of persons which PUBLIC SERVICE employes represent.

WAGES STIMULATE LOCAL TRADE.

But the great sums paid for wages by PUBLIC SERVICE do not go into any one community. They are distributed over half the State, and play an important part in the local trade of every section where PUBLIC SERVICE employes and their families live.

PUBLIC SERVICE presents these facts for your consideration. They are of vital importance to thousands, yet, in public discussions of the company's affairs, how often have you heard them adverted to?

ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO BE PRESENT.

Hats---Revelations

The wonder of the season is the Millinery. Whoever saw such hats as have been conjured by the makers, of things fashionable! No one, surely, alive today. There have been periods when hats as great and gorgeous as this season's were the vogue, and we are only harking back to those periods for the styles that predominate today. Only a little while ago you would have thought such hats impossible. But here they are, and Fashion says they are correct—therefore, they will be worn, and in a very little while we will be so accustomed to them that their passing will not attract more than ordinary attention.

While the tendency is towards very large effects there are still plenty of the medium models and some very neat ones for those who do not care to go to the extreme which fashion dictates. We must tell you about just a few of the more striking effects seen in our opening display—hats that all should see if they would know what is fashionable.

Most wonderful of all, perhaps, is the great Black Peach Basket Hat, now the rage in ultra fashionable centers, largely worn in New York. One model is of Hand Made Imported Straw Braid—a very rough effect, faced with chiffon with a velvet band; two huge ostrich plumes; all black with the exception of an elaborate gilt cabochon which dangles over the front—certainly one of the most remarkable and effective hats ever produced. The price is $75

Another novel hat is a Black Neapolitan in Flowerpot Shape with two large white willow plumes, with velvet band and pink rosebuds; priced at $45

One of the most charming hats in the entire collection is a large Poke Bonnet effect with light Neapolitan crown completely circled with white willow ostrich plumes, white ribbon bow in back with white streamers—certainly a beautiful creation. Price $40

Another hat is a large Mushroom Shape of Fine Hemp Braid with cluster of three Princess Ostrich plumes in Champagne shade on the side, and narrow shirred velvet band surrounding the crown. The price is $40

A large Black Chip Hat is most strikingly trimmed with two shades of rose ribbon on the top and around the crown. It is priced at only $17.50

Notable displays of Flowers are being made in our French Flower Market as well as in the cases where the finer flowers are kept, and there is also a great show of fruits which are much in vogue this season.

A beautiful genuine Bird of Paradise is shown at $40

A gorgeous Fountain Paradise at only $38

Gowns--Fashion's Top Note

We have made many notable shows of gowns in past openings but when we look over the collection that is presented today we believe we have excelled all previous displays. However, this is an opinion that is commonplace employed by almost everyone regardless of fact. So we prefer to have you see the costumes and the tailored gowns we are showing and form your own estimate of the displays.

Many of the models we are exhibiting are imported and many others are copies of imported gowns. Some of them cannot be duplicated. For others we can take orders, reproducing them at moderate prices in any of the fashionable colors. We are showing notably beautiful gowns in voile and pongee—the latter in stunning coat effects.

A brief word of a few of the handsomer gowns. Please note the low prices at which we have marked them.

A Hand Embroidered Linen Three Piece Suit in Salmon Shade is an imported model; new habit front, prettily paneled in Directoire effect; finished with girdle; with straight hipless coat; the whole suit elaborately embroidered front, back and sleeves, coat, bodice and skirt—a most elaborate creation. Prices at only $59

French Voile Three Piece Suits in the richest pastel shades, the one before us in dainty lavender; the coat cut in medium length, the gown with Directoire front; handsomely hand embroidered in dainty colorings; lace collar and yokes; coat lined in self colors; also some styles braided and embroidered; suits for which we can take orders if the ones in stock do not fit you. Price $95

Three Piece Suits of Superb Pongee; panel front; hand embroidered in contrasting colors; ornamented with embroidered buttons; sleeves of Brussels Net; with five folds, high cuff, collar and yoke of gilt cord net; extra long coat with turnover fancy cuffs, handsomely embroidered; silk lined; orders taken for duplicates; dress may be had without cost if desired. Price..... $79

An Empire Gown of Chiffon and Messaline—mulberry and other dainty shades; full, self color, embroidered bodice with thin tucked sleeves; deep Empire cuffs of lace; button trimmed; collar of lace; yoke of pin tucked net; skirt elaborately embroidered half way up; generous train; prices at only $69

Empire Gown of Natural Pongee—a handsome imported model with deep Persian border; tunic effect; Empire bodice of Persian lace collar; deep neatly tucked cuffs to match—a wonderfully effective creation at only $69

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Manager Dorflinger signed Seery, of Elizabeth, yesterday and this means that the Clinton Avenues will be sure of a fine backstop this season.

The official spelling of the Philadelphia Nationals' wonderful twirler is announced as follows: "Coceleskie." All other spelling of the name is prohibited.

Through frequent glancing at the weekly salary named in his vaudeville contract, Mike Donlin has hurt his batting eye.

Joe Meyers, the Indian catcher with the Giants, is making too many home runs at Marlin Springs to make good after April 12.

When men like Ty. Cobb, Hans Wagner, Harry Davis and Sherwood Magee come to the bat it is not necessary to draft a new set of scoring rules to get the base hits.

The local baseball fans are getting the fever and when the bell rings for the opening game they will all be on hand.

Clifford Randolph's performances in the South are attracting considerable attention from Manager Wolverton and it would not be surprising if the Plainfielder remained with the team.

President Harry C. Pulliam, of the National League, is looking for a quiet place to rest, and it has been suggested that he camp out at American League Park, New York.

Among the local baseball teams that will furnish sport here this season is the Monroe A. C. Last year this aggregation put up a good article of ball and succeeded in defeating some of the best clubs in this vicinity.

Allen Snyder will be found in the lineup of the Clinton Avenue team this season. He should prove of value to the club this year, counting his previous experience.

GOLF.

Pinehurst, Palm Beach and Augusta will be scenes of tournament play this week, not to speak of southern California, where golfing this week is rivalled by polo and pony racing at the Coronado Country Club. Next week the annual tournament of the Palmetto Golf Club takes place at Aiken for the Southern Cross championship and minor cups, and the committee—John C. Tappin, W. H. Sands and C. M. Hinkle—expect a number of visitors from New York clubs to take part in the competitions. On the same dates the North and South championships will be on at Pinehurst.

Two announcements are that the Southern Golf Association championship, now held by Nelson M. Whitney for the second year, will be at Memphis, May 25-29, and the Middle Atlantic Golf Association at the Columbia Golf Club, Washington, May 27-29. F. Oden Horstman is the title holder. Although the dates of the Hudson River Golf Association championship, the East Jersey and the details of other limited tournaments annually played on a Metropolitan Golf Association course are lacking, while there are no specific announcements yet from the clubs of Garden City, Shinnecock Hills or Deal, the list of local fixtures is growing rapidly. A rearrangement of the three tournaments scheduled for the week of May 24 would seem desirable.

Players who come northward from courses in more sunny climes will find their first opportunities to golf with the Manhattan stay at homes at the tournaments at Lakewood and Atlantic City. Should Garden City take its usual date it would now be the place to call, but as the schedule stands Fox Hills comes next. The Nassau fixture follows, and then the local championships and the long string of competitions. The hiatus between July 10 and September now a blank will not be so barren when the Deal and Shinnecock Hills tourneys are named. There are several conflicts, one between the veterans at Apawamis and the women's national at Merion.

Writers and Scholars.

"Concord Writers" and "Cambridge Scholars" were the titles of two interesting papers presented yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club in the Hartridge auditorium. The first paper prepared by Mrs. John Dodd Miller, was read by Mrs. Robert Lowry, and the latter aper was presented by Mrs. Maybury B. Mellor. They were preceded by Current Events given by a number of members.

"Three Mark Sisters" to Appear.

SHRINERS' ARAB PATROL GIVES ITS ANNUAL BALL

Arab Patrol, of Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles Mystic Shrine, in which there are some Plainfielders, gave its annual entertainment and dance at the Krueger Auditorium, Newark, last night. The committee in charge of the affair included Edward Fancher, of Fanwood; Albert Schurr, Henry Egner, H. L. Brooks, L. J. Burgesser, F. W. Mock, Jr., and Harry L. Jenkinson.

Arab Patrol has been a famous organization among Shriners for a number of years. Recently it gave a drill in the brilliant uniforms at St. Paul, Minn., and captured a prize. The annual ball is one of the most enjoyable affairs of its kind given during the winter and always attracts a throng.

Old Man Was Drunk.

John Thompson, a visiting Scotchman, seventy years old, was overcome by liquor last night and slept in a borough cell. He was arrested by Lieutenant Gaub at the fire house, where he went to make inquiries about a friend. While speaking he fell to the floor helplessly drunk and was escorted to the police station. Arriving there his strength returned and he flew into a rage, threatening to whip Chief Weiss and everybody else. This morning he was given a suspended sentence and went back to Newburg, where he is staying with his sister.

Motor Cycle Club Formed.

About a dozen motor cycle owners interested in the formation of a motor cycle club in this city met last night at the office of City Judge William N. Runyon to effect an organization. The fact that some cyclists were unable to be present caused the election of officers to be postponed until the next meeting which will be held at the same place a week from tomorrow night. A committee comprising Allen Fulmer, Dr. William Anthony and Melbourne Lindsley was appointed to secure more members and a constitution and by-laws is being drawted.

Changes Game Laws.

Senator Wakelee introduced a bill in the upper house of the Legislature last night making a closed season for ring-necked pheasants until December 1, 1910, and for rabbits or Hungarian partridge except between November 15 and December 31, in Passaic, Sussex, Morris, Warren, Hunterdon, Essex, Somerset, Union and Bergen counties.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Dougherty, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., are guests of Mrs. Cecelia McHale, of West Third street.

FRANCIS ROGERS TO SING WITH MADAME SEMBRICH

Francis Rogers, the baritone, who has been heard in this city several times at musicales given by Joseph McIntyre, and who is favorably known throughout this country in musical circles, has just completed arrangements to accompany Mme. Sembrich next year on her tour. The engagement is for a year and the trip will include the largest cities in eth west, as well as Mexico and probably Cuba.

This is considered a great honor for Mr. Rogers and a recognition of his ability as a singer. On many occasions he has appeared at the White House during President Roosevelt's term, and he is considered one of the best baritones now appearing before the public. Tonight Mr. Rogers will sing for Mr. McIntyre at a musicale to be given at The Montclair Club, Montclair.

MANY TO BE RETIRED IN NATIONAL GUARD.

In a memorandum filed with Gov. Fort by the Adjutant General's Department it is shown that there are at least twelve officers of the National Guard besides Gen. Brientnall who must go on the retired list when the Governor issues the retirement order.

Those who will retire are Brig. Gen. Edwin A. Campbell, First Brigade; Gen. Joseph W. Conglon, Col. James S. Kiger, Col. Charles Boltwood, Lieut. Col. Mortimer Lampson, Lieut. Col. Daniel R. Murphy, Lieut. Col. George W. Terriberry, Capt. John H. Crissey, Capt. James L. March, Capt. William H. Howard, Capt. John T. Hilton and Chaplain Cornelius Brett.

Incorporates Judicial District.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen introduced a bill in the Senate, last night, which provides for the incorporation of the First judicial district of Somerset county, including Bound Brook, South Bound Brook, North Plainfield, Rocky Hill, Bedminster, Branchburg, Bridgewater, Franklin, Hillsboro, Montgomery and Warren. It was referred to the judiciary committee.

Fines Sidewalk Rider.

Adam Alster, of Manning avenue, was fined $1 in the borough police court this morning for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk. He was arrested yesterday afternoon on Watchung avenue. The borough police have been instructed to arrest all sidewalk riders.

Who Lost a Purse?

A small purse, containing fourteen pennies and nearly as many Sunday-school tickets, was icked up at Front street and Park avenue, yesterday. The owner can have the same by calling at The Daily Press office.

Proclamation Concerning Dogs!

MAYOR'S OFFICE
March 16, 1909

It is a penal offense under the City Ordinance to permit any dog to run at large in the City unless the dog is so muzzled as to prevent biting. Any person who owns or harbors a dog and violates the ordinance referred to is subject to a fine of Ten Dollars for each offense.

In addition to the foregoing, it is provided that any unmuzzled dog found running at large shall be impounded and shall not be redeemed without a payment of a penalty of One Dollar to be paid to the pound master in addition to the charge for the dog's keep of twenty-five cents a day or a fraction of a day while in charge of the pound master.

The ordinance further provides that all dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after being impounded shall be put to death in the most merciful and humane manner possible.

This ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

NEW SPRING GOODS

Throughout this entire Establishment there is evidence in abundance of approaching spring. Each department is brimful to overflowing with bright, crisp, new goods, which are more beautiful this year than ever before. Quality and quantity is the keynote of this great showing; not how cheap, but how good, and from past experience we have learned that is what most people appreciate.

Easter Dress Fabrics

Women who desire to have an individual atmosphere apparent in their costumes usually do their shopping here. We make it a point in selecting dress fabrics, especially the better grades, to buy half pieces, so that you won't run across someone else with your dress on. The assortment embraces all the new coloring, such as Wisteria, Catawba, Champagne, Grays, Browns, Navy and Green, and you'll find the prices most moderate.

Women's Neckwear

One of the most beautiful and interesting displays in the store is the showing of Women's Neckwear, all the newest effects are here such as ascots, Stocks, in lace, embroidery and net, mull ties, lace chemisettes and yokes, collar and cuff sets, plain linen and embroidered collars, etc., etc.

Ribbons for Spring

in a wealth of exquisite shades and colorings, many particularly adapted for millinery purposes; also an elegant line of soft finished ribbons for making rosettes and sashes; Persian and Dresden designs in satin and taffeta with faile stripes; Taffeta Sash Ribbons with fancy edge and a beautiful new line of fancy silk beltings in all the latest designs and colorings.

Laces and Nets

Fashions for the coming spring and summer emphasize more than ever the importance of lace for costume decoration as well as many other dress purposes. We have provided liberally for the expected demand. Every variety is now on exhibition. There is a very beautiful collection of allover laces for waists and gowns. A complete assortment of plain and plaited nets, and an elegant variety of fancy and staple Valenciennes Laces in matching sets.

Embroideries

The very best grades in a beautiful variety of exquisite designs at extremely low prices. There are Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Beadings, Bandings, Medallions, All-over and Flouncings. Those who appreciate the artistic worth of strictly high class embroideries will enthuse over this showing. Embroideries are going to be exceedingly more popular than ever this spring and summer.

New Shirts for Men

The man who is prone to fall a victim to the wiles of a stylish shirt is going to have a hard time to keep from buying more than he needs from our new collection; we have just opened them up and they are the handsomest we have ever shown; all the various well liked colors in pleated and plain, attached and detached cuffs.

The Woodhull & Martin Store

Our Children's Department

is particularly strong in shoes for outdoor wear. We appreciate the hard usage that a live boy gives his footwear and our Shoes are planned and built accordingly. Good plump leather in uppers and soles---carefully sewed and finished. They are Shoes that will wear a month longer than ordinary Shoes for Children. Prices are no higher than elsewhere.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

HEPTASOPHS DISCUSS PROPOSED NEW RATES

Representatives and members of the various conclaves of Trenton district No. 57, including Plainfield, were present last evening at a meeting conducted at the chamber of commerce at Trenton, under the direction of Trenton Conclave, No. 143, Improved Order of Heptasophs, when the proposed equalization of rates was explained.

There are thirteen conclaves in the Trenton district, and these representatives were in attendance last evening: Seaside, Asbury Park, Alternate District Deputy Howard Heath; New Hope, Pa., Dr. J. E. Scott, C. C. B. John, James Beatty, Secretary T. M. Ryan, Thomas Beaumont, A. McDonald, Thomas Walker; Somerville, J. V. E. Vanderhoff; Plainfield, Allen H. Vanderhoff; Monhouth, Financier Davis and Archon McQueen.

It is contended that since 1901 many members of the organization have not paid sufficient funds into the order to guarantee its perpetuity and the scheme explained last evening was one whereby members who choose could pay the difference, or, if they wished, have the amount charged against their certificates and deducted when payment is made at death.

This, of course, all depends upon the acceptance or adoption of the plan when the matter comes before the bi-annual meeting of the order, which will be at Saratoga in June. While there is some opposition to the plan, it is understood the majority of members are in favor of the scheme, and it is thought the rates will be placed upon an equal basis.

Samuel Tattersall, a former Trentonian, now of Baltimore, supreme secretary of the order, originated the plan for the equalization of rates, and he was kept busy during the evening answering questions in connection with the movement.

Supreme Archon N. G. Cohen, of Pittsburg, delivered an address on the proposed change of rates and replied to many questions during the evening.

The session last evening was presided over by Joseph K. Beans, of Trenton, district deputy supreme archon, who gave a short talk, as did also George F. Wilson, Dr. Barwis and Edward T. McGalliard, secretary of Trenton conclave.

GOVERNOR PREPARING A SPECIAL MESSAGE

Governor Fort held a long conference yesterday afternoon with Vivian Lewis, David Baird, "Uncle Dan" Voorhees, Controller West and General Murray, at which the report of the commission appointed to revise the primary and election laws was discussed. The conference, it was said, agreed to support a bill providing for the election of county committeemen in first class counties at the open primaries. Soon after the conference ended the Governor set to work to prepare a special message which, it is expected, he will send to the Legislature today.

John Rotherham, of Hudson County, visited the Governor soon after this conference ended and, it is said, told him that if any such bill was passed he would take it to the courts. Rotherham declared that if it was wise to elect county committeemen at the open primaries in the first class counties the same principle should apply to all counties in the State, and for that reason he would fight in the courts any law not general in its scope. The bill which the conference had under discussion, it is said, was the Vredenburg bill, introduced last week, providing for the election of all county committeemen at the open primaries, which will be amended to include first class counties only. Governor Fort wants the bill to apply to all counties, but, it is said, found it hard to get the conferees to agree to this.

LAST MOVE FOR LANG.

His Hanging May Be Thwarted by Court of Pardons.

While Alan H. Strong, counsel for Fred Lang, under sentence to hang at New Brunswick on March 23, will not discuss his intentions, it is believed at New Brunswick that he will apply to the Court of Pardons today to save Lang from the gallows. He has fought his client's conviction through the State courts twice and through the United States Court, and has now only the Court of Pardons left.

Lang shows the same indifference that he has since he was first convicted. According to Deputy Jail Warden William Voorhees, he eats well and sleeps soundly and is in good spirits generally. The preparations for his execution are going along. Van Hise will execute him if there is an execution.

Miss Lucie Coriell, of West Fifth street, who fractured her ankle during the winter by a fall on the ice, was able to attend service at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning.

Miss Clara Crane, who has been ill at her home on East Second sereet for the past month, left today for Lakewood, upon the advice of her physician. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. U. B. Crane.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF CONGREGATIONAL BODY.

In addition to its regular outline of church discussion, the Northern New Jersey Congregational Association, which will hold its spring meeting in Newark in the Belleville Avenue Congregational church next Thursday, has also scheduled a discussion of spirit communication and psychotherapeutics. The session is to last all day, the morning to be given over to the affairs of "Congregationalism" and the afternoon to other topics. Forty churches will be represented at the meeting.

Professor James H. Hyslop, head investigator of the Psychological Research Society, New York, is to be the lecturer on spirit communication. His subject is "The Present Position of Psychological Research on the Question of Spirit Communication." Dr. Beatrice Hinkle, of the Cornell Neurological Clinic, is to speak on "Psychotherapeutics." There is to be general discussion of the topics, it being opened by Dr. C. C. Beling, of Newark, and Rev. Dr. Thomas Travis, of Montclair. This session, commencing at 2:15 o'clock, will be open to the public.

Devotional exercises will begin the morning session at 10 o'clock. The subjects announced are "Congregationalism in New Jersey," by Rev. Charles E. Hesselgrave, of Chatham; "Our Mission and Our Opporunity," by Rev. Dr. Charles H. Richards, secretary of the Church Building Society, and "The Motherhood of the Church," by Rev. Dr. Samuel Lane Loomis.

SENDS OUT LETTER TO NATIONAL GUARD.

The following circular letter to the men of the New Jersey National Guard will be posted in the armories of the State this week. It is the farewell of Adjutant General R. Heber Breintnall, the first man to be retired under the Vredenbergh retirement law. The letter reads:

"By the provisions of an act of the Legislature, approved this morning, I have been relieved, upon my application, from active duty and placed upon the retired list. In closing my military career, I desire to thank all the officers and men of the National Guard for their fidelity to the high trust imposed o nthem and for the uniform courtesy to me during my official life, and in my retirement I will watch with earnest solocitdude their progress in the noble profession to which they are devoting their lives."

We manufacture a pair of glasses as low as $1 with a 10-year gold filled frame.

There is no one today in the United States who fits the eyes the same as we do. If you have ever been fitted to glasses by others, you understand what the test is—how you have to read the letters and tell the optician what you want. We do not fit that way, but take the exact measurements of the eye from the pupil without using any drops, nor do we ask any question or use test cards hung on the wall.

Don't Suffer with Headaches

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, watery eyes, blurry vision and other troubles caused by eye-strain.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE HONEYBIRD.

IN the African jungle dwells a pretty little bird that lives on honey. The saccharine dainty is there found in the hollows of trees and under the bark, where what is known as the carpenter bee bores and deposits his extract from the buds and blossoms of the tropical forest.

The bird is called the "honeybird" because it is a sure guide to the deposits of the delicacy. The bird dislikes the laborious task of pecking its way through the bark to reach the honey, and so, wise in the ways of men, it procures help. It locates a nest of honey, then flies about until it sees some natives or hunters, to whom it shows itself. They know the honeybird and know that it will lead them to the treasure store. Following the bird, which flits just in advance, they reach the cache of dripping sweetness and readily lay it open with hatchets or knives. Taking what they want, there is always enough left clinging to the tree and easily accessible to satisfy the appetite of the clever little bird.

Senator Stevens of Mississippi bears a marked resemblance to the honeybird—so much so that he has well won the bird's appellation for himself. Abnormally keen at locating possibilities for extracting "honey" from the governmental affairs in Washington, he invariably led Peabody, representing the hunter with the ax, to the repository. He would then rely on the Pennsylvanian's superior force to break down the barriers. Stevens would flutter about and gather up the leavings.

"Honeybird" Stevens.

Equally as mercenary as "the boss of the senate," he lacked Peabody's iron nerve, determination, resourcefulness and daring. He needed many hours of sleep. Peabody could work twenty hours at a stretch. He had to have his meals regularly or else suffer from indigestion. Peabody sometimes did a day's work on two boiled eggs and a cup of coffee.

The senior senator from Mississippi had been the first to point out to Peabody the possibilities for profit in the gulf-naval base project, but the morning following the conference with Steinert when he rejoined them for breakfast at the Louis Napoleon he was far from comfortable. He did not mind fighting brain against brain, even though unprincipled methods were resorted to, but indications were that more violent agencies would be called into play owing to the complications that had arisen.

Stevens ate heartily to strengthen his courage. Steinert ate hugely to strengthen his body. Peabody ate scarcely anything at all—to strengthen his brain.

Waving away the hotel waiter who had brought the breakfast to his apartment, Senator Peabody outlined the probable campaign of the day.

"If our best efforts to weaken and scare off Langdon fail today," he said, "it will naturally develop that we must render it impossible in some way for him to appear in the senate at all, or we must delay his arrival until after the report of the committee on naval affairs has been made. In either event he would not have another opportunity to speak on that subject.

"Of course later, at 12:30, we will know his plan of action. Then we can act to the very point, but we must be prepared for any situation that can arise."

"Cannot the president of the senate be persuaded not to recognize Langdon on the floor? Then we could adjourn and shut him off," asked Stevens.

"No," responded Peabody; "he has already promised Langdon to recognize him, and the president of the senate cannot be persuaded to break his word. I am painfully aware of this fact."

But Stevens was not yet dissuaded from the hope of defeating the junior senator from Mississippi by wit alone.

"Can we not have a speaker get the floor before Langdon and have him talk for hours—tire out the old kicker—and await a time when he leaves the senate chamber to eat or talk to some visitor we could have call on him, then shove the bill through summarily?" he suggested.

"I've gone over all that," answered Peabody quickly. "It would only be delaying the evil hour. You wouldn't be able to move that old codger away from the senate chamber with a team of oxen—once he gets to his seat. His secretary, Haines—another oversight of yours, Stevens"—the latter winced—"will warn him. Langdon would stick pins through his eyelids to keep from falling asleep."

"I've been thinkin'," put in Steinert slowly, "that a little fine-esse like this might keep him away: When Langdon's in his committee room before goin' to the senate send him a telegram signed by some of his frien's' name that one of his daughters is dyin' from injuries in a automobile collision a few miles out a-town. That ud"—

"Unless you got the right kind of woman."

"Ridiculous," snorted Peabody. "He'd know where they were. They're always"—

"Huh, then put in more fine-esse."

"How, what?"

"Hev some'un take 'em out a-autoin'"—

"No, no, man!" snapped Peabody. "They'd stick in town to hear their father's wonderful speech."

"Well," went on the lobbyist, "I'll hev Langd'n watched by a careful picked man, a nigger thet won't talk. He'll pick a row with the colonel on some street, say, w'en he's comin' from his home after lunch. The coon kin bump into Langd'n an' call him names. Then w'en ole fireworks sails into 'im, yellin' about what 'ed do in Mississippi, the coon pulls a gun on the colonel an' fires a couple o' shots random. Cops come up, an' our pertickeler copper 'll lug Langd'n away as a witness, refusin' to believe 'es a senator. I kin arrange to hev him kept in the cooler a couple o' hours without gettin' any word out, or I'll hev 'im entered up as drunk an' disorderly. He'll look drunk, he'll be so mad."

"But the negro—how could you get a man to undergo arrest on such a serious charge, attempted murder!" exclaimed Stevens.

"There, there," said Steinert patronizingly; "coons has more genteel home life in jail than they does out. An' don't forget the District of Columbia is governed by folks that ain't residents of it, only durin' the session. Th' politicians don't leave their fr'en's in the cooler very long. Say, Senator Stevens, are you kiddin' me? Is it any different down in your"—

The Mississippian choked and sputtered over a gulp of unusually hot coffee, and Peabody again decided Steinert to be on the wrong tack.

"That proceeding would attract too much attention from the newspapers," he added.

"Well, I thought you wanted to win," grunted Steinert. "I've been offerin' you good stuff, too—new stuff. None of yer druggin' with chloroform or ticklin' with blackjacks. Why, I've gone from fine-esse to common sense. But, come to think of it, how about some woman? I c'n get one to introduce to"—

"This is the wrong kind of a man," interrupted Peabody.

"Unless you got the right kind of a woman," went on Steinert.

Senator Stevens choked some more.

"The boss of the senate" sank down in his chair, crossed one knee over the other and drummed his fingers lightly on the table. He gazed thoughtfully at Stevens.

"Yes," he observed slowly, "unless you've got the right sort of a woman."

Rising, he led the Mississippian to one side.

The lobbyist heard the southerner give a short exclamation of astonishment as Peabody whispered to him.

"It's all right. It's all right," he then heard the Pensylvanian say irritably. "She'll understand. She can be trusted. She expects you."

Stevens gave a violent start at the last assurance, but his colleague hurriedly helped him into his coat.

"Go in a closed carriage."

"Go in a closed carriage," was Peabody's final warning. "Be sure to tell her to get hold of his two daughters on some pretext at once. She knows them well. Maybe we can influence the old man through his girls, don't you see?"

And while Senator Peabody and Jake Steinert recurred to a previous discussion concerning one J. D. Telfer, mayor of Gulf City, Senator Stevens started on the most memorable drive of his career on this bright winter morning, to the house of the fascinating Mrs. Spangler—who for the past week had been considering his proposal of marriage.

Up-stairs and Down-stairs

IF the Main Telephone is downstairs, an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs, a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs in, or near, the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

The additional expense is but trifling—less than two cents a day in connection with a residence contract.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from Paris informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure, is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh a pound a day without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results, however, follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical, because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous prescription) can be obtained of any druggist or the makers, the Marmola Co., Detroit, Mich., for seventy-five cents the large case, which is a decidedly economical price considering the number of tablets each case contains.

GEO. WILTSE DEMANDS $4,000. TO PLAY BALL

George Wiltse, the star twirler for the New York Giants, who has thus far failed to sign a contract for the coming season, is visiting his brother, Lou Wiltse, in the New Madison, for a few days. When seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter, he declared emphatically that unless the New York Baseball Club gives him $4,000, the salary he asks for he will not play with that team this year.

"The beauty of it," continued Wiltse, "is that I do not have to play baseball for a living and I am not forced to accept the terms offered by the New York club, which calls for a salary of $3,000. Why, the club pays that salary to a utility man to sit on the bench, and after the work I did last season I think I am entitled to the extra thousand.

"I do not blame McGraw in the least, for I think if he had his way the raise would be coming, but I do hold John T. Brush responsible. He has told me that my contract will not be altered in the slightest degree and under those circumstances I state with equal postiveness that the club cannot have my services for $3,000. I will quit the game first.

"This does not mean that I will play 'outlaw' baseball; neither will I give the National Baseball Commission any trouble. It simply means that my services cannot be purchased this season for $3,000 and that is all there is to it. It will be $4,000 or nothing."

Wiltse is looking fine and says that he is in the best of condition. He has been playing considerable indoor baseball and in this way has not allowed himself to get out of condition. He said today that the chances are he will not go South to join the Giants.

BERDINE'S TERM EXPIRES.

Vigorous Prosecutor Expects to Be Reappointed.

The term of Prosecutor George Berdine expired yesterday in Middlesex county. The naming a successor has been before Governor Fort for several weeks, and a nomination was looked for before this. The delay has doubtless arised from the opposition to Mr. Berdine. Perth Amboy has opposed him in favor of Judge Adrain Lyon, while New Brunswick opponents have urged the appointment of Judge Edward W. Hicks.

Prosecutor Berdine has the backing of the Regular Republican machine, and his friends say that there is no double about his reappointment, and he is not worrying any about it. He has served one term, being appointed five years ago at the death of John S. Voorhees, who died while in office. Mr. Berdine has secured convictions in several murder cases and has had a large percentage of convictions in the cases he has tried.

3 Reasons Why You Should Buy an E-M-F:

1st. Weighs only 1,800 lbs (60 lbs for each horse power); expense for tires and up-keeps reduced to a minimum.

2d. Design, workmanship and material is the best that money, brains and experience can produce.

3d. The factory is making 12,000 of this one model for 1909. This makes the price of $1,250 possible. Were they only building a few hundred of these cars it would be impossible to sell them for less than double. The list price includes a splitdorf magneto, full lamp equipment, horn and kit of tools.

SCHOOL APPROPRIATION

Borough Votes $24,625. for Running Expenses of Its Public Schools.

THREE TRUSTEES RE-ELECTED.

Mayor Townsend Makes a Statement —Councilmen Attend the Interesting Session.

The voters of the North Plainfield school district, at the annual election held last night in the Somerset school building, chose three new members for the Board of Education and decided in favor of the full allowance of $24,625 for school expenses as asked for by the Board. There was some discussion as to whether the amount could not be reduced, the question being raised by Mayor Townsend, who pointed out that the borough was likely to be hard pressed this year to meet expenses. He read a communication explaining the conditions, and this was replied to by James R. Joy, who told why a larger apportionment had been asked for this year than last, in spite of the fact that the allowance from the State would be $7,000 less.

He said that the crowded condition of the graded schools necessitated the hiring of an additional teacher, at a salary of $600 per year; that a teacher of mathematics was needed, the salary to be about $1,200; and that as it was customary to increase the teachers' salaries a little each year, the board had asked for $1,200 for this purpose. There being forty teachers this would be an average increase for each one of $25. The three items named would make a total of $3,000 of which $2,000 could be cut and the work be carried on the same as last year, but the board felt the expense was necessary to maintain efficient service.

Mayor Townsend said he did not want to be understood as antagonistic to the board, but merely desired that the members be acquainted with the true financial conditions. The Mayor and Borough Council attended the meeting in a body.

J. Herbert Case expressed the belief that every cent asked for was absolutely necessary and should be allowed. He declared that the expenses of last year were not figured liberally enough; that unforeseen expenses were continually coming up, especially in the way of repairs.

Councilman L. B. Woolston said that he favored the increase in the teachers' salaries and the hiring of an additional grade teacher if it was necessary, but believed the teacher of mathematics could be dispensed with. He was in favor of making the total apportionment $1,200 less.

The election resulted in 27 men voting for the full amount, $24,625; five voted for the reduction of $1,200; two voted to make the current expenses $8,900, while some one else voted for a total apportionment of $40,000.

The items specified on the ballot, which carried by a majority vote were: For current expenses, $20,900; for repairs, $1,900; for manual training, $1,825.

These men were re-elected unanimously to membership of the Board: Edmund Rushmore, Nelson A. Miller and Hiram A. Woodruff, each to serve three years. This is Mayor Townsend's communication, which he read before the meeting of the voters:

"If it may be permitted, I would like to call your attention to some facts that are of interest to the taxpayers of the borough and which I feel it my duty as its Mayor to lay before you.

"It is my purpose to show the relation of the school to the borough in the matter of expenditures for public purposes and how dependent is the borough upon the action of the voters tonight in appropriating money for school purposes. By a law passed in 1906 a maximum limit was placed on the rate of taxation for local purposes which includes in its operation county, borough and special school taxes. This limit, unless hereafter changed, will be for the present year $1.75 on the $100 of taxable valuations.

"The net borough taxable valuations for the year 1908 were $4,381,408. As these valuations were largely increased over the preceding year, they cannot be increased the present year without adding to our already heavy burden of county taxation, consequently they will probably remain about the same or possibly be less than for 1908. If they remain the same the rate of $1.75 per $100 valuation will produce the sum of $76,674.64.

"The total borough expenditures for 1908 were $30,884.95. Estimating the same expenditures for 1909 and adding to the budget an amount of $4,000 to meet contingencies as was done in 1908, it will

SUES FOR A DIVORCE FROM CHAS. J. WILBUR

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton, N. J., by Sarah Francis Wilbur, of Neptune, N. J., against Charles J. Wilbur, of this city. The Wilburs were married August 5, 1900, at Asbury Park by Rev. Z. C. Martin.

Mrs. Wilbur charges that Wilbur was arrested and indirected and sentenced to six years on a charge preferred by Violet Mosher, a fourteen-year-old girl.

The papers were served in Wilbur last Saturday at the State prison and at first he would not take them, but finally did. The fact that Mrs. Wilbur's charges are the same on which he was convicted will no doubt give her a divorce.

BOROUGH TO LICENSE HACKMEN AND JUNKMEN

When the Borough Council assembled last night, a recess was immediately taken and the Mayor and Councilmen went in a body to the meeting of the North Plainfield school district voters, held in the Somerset school building. Because of the time taken up in this way, it was decided, on returning to the Council rooms, not to begin the discussion of the yearly budget, but to hold another adjourned meeting on Monday night, March 29, when the chairman of the various committees should have their reports ready.

Councilman B. R. Waldron introduced an ordinance which provides for regulating and licensing hackmen, ash carts, hand carts and junk dealers. An ordinance repealing the former ordinance regulating these things was first passed on its first and second readings.

The new ordinance, which was drawn up by Recorder Charles M. Dolliver, provides for an increase in the junk dealers' license from $10 to $20; ash carts to $5; hand carts to $10 and horse and wagon to $25. The new prices are about 20 per cent. less than those in Plainfield.

ACTION IS DEFERRED ON BUILDING PERMITS

The cumbersomeness of the borough building laws, as to the issuing of permits, was again emphasized last night at the meeting of the borough Council. Councilman Stahl had three petitions to present, but as two members of the Council were not present and it requires a four-fifths vote to pass on the permits, no action could be taken. The matter was discussed by the Mayor and members present and it was regretted that authority could not be given the chairman of the committee to issue permits when satisfied that the building specifications would meet with the requirements of the law.

Among the petitions awaiting action by the Council is one of W. G. Debele, asking permission to erect a two story brick building in the rear of the Debele and Stahl store on Somerset stret. The structure is to be 60x20x60 feet and will be used as a candy factory and storehouse.

Mayor Townsend expressed himself as being willing to meet with the Council every week if necessary for the purpose of taking action on the building permits, if it would encourage building activity. Another adjourned meeting will be held Monday night, March 29.

Will Consider Lang's Case.

Fred Lang, who has been sentenced to be hanged next Tuesday for the murder of Katie Gordon, of Piscataway Township, has been granted one more chance for his life. His Counsel, Alan H. Strong, has succeeded in persuading the Board of Pardons to consider the case and it has decided to meet Friay noon for that purpose. However, it is the general opinion that the board will not interfere, but that Lang will pay the penalty for his deed.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

Foreign Missionary Society of Elizabeth District in All-Day Session.

MANY ADDRESSES ARE MADE.

All M. E. Churches Between Roselle and Bound Brook Represented At the Sessions.

Delegates to the number of about seventy-five attended the group meeting of the Women's Foreign Society of the Elizabeth District held in Vincent chapel, of the First M. E. church, yesterday. They represented all the Methodist churches between Bound Brook and Roselle Park, and the entire day was given up to a discussion of foreign missionary topics and at noon a basekt luncheon was served.

Mrs. M. Winter, president of the foreign missionary society, was in the chair and had charge of the program. The morning session began about 10:30 o'clock with devotional exercises led by Mrs. William Everitt, of Roselle Park. Then followed a symposium, the topics and speakers being "How to Get People Interested?" Mrs. Robert L. Lee, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church; "How to Assume Responsibility?" Mrs. William Corbett, of Cranford; "How to Make Reports?" Mrs. M. Albert Harris, of Westfield; "Prayer," Mrs. E. P. Stevens, Grace M. E. church; "Mite Boxes," Mrs. J. C. Pierson, of Monroe Avenue M. E. church; "Bible Reading," Mrs. E. C. Dutcher.

The basket luncheon was then served under the direction of Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, chairman; Miss Minnie Sharp, Mrs. Maurice McGrath, Mrs. C. E. Prior, Mrs. John Lane and Miss Susie Jackson.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock with a Bible reading by Mrs. E. C. Dutcher, of Dunellen. Under the topic "By Wireless, or Letters from the Foreign Field," Mrs. William Bayrook, of Westfield, read a number of messages from missionaries in different parts of the foreign field. These afforded much encouragement to the women. This was followed with a recitation, "The Two Mites," by Miss Corbett, of Westfield, and a soprano solo by Miss Irene Miller. Mrs. Nelson A. Miller was the accompanist.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was a mat drill conducted by Mrs. Addison C. Hayes, of Westfield. The conference closed with a vocal solo by Mrs. Emily G. Wilkinson, of this city.

CLERGYMAN'S WARNING ON FAKE PRAYER CHAIN

The endless chain prayer has made its appearance here and so annoying has it become to many that Rev. Dr. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has issued a public statement warning the people against the fraud.

The clergyman says:

"I desire to protest in behalf of the Church and in justice to Bishop Lawrence against the endless prayer chain nuisance which is again in evidence and purporting to come from Bishop Lawrence. The Bishop of Massachusetts has publicly, in 'The Churchman,' disclaimed any part in the prayer (?) which has gone forth as under his approval.

"The crude superstition contained in the prayer—the experiencing 'at the end of nine days some great joy' and 'he or she who writes this prayer will be delivered from some great calamity,' ought to satisfy sane people of its being a forgery as well as a public nuisance. If only a few more people would be sensible and break this illadvised and false chain we might be spared further affliction."

COURT WATCHUNG, I. O. F., GIVES A EUCHRE PARTY.

Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order Foresters, gave a euchre party last night in its rooms, Knights of Columbus Hall. It was largely attended, there being twenty-seven tables, and it was considered the best social affair yet given by the Court. The evening was devoted to playing euchre, after which refreshments were served and there was a social time enjoyed.

At the conclusion of play Mrs. Charles Reese, of Westfield, received a cut-glass pitcher; Miss Julia Day a piece of cut-glass; Mrs. Peter A. VanFleet a dish; J. L. Bennett a mission clock, William A. Cochran, of this city, and Charles Slater, of Westfield, each a stein.

WHAT ACCOUNTANT DOES

Instructive Lecture Given by E. L. Suffern Before the Congregational Men.

HE SKETCHES THEIR HISTORY.

Expert Tells What a Certified Accountant Is and How He Aids A Business Man.

"The Accountant, What He is, and What He Does?" was the subject of an interesting business men's talk given before the Men's Club of the Congregational church, last night by E. L. Suffern, of North Plainfield, who is the senior member of the firm of E. L. Suffern & Son, certified public accountants. Mr. Suffern is one of the four or five oldest certified public accountants in this part of the country and especially well qualified to speak on the subject.

Beginning with the earliest history of accountancy, about 200 years ago, when an organization was effected in Scotland, known as chartered accountants, Mr. Suffern traced step by step the progress made. He said that England and Wales has always been far ahead of this country as regards the work of public accountants.

The Scottish laws, he said, recognize accountants and they are appointed by the courts to act as receivers and administrators and in many instances foreign corporations elect a certified accountant as a member of the board of directors. In this country the public accountant has only been known in the smallest possible way. Thirty-five years ago there were but two or three certified accountants in this country and twenty-four years ago in Boston, Philadelphia and New York there were between fifteen or twenty such men.

Mr. Suffern defined accountancy as the assembling and recording of facts of business so that they can be easily dsitinguished and understood, and that of an accountant as one who applies these principles in practice, to determine whether a business is fruitful or adverse, find the defects and reasons therefore and suggest a remedy.

Mr. Suffern said that an accountant is expected to tell a business man why he is not making money and give him every detail, showing whether there is any weakness and to suggest means and ways for attaining the highest proficiency. New business problems are constantly arising and this has led to a realization of the fact that in the past accountants lacked much. He has had to blaze his way through.

Continuing, Mr. Suffern said "Unfortunately in some instances an accountant is supposed to prepare a report to suit the convenience of certain directors of a corporation or other big business concern, whereas he should be allowed to render an impartial report. In 1896 Legislative recognition of public accountants was obtained in New York State and the Board of Regents were given absolute control in arranging examinations. The board is a self-perpetual body. At first it required an applicant to pass on forty-eight counts, which was afterward raised to sixty counts. An idea of the severity of the examination can be gained when it is known that out of 1,500 applicants only 350 were successful.

"There are now seventeen States, including New Jersey, which give certificates to certified public acountants. It is a growing body now with a total membership of between 850 and 900."

In conclusion Mr. Suffern described somewhat in detail what certified public accountants do, showing the extensive duties required in the accounting of all kinds of businesses. He also talked briefly on the future of the accountant, giving some good advice to young men who contemplate following that business. He said that in his long experience he had always found accountants absolutely trustworthy and technically correct. Afterward Alexander Millar paid a tribute to the profession of public accountancy and especially to the firm of E. L. Suffern & Son.

A social hour followed during which a committee served sandwiches and coffee. The next meeting of the club will be for the entertainment of the women.

ELECT SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Township Meetings at Fanwood, North Plainfield, Dunellen and Elsewhere.

VOTE ANNUAL APPROPRIATIONS

Addition to Cost $9,000 to be Made to the Scotch Plains School Building—Few Contests.

The annual district school meetings were held last night in the surrounding townships.

The Fanwood township school meeting resulted in a decision to erect a $9,000 addition to the present school building at Scotch Plains. The appropriation includes the cost of furnishing the new wing, the work on which will be begun in June and completed in September. The bond issue will run for eighteen years, one $500 bond to be returned each succeeding year. There were only 13 votes against the improvement. The appropriation, $4,000, asked for by the Board for the annual expenses, was also voted. These were re-elected members of the Board: Dr. F. W. Westcott, T. J. Nichol and John Z. Hatfield. Harry Knight acted as chairman and T. J Nichol as secretary.

The annual school meeting was held at Dunellen last night and contrary to expectation there was no contest. It was confidently believed that there would be a bitter fight against the regular ticket, but it failed to materialize. J. Newton Apgar was chairman of the meeting and Abner Coriell the secretary, while J. P. Fenner and L. T. Churchill were tellers.

Three trustees were elected for three years, Silas W. Neilor receiving 111 votes, George Cameron 112 and Wilson S. Frederick was high man with 134 votes. The meeting was harmonious throughout.

John Mundy, John Flemmer and Jacob Reinmann were elected school trustees at the annual school meeting of Warren township held at Mt. Bethel, last night. There was no contest and the regular ticket went through without the slightest opposition.

At the school meeting held in North Plainfield township, Francis E. Bodin was elected a trustee to succeed William Brokaw. There was no contest at that meeting.

Piscataway Township voters reelected Jeremiah F. Ten Eyck and Harry J. Piddington to the Board of Education last night and elected Augustus Lieb to fill the vacancy made by Eugene S. Veghte. A $5,000 appropriation was voted for an addition to the East Bound Brook school building.

$200 BROOCH MISSING; DOMESTIC HASN'T IT

An effort to locate a valuable diamond brooch belonging to Mrs. Arnold Sampter, of 1111 Putnam avenue, which has been missing for a week, proved fruitless in the case of suspicions against Mary Patylor, a domestic, who was haled before City Judge Runyon today. The warrant for the woman's appearance charged her with having taken two other pins, a dress belonging to Mrs. Sampter, and some linen belonging to the family. The woman acknowledged having the articles, but proved to the court that they had been given to her. The charges were not pressed.

The missing brooch is valued at $200, and is a four-leaf clover of heavy gold, set with a diamond. The fact that the domestic had entertained her "gentleman friend" at the Sampter home during the recent absence of the family led to the suspicions. The woman and her friend, who is a South Plainfield man, absolutely denied any knowledge of the pin, which they said they had never seen, and satisfactorily explained to the court just what happened during the man's visit at the house.

Warning Against Safe Sneaks.

The city police have been notified of the operation of a series of safe sneaks at Easton, Pa., and Chief Kiely, fearing that the men may be working this way, warns local merchants to keep an eye on their safes while talking with strangers. There are three members to the gang of safe sneaks, and one of them works at the safe while another gets the merchant to show goods. The third is the outside "lookout."

MRS. BEULAH RALEIGH APPLIES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Beulah Raleigh has filed a petition for divorce in the Chancery Court at Trenton alleging that her husband, John Raleigh, deserted her and has not contributed to her support. The couple were married on Feb. 20, 1903, Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard officiating, and took up their residence at Westerly, Rhode Island. Mrs. Raleigh says that they lived a happy life for nineteen months and that then he abandoned her. She asks for the custody of a four-year-old child. Mrs. Raleigh was formerly Miss Beulah Waters and since separating from her husband has resided here.

Robert Newton Crane is counsel for Mrs. Raleigh.

GATHERING IN STRAY CANINES ABOUT THE CITY

As a result of Monday's mad dog scare, when Miss Alice Higgins' mad bull terrier "Beau" ran through North Plainfield streets, biting seven other dogs, one of the victims was shot. It belonged to Mrs. Henry Rummel, of Park place, who feared it was developing hydrophobia. Another boroughite, Henry Eickert, reported to the borough police today that a dog belonging to him had been acting strangely and had also been shot. None of the other dogs bitten by "Beau" have developed the disease, but all are being closely watched by their owners.

A crusade against stray, unmuzzled dogs found at large in the city streets was begun this morning in accordance with Mayor Fisk's ordinance issued yesterday. William H. Kitchen, of Everett place, has been appointed pound-keeper and sixteen stray canines were rounded up early this morning by Dog Catcher Kiely. They were taken to police headquarters and later removed to the pound, which is now located on Everett place. The impounded animals will be held to await redemption by their owners for four days, and at the expiriation of that time will be destroyed.

ASKS DIVORCE FROM FREDERICK BETTMAN

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Chancery Court at Trenton by Margaret W. Bettman for an absolute divorce from her husband, Frederick C. Bettman. Mrs. Bettman says in her petition that she was married to Bettman on April 15, 1899, before John Duffy, a justice of the peace at Jersey City, and that from that time until November, 1906, she lived together with her husband at the home of John M. Bettman, in North Plainfield, when her husband then deserted her.

Since that time Mrs. Bettman swears he has wilfully remained away from her, although she has endeavored to get him to return and live with her, and that he has not supported her nor contributed in anyway to her support since he left her.

Bettman at present is living at 1191 Broad street, Newark, where he was served with the papers in the divorce case by Sheriff Harrigan. He had no comment to make when the papers were served on him.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Bettman was quite a surprise in this city, because they eloped and were married secretly in Jersey City. Mrs. Bettman is the daughter of Eugene M. Cave, of Sanford avenue. Bettman was left an orphan at the age of eleven months and was taken by his uncle, John M. Bettman, who cared for him until he deserted his wife.

ROSS IN FORTUNE HUNTERS HERE TOMORROW NIGHT.

Cohan and Harris presnet Thomas W. Ross, the popular comedian, in "The Fortune Hunters" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. The production is an American comedy in four acts by Winchell Smith, who dramatized "Brewster's Millions." When the show opened at Atlantic City on Monday night it made a great hig hit and a long run is predicted for it by the dramatic critics when Mr. Ross opened at the Galety theatre, New York, on Easter Monday night.

Miss Crosman Tonight.

Maurice Campbell presents Miss Henrietta Crosman in her latest and greatest success, "Sham," at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. "Sham" is one of the first best shows of the season and Manager Counihan expects a crowded house when the curtain goes up tonight.

FIRE CAUSES $9,000 LOSS

Blaze in Basement of Gavett's and Peck's Stores Does Considerable Damage.

ONE FIREMAN WAS OVERCOME.

Origin Unknown—Dense Smoke and Illuminating Gas Make Firemen's Work Dangerous.

Fire which for a time threatened the destruction of the West Front street business block between Madison avenue and Grove street, was checked with a loss of $9,000 early last evening. The flames were discovered in the cellar of the linen and embroidery store of Samuel C. Peck, 316 West Front street, and spread to J. W. Gavett's china and glass store next door, badly gutting the basement and part of the main floor of the building, which is owned by Mr. Gavett. The fire, which was discovered at 5:40 o'clock, gave the firemen a hard fight for an hour, and they were badly hampered by illuminating gas and smoke in the cellars. Callman William Jaeger, who was working with a line of hose in the cellar, was overcome by the gas and smoke, but was carried out and revived without medical attention.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It was discovered by a clerk of J. W. Gavett's store when he went to the cellar to turn out the gas in the basement show rooms and close the place for the night. He ran and told Mr. Gavett of the fire, and an alarm was sounded from box 42 at Front and Grove streets. At practically the same time, Miss Elizabeth Sanders, a saleswoman in Peck's store, smelled smoke as she was waiting on a customer and sent the delivery boy, Edward Kline, to the cellar to find the cause. He reported that the firm's store room was a mass of flames. George Muir, a truckman, discovered the fire from the front of the building at about this time, for a dense cloud of smoke rolled up at him from the cellar as he raised the sidewalk door to carry down an express box.

When Chief Doane of the fire department arrived at the burning building, he ordered an alarm sounded from box 12 on West Front street, and this brought No. 3 hose company. Two lines of hose were stretched to the rear of the building and three in the front, including a cellar pipe.

The total loss will amount to about $9,000 and is covered by insurance. Of this more than half is loss in stock of the two firms. The flames ate their way through the floor in the rear of Peck's store and there was great damage by smoke. Mr. Peck places his loss to stock at $3,500. Mr. Gavett's loss was principally through breakage in the basement display rooms. It will reach $3,000. The loss to the building will amount to $2,500.

Speaking about the cause of the fire to a Daily Press reporter today, Chief Doane said: "The fire certainly started in Peck's store room, which is a small room in the rear of the cellar under his store. I don't believe the cause will ever be known; it might have been spontaneous combustion or some mischief of rats. Mr. Peck was extremely careful in his precautions against fire, and the store room was as neatly and carefully kept as any could be. The report that the fire started from the heater, or from Gavett's china firing furnace, is entirely false, as an inspection of the building will show."

Excise Changes in New Brunswick.

The Board of Excise in New Brunswick met last night and adopted new hours of closing which will go in effect tomorrow. All saloons must remain closed from 12 midnight until 5 o'clock in the morning and during those hours all screens must be removed from the windows and doors. The board has also made changes in the license fees. The wholesale fee will remain $600, but the fee for saloons has been raised from $500 to $600 and that of bottlers from $200 to $300, effective May 1.

Replevin Suit in District Court.

The entire session of the District court today is being taken up with the replevin suit of Charles W. Grover, of New Brunswick, against Russell Edison, of this city. The suit is on the replevin of cattle and all other cases set down for the day were set aside for this one.

A NEW DEPARTURE!

Since the first day we threw open our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department its growth has been rapid and successful, but we are not yet satisfied. We know that many ladies go out of town to purchase their outer garments, and pay more for them than we charge, and yet we offer exclusiveness and individuality, which is practically impossible in the large city stores, where hundreds of the one style garments are offered for sale. In order, therefore, to offset any desire on the part of those who contemplate going out of town for their Tailored Suits, Coats, etc., we offer to

MAKE ALTERATIONS FREE OF CHARGE.

This is a radical change, but it means much to those who appreciate onward, upward progressive business methods. The "White Store" always on the alert for methods that will benefit their patrons, knows that this announcement will be of far-reaching importance to thousand of ladies in this section of New Jersey, and we are prepared to meet their demands. STARTING MONDAY and BALANCE OF WEEK WE OFFER THE FOLLOWING:

Ladies' Tailored Suits

New models, all the latest shades, Coats, silk and satin lined, hipless models, Skirts full flared, with button trimming—Materials, Prunella, Serge and Panama Cloth.

Prices: 9.98, 13.50, 14.98, 18.00, 21.00 and 25.00

And We Give Stamps. Alterations Free.

Rain Coats

Spring Opening!

INAUGURAL DISPLAYS ALL THIS WEEK.

A Fine Show of Millinery and Flowers. A Sumptuous Gathering of Costumes. A Magnificent Collection of Coats.

SPLENDID EXHIBITS OF OTHER OUTERWEAR AND UNDERWEAR ARE ALSO BEING MADE AND THERE IS A FINE SHOWING OF BOYS' CLOTHING.

TAILORED GOWNS A Striking Feature of Our Exhibit.

THE SPRING INAUGURAL DAYS have brought at least one fact prominently to the observing ones—that is, this store's absolute leadership in tailored gowns of the higher order; and while we are setting a pace in the matter of distinctive styles and becoming beautiful gowns we are astonishing people with the moderate prices we are asking for these splendid creations. Looking thru the collection on view yesterday the writer singled out these for special comment:

A Three-Piece Tailored Gown of Bengaline Silk—a beautiful gray—is one of the handsomest in the entire collection. The coat, of course, is a Directoire model, daintily trimmed with soutache and small buttons front and back; the back gracefully paneled. The bodice is of finely tucked chiffon, trimmed with soutache braid and rows of tiny buttons. It is finished at the waist with two folds and large molds. It has a yoke and collar of white lace; the sleeves are trimmed half way up with rows of soutache and tiny buttons. The Directoire skirt is beautifully paneled. The price is $89.50

Another Very Pretty Suit is the one of Fine French Serge in rich blue. The coat is in the envelope style, buttoned with one button, trimmed with crochet buttons; heavily braided front and back, with Persian trimmed vestee; skirt slashed and beautified with inverted plaits and embroidered panels. The price is only.. $49.50

Still Another that will appeal to your fancy is a Tailored Suit of Serge in beautiful gray; may be had also in blue and green. It has a chappy coat, generously, almost lavishly, trimmed with satin covered buttons; pockets not large but ornamental. Persian standing collar, lace trimmed cuffs; sleeves generously trimmed with buttons; skirt trimmed with two rows of buttons closely set down front—certainly a very natty little suit that many will admire—different from most of the season's models in that the coat is not long $39.98

A Most Distinctive suit is one of Boldly Striped serge—the stripes being in cream, blue and gray with a tiny green stripe between these colors running vertically. The coat is very long and in a splendid model, button trimmed front, back and sides; slashed sides and back; Directoire collar with satin tie with gold tassels, embroidered cuffs and collar; skirt button trimmed down front; priced remarkably low at..... $25.98

Much Quieter than the preceding suit is this one of Black Satin Finished Venetian which may be had also in tan. The coat in a most effective Directoire style with the buttons with loops, lavishly trimmed with braid all round the skirt of coat; collar faced with Bengaline; sleeves braid trimmed; skirt with generous train, trimmed on sides with rows of buttons—a suit that will appeal to many careful dressers... $49.98

FINE WASH FABRICS

While viewing the other beautiful things in our opening you should not overlook our great section devoted to Silk and Cotton and Cotton Washable Fabrics now so much in vogue for afternoon and evening gowns. Particularly noteworthy are these:

Kimono Cloth—Another silk and cotton mixture, is very beautiful indeed; specially designed for kimonos and house gowns; all in charming Persian designs and colorings; 27 inches wide; a yard 39

French Novelties with large embroidered spots; already going like the wind; hardly able to keep them in stock; white and various shades; 27 inches wide 39

Swiss Applique is woven with a flounce every 48 inches, the pattern being adaptable for waist front, collar and sleeves, enabling you to have a full dress completely trimmed for only $3; all wanted colors and black; a yard..... 25

The showing of White Embroidered Swisses, Batiste, Lawn, India Linon, French Lawn and White Pique is the largest seen in any store in the State. Prices are moderate through the line.

Anderson's Zephyrs are shown in hardly less than 150 patterns; lots of them particularly good for men's shirts; many that will make up beautifully for children's dresses; useful also for other purposes; 32 inches wide; a yard..... 29

Foulards of silk and cotton are shown in a large variety of beautiful new patterns and rich colorings; 27 inches wide; a yard..... 39

Gold Cloth is one of the richest of the new fabrics, deriving its name from the close imitation to the color of gold which is attained. The rich gold stripes alternate with pretty Dresden stripes, forming a combination at once charming and effective. There will be many a rich gown seen this season made up of these splendid stuffs; 45 inches wide; a yard $2

Silk and Cotton Voile—Remarkably fine fabrics—are bound to find great favor. They come largely in black and white combinations. Some have exquisite white lace striped effects. They are 45 inches wide and come in several grades; the yard 95c to $1.75

Silk and Cotton Novelties are shown in a variety of practically all the fashionable shades. Have plain satin and jacquard stripes—very pretty indeed; a yard 39c and 50

Silk and Cotton Pongees—Good rough effects—may be had in all the popular shades, including wistaria, taupe, tan and natural; will make handsome dresses for summer wear 39c, 45c.. 50

Benzai Silks—Silk and cotton mixtures, having rich silky sheen, and may be had in all colors imaginable; the feature is a wide dotted border—a novel innovation truly; 45 inches wide; a yard 75

No Standing Still With Us!

Railroad Fare allowed on all Purchases

That basement store we started with in Newark back in Civil War Days has become the big, busy, 5-building organization you see to-day—all because we never would stand still! The people's demands for broader varieties, better displays, more departments, a low price in plainly marked figures, and CREDIT that never hurt but helped, have been met by us more and more liberally year after year—and now see what it's made us: "New Jersey's Largest Exclusive Furniture House," with over 145,000 square feet floor space given up to our one business. There's a reason behind it all!!

PATERSON'S CENSORS PASS ON LITHOGRAPHS.

Police Chief Bimson and City Clerk Stendeven, members of the Paterson Board of Censors, held a long session in the "ladies'" reception room in the City Hall at Paterson Monday morning, and "censored" the lithographs which are to be put out announcing a "show" for next week.

The door of the room was locked, and only a select audience was allowed to look over the pictures in advance. Several of the posters were barred by the censors as being too naughty for the youths of that city to gaze upon, while several depicting shape limbs and snowy shoulders were laid to one side until Recorder Carroll, who is the other member of the board, can give his opinion.

Want Canal Used.

The New Brunswick Retail Merchants' Protective Association, which has been endeavoring to have the the Delaware and Raritan Canal to its former usefulness, has secured 1,000 signatures to petitions, which will be presented to the Legislature by Senator Silzer. Residents of this part of the State belive that the restoration of the canal to its former position in commerce would be a big boon to all kinds of business.

South Cranford Barn Burned.

A large barn at South Cranford, utilized by Contractor James C. Park, was burned to the ground last night. It was occupied by Italian workmen. It caused a big blaze. It was located beyond the fire limits.

Miss Ella Prentiss, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit here with friends.

Letter-carrier George Apgar has been detained at home for several days with an ulcerated tooth, which caused his face to swell and required the services of a physician.

FOR REVALUATION OF THE STATE RAILROADS

In the House at Trenton yesterday, W. W. Smalley, of Somerset, as chairman of the Assembly Finance Committee, offered a substitute for the Martin resolution calling for a revaluation of State railroad property, as well as an investigation of the State Board of Assessors. Owing to Mr. Martin's absence yesterday the substitute laid over until today.

The substitute is as follows:

Whereas, No new and complete inventory of railroad and canal property in the State of New Jersey has been made since the year 1886; and,

Whereas, It is desirable to have a present complete inventory made for the information and use of the people of the State, the Legislature, the State Board of Assessors and the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

One—That the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint three competent persons, of whom at least two shall be experts, who shall proceed forthwith to make a revaluation of all railroad and canal property in the State, real and personal, including separately the franchises, and make a true and complete inventory and appraisal of the true value therof.

The work shall be done under the direction of the Governor and upon such lines as he shall deem advisable, and shall be in form available for use for the purposes of taxation under existing laws; in the prosecution of their duties the appraisers may employ all needed clerical help and shall have such assistance as they may request from the department of the State Board of Assessors, or from any other State board or officer.

The work of the appraisers shall be complete, and a report in detail filed with the Governor, on or before September 1, 1909; the report to be public and to be submitted to the Legislature of 1910; and be it further

Resolved, That in addition to their reasonable expense the appraisers shall receive for their services such compensation as the Governor may fix, which shall be paid by the State treasurer, upon the warrant of the comptroller, upon certification by the Governor.

Two—This joint resolution shall take effect immediately.

Mark Sisters Please.

Announced as the youngest musical artists in the world, the "Mark Sisters" appeared before a small but appreciative audience at the Y. M. C. A., last night. The three sisters, aged nine, ten and eleven, play the piano, violin and 'cello and in a way that wins admiration for their ability in mastering these instruments. The program presented last night was a select one, comprising works from the best known composers and the rendition was all that one could could wish.

"Deutsch Market" at Trinity.

Don't forget the "Deutsch Market" to be held at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow night under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band. The women will serve a fine meal from 6 to 9 o'clock, including many Dutch dishes. You will have a fine time and by your patronage assist a worthy object. The young woman will wear Dutch costumes.

Salvation Army Meeting.

There will be a special meeting at the Salvation Army this evening. Mr. Le Matty and other members of the Rescue Mission take charge of the service. This will be the third of a series of exchange meetings which are proving a big success. There has been a good attendance at all the services and a big time is looked for tonight.

W. C. T. U.'S RECEPTION FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., a reception and tea was held at Truell Hall last night for the teachers of the city and borough public schools. A large delegation of the local instructors attended the affair, and much interest was shown in the work of the Union. The teachers received suggestions for co-operation with the work of the Union in the class rooms.

Mrs. Caroline C. Buell, president of the Connecticut W. C. T. U., addressed the teachers on the topic "The American Citizen." She spoke of the valuable work that could be done in the public schools for the prevention of vice and crime due to the liquor habit, and complimented the State schools for their detailed study of the evils of intoxicants in courses of physiology and hygiene. She urged personal co-operation by the school teachers in spreading the tenets of the Union among pupils.

During the evening two violin solos were rendered by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Mabel Maxson. Mrs. T. H. Thompson, president of the local Union was assisted in receiving the teachers by Mrs. T. C. Bodine, Mrs. P. Bennett, Miss Mary Howlett, Mrs. Ira N. West and Miss Nancy Randolph. Women of the various local churches assisted in serving refreshments, which consisted of ice cream, cake and coffee.

COURIER-NEWS IS AS UNRELIABLE AS EVER.

The journalistic wamp of the Courier-News fretted, fussed and fumed yesterday until one of his satellites relieved himself in this fashion:

"Woodhull & Martin have not had plans drawn for Philadelphia apartment houses to be erected on the Embury tract on East Front street, as stated in the Press of yesterday, nor has this firm decided to erect such a building on the tract. At Mr. Woodhull's home today the subject was treated as a joke and the Courier-News was informed that no such plans had been drawn or decided upon."

For the Courier's benefit the following letter is published:

Editor, The Daily Press:

So far as I know, The Daily Press has never stated that plans have been drawn for the apartment houses which we contemplate building, it being only stated that "plans are shortly to be drawn." The story published in your paper about the purposes of myself and my partner, Mr. Martin, regarding the future of the Embury tract was correct.

F. T. WOODHULL.

March 17, 1909.

Here's another whine from the journalistic wamp of the Courier News:

"Saturday's scoop in the Courier-News about a woman's clothes catching fire was another barb in the side of the Daily Press. Frenzied efforts to throw down the story resulted in proving its accuracy and the Press had to print it two days later."

And here's where the wamp gets his fiction story shown up:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Your denial of a sensational story regarding an incident at my home on Saturday is absolutely correct. As you stated, my dress did not catch fire, neither did I rush from the house screaming nor was I in any danger of being burned.

"MILLIONAIRE COP" OF UNION HILL GETS $250.

The Orange county authorities have offered $250 reward each for the arrest of Alphonso Baldo, alias Frank Perry, alias Alphonso Valo, alias Alphonso Alvanoso, and Enrico Cormelo, who are wanted at Middletown, N. Y., for the murder of Gaetano Finizis and Carmino Soraloma and for the abduction and assault of Mrs. Madelin A. Finizis, which took place near Middletown on January 30. The authorities believe the two men are in New York city.

John Barbuoto, who is believed to have been the principal of the trio of murderers, was arrested in New York on February 26 by Henry Spitz, known as the "millionaire cop," of Union Hill, N. J. Policeman Spitz will receive $250 for his capture.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Concert.

Another of the popular concerts of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will be given Tuesday night at the association auditorium. The soloist will be Miss Edna May Stockton, Lyric soprano, St John's P. E. church, New York. No admisison will be charged but a silver offering will be taken.

Michael Gleason is Missing.

Mrs. Michael Gleason, of 229 Madson avenue, has asked the police to look for her husband, who has been missing since Friday. Gleason, who is a hod carrier, left home on that day without giving any hint that he would not return at night.

We manufacture a pair of glasses as low as $1 with a 10-year gold filled frame.

There is no one today in the United States who fits the eyes the same as we do. If you have ever been fitted to glasses by others, you understand what the test is—how you have to read the letters and tell the optician what you want. We do not fit that way, but take the exact measurements of the eye from the pupil without using any drops, nor do we ask any question or use test cards hung on the wall.

Don't Suffer with Headaches

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, watery eyes, blurry vision and other troubles caused by eye-strain.

We have corrected by the use of glasses cross-eyes and astigmatism by our scientific method.

make the total amount necessary $34,884.95 to meet which will receive in taxes an amount of $27,537.64, or $7,347.31 less than our requirements.

"The expenses of lights, water, police, fire department and street work make up the bulk of borough expenditures. To reduce the number of street lights would cause great inconvenience. To cut off the use of water would render our fire department useless. The police force is now as small as it can with safety be maintained. It is difficult to see where any saving can be made except by stopping work on the streets. The Council has now before it petitions asking for the macadamizing of two streets and others are to be presented; but unless relief be afforded it may be necessary to curtail this work very much.

"In conclusion I want to say that it is not my desire to appear in opposition to the Board of Education, the members of which I esteem highly, and because of this feeling I have refrained from mentioning to anyone that this matter was to be laid before you tonight; but I feel that I would have been remiss in my duty had I not made this statement and at this time before final action was taken. I do not doubt that the estimates of the board have been carefully made up; but if they could see their way clear, with this statement before them, to recommend some reduction in the amount asked for, it would greatly relieve the situation."

THE FORUM.

THE SEWAGE PROBLEM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In connection with the sewage disposal problem that greater Plainfield is now facing, as well as the part that North Plainfield Township may play in this, permit me to say a few words in explanation of my position now severely criticized by some of Green Brook's citizens.

Those who have given the welfare of the borough close attention, will agree with me that in spite of its beautiful location and the commendable energy of its authorities and citizens, the providing of adequate facilities in disposing of its sewage is its grateful necessity. There are today portions of the borough in which the soil is so choked with sewage that it refuses to take up any more, and the cess-pools therein located require emptying every few weeks.

No wonder that sporadic cases in Plainfield of small-pox—a filth disease—bring consternation to the reign in question. What would actually happen were we without them may be left to the imagination. There are those of us who still remember what Erie and Pittsburg went through under such a visitation—from which the Lord preserve us.

When, therefore, Mayor Townsend of the borough of North Plainfield, and Mr. Buttfield, chairman of the sewage disposal committee, came to the Castle a few weeks ago, and requested me to bring before the coming meeting of our township citizens a proposition looking toward the relief of the borough and possibly Plainfield, itself, as well as Dunellen if it cared to co-operate; and after assuring myself that the intentions and guaranteed actions, if taken, were perfectly "square" toward those who might be injured in property and sentiment, I gladly consented to do what I could to have the matter thoroughly ventilated, so that good might come to the many thousands affected.

Inasmuch as a tide-water sewage system is a hopeless proposition financially, and carrying the refuse before the doors of Bound Brook would be an imposition upon a community destined to be as large as Plainfield and equally as important as a manufacturing centre, there remained only the selection of sites within the borough limits or far down the township under the bluffs of the Watchung mountains where few properties would be affected. Even at the latter place but two sites could be taken on account of the topographical conditions—water, it being rememebered, not running up hill.

As between a site within the borough, and affecting large property valued in the township immediately adjacent, and one further down the stream, with proper compensation to those injured either actually or sentimentally, not by recourse to the law, but actual contract before township permission is given for the right of way, it would seem to me that the American principle of the greatest good to the largest number should prevail.

I have therefore brought the matter to the attention of our people, and know from conversation with a large number of our citizens, that so long as no one is deprived of his values unjustly, there is a feeling of friendliness toward the borough in this matter, outside, of course, of those whose dreams of corner lots covered with gold would land them without the pale of reasoning.

As the matter is now under consideration by those closely interested, the object of my action has been accomplished, and whether North Plainfield Township benefits or loses in the way of valuation and taxes, whether the sewage disposal plant goes into the township or not, whether bungalows line the Watchung mountain and real estate operators' dreams in Green Brook are realized or not, my sympathy goes out to Plainfield equally as well as the old residents of Green Brook who may be affected by the march of progress.

With justice in the way of compensation to those who may be hurt, the greatest good to the greatest number should in the end prevail.

Respectfully,
RICHARD MOLDENKE.
Watchung, March 16, 1909.

OUST BRIDAL COUPLE, THEN WRECK FURNITURE.

Michael Dicillis, of 49 Central avenue, Madison, and Mrs. Celestine Mastrobuna, a widow, of 30 South street, New Providence, were married by Police Hicks at Summit Saturday.

Yesterday the couple appealed to Chief of Police Brown for protection. Dicillis told the chief that Monday night a number of his compatriots visited the house in New Providence Borough, in which the couple had taken up their residence, after their marriage, and, breaking down a door, drove the bride and bridegroom out and proceeed to demolish the furnishings of the house.

Dicillis said that he and his bride were afraid to stay in the house last night. The couple were referred to Justice of the Peace Benjamin P. Holmes, but that official declared he could not act in the case because of the fact that the criminal act complained of had occurred in the borough of New Providence, in which there is a recorder.

tion at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. It is called "Sham." It is said to be a comedy with a purpose and to be thoroughly up to the standard of literary excellence with which Manager Maurice Campbell has always surrounded his star.

"The Fortune Hunter," by Winchell Smith, is Thomas W. Ross' new play in which he will be seen as star at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Cohan & Harris are the producers of the new American comedy which deals with the life of today in town and country. The cast is an unusually strong one, including Miss Mary Ryan as leading woman. The scenic effects are elaborate.

One of the big events of the local dramatic season will be the engagement of "The Conflict," which will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night. Besides being a play, an actor of no mean ability, Harry Leighton is also a clever playwright. Quite recently he secured the dramatic rights of all of the novels of the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, and is now at work on a dramatization of "The Reign and the Man," which may be produced next season. At present Mr. Leighton is winning much praise for himself by reason of his clever work as Bodie, the American mine owner, in Mr. Maurice V. Samuel's psychic drama, "The Conflict," which has aroused so much discussion and caused a renewal of interest in Balzac, inasmuch as the central idea is founded upon a book of Balzac's, "La Peau de Chagron" (The Magic Skin).

Two notable features of Lyman H. Howe's new program at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday, March 27, matinee and night, show the remarkable contrasts between the world's oldest civilization—Egypt—and the newest—Russia. The pictures illustrate the achievements of a night past in ancient Egypt and those of the present in modern Russia. Both are weirdly beautiful—but with a beauty as different as black is from white. Every opportunity was seized by Mr Howe's photographer to transfer the real Egypt and the real Russia to American audiences.

RAILROAD TAXES FOR MUNICIPALITIES---STOKES

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes has given out a statement discussing the fundamental principles of the 1906 act, under which main stem railroad taxes are collected and distributed, in part, to the municipalities for school purposes. Among other things, Mr. Stokes states:

"The dedication of the increase in the main stem tax to the taxpayers for the use of the public schools has apparently overshadowed the fundamental fact that these moneys do not belong to the State for State uses, but to the localities for local uses. This distinction is of the highest importance. The agitation for equal taxation, in reality for increased tax on the railroads, was not begun by the State, but by the localities. The State made no claim that it was not receiving a sufficient amount of tax from the railroads. It was the localities, who claimed that they were not receiving a sufficient amount of tax therefrom nor a fair amount of tax, as compared with the amount they were receiving from individuals. As an illustration, Jersey City insisted, not the State should receive more revenue from the railroads, but that that municipality should receive an increased revenue therefrom, and in this way reduce the burden of taxation to the individual taxpayer. The whole object of Jersey City's contention was to increase their revenues, not the revenues of the State.

"The Republican party in 1904 promised specifically a modification of the railroad tax law 'for the benefit of the municipalities' in the case of second-class railroad property, and promised generally, after investigation, to remedy any inequalities of taxation, so far as the main stem was concerned, so that all property, except that used for religious, educational and charitable purposes, should 'bear its full, equal and just burden of taxation without discrimination.'

"The history of the equal tax movement, the party pledged, the legislative declaration, mean, if they mean anything, that the increased tax upon the main stem was not made for the benefit of the State treasury, but for the localities for their uses."

ROUTED CITY OFFICIALS.

Woman Suffering From Smallpox Wandered Through Paterson City Hall.

Mamie Donahue, twenty-five years old, was responsible for the sudden flight Monday of a score of Paterson officials and the closing of the lower floor of the municipal building in that place. The young woman had wandered through various departments in search of the Paterson physician, and when she was discovered by J. W. Williams, assistant city physician, a call was issued for the inspector of the Health Department.

She was found to be suffering from smallpox in an advanced stage, and was taken to the isolation hospital. The offices of the Street Department and the Outdoor Relief Department were ordered vacated and fumigated.

Somerset Conucil, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have a program of special interest at the meeting Friday night.

You are hereby notified that at a public sale made by the Tax Collector of the City of Plainfield, Union County, and State of New Jersey, on the third day of November, nineteen hundred and four, Samuel Armstrong, of the City of Newark, New Jersey, purchased for the sum of Twenty-seven dollars and forty-seven cents ($27.47), all the land and real estate situate in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey, being designated as lots 250-252, block 109, on East Front Street, on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield, said sale being made pursuant to the provisions of an act of the Legislature of New Jersey, Approved April 8th, 1903, entitled "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes" and the supplements and amendments thereto.

And you are further notified that you appear to have an estate or interest in said lands and real estate, and unless the said land and real estate shall be redeemed as provided in said act and amendments hereto, before the expiration of sixty days from and after the service hereof, a deed for the same will be given conveying to said purchaser, his legal representatives or assigns the fee in simple of said land and real estate according to the provisions of the said acts.

CHAPTER XXV.

CAROLINA LANGDON'S RENUNCIATION.

SENATOR LANGDON'S committee room at the capitol presented a busy scene at an unusually early hour the morning after the entertainment at his home. Bud Haines, reinstated as secretary, was picking up the thread of routine where he had dropped it the day before, though his frequent thought of Hope and the words that had thrilled him—"I love you, I love you fondly"—made this task unusually difficult. He impatiently wished the afternoon to hasten along, as he knew he would then see her in the senate gallery, where she would go to hear her father's speech.

This speech had to be revised in some particulars by Bud, and the work he knew would take up much of his morning. The senator's speech was "The South of the Future," which he would deliver when recognized by the president of the senate in connection with the naval base bill, that officer having agreed to recognize Langdon at 3:30, at which time the report of the naval affairs committee would be received. Just how Langdon would turn the tables on Peabody and Stevens and yet win for the Altacoola site not even the ex-newspaper man, experienced in politics, had solved. Clearly the senator would have to do some tall thinking during the morning.

The junior senator from Mississippi burst into the office with his habitual cheery greeting, his broad brimmed black felt hat in its usual position on the back of his head, like a symbol of undying defiance.

"A busy day for us, eh, senator?" queried Bud.

"Now, look here, my boy, don't begin to remind me of work right off,"

"I'll have to incubate an idea."

he said, with a humorous gleam in his eye. "Go easy on me. Don't forget I'm her father."

Bud laughed through the flush that rose in his cheeks.

"No, I won't forget that. But have you decided what to tell Peabody and Stevens as your plan of action if they come in here at 12:30?"

"If they come?" exclaimed Langdon. "They'll come. Watch 'em."

Then he hesitated worriedly.

"I'll have to incubate an idea between now and noon somehow. But don't forget this, Bud—we're worried about them, true enough, but they're worried a heap more about us."

Senator Langdon stepped into an adjoining room, where he could be alone, to "incubate."

As Haines resumed his work Carolina Langdon entered.

Avoiding the secretary's direct gaze, she asked for her father.

"He ought to be back shortly, Miss Langdon," responded Haines. "You can wait here. I must ask pardon for leaving, as I must run over to the library."

As the secretary bowed himself out of the door he almost collided with Congressman Norton. Both glared at each other and remained silent.

"Carolina," spoke Norton as he entered, "I hope—I know you won't allow your father to influence you against me—because of last night. I"—

Carolina would rather not have met Charles Norton on this morning. She had hardly slept for the night. She had fought a battle with herself. Her father had shown her plainly the mistake she had made. She saw that her influence had not been without effect on Randolph. Probably for the first time she realized that there are glory and luxury, pleasure and prestige for which too big a price can be paid.

The senator's daughter turned slowly and faced the man she had promised to marry.

"Charlie, I have come to a decision. I came here to talk with father about it."

Norton started toward Carolina, a look of apprehension on his face. He gathered from the trend of her words and her demeanor that she had turned against him.

"You couldn't be so cruel, Carolina," he protested.

"Charlie," she went on determinedly, "I will always cherish our friendship, our happy younger days down in Mississippi, but I must give up thinking of you as my future husband. We've both made a mistake, mine probably greater than yours, but I now am convinced that I should not marry you. Your way of thinking about life is all wrong, and you are too deeply entangled with the dishonest men in Washington to draw back. I cannot love you."

"But I am doing it all for your sake, Carolina. Don't let an old fashioned father come between a man and a woman and their love," he cried.

"Charlie, I must give you up."

"Charlie, I must give you up."

The girl turned to one side, as though to give Norton a chance to leave.

He looked at her in silence a moment or two. Then a change came into his bearing. Wrinkling his face into a sneer, he stepped before the girl.

Up-stairs and Down-stairs

IF the Main Telephone is downstairs, an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs, a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs in, or near, the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

The additional expense is but trifling—less than two cents a day in connection with a residence contract.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

Mrs. Anna Holmes, New Market, N. J., says: "Some years ago I gave a statement for publication regarding what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for me and I now willingly confirm what I then said. Sharp pains in my head, back and sides made me miserable. If I sat down for any length of time or attempted to rise quickly from a reclining position, the trouble would always be more severe. I gradpally grew worse and my work became a burden. Having Doan's Kidney Pills brought to my attention, I procured a box from Randolph's Pharmacy and was helped from the beginning of their use. I improved steadily from that time on and was soon entirely relieved."

Why Don't You Economize on Coal?

The hungry furnace and the coal man are a hard combination to beat, but the

BOYNTON

Square Fire-Pot

FURNACE

is the friend of the man who takes care of the fire. The square firepot prevents the clogging of clinkers around the sides of the fire. That means all fire—more heat per unit of space. The square pot gives a greater surface for combustion and heat radiation and actually takes less coal for a good fire. And then there's the Boynton special flue for carrying away the dust. You don't sift ashes all over the house when you shake down the BOYNTON.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. William VanDuyne, of the borough who has been visiting at Somerville, has returned home.

Mrs. Daniel Guinee, of West Second street, who underwent a serious operation at the hospital eight weeks ago, has been discharged.

Mrs. William Pierson, of Loberty street, who is ill at the hospital with peritonitis, was reported today as improving with excellent chances for recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Stillman, of West Seventh street, returned home today from Fortress Monroe and Richmond, Va., where they have been spending the past two weeks.

Hoyt B. Evans, of Central avenue, whose eye was injured several weeks ago by molten lead while employed at the West Second street plant of the Public Service Corporation, will leave the hospital tomorrow.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Casper, 41 Harrison street, North Plainfield.

At the meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, Mrs. I. P. S. Dunning presented an interesting paper on home mission work. Articles for a mail package to be sent to a western missionary's wife were received at this meeting.

SENIOR CLASS ENTERTAINS THE N. P. H. S. PLAYERS.

The N. P. H. S. Seniors gave an informal reception last night to the two basket ball teams that represented the high school on the basket ball floor for the season of 1909. The reception was given in Debele's Hall, and was well attended by the seniors, the two teams, and their friends. The hall was tastefully decorated in green in honor of St. Patrick.

The evening was spent in dancing, playing games, and feasting. The committees in charge were: Decorations and reception: Elvira Hoerster, chairman; Florence Fowler, Ruth Day, Leslie Powlison and Melvin LeRoy Vanderbeek. Refreshments: Francis LaPorte, chairman: Elsa Brose, Anna Daly, Marion Mager, Hazel Rose, Marguerite Lee, Ernestine Richter and Jennie Nelson. The refreshment committe served ice cream, fruit punch, cake, green candy, shamrocks, and pipes.

Upon entering the hall each person was given a miniature hod tied with green ribbon, as a souvenir.

Mrs. Frank Titus.

Mrs. Frank Titus, aged 36 years, of Stonybrook place, North Plainfield, died at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning, following a long illness with a complication of disease. She had been under treatment at the hospital for several months. She is survived by a husband and four children, the oldest eight years and the youngest one year. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Walsh Given Three Months.

John Walsh, who was found guilty in the Union county courts yesterday with obtaining money under false pretences, with recommendations for mercy, was sentenced this morning to three months in the county jail. Walsh has already been the guest of the county for eighty-three days, and the court that the ends of justice would be met by an additional three months.

Carter Acquitted of Forgery.

James Carter, of Westfield, formerly of this city, was acquitted in the Union county court, yesterday, of the charge of forging a check for $5. The complainant was Jane Addison. S. S. Swackhamer represented Carter and the trial consumed just forty-five minutes. Carter lived here for many years and is said to have borne a good reputation.

He Gets the Limit.

The heaviest sentence in the Union county courts in recent years was imposed today by Judge E. S. Atwater, when he sent Lewis Compton, of Rahway, to State prison for twelve years, on a serious charge, in which he was implicated by his small daughter. Compton entered a plea of guilty.

FRIENDLY SONS' BANQUET

Union County Irishmen Addressed by Governor John Franklin Fort.

SPEAKERS LAUD OLD ERIN.

James E. Martine Responds to a Toast—Many Plainfielders Attend Annual Function.

"America, Our Country," was the theme followed by Governor John Franklin Fort, last night in his speech at the fifteenth annual banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, held in the Y. M. C. L. A. Hall, in Elizabeth. He was introduced by General Dennis F. Collins, who said that the people of Elizabeth were always glad to greet a Governor of New Jersey, and especially Governor Fort.

The Governor said in part:

"America was the first country to have a written instrument for the government of its people which was based on the fundamental principle that all men are created equal. The Articles of Confederation were a failure because they were not raised to the heights of the Declaration of Independence. They were adopted 'for all free men' and not for all the inhabitants. The Declaration of Independence was molded to meet any conditions that may arise—so molded that it has met every condition and every emergency that has arisen in the republic up to the present time. What would your forefathers in old Ireland have given for such an instrument?

"The great problem of today is: Shall the people rule? Party lines are no longer as strong as in the old days—the independent units of government count for something—the man counts for something. Disraeli said: 'England puts too much faith in systems and not enough in men.' That has been the fault in our republic, if any. Now I am not discussing corporations. I am not in any sense an anti-corporation man, if the corporation conducts its business the way it ought to. There is no sovereignty in our Congress, no sovereignty in the judiciary, in the President or in the State. The only sovereignty is in the people of the State and nation. There is no such word as 'sovereignty' in the Constitution of the State or nation."

The Governor referred to an Assemblyman who had sent his regrets to the banquet committee, saying that his absence was due to a special call of the Legislature, commending him for his action, and declaring that it was the spirit that should animate all public officials. He was vigorously applauded and was cheered lustily as he left the hall to attend the Orange banquet.

General Collins reviewed the history of the Friendly Sons, and told of their early origin. He extended a welcome to the guests. There were other speakers of note, who lauded the Irish race.

James E. Martine, the "farmer orator," responded in place of Joseph Tumulty, who was unable to attend. "Jim" was given a rousing ovation and delivered a great speech.

The affair was a pronounced success, the hall being thronged with guests. It was decorated with the American flag and the green of Ireland. The guests of the evening were the Governor, Colonel Austen Colgate, the Rev. John A. Dillon and Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan.

Lawrence T. Fell, president of the Friendly Sons, of the Oranges, sent a telegram of congratulations, as did John L. Carroll, president of the Newark Celtic Club, and Michael P. Devine, president of the local Sons of Erin. They were replied to by the committee, who extended like greetings. The dinner was the fifteenth the society has held, and there were present practically every prominent official in the city and county.

Those present from this city were James E. Martine, Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, Amos Andrews, William J. Whelan, H. W. Marshall, Councilman Herbert Buxton, County Chairman F. H. Smith, Rev. B. M. Bogan, Chief P. S. Kiely, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., James F. Buckle, E. C. Westcott, George Johnston, Tax Collector William R. Townsend.

Funeral of Mrs. Frank Titus.

The funeral services of Mrs. Frank Titus, who died yesterday morning, will be held from the late home on Stony Brook place, Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock, where a solemn high mass will be said. The burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Will Give Another Musicale.

The second of two musicales will be given at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue, Tuesday afternoon, March 30, by Joseph McIntyre, who will be assisted by talented artists.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR FORMER MAYOR PLACE

Saint Patrick was not the only notable whose natal day was celebrated yesterday in this city, for Charles E. Place was given a delightful surprise last evening in honor of his birthday, about forty guests offering their congratulations and many others sending letters and tokens of remembrance.

The affair was arranged by Mrs. Place and a neighbor, Mrs. George H. Campbell, whose birthday it was also. An exchange of greetings in the form of two odes read by Mrs. Campbell, was a feature of the occasion, and her recitations and stories added greatly to the evening's entertainment.

A third candidate for honor was Thomas S. Armstrong, who arrived late, and whose birthday was celebrated in conjunction with the others by some impromptu verses sung by Mrs. Campbell to the tune of "Three Little Maids From School," the guests responding by singing in chorus to the tune of "America" "So Say We All Of Us."

Refreshments concluded the evening, filled with chat and story telling, so full of pleasure that every one present in truest sincerity wished the trio of celebrants and Saint Patrick many happy returns of the day.

BILL TO TAX BACHELORS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Assemblyman Miller of Essex, introduced a bill in the Assembly yesterday to tax bachelors.

The proposed statute would assess bachelors $5 per annum, and a clause makes the tax in Essex county $10. Bachelors with long hair and blue eyes are to be taxed $25 a year; bachelors ex-governors, $100; babchelors with bald heads and red hair are to be assessed at the minimum rate "for the reason that bachelorhood is presumed involuntary.'

Bachelors on the staff of the Governor, meaning Col. Austen Colgate and Major Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., are to be taxed $225, while good looking bachelors are to pay $62.50. The act would also have boards of bachelors' assessors made up old "ladies," whose decision is to be final, and they are to receive as compensation for services 50 cents for each bachelor assessed.

The bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

HOPE'S AID SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

Officers were elected and other important business transacted at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel yesterday afternoon. Reports were presented by the secretary, treasurer and committees which showed the society to be in excellent condition. The society has raised during the year $178.21, of which amount $25.35 was secured by penny subscriptions from members and friends and the balance was raised through miscellaneous channels.

By way of disbursements, $106.63 was given to the organ fund. The society also settled its obligation to the music fund, leaving a small balance in the treasury.

After the reports were received and adopted these officers were elected for the year:

President, Mrs. Robert Hanglighter; vice-president, Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse; treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence R. Howard; secretary, Mrs. Marcus W. Clark. The officers were congratulated upon the efficient and careful way in which they filled their positions during the past year. At the conclusion of the business supper was served in the dining-room of the chapel by the officers and others. The attendance was large and several new members were elected.

Big Musical Event.

A musical event of extraordinary interest here will be the organ recital to be given at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday night, March 23, by Archer Gibson, organist of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, of which Rev. Dr. W. Richards is pastor. Mr. Gibson is considered one of the best organists in this country and no doubt the edifice will be thronged to hear him. He will be assisted by Frank Croxton, basso, of New York. Tickets can be had at Armstrong's and Hall's pharmacies.

—Fancy dried fruits, the choicest in the market, are offered at Neuman Brothers at low prices. Great care is taken in the selection of this fruit.

THIMBLE CLUB SURPRISE FOR MRS. F. T. WOODHULL

A delightful surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull, of West Front street, by the members of the Thimble Club yesterday afternoon, when eighteen of the club members "dropped in" at her home unexpectedly. The affair was arranged by Mrs. E. C. Martin and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, of Dunellen, and proved a complete surprise.

It was St. Patrick's Day, and the Emerald Green played a prominent part in the lavish decorations of the house. The luncheon was the feature of the affair, and the dining-room presented a gala appearance, decorated with green. The place cards were painted by Mrs. Wynkoop and made attractive souvenirs of the occasion. The favors were little baskets made of green crepe paper, and a potted shamrock, surmounted by a miniature hod was the centre-piece ornament. The chandelier was draped with green ribbon, from which hung clay pipes.

Following the luncheon, the guests played flinch and later there was singing. Those present were Mrs. F. T. Woodhull, Mrs. Lindsey Leek, Mrs. Littell, of Dunellen; Mrs J. E. Dunn, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. A. L. Force, Miss Lillian A. Force, Mrs. Frank Storr, Mrs. Winfield Schomp, Mrs. R. A. Meeker, Mrs. Fred Dickerson, Mrs. Marchant, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Lettie Blackford, of Morristown, and Mrs. G. E. Stillman.

PRIEST WON'T ACCEPT FEE FOR HIS PRAYERS

The Rev. Anthony J. Stein, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Paterson, who last year refused to accept the $10 fee which the State pays to clergymen for saying a prayer at the opening of the daily session of the Legislature, has declared that he will follow the same course this year with the $20 due to him for twice saying prayer in the Senate. Father Stein says:

"I do not pose as being better or less in need of money than any of my fellow clergymen. But the present method of inviting the "prayer maker" and the consideration attached have been criticised by the press, by members of the Legislature and by clergymen themselves. While not caring to enter into the nature of these criticisms, they reflect the fact that not much dignity attends a function where much belongs. The object of my non-acceptance of the customary fee on the occasions I came here simply to insinuate the advisability of appointing a regular chaplain for the Legislature. There are many old and deserving men and others of our ministry incapacitated to regular duty by ill health to whom the little salary would be a boon, and I believe that an official appointment would bring what a "$10 weekly preferment" actually lacks.

DUNELLEN MAD DOG IN NUMEROUS FIGHTS.

Dunellen had a mad dog scare this morning when a large woolly dog belonging to F. J. Doyle, a trolley car conductor, went on a rampage through the borough.

It became involved in several fights, sometimes becoming surrounded by other dogs to the number of half a dozen. The beast was finally shot by Marshal William R. Sliney, but not until it had bitten a score or more of dogs of all sizes and kinds. Several owners immediately shot their dogs, thus taking no chances.

New Organist for Grace Church.

S. Frederick Smith, organist of St. Simmon's church, Philadelphia, has been engaged as the successor to William E. MacClymont, organist of Grace church, and will assume his new position May 1. There has been considerable discussion as to the future of the choir at the church, but no decision has been reached as to whether it will remain as at present or become strictly a boys' choir.

Dunellen Man Dies.

Asa R. Brush died at his home in Dunellen yesterday. He had been ill for several months with gangrene, living alone, except for a trained nurse. He was seventy years old and is survived by a son, who lives elsewhere.

Final Athletic Events.

Competition in the final events of the Y. M. C. A. championships will be held tonight. These include the standing hop, step and jump, 220 yard potato race and the running high jump from spring board.

—Gavett is open as usual for business. The stock of his store not being damaged to any great extent. ***

FEAST OF GET-TOGETHERS

G. O. P. Organization Club Celebrates in Honor of Ireland's Patron Saint.

GEORGE J. TOBIN TOASTMASTER.

Factory Inspector McCardell, Judge Newcorn and Others Make Informal Speeches.

Though many of the old stagers among the membership of the Get-Together Club, the local Republican leaders' aid society, went to Elizabeth last night to attend the St. Patrick's day dinner, a jolly good time was had by that organization in honor of Ireland's patron saint at its headquarters. The banquet, held in the Green room, lasted until midnight and was voted by the twenty-six survivors to be the best ever held in the city since the Board of Trades feast.

Past Chief Sagamore George J. Tobin acted as toastmaster and the twenty-six voted that he filled the bill admirably. Chief Ranger William Newcorn made a speech; so did the other twenty-five. Besides telling the stories of their lives and what they thought of the proposed new tariff law, the speakers incidently referred to St. Patrick. Keeper of the Forest William L. Gloak, who spent his boyhood near Paris, claimed that the saint was a Frenchman and had been imported by Ireland. The chief ranger took issue with him, declaring that St. Patrick's ancestors were Hebrews for he got the best of the snakes, while Assistant Keeper of the Wampum John Bowman argued that St. Patrick came from among the Pennsylvania Dutch, who never knew what it was to "see snakes."

Among the others taking part in the discussion were Squaw S. P. T. Wilbur, Grand High Chief Sachem Andrew McCardell, First Sanap Elias Bird, Second Sanap Robert Parnell Craig, Keeper of the Wampum James Burns Stewart. Those who had to listen to the speakers were William Craig, A. W. Cliffton, C. J. Ward, David J. Carney, M. J. Whelan, Alexander McPherson Ayres, John Mortimer, John Henschel Cose, Dr. Albert E. Giddis, Charles Harrison Dunham, Frederick, W. Hand, John Slevin John Bowman, John Casper Trayner, Edward Brown, Joseph Tipperary Harrigan, Charles Cork Randolph, Frank W. Randolph and Dr. A. K. Brennan.

SEVENTY SEEK PLACE AS ALMS HOUSE HEAD

The Councilmanic alms committee met last night in the Mayor's office to consider applications for the position of superintendent and matron of the city alms house to succeed Mr. and Mrs. Wolverton, who have resigned. Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayres presented the names of four candidates out of a list of seventy, they being considered the best fitted for the place.

The committee thoroughly discussed the situation and considered the names presented and heard what Mr. Ayres had to say regarding them. No decision was reached last night, but a report will be made at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday night. All of the members of the alms committee were present last night, also Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician.

Bids for Fire Apparatus.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, when among other things there will be received bids for furnishing a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for the new fire-house in the East End. There will also be a discussion of street work for the coming year.

Start Street Sprinkling.

Under the direction of the Councilmanic street committee the street sprinkling began yesterday in the business part of the city. It was thoroughly appreciated by the merchants and citizens in general who have been getting more than the customary peck of dirt during the past few weeks.

SAY THAT MORTGAGE WAS LEGALLY GIVEN

Answering the charge that a chattel mortgage for $2,500, held by Harry Dreier is fraudulent against the creditors of the National Brewing Company, as claimed by that firm's receiver, Eldwood W. Moore, Jr., Frank E. Bradner, of Newark, has filed an answer in the Chancery Court for Harry Dreier and Charles P. Senger, the principals, in which he denies that there is anything wrong with the transaction. The case will now be referred by Chancellor Pitney to one of the vice chancellors, who will be assigned to hear the case.

The charge of fraudulency, which caused a suit in the Chancery Court at Trenton some time ago by the brewing company's receiver against Dreier and Senger, stated that the mortgage was given under the color of a resolution passed at a directors' meeting at which only Samuel Dreier, father of Harry Dreier and father-in-law of Senger, was present with Senger. It was claimed that no money was passed for the mortgage.

The answer alleges that the money was paid over by Mr. Dreier, the elder, and was used in the business of the brewing company. It is further stated in the answer that the fact that only two were present at the meeting can make no difference, for Mr. Dreier has the mortgage and proposes to keep it. Senger's answer corroborates these statements.

PUPILS WILL COMPETE FOR COMPOSITION PRIZES

Topics for the prize compositions by the pupils of P. H. S. have been selected. The compositions are to be written on one side of the paper only, to contain from 600 to 1,200 words, and to be signed by the writer. Any and all authorities consulted in the preparation of the work are to be cited at the end. Papers are to be handed the respective English teachers not later than April 27.

Miss Garthwaite Entertains.

Among the pleasing St. Patrick's Day celebrations throughout the city last night was one given by Miss Jessie Garthwaite, of West Front street. She entertained about forty young people at her home, the evening being devoted entirely to dancing. The rooms were appropriately decorated in green, while many of the guests honored the patron saint by appearing in green apparel, such as green coats and vests, ties, and other similar decorations. It was a jolly crowd and everyone had a good time until the small hours. At midnight an elaborate supper was served by Miss Garthwaite, assisted by her mother. Each guest received an appropriate favor.

Practical Camping.

A lecture on "Camping" will be delivered to the P. H. S. pupils tomorrow morning by Henry R. Hubbard, science instructor in the school.

—The motor cyclists of the city will meet at Judge William N. Runyon's office Friday night at 8:30 to effect organization and elect officers. All wishing to join should be present. ***

SNEAK THIEF GOT JEWELS WORTH $200.

Upon her return home after a shopping trip yesterday afternoon, Mrs. William Courtney, who lives at 173 North avenue, found that during her absence sneak thieves had ransacked her apartments and stolen jewelry valued at $200. The stolen articles comprised a valuable gold watch and chain, a handsome jewel case, a gold ring, a handsome breast pin, set with a rhinestone, a clover leaf pin, with a pearl centre and two gold clasp pins.

Mrs. Courtney at once reported the robbery to the police. None of the other tenants of the building could furnish any clue to the identity of the thief, nor had they seen any one in or about the apartment. It is evident that the thief was familiar with the apartment, for nothing had been disturbed but the jewels.

Speaking to a Daily Press reporter today, Mrs. Courtney said: "The door, which I had locked on leaving the apartment, had been forced open, and the things were taken from my bureau. There was a purse containing money in the kitchen, and Mr. Courtney's pocket book was in a drawer. These were not touched, so I think the thief didn't have time to thoroughly ransack the place, but was probably frightened away by a noise."

DWELLS ON IGNORANCE OF THE CHILD WORKERS

Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, president of the State Charities Aid and Prison Reform Association, was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the hearing at Trenton on the Olwell bill, which prohibits the employment of children under 16 years of age at night. A substitute was reported permitting such employment provided the Board of Education approved.

Mrs. Williamson said that investigation of the glass industry of South Jersey had shown that the trade "was dangerous, unhealthy, seriously dangerous to the eyes; that those in the trade were the most illiterate in the State; that a large percentage of boys and men were unable to read and write," and she attributed this alleged illiteracy "to the fact that minors between 14 and 16 are employed one week during the day and one week during the night, making it impossible for minors to attend school properly."

"BEAU" HAD RABIES; WATCHING BITTEN DOGS

That "Beau," the bull terrier belonging to Miss Alice Higgins, of West Fourth street, which ran wild through the borough Monday and bit seven dogs, had hydrophobia, was proved by a telegram received by Mayor Fisk last night from Trenton, where the animal's head had been sent for examination. No cases of the rabies have developed among the dogs bitten. The dog belonging to Mrs. Maggie Wilson, of Linden avenue, which was reported as having been bitten by "Beau," hasn't a scratch, and the others have no rabid symptoms.

The Everett place dog pound, which was opened yesterday for stray dogs rounded up by Dog Catcher Kiely, now has more than a score of intramural tenants, which have been brought there after their capture on the streets. Few of these animals are being redeemed, for many of the owners believe that if they have been with the other dogs, some of which may be afflicted, it is better to run no risk in again taking the animal home. The dog catcher will continue his work of cutting down the number of canine loiterers, and the first batch of dogs is shortly to be shot.

St. Patrick's Day Party.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Henry Heideloff, of West Front street, gave a delightful St. Patrick's day party to thirty of their friends, last night. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing euchre, parlor games and in vocal and instrumental music. Afterward the guests were invited to the dining room where supper was served by Mrs. Heidloff and the Misses May and Emma Heidloff. The table was attractively decorated with green in celebration of the day. The favors were white carnations with green ribbon twined about the stems. Mr. and Mrs. Heidloff were congratulated upon the success of the affair.

FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

Thoroughfares to Be Macadamized in the Vicinity of Plainfield.

THE WORK WILL BEGIN SOON.

Stretch From Terril Road to Two Bridges— West Seventh Street Extension.

Many road improvements, which will benefit Plainfield, have been sanctioned by the State road department, according to State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker. In addition to that known as the Stirling road, which, when improved, will make a through macadamized thoroughfare to Morristown and Bernardsville, one to Rahway by way of Willow Grove is planned. Fanwood township has condemned the land necessary for the straightening out of Terrill road from the city line to Two Bridges, a stretch of two miles. The macadamized connection from Two Bridges is through Willow Grove to Westfield avenue and into Clark township, where it is improved already into Rahway. The improvement will cost $14,000 and the work will be begun next month.

The road department has also approved the plan to macadamize Jefferson avenue, between Plainfield and Dunellen, and the major part of the expense will be borne by Middlesex and Union counties. The strip is only 2,000 feet in length and the cost will be $2,500. Surveys and specifications are to be made before the work is started early in the spring.

Middlesex county has decided to improve the extension from West Seventh street, at the city line, which, when macadamized, will make another route to New Brunswick from Clinton avenue to New Market road connecting with the New Market stone road. The unimproved strip is but a mile in length and the work will cost $15,000.

MIDDLEBROOK CHAPTER DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED

A large number of Camp Middlebrook Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were delightfully entertained on Tuesday at the homes of Mrs. W. J. Taylor and Mrs. E. H. Earnshaw at Orange. The guests were cordially welcomed at the home of Mrs. Earnshaw, where they were served with a delicious and bountiful luncheon, at the close of which each guest was presented with an "Erin Go Bragh" silk flag. The guests were then invited to cross the lawn to the home of Mrs. Taylor, where the monthly meeting was held. After the business Mrs. Taylor gave a full and interesting account of the regents meeting at Trenton; she also read a very interesting article about "Our Flag," after which the meeting closed with a rising vote of thanks to our hostesses, all declaring that they had had a most delightful day.

TONS OF ROCK DISPLACED BY A GIGANTIC BLAST.

One of the biggest blasts at Smalley Brothers stone quarry in recent years, took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, under the direction of N. B. and A. I. Smalley. For several weeks a large force has been preparing for the blast, a tunnel having been opened fifty feet in the side of the mountain. When the dynamite was set off yesterday there was not much noise, but the result was in every way satisfactory. Between 12,000 and 15,000 tons of clear trap rock fell. It is estimated that about 8,000 tons fell during last night.

A large party of friends was invited to witness the blast. The result was more like a small earthquake and the trembling of the earth could be felt a considerable distance away.

Miss Buxton's Party.

Ruth Buxton, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Herbert Buxton, of West Front street, was seven years old yesterday and in honor of that event as well as that of St. Patrick's Day, a party was arranged by Mrs. Buxton. There were about a dozen guests, young and old, and all had a jolly good time playing games, while an informal musical program added to the enjoyment of all. The home was appropriately decorated for the occasion in green and unique favors were given to the guests. During the afternoon refreshments were served. Little Ruth received the congratulations of all for many happy returns of the day.

B. and L. Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held at the office of the association, 146 Park avenue, on Monday night, at 8 o'clock. A new series, to be known as the sixteenth series, will be opened.

A NEW DEPARTURE!

Since the first day we threw open our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department its growth has been rapid and successful, but we are not yet satisfied. We know that many ladies go out of town to purchase their outer garments, and pay more for them than we charge, and yet we offer exclusiveness and individuality, which is practically impossible in the large city stores, where hundreds of the one style garments are offered for sale. In order, therefore, to offset any desire on the part of those who contemplate going out of town for their Tailored Suits, Coats, etc., we offer to

MAKE ALTERATIONS FREE OF CHARGE.

This is a radical change, but it means much to those who appreciate onward, upward progressive business methods. The "White Store" always on the alert for methods that will benefit their patrons, knows that this announcement will be of far-reaching importance to thousand of ladies in this section of New Jersey, and we are prepared to meet their demands. STARTING MONDAY and BALANCE OF WEEK WE OFFER THE FOLLOWING:

Ladies' Tailored Suits

New models, all the latest shades, Coats, silk and satin lined, hipless models, Skirts full flared, with button trimming—Materials, Prunella, Serge and Panama Cloth.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Susan B. Strong, wife of Albert H. Strong, were held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank W. Westcott, of Fanwood, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The house was filled with the friends and relatives who had known and loved the deceased during her residence here. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Baptist church, had charge of the services and spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing ones. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

The action of the voters at Tuesday night's meeting in raising the $9,000 appropriation for the addition to the school building shows that the town has passed the stage of "a penny wise and pound foolish." It took several meetings to raise the money for the building of the present building 18 years ago.

PARTITION OF STATE'S PUBLIC SCHOOL FUNDS.

As chairman of the Committee on Education, Senator Leavitt Monday at Trenton, reported a substitute for a bill introduced earlier in the session relative to the distribution of school funds.

The substitute provides a permanent method for the distribution of the municipal share of the "main stem" tax and is as follows:

"Whereas, The taxes assessed during the year 1907, payable and proposed to be distributed in 1908, according to the provisions of an act entitled 'An act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof,' approved October 19, 1903, which supplement was approved April 20, 1906, could not be paid in accordance with the law, by reason of the non-payment of a part thereof due from certain railroad companies;

"Whereas, Owing to disputes and litigations all the railroad taxes are not paid at the time they are due and collectable, and it is, therefore, impracticable to distribute the moneys from these taxes in the same year in which they are due and collectable.

"Therefore, Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey;

"One—The State comptroller is hereby empowered and directed to make distribution of the said moneys assessed, levied and collected for the year 1907, as provided in and by an act entitled: 'A supplement to an act entitled, "An act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19, 1903, approved April 20, 1906, on and not before the fifteenth day of June, 1909.

"Two—All moneys paid in accordance with this act shall be held by the official to whom paid in trust for the support and maintenance of the free public schools of such municipality. No part thereof shall be used to pay or discharge, in whole or in part, any note or other obligation heretofore incurred, or any bond, whether temporary or for a term of years, heretofore or hereafter issued by such municipality, or by any Board of Education of any municipality, nor shall any part of the funds hereby authorized to be paid to be used for any other purpose than for the support and maintenance of the free public schools of such municipality and in the reduction of local taxation. Any person, or the members of any board, violating this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

"Three—The State Comptroller is hereby empowered and directed to make distribution of the moneys assessed, levied and collected according to the provisions of an act entitled, 'An act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof,' approved October 19, 1903, which supplement was approved April 20, 1906, on and before the fifteenth day of June, of each and every year next following that in which the said moneys are finally due and collectable instead of the year in which said moneys are finally due and collectable.

"Fourth—This act shall be construed to repeal any existing laws relating to the same fund, only so far as the provisions of the act are strictly inconsistent therewith and this act shall take effect immediately."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Association of Hope chapel will meet for the election of officers on Tuesday night, April 6.

The Junior Society of the Congregational church will hold a regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

Dr. Norman H. Probasco will conduct the special Lenten service at Hope chapel tonight. The topic will be "The Temptations of Appetite and the Dangers Thereof."

Rev. A. E. Richer, representing home missions, will be the speaker at the Congregational church on Sunday. The annual offering for home missions will be received.

The prayer-meeting at the Congregational church last night was of special interest. The topic was "The Growing Kingdom—Awakened Turkey." Pastor Goodrich was in charge.

The officers-elect of the Boys' club of Hope chapel will be installed tomorrow night, after which there will be short addresses by Rev. L. R. Howard, G. Herbert Condict, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and F. W. Travell.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

George Wiltse, who refuses to sign a contract with the Giants for a $3,000 salary this year, is not throwing a bluff. He means every word he says when he declares that it will be $4,000 or nothing. In view of what Wiltse did last year it would be mighty ungrateful if the wealthy New York club should refuse him an extra thousand.

"Lou" Wiltse, who like his brother George Wiltse, is a great baseball pitcher, is keeping in condition by playing indoor baseball. The Plainfielder has not yet decided where he will locate this year, but he has received several good offers

"Willie" Deegan, it is said, will blossom forth this year as an Eastern League twirler. He believes that he is as good as ever and can prove it with a fair trial.

A number of decisions affecting players were announced by the National Baseball Commission Monday. The request of Frank Hafford to be declared a free agent was denied. Hafford was a member of the Troy club, of the New York State League, last year, and that club was in arrears in salary due him when the season closed. For this reason he contended that he should not be placed on that club's reservation list, but be declared a free agent.

The commission, in refusing his request, declared that there was no effort to defraud the player, and that the league of which the Troy club is a member has made arrangements to pay the player the salary due him.

The application of M. J. Spiesman, who also was a member of the Troy club in 1908, to be declared a free agent was granted. Spiesman was not under contract to the club.

The claims of N. E. Young and Joseph A. Ward, the former for $88 from the Boston National League club or from the Jersey City club, to which he was released, and the latter for one-third of the purchase money obtained for him by the Altoona club from the New York American League club, were rejected.

"Dave" Fultz for several years one of the best baseball players in the country and a star outfielder for the New York Americans, will speak at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Fultz is a graduate of Brown University and a fine platform speaker. He will undoubtedly be heard by a large number of men.

The fact that Manager Dorflinger has signed Seery as catcher for the coming season, assures that club of one of the best backstops in the State. He is a hard and conscientious player.

"Red" Waller has got them all guessing in the Giants' training camp. He has developed remarkable speed and deceptive curves and Manager McGraw is much pleased with the work of the "auburn-haired" twirler.

Reports indicate that Westfield will have a strong amateur team this season, one that will make a bid for county championship honors. No doubt a game will be arranged with the Clinton Avenues.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. SUSAN B. STRONG.

The funeral services of Mrs. Susan B. Strong, wife of Albert H. Strong, were held at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. W. Westcott, at Fanwood, at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. There were a great many floral tributes. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Baptist church, Scotch Plains, officiated, reading Scripture selections, offering prayer and making a few remarks.

During the services, Miss S. Etta Raybert, soprano soloist of Trinity Reformed church, sang two impressive selections. The burial was in the Baptist cemetery, Scotch Plains, and the pall-bearers, all nephews of Mrs. Strong, were Nathan S. Taylor, of Newburg, N. Y.; G. B. Taylor, of Brooklyn; George H. Strong, of Warwick, N. Y.; Nathan Strong, of New Milford, N. Y.; Edward C. Fancher, of Fanwood, and Daniel Wray, of New Brunswick.

LINCOLN CELEBRATION COST ONLY $258.43.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, chairman of the committee of arrangements for the Lincoln celebration at the First Baptist church, February 12, sent a statement of the expenses of the affair to City Treasurer William F. Arnold yesterday, which showed a balance of $91.57 from the appropriation of $350 by the city and borough councils. Of the $258.43 expended, $100 was expended for the speaker, and $27.50 for badges for the school children and the committee. The expenses for the decorations amounted to $50.

LONGFELLOW EVENING PROVES ENTERTAINING

"An Evening with Longfellow" was enjoyed at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, when a program of exceptional interest was presented under the direction of Miss Mary T. Green and Mrs. William C. Hubbard. The affair was largely attended and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the many features provided. It was under the auspices of the Woman's Society for Christian Work.

The program opened with a piano duet, sextette from "Lucia," Donozetti; Mrs. Theodore G. Davis and Miss Eva M. Rogers. Miss Carrie E. Randolph read a biography of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, after which a quartet, comprising Mrs. D E. Titsworth, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Dr. O. B. Whitford and Roy E. Titsworth, with Miss Jessie Utter, accompanist, sang "Stars of the Summer Night," Longfellow-Smart.

Mrs. William C. Hubbard read a number of Longfellow's poems and they were illustrated by living portraits. The pictures were shown from a gilded frame 4x6 feet, the frame being illuminared from the inside by electric lights, while the main room was darkened. The effect was pleasing. The poems and those illustrating them were as follows:

"Night," Miss Ida L. Spicer; "Village Blacksmith," Roland Davis; "Priscilla," Mrs. N. O. Moore; "Minnehaha," Miss Mildred A. Green; "Santa Filomena," Mrs. Sarah L. Wardner; "Gov. Endicott," George L. Babcock. During an intermission, Mrs. Theodore G. Davis sang as a solo, "Beware," Longfellow-Moulton. The program was then continued as follows:

"Maidenhood," Miss Eva Rogers; "Lady Wentworth," Mrs. Starr A. Burdick; "John Alden," Frank J. Hubbard; "Evangeline," Mrs. Geo. L. Babcock; "Paul Revere," Charles L. Neagle.

The concluding number of the program was a selection, "The Day Is Done," Longfellow-Carter, by the quartet. The entertainment took up the greater part of the evening, but sufficient time was left for sociability and this was enjoyed greatly. Those taking part in the program, as well as the committee, deserve much credit. They all appeared in costume and faithfully portrayed the poems.

WARREN CHAPEL MISSION WORKERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the chapel. At this time, full reports of the work of the past year will be presented by the various officers and committees.

Miss F. S. Conklin, of the Women's Mission Board of New York, who has recently returned from mission service at Havana, will be the speaker of the occasion. The offering will be for the local Italian mission recently organized. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting, to which all women are invited.

Miss Reba Kline Entertains.

Miss Reba Kline, of Somerset street, entertained the members of the gymnasium team from the Y. W. C. A., at her home, last night, the affair being appropriate to St. Patrick's Day. Supper was served, the tables being decorated in green. Afterward progressive games of all kinds were played. Those present were the Misses Hazel DeLany, Olive DeLany, Lena Yost, Helen Southard, Edna Snedeker, Reba Kline and Margaret Mosher.

Husband Found in Cell.

Michael Gleason, of Madison avenue, whose wife reported him "missing" to the police, was located yesterday in a cell at the Westfield jail, where he is serving a ten-day sentence.

Will Go to Harlem.

The local Y. M. C. A. team will participate in the Eastern championship athletic meet at Harlem, April 3. This will be the biggest amateur event in the east this season.

Proclamation Concerning Dogs!

MAYOR'S OFFICE
March 16, 1909

It is a penal offense under the City Ordinance to permit any dog to run at large in the City unless the dog is so muzzled as to prevent biting. Any person who owns or harbors a dog and violates the ordinance referred to is subject to a fine of Ten Dollars for each offense.

In addition to the foregoing, it is provided that any unmuzzled dog found running at large shall be impounded and shall not be redeemed without a payment of a penalty of One Dollar to be paid to the pound master in addition to the charge for the dog's keep of twenty-five cents a day or a fraction of a day while in charge of the pound master.

The ordinance further provides that all dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after being impounded shall be put to death in the most merciful and humane manner possible.

This ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

THE FORUM.

Duties of Parents.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The story of the Paterson boy who ran away to see the world has a lesson for every parent.

Why was Peter Dekker allowed to read "dime novels" and attend "blood and thunder shows", after school hours?

"Wonderlust" is perfectly natural to many normal children and the age of wondering and wandering should be anticipated by all intelligent parents when the children are in long dresses. Watch guard the associates, the habits, the games, the books in the nursery and there will be far less danger during the years of adolescense. The "public authorities" rendered all the aid in their power and it restored the boy to his parents. The "show censors" are not appointed to supervise libraries any more than the police authorities and this distressing experience has opened the perception of one parent to the hidden dangers lurking in the daily pathway of our children.

School teachers and librarians are keenly alive to these perils, but they are powerless to safe-guard the youth of our country without the intelligent, loyal zealous co-operation of parents. There are many books in all public libraries utterly unfit for young minds, or any other pure minds for that matter, but unless parents insist on and persist in their children's selection of wholesome literature what can outsiders do to purify existing conditions? When trashy sensational novels are read by the mothers how are the children to find out the harm in the blood and thunder type?

God gave to parents, and to parents alone, the responsibility of imparting daily instruction and warning during the early years of growth, and if such teaching is clearly and steadily imparted there will be no need to call upon outsiders, much less the police, for help. Study the child and provide such implements and amusements as best supply the natural bent of mind and body. Live pets for one, a microscope for another, tools for a third, music and a sunshiny playroom.

All this costs money and you cannot afford it, eh? The time to count the cost and make the outlay is at the start—not after the boy's "wonderlust" has landed him in the police court.

AN OLD FASHIONED MOTHER.

Surprised Mrs. W. H. Cooks.

A party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Cooks, 222 Prescott place, last night, the occasion being the twenty-fourth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Cooks. The affair was a complete surprise and the evening was spent playing games, while vocal and instrumental music was a feature. Refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. William Doig, Miss Elizabeth Doig, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Aitken, Mr. and Mrs. William Baker, Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. Harry Keen, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Miller.

Two Still Alarms Today.

Two still alarms called the local fire department out for slight fires this morning. At about 10 o'clock the chemical engine went to the Vacuum Cleaner Company's plant on North avenue to kill a blaze which started from a bonfire and threatened to destroy a pile of lumber near the factory. The second call came at a few minutes after 11 o'clock, when the department was called to extinguish a fence fire at Grant avenue and Fourth street. This fire started from burning grass. In each case the damage was trifling.

Fust Gets Two Months.

Pasquale Fust, of Scotch Plains, indicted for stealing a bushel of coal from the New Jersey Central at Fanwood, was sent to the county jail yesterday for two months. Fust pleaded that Detective Doody, of the railroad, had shot him before placing him under arrest. He said that the bullet entered his arm and that the wound was so severe that he had to be taken to the hospital. Prosecutor Swift said that Fust had assaulted the officer and it was doubtless necessary to resort to a revolver in making the capture.

Lanning for U. S. Court.

The resignation of United States Circuit Court Judge George M. Dallas, of the Third United States circuit, comprising the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, has caused the friends of United States District Court Judge William M. Lanning, of Trenton, to ask for the place for Judge Lanning. Nnited States Senators Frank O. Briggs and John Kean have already started the movement to get this appointment for New Jersey.

W. C. T. U. Treasurer Dead.

Henrietta L. Caminade, State treasurer of the New Jersey Woman's Christian Temperance Union, died yesterday at her home in Camden, of tuberculosis. She was well known throughout the State on account of her labors in the cause o ftemperance.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, accompanied by Miss Adele Kirby, left today for a week-end sojourn at Atlantic City. They will be registered at the Hotel Glaslyn.

Gave a Euchre Party.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fogarty entertained about fifteen friends at a card party at their home on West Front street, last night. The play was close and exciting. Mrs. Coulter scored the greatest number of points in euchre. The rooms were attractively decorated with green and white in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Supper was served at the conclusion of play and a flashlight picture was taken while the guests seated at the table.

The Bishop at Heavenly Rest.

The Right Reverend John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, made his annual visit to the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night, and administered the rite of confirmation to a class of eight adults, four men and four women. The service was choral evensong, and was conducted by Rev. Charles Townsend, the rector. The Bishop preached the sermon, and followed it with the customary address to the members of the confirmation class.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Stricken with appendicitis, Mrs Harry Shropshire was hurried from Millville to a Philadelphia hospital for an operation.

Charles Stahl, a noted New York crook, arrested Monday, confessed to having robbed Rev. Father Bernadine, of Trenton, three times, after the priest had befriended him. The first robbery, he said, netted $200 in cash, and the second an overcoat. The third time he got hold of a lot of silver, but was cornered in the cellar and arrested after a fight with the athletic theological students.

Thrown violently against the side of a steamer, William Buzine, stoker of Engine Company No. 5, in Camden, sustained what he regarded as a severe bruising of the body several days ago. But when an examination was made yesterday of the injuries, after he complained of severe pain, he was found to be suffering from a fractured rib. At the time of the accident the steamer struck an uneven section of a torn-up pavement.

Thomas Carey, of Hartford, was convicted on two indictments Monday, one alleged assault on his wife and the other assault on Constable Gilbert. In January Mrs. Carey told Justice Slack and others that her husband had beaten her. At the trial yesterday she swore to an entirely different story. Mrs. Carey was charged with perjury and held under $500 bail for the action of the grand jury. Her husband was placed under $2,000 bail.

Beaten until her nose was fractured and several of her teeth were knocked out, Amanda Williams, of 1464 South Third street, Camden, appeared before Justice of the Peace Thompson, in that city, Monday, and caused John O'Donnell, thirty-five years old, to be sent to jail in default of $500 bail, as her alleged assailant. When he was placed under arrest the defendant put up a stiff fight, and had to be handcuffed while on his way to jail.

Her jaws tightly licked and suffering from convulsions, Rhoda L. Rand, twenty-eight years old, 1140 South Ninth street, is in Cooper Hospital, Camden, in a critical condition from tetanus. Several days ago she stepped on a nail, which pierced her foot, but apparently did not do much more damage than draw the bood. Little attention was paid to the injury until yesterday, when the woman's jaws locked so tight that she was unable to take food.

George W. Simpson, former superintendent of tanning mills in Philadelphia, died suddenly at the Baker House, Vineland, Sunday evening. He had just eaten dinner, when a hemorrhage followed, and he expired in a few minutes. He was a prominent member of the Maennerchor Singing Society of Philadelphia, the director of which was raising his baton for the singing of a selection when the telephone rang. "George is dead" was the message.

A "live" pipe which John Robinson, an Atlantic City hod carrier, pushed into his pocket Monday set fire to his coat and called out the fire department to "subdue the flames," which had crept up the man's back. George Fair, a fireman of Engine Company No. 6, grabbed the flaming man and rolled him in a mortar bed until the flames were extinguished. Fair was severely burned before his mates reached him with a chemical tank. Robinson escaped without being hurt.

Fearing that the continuous day and night service that the Atlantic County Electric Company proposed to install in April 1 would seriously injure its business, the Enterprise Gas Company, of Egg Harbor City, through an intermediate company, bought out the electric company, thus securing a monopoly of the city's light supply. The price paid was $22,000. The electric light company has a five-year contract which the gas company failed to get, for street lighting with Egg Harbor City and also the borough of Mays Landing.

Bartenders were gobbled up so rapidly by the Law and Order Society in Glassboro Monday, that the Franklin Hotel has again been closed. Landlord W. F. Davis, whose license was revoked by court, but who opened again on the strength of an appeal to the Supreme Court, was first arrested at the instance of the Repp brothers, who represent the Law and Order interests. His bartender was then arrested and both were put under $500 bail. A close watch was kept on the hotel and as soon as it was opened up with a new bartender Constable Pierce served a warrant on John Kates, the new man. Kates was taken to Woodbury in the afternoon, given a hearing and also put under $500 bail. Mrs. Davis then locked up the hotel awaiting the arrival of another bartender from Clayton.

Mrs. Harry DeMeza, of Jackson avenue, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price, of Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, of Jersey City, have been visiting relatives in Plainfield for several days.

Thomas A. Neely, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Pittsburg, has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berkham, of Watchung avenue.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Miss Mary Ryan, leading woman of "The Fortune Hunter," the new Winchell Smith play in which Thomas W. Ross will be seen as star at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is the embodiment of perfect health. She declares that insomnia is the curse of the artist. "Worry," says Miss Ryan, "is the prime cause of insomnia. Learn to forget your work when you go home. If you recall something left undone, something to be done the first thing in the morning make a note on a slip of paper, and tuck it into your purse or bag, never in your mind to sleep on. Never go to bed hungry or uncomfortable. A few crackers placed on a plate beside the bed, to be eaten when nervousness rouses you in the wee small hours, will often relieve insomnia. A warm, not hot, bath before retiring, followed by proper care of the feet and hair, will do much to relieve nervousness from overwork in the office. Do not take sleeping potions or headache powders without consulting your physician. He is the one to advise you as to their use."

Mary Ryan with Thomas Ross in "The Fortune Hunter," at New Plainfield Theatre tonight.

"For Her Children's Sake" from the pen of Theodore Kremer, is the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. It is said to be above the average melodrama, and the author reveals an ability to portray the mystery and magnitude of human love and passion that is startling. H. R. Travis is directing its fortunes, and announces it broadcast as the successor and companion play to their success, "The Fatal Wedding." It will be produced here with exactly the same cast and production that created a resounding sensation at the Grand Opera House in New York city.

Sheldon Lewis, who is playing the role of Resapha, in Mr. Maurice Samuel's powerful pychic drama, "The Conflict," was one of the cast of the Art Theatre when that institution was launched in Chicago. Mr. Lewis while there created the name part of "Marse Covington," a one act play by George Ade which has since had a highly profitable career. Paul H. Liebler secured the services of Mr. Lewis to create the role of the old antiquarian. "The Conflict" with Mr. Robert Drouet will be seen at the New Plainfield Theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

Helen Robertson in "The Conflict," at New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night.

Jeffery School Ticket Wins.

As a result of the school election of the Township of New Providence, held in the Berkeley Lyceum last Tuesday, the progressive element of the township, lead by the Bungalow Man, won by a handsome majority after a determined fight. The successful candidates are Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, vote 53; Angelo Del Ducco, 51; Joseph Kuntz, 44. The defeated candidates received only 28 votes out of a total of 72 votes. At the conclusion of the election, the progressives sang their school song and after a short address by Mr. Jeffery, three rousing cheers were given for the winners.

A Gentleman From Mississippi!

By THOMAS A. WISE.

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs.

Copyright, 1909, by Thomas A. Wise

"You've been converted mighty sudden, I reckon, from land speculation to preaching—and preaching, too, against folks who tried to make a fortune for you."

Norton stopped, expecting a reply, but the girl remained silent.

"You think I'm done for, that I've lost my money, that's why you turned from me so quickly," he laughed scornfully. "But I'll show you, you and your blundering old father. I'll win you yet, and I'll ruin your father's political reputation. I'll"—

"Are you quite sure about that?" spoke a voice sharply behind the congressman. He swung around vigorously. Bud Haines had returned in time to hear Norton's threat.

"Yes, and while I'm doing that I'll take time to show you up, too, somehow. I guess a congressman's word will count against that of a cheap secretary—that's what Miss Langdon said you were."

Carolina looked appealingly to Haines to rid her of the presence of this man, whose last words she knew Haines would not believe.

But Norton had had his say. He retreated to the door.

"Miss Langdon," he cried as he backed out and away, "you have an idea that I am dishonest, but kindly remember that, whatever you think I am, I never was a hypocrite."

Haines advanced and procured a chair for Miss Langdon.

"I'm terribly sorry to have come back at such a time," he began.

The girl cut him short with a gesture.

"I want to say to you," she said, then halted—"that I want to be friends with you. I want you to forget the happenings of yesterday—last evening—so far as I was concerned in them. I want to work together with you and father—and so does Randolph. Father and you are standing together to uphold the honor of the Langdons of Mississippi, and Randolph and I, no matter the cost of our former folly, want to share in that work."

Before Haines could reply Senator Langdon burst into the room.

"Bud, Bud," he cried, "I've got it! I've got it!"

"You've got what, senator?" exclaimed the secretary.

"That idea, my boy, that idea! It's incubated all right, and Peabody and Stevens can come just as soon as they want to."

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE BATTLES OF WASHINGTON.

At twenty minutes after 12 Senator Langdon and Secretary Haines were still undisturbed by any move on the part of Peabody and Stevens, who maintained a silence that to Haines was distinctly ominous. His experience at the capitol had taught him that when the senate machine was quiet it was time for some one to get out from under.

Miss Williams, the naval committee's stenographer, entered.

"Senator Langdon," she said, "Senator Peabody and Senator Stevens are in committee room 6, and they told me to tell you that they'd be— I can't say it. Please, sir, I"—

"To tell you that they'd be—"

"D——d," interpolated Langdon, laughing.

"Yes, sir, that's it. They'll be—that—if they come in here at 12:30. You must come to them, they say."

"Tell the gentlemen I'm sitting here with my hat on the back of my head smoking a good see-gar with nails driven through both shoes into the floor—and looking at the clock."

At 12:25 Senator Stevens entered.

"I came to warn you, Langdon," he said, "that Senator Peabody's patience is nearly exhausted. You must come to see him at once if you expect the south to get a naval base at Altacoola or anywhere else. If you do not agree to take his advice this naval bill and any other that you are interested in now or in future will be trampled underfoot in the senate. Mississippi will have no use for a senator who cannot produce results in Washington, and that will prove the bitterest lesson you have ever learned."

"I'm waiting for Peabody here, Stevens."

"Oh, ridiculous! Of course he's not coming. Why, Langdon, he's the king of the senate. He has the biggest men of the country at his call. He's"—

"He's got one minute left," observed Langdon, looking at the clock, "but he'll come. I trust Peabody more than the best clock made at a time like this when"—

The figure of the senior senator from Pennsylvania appeared in the doorway.

"Good day, Senator Langdon," he remarked icily.

"Same to you. Have a see-gar, senator," said Langdon. He turned and winked significantly at Haines.

The three senators seated themselves.

"I suppose you wouldn't consider yourself so important, Langdon, if you knew that we now find we can get another member of the naval affairs committee over to our side for Altacoola," began Peabody. "That gives us a majority of the committee without your vote."

"That wouldn't prevent me from making a minority report for Gulf City and explaining why I made that report, would it?" the Mississippian asked blandly.

Peabody and Stevens both knew that it wouldn't. Stevens exchanged glances with "the boss of the senate" and in low voice began making to Langdon a proposition to which Peabody's assent had been gained.

"Langdon, we would like to be alone," and he nodded toward Haines.

"Sorry can't oblige, senator," Langdon replied. "Bud and I together make up the senator from Mississippi."

"All right. What I want to say is this: The president is appointing a commission to investigate the condition of the unemployed. The members are to go to Europe, five or six countries, and look into conditions there, leisurely, of course, so as to formulate a piece of legislation that will solve the existing problems in this country. A most generous expense account will be allowed by the government. A member can take his family. A son, for instance, could act as financial secretary under liberal pay."

"I've heard of that commission," said Langdon.

"Well, Senator Peabody has the naming of two senators who will go on that commission, and I suggested that your character and ability would make you"—

"Good glory," exclaimed Langdon, "you mean that my character and ability would make me something or other if I kept my mouth shut in the senate this afternoon! Stevens, I've been surprised so many times since I came to the capital that it doesn't affect me any more. I'm just amused at your offer or Senator Peabody's.

"I want to tell you two senators that there's only one thing that I want in Washington—and you haven't offered it to me yet. When you do I'll do business with you."

"What's that? Speak out, man!" said Peabody quickly.

"A square deal for the people of the United States."

"Good Lord!" exclaimed "the boss of the senate." "Is this Washington or is it heaven!"

"It is not heaven, senator," put in Haines.

"Man alive," cried Peabody, "I've been in Washington so long that"—

"So long you've forgotten that the American people really exist," retorted Langdon, "and there are more like you in the senate, all because the voters have no chance to choose their own senators. The public in most states has to take the kind of a senator that the legislature, made up mostly of politicians, feels like making them take. You, Peabody, wouldn't be in the senate today if the voters had anything to say about it."

The Pennsylvanian shrugged his shoulders.

"And now I'll tell you honorable senators," went on Langdon, thoroughly aroused, "something to surprise you. I have discovered that you were not working for yourselves alone in the Altacoola deal, but that you intend to turn your land over to the Standard Steel company at a big profit as soon as this naval base bill is passed. Then that company will squeeze the government for the best part of the hundred millions that are to be spent."

The senator sank back in his chair and gazed at his two opponents.

Those two statesmen jumped to their feet.

"Come, Stevens, let him do what he will. We cannot stay here to be insulted by the ravings of a madman," cried the Pennsylvanian. But he brought his associate to a standstill midway to the door. "By the way, Langdon, what is it you are going to do in the senate this afternoon?" he asked. "You said you were going to make us honest against our will. You know you can't do anything."

Bud Haines turned his face toward the speaker and grinned broadly, to the senator's intense discomfort.

"I'll do more than that," announced Langdon, rising and pounding a fist into his open hand. "I'll make you and Stevens more popular than you ever were in your lives before."

"Bah!" shouted Peabody.

"I'll do even more yet. I'm going to make you generous—patriots. And, I regret to say, I'll give you the chance to make the hits of your careers."

The polished hypocrites looked at him, too astonished to move.

"How? What?" they gasped.

Swept on by his own enthusiasm and the force of his own courageous honesty, the voice of the southerner rose to oratorical height.

"This afternoon," he exclaimed, "when the naval base committee makes its report I will rise in my place and declare that for once in the history of the senate men have been found who place the interests of the government they serve above any chance of pecuniary reward. These men are the members of the naval base committee.

Up-stairs and Down-stairs

If the Main Telephone is downstairs, an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs, a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs in, or near, the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

The additional expense is but trifling—less than two cents a day in connection with a residence contract.

HOLY CROSS BOYS' BASEBALL SCHEDULE

The Holy Cross Club will not go South, so the players say, to warm up for baseball, but in view of President's Taft inauguration and weather conditions prevailing South the boys will limber up on the cricket field before the firing of the first hat at the umpire to signal the opening of the season of 1909. This is the third year of baseball for the youngsters and some by this time are pretty husky and well seasoned. The club is now so large that three teams will be represented on the diamond, known respectively as Holy Cross, Holy Cross Seconds and Holy Cross Thirds.

The schedule for the first team is entirely filled up to July 1. The seconds and thirds have some open dates. The manager of the seconds, Raymond Kenyon, is looking for fit material in the way of opponents and the youngsters of the thirds under the management of George Ball, Jr., are seeking bantam weights to take a fall out of, and be it remembered that this team will be as bright and fresh (?) as their new uniforms.

The schedule of Holy Cross Club reads as follows:

April 3 and April 10, practice games with Trinity Reformed on Cricket Field; April 17, Rahway High School at Rahway; April 21, Bound Brook High at Bound Brook; April 24, Hamilton A. C., of Rahway on Cricket Field; April 28, The V. V. Club of Roselle on Cricket Field; May 1, Somerville High School on Cricket Field; May 5, Rutgers Prep School at New Brunswick; May 8, Plainfield High School at Plainfield; May 12, Bound Brook High School on the Cricket Field; May 15, Rahway High School on the Cricket Field; May 19, Rutgers Prep School on the Cricket Field; May 22, North Plainfield High School on the Cricket Field; May 26, Somerville High School at Somerville; May 29, V. V. C. of Roselle on the Cricket Field; May 31, (Memorial Day), D. A. C., of Brooklyn on Cricket Field; June 2, High Bridge High School at High Bridge; June 5, Hamilton A. C. at Rahway; June 9, Somerville High at Somerville; June 12, High Bridge High School on Cricket Field; June 16, Iolas of Plainfield on Cricket Field; June 19, D. A. C. at Brooklyn; June 23, Hamilton A. C. on Cricket Filed; June 26, Crescent Athletic Club of Milltown, N. J., on Cricket Field.

BIG CROWD WATCHES A BOWLING TOURTEY

The two-man bowling tournament at Johnny Campbell's alleys attracted a big crowd of enthusiasts last night and the bowlers all had their friends present to cheer and encourage them in putting up big scores. There were a number of double centuries and the bowling was close and exciting from start to finish. The scores:

BASEBALL.

The Plainfield A. C. would like to arrange games with teams in Plainfield and vicinity to be played on the opponents' diamond. Teams played last year are requested to send open dates to C. R. Pope, 173 North avenue, this city.

WOMEN WILL AID ATHLETIC FIELD PROJECT

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., will help the athletic field fund by holding a sale of home-made articles, second hand books, ice cream and cake, on March 30, afternoon and evening. A fifty cent supper will be served in the association hall between 6 and 7:03 o'clock.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will furnish music. No admission will be charged, but there will be plenty of useful articles on sale at a moderate price.

Men's Marathon.

Registration and entry for the A. A. U. five mile marathon race to be held here April 10, may be made with Physical Director G. L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A. This is a men's race and is open to everyone over 16.

PERSONAL.

Miss Femley, of Femley Farm, Lebanon, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. William P. Orr, of Lewes, Delaware, is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. A. S. Herr, of East Front street..

Mrs. Frank Wikoff, of West Fourth street, has returned home after a ten days' visit with her sister in Bristol, Pa.

Mrs. Martin I. Cooley and her son, Gifford Cooley, who have spent the winter in Cuba, have returned to their home on Rockview terrace.

Miss Ellen Caleen, of Providence, R. I., who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Caleen, of Orchard place, started this afternoon for her parents' home, Hammar, Sweden, sailing on the steamer United States.

Miss Louise Hooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, was one of the guests who assisted at the meeting of Bondinot Chapter, D. A. R., on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Stephen J. Keefe, Elizabeth.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Isaac Stevens, of Dunellen, who underwent an operation at the hospital for the removal of a part of the foot, was discharged from the institution yesterday.

—Lovers of pure olive oil will thoroughly appreciate that sold by Neuman Brothers, which is imported direct by the firm. It is sold in quantities to suit the purchaser.

—Caroline Bogan, the two and a half year old daughter of Mrs. Theressa Bogan, of West Third street, who is ill at the hospital with scarlet fever, is reported today as being in a critical condition. The other two children who are ill at the hospital with the same disease are doing well.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS' TENURE BILL OFFERED.

A committee substitute for House 82, known as the teachers' tenure of office bill, was reported in the Assembly Tuesday at Trenton. It will be amended next week by Mr. Radcliffe, of Passaic, who introduced the original measure, as he thinks the substitute, if enacted into law, would have the effect practically of nullifying the proposed reforms.

The main think the substitute does would be to establish a probationary period of three years before the provisions of the act could be of beneficial worth to teachers. In other words, a teacher, whether a beginner or whether she may have taught for twenty years, would first have to be on probation for three years before she could benefit by the act. During this probationary period the teacher is amenable to discharge as at present. The substitute would also define the specific form of hearing charges.

The substitute was prepared by Mr. McKeag, of Middlesex, a member of the Committee on Education, and who has had several public school bills in this session.

TALK OF DORY STRONG AS NEXT PROSECUTOR.

One of the interesting but almost incredible rumors in the State house corridors Tuesday at Trenton was that Governor Fort intended to nominate Theodore Strong as prosecutor of the pleas of Middlesex county.

Until Monday the place was held by George Berdine by executive appointment. Since then, when his term expired, he has held the office through temporary appointment by the county judge. Governor Fort knew that yesterday and said he had not determined on Berdine's successor.

Mr. Strong, better known as "Dory" Strong, who retired from politics as a prerequisite to his present appointment as a member of the State Board of Assessors, says he thinks Berdine will be reappointed.

Will Give "Damon and Pythias."

Under the auspices of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., a drama entitled "Damon and Pythias," will be presented in the lodge rooms tomorrow night by Newton Beers, a gifted impersonator. It will be a "ladies' night" affair. General Lew Wallace highly endorses Mr. Beers as one of the best entertainers before the American public.

Unearthed Bottle of Water.

While excavating in the rear of Debele and Stahl's store on Somerset street this morning, the workmen came upon a bottle half filled with clear water. The bottle, which was of old fashion design such as was used as a medicine flask a century or more ago, was found about four feet from the surface.

Baseball at P. H. S.

Outdoor baseball practice is being held by the P. H. S. ball team. There are about twenty-five candidates for the nine. The presence of several of last year's players and the good material exhibited in the new candidates points towards a successful season.

Rev. W. W. Newberry will give a Bible reading in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and tomorrow night at 7:30. Part of the time will be devoted to the Sunday-school lesson.

GREET PASTOR AND WIFE

First Baptists Hold Annual Reception for Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Chambliss.

MUSICAL PROGRAM PROVIDED.

Mrs. David J. Yerkes Assisted in Receiving—Refreshments Were Served to Visitors.

The annual reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss at the First Baptist church, last night, was attended by nearly three hundred members of the church and congregation and proved a happy affair, affording all an opportunity to become better acquainted with the pastor and his wife. They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, wife of the late beloved pastor.

The reception was held in the Sunday-school room and this was elaborately decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and potted plants, while the platform, where the guests were received, was made attractive with handsome rugs, easy chairs and flowers. The numerous incandescent lights were shaded by red crepe paper giving a soft subdued light.

During the evening there was an informal program of music furnished by William E. MacClymont at the piano and William Van Eps on the mandolin. A program of classical and popular selections were rendered to the pleasure of all. Sociability was the predominant feature of the affair and everyone joined in making it a success. There were also present Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn and members of the Park Avenue Baptist church and Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson and members of the Temple Baptist church to extend greetings.

Miss Ida Yerkes was chairman of the general committee and Mrs. Harold Serrell was chairman of the refreshment committee with the following as assistants: Mrs. Louis Matlack, Mrs. George H. Robins, Mrs. F. O. Dunning, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, Miss Jennie Whitney. The following women were waitresses, serving ice cream, cake and coffee: The Misses Helen Armstrong, Helen Adams, Ada Fountain, Carrie Coombs, Alice Drake, Marguerite Dodge, Alene Carver, Ruth Moore, Carrie Demler, Gladys Leland and Leona Billion. Mrs. Robert Lowry was in charge of the musical program for the evening.

MRS. VIOLET T. JOHNSON OBTAINS DIVORCE DECREE

In the Court of Chancery a decree has been entered in favor of Mrs. Violet T. Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Truell, of Truell Hall, granting her a divorce from her husband, Robert T. Johnston. She is given the sole custody of her two children, and is awarded permanent alimony.

The decree, which was obtained for Mrs. Johnston by Craig A. Marsh, becomes absolute in the course of six months from its date unless appealed from or cause is shown otherwise.

Italian Mission Growing.

Interest in the Italian mission is increasing steadily and the members now want the place open every night. They are learning English rapidly and are very anxious to make progress in this respect. At the meeting last night twenty Italians were present and arrangements are being made to hold a musical. The Sunday morning services are well attended and all enjoy the preaching of Rev. Antonio Melino. Hymns are sung in Italian and English. Steps are now being taken to form a quartet to assist in the singing at the various meetings.

Trace Stolen Watch Here.

Samuel Cutler, colored, was arrested in Westfield this morning upon the identification of a Westfield Italian from whom he stole a gold watch and chain last night. Cutler did not have the time-piece, but the police learned that he had come to this city after "lifting" it, and had been seen at a local poolroom. He says he spent the night at Miss Robinson's, on Arlington avenue. The police are trying to locate the watch and chain in this city.

Rev. Mr. Broek to Assist.

The installation of Rev. Garret M. Conover as pastor of the Grand Avenue Reformed church, Asbury Park, will take place Tuesday night, April 13. The charge to the congregation will be by their former pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, now pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

WEATHER.

Showers tonight; showers followed by fair and colder Saturday. Maximum, 45; minimum, 23.

DR J. ACKERMAN COLES' GIFT TO OLD NASSAU

Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, has just announced an endowment for Princeton University, whereby Clio Hall, the sister organization to Whig Hall, which was founded as a literary and debating society by James Madison, President of the United States, is the beneficiary. His gift provides that the accumulated interest on $1,000, a sum of $160, shall be applied every four years for the purchase of a portrait bust of George Washington, to be cast in bronze at the Bartedienne foundry in France, from the model made from life by Jean Antoine Houdon in 1788.

The bust is to be given to the member of Clio Hall, or the Cliosophic Society as it is formally called, who in the opinion of the judges selected by the society shall after the delivery of a patriotic address, be judged most worthy of receiving the prize.

It is the expressed wish of the donor that one of the judges be the president of the university and that the contest be held in public. Both the Clisoophoic Society and American Whig Society are secret organizations occupying two white marble buildings on the campus known as Whig and Clio Hall. Arrangements are under way for the first contest to be held shortly.

VETERINARIAN INSPECTS THE BOROUGH DOGS

Dr. Lewis S. Pocock, veterinary surgeon, was appointed by Mayor Samuel Townsend this morning to inspect all of the dogs in the borough suspected of having been bitten by the rabid canine which was shot a few days ago following its sensational run through the streets.

Dr. Pocock will be able to recognize the symptoms associated with the approach of the disease on their first appearance, signs that to the layman would hardily be noticed. All dogs under suspicion are locked up by their owners and will be subjected to close watch for several weeks. No new cases have as yet been reported but the authorities are determined to forestall if possible, a repetition of the occurrence of Tuesday, which endangered the lives of several citizens and spread more or less consternation over both sides of the brook.

One of the first indications of approaching hydrophobia is a change of moods. The dog will become restless; his eyes will appear bright and an unquenchable thirst will be followed by a swelling of the throat, which will develope to such an extent that the dog will be unable to drink water. This occurs during the latter stages and causes the animal to start on the inevitable rampage.

NEGROES SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED FRANCHISE

That the Constitutional amendment, enacted just after the Civil War was closed, was an almost fatal mistake so far as popular and good government is concerned, was the point made by Frank Bergen, chief counsel to the P. S. C., at the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick dinner.

"The Fifteenth Amendment was a mistake," said the speaker. "It gave the right of franchise to people who have not proved their claim to it. Our newly seated President, whose double we have with us tonight in the person of General Collins in physical make-up, as well as horse sense, has stated that the Fifteenth Amendment should nullified if it is not abrogated. Lincoln gave his best efforts for the liberating of the negro, but he made it plain that he did not intend to regard the colored man as his social equal. He stated that certain rights of the negro should be respected, but that he did not feel called upon to accept him in social intercourse. This is a big problem, but we are coming to realize that the famous Fifteenth Amendment should never have been adopted."

Home Department Growing.

The visitors of the Home department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Ross, Prospect place, and was greatly encouraged by the announcement that thirty-eight new members have joined the department. This fact became known through the report of the visitors. The department having grown so fast it was found necessary to appoint five additional visitors. After the business part of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

RUN A DEUTSCHE MARKET

Young Women of Trinity Separate Patrons From Their Coin for Missions.

EATABLES AT THE BOOTHS.

Dressed as Dutch Girls, Young Women Appease Appetites of the Hungry Crowd.

An old "Dutsche Market," not at Dem Haag nor at New Amsterdam, but at Trinity Dutch Reformed church Sunday-school room, attracted a goodly number of people last night. As a result the Young Women's Mission Band, under whose auspices it was conducted, realized a snug sum for missionary effort. That the transformation of the spacious room into a typical market scene was complete was apparent from the moment one stepped in the front door. Scattered about were the booths of various shapes and for various purposes. Behind these booths were the market people, not little fat and ruddy face maidens but bright eyed young women garbed as Dutch girls whose persuasive arguments induced the customers to part with their coin in exchange for good things to eat. Many dishes to be found on the average dining table in Holland were to be found here and there and were almost as varied as the American dishes.

On entering the market, the patron was given a dish and napkin, and was allowed to make his own selection as he passed from booth to booth, tables being provided where he could enjoy his repast. On these tables were neat menus artistically decorated by Miss Emma Ryno. It was a unique affair, well planned and skilfully managed. The entertainment committee consisted of Miss Mabel Wilson, chairman, and the Misses Etta Raybert, Lillian A. Force and Edna Dilts and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, Mrs. A. R. Cole, Mrs. George Mantz, Mrs. Lorenzo Townley, Mrs. Harry Cooke and Mrs. Corra Ryno. These were the booths and their managers:

Baked beans and cheese—Miss Lillian A. Force, Mrs. Lillian Dunn, Miss Gertrude Schleif; potato salad and stuffed eggs—Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. Harry MacDonald; frankfurters and sauer kraut—Miss Etta Raybert, Miss Cora Miller; cold meat and pickles—Mrs. Elizabeth Zeisz, Mrs. Frank C. Krewson; bread and butter—Mrs. H. C. Van Emburgh, Mrs. A. B. Davis; pie and cake—Mrs. Harry Cooke, Mrs. A. B. Cole; coffee—Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Miss Jessie Hockridge, Miss Cecilia Anderson; ice cream—Miss Mabel Wilson, Miss Charlotte Wilson, Miss Ethel Vail, William J. Trembath; candy—Mrs. F. S. Cutter, Miss May Van Fleet; popcorn—Miss Edna Dilts, Miss Edna Cole; tulip bed—Mrs. George Mantz, Mrs. D. J. Krymer, Mrs. W. F. Oliver, Miss Margaret Van de Venter; plates and napkins—Miss Margaret Leggett, Miss Helen Smith; tables—Mrs. Corra Ryno, Mrs. H. F. Crawford; kitchen—Mrs. Leonard Smith; reception—Miss Wilhemina Vroom, Mrs. Lorenzo Townley, Mrs. William Olmstead; cloak room—Harry F. Crawford.

The waitresses were: Misses Helen Roberts, Helen Wooley, Rosamund Rogers, Madeline Strader, Helen Crane, Edna Oliver, Gertrude Enander, Juliet Hill, Hazel Patrick, Emma Ryno, Ida Van Arsdale, Helen Hummel, Ida Hummel and Elsie Tie:.

A. E. FORCE SURPRISED ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The employes of "The White Store," to the number of about fifty, tendered a complete surprise to A. E. Force, the proprietor, at his home on West Front street, Wednesday night. The evening was given up to playing games, dancing and a program of vocal and instrumental music. A feature was vocal selections by a quartet from the store, comprising Lawrence O'Neil, Charles Kreger, Daniel Warner and Irving Beninger. During the evening an elaborate supper was served.

The home was appropriately decorated for the occasion in honor of St. Patrick's Day, and nothing was left undone in making the affair a complete success. Mr. Force thanked one and all for their kind remembrance of him and wished them continued success.

TO HAVE DISTRICT COURT

Senator Frelinghuysen's Bill Would Create Another Office in Somerset Co.

SEVERAL CANDIDATES ALREADY

Isaac P. Runyon, Frederick E. Pope and Others Are Groomed for the Possible Job.

Somerset county will have a district court provided a measure introduced in the Senate on Monday night by Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of that county, becomes a law. The bill in question has for its object the incorporation of the first judicial district of Somerset and includes Bound Brook, South Bound Brook, North Plainfield, Rocky Hill, Bedminster, Branchburg, Bridgewater, Franklin, Hillsboro, Montgomery and Warren. In other words it includes all the county's territory excepting Millstone borough, where there are but forty-eight voters.

Senator Frelinghuysen explains his omission of Millstone as due to the wording of the act of 1908 which was fathered by Senator Wakelee, of Bergen. To have included the entire county would have been fatal he says, for the law provides for the separating of the given county, where there is no community of more than 17,000 population, into judicial districts. This applied particularly to Bergen county at the time and it was for its relief that the law was passed. The district judge by its provisions may hold his court in any part of the district from time to time as occasion demands. The salary attached to the office is $1,200 a year.

There were several candidates being groomed for the nomination which would be made by the Governor at the suggestion of the Senator. Chief among these is Isaac P. Runyon, of North Plainfield, a lieutenant of the Frelinghuysen-Smalley organization. Former Mayor Smalley's friends are backing him strongly arguing that the position should go to North Plainfield. Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, is also being boomed particularly in the Bridgewater section. Recorder Charles Dolliver, of North Plainfield, and Henry B. Suydam are also mentioned for the position. It is expected, however, that Senator Frelinghuysen will consult with his lieutenants before making any recommendation should the bill be passed.

WOMAN MEETS DEATH AT DUNELLEN CROSSING

Mrs. Sarah Humble, mother of Thomas Humble, of Dunellen, was struck and instantly killed on the Chestnut street crossing of the New Jersey Central at Dunellen, at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon by a Philadelphia "flyer." She was accompanied by her grandson and, it is said, that in trying to save his life lost her own.

The woman and the boy were going over the crossing, which is unprotected by gates, and it is said that the train bore down on her so quickly that she became confused.

The body was horribly mangled and for this reason made the identification process a slow one. Walter G. Runyon, the undertaker at Dunellen, took charge of the remains and they were removed to the morgue at that place. An investigation will be made at once.

L. M. Tesler to Speak Here.

Luther M. Tesler, field secretary of the National Baraca Union, and a talented speaker, will address a meeting to be held at the Temple Baptist church, on Thursday night, March 25, under the auspices of the Baraca Society. Mr. Tesler has just returned from an extended trip through New York State in the interest of the movement and now plans to visit New Jersey. He has had great success in his work of increasing interest among the members and Rev. J. W. Musson has extended an inivtation to the members of all the churches to attend this meeting.

Studying Road Building.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, who has been in Boston, this week, attending a conference of civil engineers and learning something about modern methods of road building with a view to obviating the dust nuisance. He will return home tomorrow.

Senator Ackerman Will Assist.

State Senators Ernest R. Ackerman, Wakelee and Gebhardt have been appointed by President Robbins of the Senate as members of the joint committee to investigate the report by the commission on the revision of the election laws.

SHE RECOVERS HER CHILD

Mrs. J. Martial, with Aid of Squire Hand, Gets Her Offspring Back.

SCENE AT GRANDMOTHER'S.

Justice of the Peace Proudly Displays His Badge and Quotes One Bill Blackstone.

Justice of the Peace Hezekiah Hand played a prominent part in an elaborately worked up plan for the recovery of four-year-old Beulah Smalley, who was taken from the home of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. William Hoppock, of Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, by her mother, Mrs. Jennie Martial, of Somerset street. The foxy "Marrying Justice of Union County" was really responsible for the success of the plan, for he unassumingly displayed his official badge as court officer when Mrs. Hoppock and her seventeen-year-old son George, sought to rush past him from the room and take the little girl away from its mother. Mrs. Martial made a quick "getaway" down the stairs with her little daughter, who was but partly dressed, in her arms. The Judge placed himself squarely in the doorway of the room, where he had been engaging Mrs. Hoppock in conversation, and causually reminded the two as they sought to push him aside, that any such action would be an assaul . And mother and child are now really at home in Mrs. Martial's house on Somerset street.

Walter Smalley, who is Mrs. Martial's husband, is serving a three-year term in the Essex County jail for bigamy, for he left his local wife and family last September and married seventeen-year-old Kittie Eustis, of Westfield. He was sentenced by Judge TenEyck about two months ago. Bitterness is said to have existed between the deserted wife and Mrs. Hoppock, her mother-in-law, since the Plainfield woman testified that she was the wife of Smalley, showing her marriage certificate at the trial which culminated in his commitment. There were three children, and the two younger ones, Beatrice and an infant son, have been living with their mother on Somerset street. Beulah was with her grandmother, at Mrs. Hoppock's home on Park avenue, Scotch Plains.

Since Smalley's commitment, Beulah's mother has made several attempts to get the child. On each occasion she was prevented from taking the little girl, and has recently been refused admittance to the house according to report. Mrs. Martial, for she has again assumed her maiden name, went to Judge Hand at the suggestion of her attorney, and the two worked up the plan for Beulah's recovery. They went to Mrs. Hoppock's apartments together yesterday afternoon.

At the suggestion of the Judge, Mrs. Martial "laid low," according to the story, while the shrewd justice, who is not known to Mrs. Hoppock, entered her apartments and discoursed fervidly on such enthralling subjects as the tariff, and Roosevelt's chances against the African okapi. It worked. Mrs. Martial soon found the little girl, who was playing about the rooms, and engaged her in conversation. At the psychological moment, the mother concluded to leave the house, and carried the child, who had been sitting on her lap, along with her.

It is said that Mrs. Hoppock and her son, George, who is a burly lad, made a dash for the doorway when they heard Mrs. Martial descending the stairs and missed little Beulah. The Judge, who was politely taking leave, managed to block most of the doorway, and when the two rushed at him, calmly "flashed" his badge, and started to quote Blackstone on assault.

"I got out all right myself," said the Judge, "when they found out who I was, and I guess it's a good thing to get the little girl back with her mother again. Her legal home, you understand, is with her mother anyway."

Says Bacon Never Owned Property.

Harry Dreier, of West Front street, who purchased from the city the Experience Moe property on New street, has not yet obtained possession of the property, because Frank M. Bacon, the present occupant, refuses to give it up. Mr. Dreier has taken the matter into the courts and in this way he expects to get the property. Mr. Dreier says that an investigation shows that Mr. Bacon never owned the property and is not entitled to retain it. Mr. Dreier purchased it from the city by paying the taxes and interests, for which he received a deed.

BOYS ARE GUESTS AT Y. M. C. A. BANQUET

Forty boys of the Y. M. C. A. were given a banquet last night in the association parlors by the boys' work committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The boys so honored were those who had brought in new members since December, together with the new ones.

The committee in charge of the banquet, comprised Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, chairman; Mrs. C. E. Steiner, Mrs. M. E. McGrath, Mrs. G. W. Rittenhouse, Mrs. J. M. Lewis and Miss Swain.

Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church, made a speech in which he impressed the young men with the importance of fair play in sports, and denounced petty grafting practiced by some boys who take an interest in an organization only at times when they can get something out of it and without putting anything in.

Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., made a talk on the subject of character, explaining the type of boy the association is trying to cultivate. It's aim being to inspire manliness and self reliance.

Addresses were also made by Charles B. Batchelor, boy's work director, and George L. Listman, physical director. H. W. Rankin entertained the youthful guests with feats of magic and sleight of hand tricks.

THEIR AUTOMOBILE RIDE CAME TO A SAD ENDING

As a culmination of an automobile ride last night, in which William Eustis, of Westfield, was accompanied by two local women, the rear wheel of the machine, a Buick runabout, was smashed near the Oak Tree school house, when the car skidded into the brick bridge on Park avenue. None of the occupants were injured. The automobile belonged to Dr. John H. Corbin, of Summit avenue, Westfield, by whom Eustis is employed as chauffeur.

The party were on a pleasure trip, and were bowling along through Oak Tree toward this city early in the evening, when Eustis turned to one side to pass a wagon. The automobile ran into a soft part of the road, and he lost control of it, so that it skidded into the bridge, smashing one of the rear wheels.

Eustis telephoned to a local garage and an automobile from it brought the party to this city. A wheel was fitted to the disabled Buick, which was brought to the garage. Eustis and his friends went to a local hotel, where they ordered dinners. When the bill was presented he said he had no money. Up to this afternoon he had made no settlement for the refreshments.

POLICE ARE HUNTING FOR THIS JEWELRY THIEF

A sneak thief, who entered the apartments of Charles A. Miles, of Somerset street, Wednesday afternoon and stole jewelry and silverware valued at about $300, is believed by the police to be the same man who worked successfully in the apartment of William Courtney, of North avenue, the same afternoon and made a haul of jewelry valued at $200. The apartments of Mr. Miles were entered, when no one was at home. The sneak thief got away with two lockets, three gold rings, set with diamonds and an opal, one heavy gold bracelet, a silver hair brush, and a lot of silver tableware. The stolen valuable were for the most part wedding presents.

The borough police are co-operating with Chief Kiely in an effort to recover the stolen property and effect the thief's arrest. The fact that operations in both instances were carried on in practically the same way leads the police to believe that one man is implicated in both cases.

Sunday-school Elects Officers.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church elected these officers at the annual meeting Wednesday night: Superintendent, L. H Gates; assistant, A. V. Searing, Jr.; second assistant, Mrs. Harry Williams; secretary, Russell Bond; assistant, Edgar George; treasurer, Jesse Lounsbury; superintendent primary department, Miss Ella Lounsbury; superintendent home department, Mrs. E. W. Poinier; pianist, Miss Clara Van Fleet. Freeman Shotwell tendered his resignation as treasurer after a service of fifteen years. It was with regret that he gave up the office. The school numbers 270 and 34 officers and teachers.

ICE PRICE NOT TO SOAR

Business Men Interested in Project That Will Mean no Scarcity of Commodity.

CONCERN'S CAPITAL IS $100,000.

Capacity of Plant to Fifty Tons a Day—Wealthy Men Are Promoters of the Enterprise.

If extensive plans now under consideration materialize, Plainfielders may be able to purchase ice this summer for thirty cents a hundred, while the wholesale price will be twenty-five cents a hundred. A company is now being formed and stock is being subscribed for by many business men and other residents of the city. John D. Loizeaux, William R. Codington, John E. Dunn and Fred Endress are promoting the scheme and already $30,000 has been secured toward carrying out the project which will cost $100,000.

The plan is to issue and sell $50,000 worth of common stock and $50,000 worth of preferred stock. The proposition is to erect a modern hygeia ice plant on the Loizeaux property on Madison avenue, adjoining the railroad, formerly known as the Hetfield property. The capacity of the plant will be fifty tons a day and it is proposed to award the contract to F. W. Wolf, of New York, the system to be the latest and most approved.

In addition the company proposes to install large coal pockets and retail black diamonds. This will be done after the ice plant is installed and put in running order. There will be a meeting of those interested in the project tonight when it is expected to definitely decide on plans. If the contract is awarded at once, Mr. Wolf agrees to erect the plant and have it in operation by June 1.

One of the attractive features of the proposition is that all stockholders will be given a discount of ten per cent. on their bills for ice and this will bring the cost within a very reasonable figure. The proposition has been received with great favor by all who have been interviewed on the subject and the promoters feel confident of success.

"THE FORTUNE HUNTERS" MAKE ROOSEVELT LAUGHS.

That Plainfield furnishes an exceptionally particular audience was testified to recently in a lengthy interview given by Wilton Lackaye in the New York Herald. Mr. Lackaye, who has made a decided hit here on more than one occasion, in referring to the dramatic poverty of some Broadway successes (?) expressed himself in this language:

"I tell you there are some things on view at some of the houses that would not be tolerated fifty miles away from here—say in Plainfield, New Jersey."

The New Plainfield theatre last night housed an audience typical of this "New Yorkers' roost," because Thos. W. Ross, presented by Cohan and Harris, billed for his third appearance in "The Fortune Hunters" acted as a magnet for theatre-goers. When it was all over, when the hero had married the right girl and when everything had turned out just as the reader of a love novel would have wished it, Plainfield spelled "The Fortune Hunters" S-U-C-C-E-S-S. When it strikes Broadway on Easter Monday night, Thomas Ross and his excellent support may depend upon it that they are in for a run that will extend until the snow flies again. And say, didn't Mary Ryan act just great?

Seventh-Day Baptist.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, left yesterday to visit and do a few days' missionary work with the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Salemville, Va. His pulpit will be occupied tomorrow by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Pastor Shaw's class for Bible study will be omitted this week. The meeting of the Men's Association on Sunday evening will be addressed by William C. Hubbard. The subject will be "Light and Illumination."

Christian Endeavor Conference.

The Union County Christian Endeavor extension committee will hold its next meeting Friday night, March 26, at the Garwood chapel. The societies that have been invited to join in this conference include the Cranford Presbyterian, Elizabeth East Baptist, Second Presbyterian and Greystone Presbyterian, Locust Grove, Branch Mills, Willow Grove and Second Presbyterian of Rahway.

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

Smart Spring Clothes
For Men of Taste

According to the calendar, next Sunday is the first day of Spring. But calendar or no calendar it's Spring in earnest throughout our store.

The range of styles and fabrics from which to choose, in our New Spring Clothes for Men and Young Men, has never been greater—a statement full of meaning.

M. & B. styles and values should not be confused with ordinary ready-to-wear clothes; they are different. There is a distinctive air of refinement about them that marks the wearer as a fashionable dresser.

Here are styles, fabrics and prices in Suits and Overcoats, to satisfy the taste of every man—from the most conservative to the most radical.

Spring Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats. $12 to $30.

Special! Boys' Two-Piece Suits, $5
With Extra Bloomer Trousers.

Few stores, indeed, provide equally smart and handsome Clothing for youngsters. We're ready with a complete showing of Boys' Spring Suits, in all the new styles and fabrics, at attractive prices. But this Special Offering at $5 is particularly inviting. Just in time for Easter, too. They're suits you'd pay $7.50 for in most stores.

Men's Sample Oxfords
$5, $6, 7 and $8 values $3.85

This sale began today with a rush. That's the usual result of an M. & B. Shoe Sale. These are High Grade Sample Spring Oxfords and Shoes. Were made by a prominent manufacturer to retail at $5, $6, $7 and $8. There are about 800 pairs to choose from, in a wide assortment of styles and leathers.

A Picturesque Panorama of Fashionable Finery!

Thousands will bear witness to the fact that in no other Newark store is there assembled such a magnificent collection of wearables for women, misses and children as has been shown these Spring Inaugural Days. The exhibition we have been making has been the talk of the town. Not only are the windows displays gorgeous, but the departments are in fine array and are crowded with apparel that is winning the admiration of all who visit the store.

We have told little stories of the hats, the dresses and the tailored suits for women. Today we tell in brief detail of some of the coats and wraps, and of the gowns for girls. But we cannot hope in any of these descriptions to adequately convey to you what you ought to know about the charming creations that are on view. One or more visits to the store are imperative to your full understanding of the beauties and merits of the apparel we present for your edification.

This Word of the Coats

Sureley never before has our Coat Section been so completely stocked with high-class garments. Long coats, of course, predominate, and those of bengaline, satin, serge and covert cloth are much in favor.

A Directoire Coat of Blue Serge is one of the most talked of in the whole collection. It is a full-length model, 52 inches long, and elaborately trimmed with braid, each of the eleven buttons running in a close row from the collar to below the bust being buttoned with braid loops—a striking and most novel effect. The collar and cuffs are of natural rajah, piped with green, ornamented with large buttons touched with gold; trimmed on the side about the hip with three bands and with buttons—a coat you should certainly see; priced $39.50

May be had in black as well as blue.

A Black Silk Braid Coat is one of the beautiful things of which we are proud—one of those that cannot well be described in a pen picture; priced $22.50

Another beautiful coat of Black Serge of a striking, clean-cut model with bengaline silk collar, with satin buttons and trimmings; a coat that you will admire much and that will be much worn by dressy women, at $25

A Tan Pongee Coat in full length—particularly pretty with its braid and silk trimmings and its big black buttons on front and on pockets; it buttons with three buttons and opens slightly from the waist down; cuffs are in novel pattern—a splendid garment for $22.50

A Black Broadcloth Coat in three-quarter length is particularly fetching; the collar is faced with black corded silk, trimmed otherwise with silk and buttons—a very neat model for only $19.50

A Coat of Black Voile is one of the dressiest things in the whole collection; effectively trimmed about the collar with moire braid, with a stripe of moire running down either side, ending with rows of buttons and braid. Priced only $25

A Gorgeous Evening Wrap of beautiful net, handsomely silk embroidered in floral and bowknot designs, with white, fluffy sleeves and bottom, trimmed with chiffon, flowing gracefully; made over white silk and white chiffon—a wrap that cost to import $175; secured by us for our opening display; will be sold at the low price of $89

Another Evening Wrap of Handsome Net is elaborately appliqued with braid and silk, with beautiful scarf of chiffon in a flowing, fluffy effect running to the bottom of the wrap from the chiffon mock ruff; sleeves running from full puff at the shoulder to a fairly close-fitting wrist; skirt of the coat slashed in several points, filled with chiffon and beautified with satin ribbon; import cost of this beautiful garmen $175; sell for $95

Fine Offers For Girls in Pretty Spring Suits

Ten particularly nobby styles of Girls' Tailored Suits and Coats in semi-fittedl or hipless models, in all the fashionable lengths, with the newest of skirts; the fabrics embracing striped prunellas and chiffon panamas in rose, new blue, reseda, taupe and navy; also imported serges in the same shades, and shepherd checks in black, tan and green; some are strictly tailored, while others are chramingly trimmed with bengaline and other soft silks and braid. Sizes for girls of 12, 14 and 16 years; suits easily worth $25; priced at $19.50

Girls' 3-Piece Jumper Suits of fine Serge, in navy, reseda, rose, navy blue and gray, and dainty shepherd checks; coats semi-fitted, satin lined; collars inlaid with silk; skirts with deep plaited hem; skirt lengths 26 to 32, coming to the shoe tops; sizes for girls of 11, 13 and 15; would sell readily enough at $20—equal to any in other stores at that price; offered here at $15

Girls' Handsome Two-Piece Coat Suits in attractive and fashionable models, made of fine Panama and Plain Invisible Striped Serges in all the newest Spring shades, including rich navy blue; coats beautifully tailored and effectively trimmed with silk braid and buttons; for girls of 12, 14 and 16; two leading values being suits that should sell at $19.50 and $24.50; here tomorrow at only $12.98 and.... $15

$5 Dress Skirts for Girls, made in the new circular and gored models; some trimmed with straps and folds; all wool panama in black, navy and brown; leengths 33 to 37; waist 22 to 25; at the exceptionally low price of $2.98

Children's Dresses in most attractive styles at only $1.
Junior Department, Second Floor, Front.

Setting the Pace in Pricing Women's Spring Gowns

The Women's Apparel Store has never presented more attractive features than have been planned for tomorrow's selling. The collection of tailored suits and smart dresses for women and misses has never been better, the selection of styles never more varied or pleasing than now, and no store will offer anything like equal suits and dresses at as low prices.

Two and Three Piece Suits of fine Chiffon Panama with new straight hip coat fancy belt trimming—handsome Directoire effect; medium or long lengths; generously trimmed with buttons; handsomely lined; self-trimmed with satin; good value at $26; offered at $18.98

Fine Serge Suits—Hipless model, long lines; finely tailored, with notched collar and cuffs; prettily trimmed with buttons; the much-called-for inverted side plait skirt; various colors to choose from; excellent value at $31; special priced $22.98

Handsome Lingerie Dresses, fully trimmed with beautiful lace and insertions; Directoire sash; full skirt with long lines; excellent models; in all the new shades as well as white; would be counted good as $17; special priced $11.98

Smart Two-Piece Linen Suits with slashed, embroidered skirt with full insertions; long slashed coat, with Empire back; heavy lace trimmed; crochet buttons; tucked sleeves; may be had in pink, blue and white; all wanted sizes; we count them good value at $13; your pick tomorrow..... $7.98

Empire Princess Dresses of soft Satin Finished Messaline; fine lace yoke with pin tucking in clusters; demi or round lengths; new shirred sleeves; with large buttons to match; here in catawba, reseda and other colors for street and afternoon wear as well as black; would sell readily enough at $20.-98—a fair valuation; special priced $14.50

Pretty Lingerie Princess Dresses—circular yoke; full lace or insertions; sleeves prettily trimmed to match, cluster plaited; high belt—a stunning Empire effect; here in all the best shades and white; good value at $7.98; a big feature for Saturday's selling at $4.98

Jumper Dresses in checks; made with deep embroidered yoke and shoulder pieces; lace edge; fancy vlvet beading trimming and bows to match; pretty full skirts with folds; good value at $4; special priced $2.98

Misses' Suits of Chiffon Panama and Fancy Mixtures—the newest models with self-colored bengaline collars; generously trimmed with butons; fine satin lining; excellent value at $20; to be sold Saturday at $13.98

Misses' Jumper Dresses of Fancy Washable materials; light and medium colors, plaids and checks; trimmed with piping of self-color linen, and numerous buttons; would be cheap at $3; to be sold here tomorrow at $1.98

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Samuel W. Downer, one of the most prominent citizens of Gloucester county, is very ill at his home in Downer.

"How to Obtain a Living" is the subject of a lecture to be given by George H. Gabel, national organizer of the Socialistic party, in Glassboro, this evening.

Fire yesterday destroyed a storehouse in the rear of the Strattan Mansion, on Main street, Millville. A fierce gale carried huge sparks and cinders two and three blocks, and at one time six buildings were on fire.

A lot of shoes stolen from the store of L. Win & Co., at Williamstown, by an umbrella mender a few weeks ago, were found hidden under the cement block house of Geo. E. Giberson. The thief is in Woodbury jail.

An application of Francis X. Kaiser, for a retail liquor license at 1426 Broadway, was granted by the Camden Excise Board last night, and the board then adopted a resolution to grant no more licenses this year.

Work of the "flim-flammers" caused several complaints to be made to the Camden police yesterday. One grocer stated that the swindler in purchasing $2 worth of groceries handed the clerk a $20 note and so confused the man that the grocer is out $17. At another store the swindler succeeded in getting $8.

John S. Lawrence is in the county jail at Bridgeton, charged with forgery. He had been wanted since last July, but could not be found until last evening, when he was located down about Haleyville. Harry B. Haines, a Bridgeton business man, charges that a check for $12 which he cashed for Lawrence was a forgery.

Mark Ferrino, who stole valuable articles from residents of Salem in order to pay his board bill, and which articles were found in use upon the dining table at his boardinghouse by Chief Waddington, is wanted at Sing Sing prison, New York, from which he escaped. A gang of convicts were at work upon a State building when Ferrino escaped and came direct to Salem to work in a glass plant. He has a long criminal record. A reward of $50 for his capture will go to Chief Waddington.

COLBY IN CONNECTICUT. FLAYS PARTY POLITICS.

At a meeting of the Connecticut Civil Service Reform, held at Hartford, Conn., Wednesday night, Senator Everett Colby, of New Jersey, was the principal speaker. He said:

"Civil service, as a practical business and political measure, interests me, and I want to show you how it is going to help to solve many of the serious problems that confront us. It is our duty to prove that representative government is sound and powerful. Let me tell here that your convention system, your local caucuses with one per cent. of the voters, is a fossil. If you have the caucus system the politicians are going to get their men into office.

"We need a direct primary, so that we may know where every candidate stands.

"The other thing we need is civil service, the doing away with political patronage. You don't understand it, unless you have lived in the crowded section of a big city, where a man will exert all his power for certain measures that he may hold his office.

"Personally, I am a partizan, but I believe party politics are rotten. Washington issued a warning against party politics, and Lincoln said that he had hoped to consider matters on a higher plane. Let us appeal to these leaders of the olden days, whose patriotism and wise courage we can afford to follow until our course is run."

Honor to Octogenarian Veteran.

A reception will be held in Barry Post, G. A. R., rooms, Rahway, tonight in honor of the eightieth birthday of O. F. Jones, surgeon of the post, following the encampment. Comrade Jones was photographed yesterday in honor of the event, wearing his military uniform, belt, bayonet sheath, canteen, gun and haversack, with the frying pan and hatchet, that he carried throughout the war and brought home with him when mustered out in 1865. The belt that went nearly twice around his waist when he was mustered out would hardly reach half way around yesterday.

Rahway-Elizabeth Trolley.

The new trolley line between Elizabeth and Rahway seems an assured fact. It is said that J. A. MacClary, of Rahway, has secured sixty-five per cent. of the needed rights of way for the Elizabeth section of the road. The proposed route is from the railroad stations at Elizabeth to courthouse, Washington avenue, Edgar street to East Grand street, Rahway, Monroe, Main, Hazelwood avenue to Carteret, Port Reading, Chrome, Perth Amboy. An application for a charter will soon be made, it is stated.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, who are spending several weeks in New York, will return home the latter part of March.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS TO ENLARGE ITS HOME

President Leighton Calkins of the Plainfield Country Club has called a special meeting for Thursday night, March 25, at 8:15 o'clock, at which time plans for enlarging the clubhouse and making other improvements will be discussed. The plans for the improvements, drafted by A. L. C. Marsh, architect, have been considered by the trustees and submitted to a special committee of the club members, consisting of E. H. Ladd, Jr., George T. Rogers, Percy H. Stewart, J. A. Lane and W. Lester Glenney, and its entire approval has been given.

It was recently decided by the trustees that certain improvements and extensions to the clubhouse are necessary and should be undertaken at once. These include a porch dining-room of more than double the present size; an enlarged cellar and a large serving pantry; combining the present office and soft drink room into a single room for the use of the superintendent as an office; a new soft drink room between the kitchen and the inside dining room; new second story quarters over the inside dining-room for superintendent and help. The demand for restaurant service at the club has increased to such an extent that more room and adequate facilities are a necessity.

The tentative plans drawn by Mr. Marsh call for an expenditure not to exceed $4,000 in cost. The proposed enlargement of the clubhouse is to be made to allow for further extensions in the future, in accordance with the club's policy.

The financial plan is stated briefly as follows: Refunding mortgage five per cent. twenty-year bonds, total authorized issue, $35,000; reserved to exchange (bond for bond) for outstanding bonds, $21,900; to be issued at once for proposed improvements, $4,000; authorized to be issued to retire floating debt, $3,000; reserved in treasury for future improvements, $6,100; total, $35,000.

As the existing floating debt represents only a part of the cost of permanent betterments made during the last two or three years, the propriety of funding the same is conceded. It is also considered prudent to make suitable provision, by way of treasury bonds, for additional improvements and extensions in the future.

THE RAINBOW KIMONA
A CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.

"The Rainbow Kimona," was the title of an excellent entertainment given at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night, by the Standard Bearers, a missionary society composed of about twenty-five young women. The scene of the dialogue was laid in a girl's room in a boarding school and the platform was attractively arranged for this purpose, being decorated with college flags, etc.

Those who took part in the entertainment were the Misses Stella Rink, Ethel Rink, Bessie Gunzleman, Minnie Gunzleman, Agnes Brown, Florence Brown, Edna Garretson, Lillian Harris and May Matthews. Miss Stella Rink was the chairman of the committee in charge. Between the scenes, Miss Nellie Brown rendered a piano solo, and after the entertainment there was a social time.

Electric Motor and Blower.

An electric motor and blower, the first of its kind to be installed here, is being placed in J. E. Flannery's blacksmith shop on East Third street, today. The motor has a capacity for 4,500 revolutions a minute and will greatly facilitate Mr. Flannery in carrying on his business.

There will be baptism at the Temple Baptist church Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson.

The members of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church are rehearsing every night for an entertainment to be given there on March 30-31, called "The Country Postoffice." There will be twenty-five characters. J. Stephen Higham has charge of the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGee, of the borough, are home from a pleasure trip to New Orleans.

THE FORUM.

Answers Dr. Moldenke.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The letter of Dr. Moldenke, anent the sewer question which appeared in your paper of Wednesday, has just been called to my attention and I ask permission to use your columns to say a few words in reply.

The doctor's explanation of his personal position, living as he does miles from the proposed new site, is possibly reasonable and yet as an influential citizen of the township is it unreasonable to expect that he have the interest of the whole township at heart for what affects one section of it, must to a greater or less degree affect all. Would the doctor write in this altrustic strain, were it proposed to locate this bed near the castle for instance. I want to be charitable, but I think not.

We all admit that the borough's need is great, but does this knowledge make such a plant any more desirable for the community upon which they propose to foist it?

The day will surely come when North Plainfield, Dunellen and even Greenbrook will be part of the greater Plainfield and when that consolidation has taken place, will such a plant not be just as objectionable within the corporate limits as Plainfield present plant is today and in view of the fact that Plainfield and possibly Dunellen is considering the joint use of such a plant would it not be desirable to adopt a method and a location that may be considered fairly permanent.

The doctor offers his sympathy to the "old residents" of Greenbrook. Thank you, doctor, but neither the old nor the new residents want your sympathy; they want your co-operation.

The Daintiness and Effectiveness of the Easter Costume may be easily marred if there is carelessness in the selection of the proper Oxfords. The well-gowned woman will find the very effect she is seeking among the many shapes and styles that we are offering for her selection.

Probably the most effective as well as the most deservedly popular low shoe is the One Eyelet Princess.

Other Oxfords are here in great profusion, at a wide range of prices:—

$2-$2.50-$3-$3.50-$4-$4.50-$5

If you are seeking a high or low tan shoe, Blucher or One Eyelet effect they are here galore.

Everything said about our Women's Shoes holds equally true in our Children's Department.

We have made extraordinary preparations for the men, too, this Easter, and if correctness in design and finish and superiority in material and workmanship count in these times, we will be able to serve His Lordship to his complete satisfaction.

We await your coming, and we assure you of the same careful and intelligent service and fitting that has made the VanArsdale name famous in Plainfield and vicinity.

IN CLEVELAND'S MEMORY

Plainfielders Attend Services in Honor of the Late President of the United States.

PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards Offers Invocation—First Men of the Nation Pay Tributes.

Many Plainfielders attended the memorial services held yesterday afternoon at Carnegie Hall, New York, and in the evening at the College of the City of New York, commemorating the seventy-second anniversary of Grover Cleveland's birth. At the afternoon meeting Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, formerly of this city, but now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, offered prayer.

Both services were marked by a great gathering of notables, including President Taft, Supreme Court Justices, President Woodrow Wilson, of Princetaon, Governor J. Franklin Fort, Judge George Gray, of Delaware; Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Andrew Carnegie, Oscar Straus, Paul Morton, Herman Ridder and William F. Harrity. Mrs. Cleveland, with her daughter, Marion and her son, Richard, sat in a box, and with them were many other notables.

The feature of the afternoon service was the address by President Taft, in which he eulogized Grover Cleveland. Among other things he said:

"Grover Cleveland earned the sincere gratitude of his countrymen, and justified recurring memorial occasions like the one in which we are taking part. He was a great president—nor because he was a great lawyer, not because he was a brilliant orator, not because he was a statesman of profound learning, but because he was a patriot with the highest sense of public duty, because he was a statesman of clear perceptions, of the utmost courage of his convictions, and of great plainness of speech; because he was a man of the highest character, a fatrther and husband of the best type, and because throughout his political life, he showed those ragged virtues of the public servant and citizen, the emulation of which by those who follow him will render progress of our political life toward better things a certainty."

CAN'T TREAT FOR NICKEL TO ICE CREAM SODA.

Ice cream sodas took a jump in price this morning over in the borough. The scarcity of ice has increased the cost of manufacture, the dealers declare, and there will be no more five cent concoctions this year.

Debele and Stahl took the initiative and raised the price to ten cents. The firm has been unable to cut any ice this winter from its pond which usually provides sufficient for its own needs, besides supplying an extensive trade. The thirty per cent advance in the price of ice already announced, may be increased considerably by the time hot weather arrives.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The Lesley cup matches between teams from the Metropolitan, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania associations will be on a Philadelphia course, probably during the week before the women's national. The New York interscholastic golf tournament did not come off last season, although it was the oldest competition of the sort in the country. At first managed by Cutler School and afterward by St. Paul's School of Garden City, a fault with the tournament was that there was never a well balanced organization back of it. If either the players or the schools would form an interscholastic golfing association there is room for the tournament on the M. G. A. circuit. For the asking the organization could have the use of any desired course for the competition.

Beginning the season on April 17 the South Orange Field Club has outlined an interesting schedule for competitions until December. There will be special contests every holiday and another heavy card on June 12, the club's twentieth birthday. On July 3 a novelty will be a "grab-bag" handicap, the entrance fee to be some useful article valued at $1, the division to be in sweepstakes style. The first competition of August is called the dog days handicap, which is odd enough. The qualifying round of the club championship, classes A and B, will be on September 11 and the match play on September 18 and 25, with the final on October 2.

That the field in the British amateur championship is limited to scratch or plus players should do away with the usual congestion when the golfers meet at Muirfield on May 24. Foreign advices are that H. H. Hilton is in the best of health. If he keeps on going as he is at present Hilton will want some stopping in the tournament. This is also true of John Ball, who has been playing more than usual for him in the winter season. Cheering views are also expressed regarding the chances of R. Maxwell and Laidlay, but E. A. Lassen, the title holder, does not come in for a mention as a possible winner again at Muirfield.

Golfers throughout the Metropolitan district will be interested in the announcement of the fixed tournaments, Metropolitan and national, as follows:

April 22, 23 and 24—Country Club of Lakewood, open spring tournament; April 29, 30 and May 1—Country Club of Atlantic City, invitation spring tournament; May 13, 14, and 15—Fox Hills Golf Club, open tournament; May 20, 21 and 22—Nassau Country Club, invitation tournament; May 25 to 28—Women's Metropolitan championship, at Nassau Country Club; May 26 to 29—Men's Metropolitan championship, at Apawamis; May 26 and 27—Eastern professional championship, at Scarsdale; June 3, 4 and 5—New Jersey State championship at Montclair; June 8 and 9—Women's Eastern championship, at Baltusrol; June 10 and 11—Tri-city matches for the Griscom cup, at Baltusrol; June 10, 11 and 12—Wykagyl Country Club, open tuornament; Jne 24 and 25—National open championship, at Englewood; June 1, 2 and 3—Apawmis Club, invitation tournament; July 7, 8, 9 and 10—Connecticut championship, at Greenwich Country Club; September 6 to 11—National amateur championship, at Wheaton; September 13 to 18—Intercollegiate championship, at Apawamis; September 23, 24 and 25—Morris Conuty Golf Club, invitation tournament; October 4 to 9—Women's national championship, at Merion Cricket Club; October 7 and 8—Seniors' tournament at Apawamis; October 14, 15 and 16—Montclair Golf Club, invitation tournament.

No less than six allied clubs have been dropped from the United States Golf Association membership list for non-payment of dues, while one new organization, the Pensacola Country Club, has been admitted. This is the home club of Ellis Knowles, the former intercollegiate champion. The clubs dropped are the Brooklyn Golf Club, Auburn Park Golf Club of Chicago; Country Club of Westchester; Brighton Country Club, of Allegheny, Penn.; Bristol (R. I.) Golf Club and the Portage Country Club, of Akron, Ohio.

The Middle Atlantic Golf Association has chosen the Columbia Golf Club, of Washington, for the annual tournament on May 27, 28 and 29. Each club was represented at the annual meeting, including Chevy Chase, Columbia and Bannockburn, of Washington; the Baltimore Country Club, the Wilmington (el.) Club; the Maryland Country Club, of Baltimore, and the Lakeside Country Club, of Richmond, Va.

Announcement is made that the eighth annual tournament of the Southern Golf Association will be held in Memphis on May 25 and continue through May 29.

BASEBALL.

Both the Giants and the Yankees are now playing games every day and it is possible for the fans to get a little line on the makeup and work of the players. Managers Stallings and McGraw are greatly pleased with the prospects for the coming season. Especially is this true of the Highlanders for it now looks as though New York would have a pennant possibility in the American League.

"Bill" Russell, of the Y. M. C. A. pitching staff, continues to show great speed and fine curves. He will undoubtedly be one of the association's best twirlers this year. He did good work for Dunellen last year, and during the winter has had the advantage of gymnasium training.

Although a trifle early the local fans are beginning to "buzz" about the opening games of the big leagues in New York next month. It is safe to say that many Plainfielders will witness the opening contests.

The Somerset Field Club will hold a fair at Mountain avenue and Somerset street, Saturday, April 17, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., to raise money with which to purchase new uniforms for the baseball team. The club promises to have a strong aggregation in the field this year.

C. B. Pope will remain as manager of the Plainfield A. C., for the coming season, and is now anxious to schedule games with first class teams.

"Christy" Mathewson got in a game at Waco, Texas, Wednesday, and demonstrated beyond a doubt that he is just as foxy as ever.

Manager McGraw said on Wednesday that he had not heard lately from George Wiltse, but was glad to hear that he was keeping in condition. He probably does not know that Wiltse has returned his contract to John Brush at least a half-dozen times. Brush will have to loosen up some if he wants the southpaw twirler.

With Mike Donlin, Seymour and possibly Wiltse missing from the lineup, the youngsters will have to go some to keep the Giants in the front ranks this season.

Manager Bogart Conklin is already busy getting his Somerville team in shape for the season. He promises to have a strong aggregation, one that will make Plainfield hustle.

Billy Murray, manager of the Phillies, has great expectations of Earl Moore this year.

There is a pitcher named Teddy Roosevelt. He has signed with Spokane.

One factory in Cincinnati is turning out 6,500 baseballs daily, and there are others.

Charley Chech is not likely to go to St. Paul. Boston would find it hard to get waivers on him.

It will cost the Detroit Club approximately $6,500 to prepare the Tigers for the baseball season of 1909.

Edward Minihan, of Orange, has left his home for Lexington, Ky., where he will join the Rochester Eastern League team, with which he is under contract to pitch next season.

Tim Jordan, first baseman of the Brooklyn team, has signed his 1909 contract with the Dodgers, and left yesterday afternoon for Jacksonville, Fla., where the Superbas are training.

Jack Myers, the Indian catcher of the New York Giants, cracked out a pair of home runs in the contest between the Regulars and Colts at Marlin, Tex., yesterday afternoon. Myers did the backstop work for the youngsters who won the game by the score of 6 to 5.

Josh Devore, who graced the outfield for Newark last season, is having considerable hard luck at the training camp of the New York Nationals. The speedy outfielder is now laid up with an attack of the grippe, which is keeping him from practising with the other players.

William Watts, the former Newark High School pitcher, was given a tryout at second base on the University of Pennsylvania varsity team yesterday and in a contest against the Scrubs, which the veterans won by a 10 to 8 score, the Newarker cracked out four hits, including a triple and a double. He also tallied one run and accepted five out of six chances.

NEW WHITE GOODS HERE FOR SPRING.

Newest of the new is the white cotton crepe that Paris has taken to her heart. Years ago, perhaps, it was worn, but the present generation knoweth it not, and to them it has all the charm of newness. Soft, fine, "crinkly," it is being used to make both waists and dresses. For trimming it takes preferably a lace of the nature of Cluny rather than filmier kinds.

Another exqpisite white goods is the embroidered French pique. Vanish all former ideas of pique when one sees it. With its tiny ribbed cords of a wonderful softness and fineness, with delicate, almost lacy, stripes and scattered tiny embroidered designs, it has a style individual and fascinating.

Our old friend white madras has taken to itself this spring the chevron stripes and diagonal weaves of the wintertime fabrics. Very smart they are, too, in her snowy material.

Stripes seem to preponderate in the new styles, though, of course, figured effects in this favored fabric are always popular.

The new embroidered swisses are daintier and lovelier than ever. Designs are smaller. There is a tendency to stripe and block effects and conventional and geometrical figures.

Fine sheer linen embroidered daintily is always useful in the summer wardrobe. Designs are small this season and frequently with a note of eyelet.

The dainty plaid muslins are ever lovely in their fine sheer prettiness, cross-barred and striped in shadowy beauty. Then there is the whole army of plain white goods, the Paris muslins, chiffonettes, batistes and such old-time favorites.

The white goods counters just now are happy hunting grounds for the woman in search of snowy prettiness for summer wearing.

Still Undecided.

Mrs. Roostlow (reading fashionable intelligence)—De quesn ob feathehs is still ondecided foh 1909. Now, ain' dat ridic'lus?

Mr. Boostlow—No, chile. Ah never has been able to mek up mah m'n' whetheh hits ues' to buh'y 'em er buhn em.—Puck.

A SWEET VOICE IS WELL WORTH CULTIVATING.

American girls are too often most justly the subject of criticism abroad because of their shrill, rapid speech and laughterfi, and it is a cause of regret that, in being "finished" this matter is not considered more important to the parents and instructors of the young American girl.

The debutante who is not blessed with good looks and has no particular talents to attract attention can cover a multitude of sins by cultivating a clear low tone of voice, which is a balm to wounded ears in the midst of the usual drawing-room buzz.

There is such a lot of noise and clamor in the streets nowadays that one is continually trying to overvoice the racket, but a loud voice does not necessarily carry well, as is proved in using the telephone, and no girl should allow herself to talk or laugh loudly.

Now one need not go to the other extreme and cultivate an apparent drawl. That is worse than the screech.

There is nothing so irritating to the listener as a drawl which is not natural. The soft Southern drawl that we all love so well in our Southern cousins is not to be acquired in our harsher Northern accents, and it is a mistake to make an attempt to imitate it.

But one of the most important matters to force into the head of the coming society woman is that she must talk neither too fast nor too slow, that she must not talk loud nor cut off her syllables.

THE NEWEST UMBRELLAS.

The correct size for women this year is twenty-six inches.

Colors are fashionable, and dark red, dark green, taupe and odd looking grays are the most popular.

To have a harmony, or an interesting contrast, with the gown, dull-looking old rose and catawba shades may be had, with long handles decorated in gold, silver and ivory.

Long, slender handles of silver are neat and suitable to any time of day and any costume.

Mother of pearl handles or insets are out of favor, having given place in most cases to ivory.

There are also handles of carved teakwood, as well as handles of more eccentric design; carved animal heads, for example, with mock jewels for eyes.

The rods and ribs of the umbrellas for women are so fine that when the umbrella is closely rolled it can hardly be distinguished from a walking cane.

Umbrellas for men are very handsome this season. Although men usually prefer the hook handle the straight one is newer.

These hook handles are especially serviceable, and not expensive when made of gunmetal.

CLEANSING LACE.

Delicate white laces may be cleansed with calcined magnesia after a recipe of Madame Modjeska's. Spread the lace on a sheet of writing paper, sprinkle it on both sides with magnesia, place a second piece of paper over it, put away between the leaves of a book for three days, then shake off the powder, when the lace will be found perfectly clean. Laces are given a creamy hue by putting strained coffee or powdered saffron in the rinsing water until the right cream of ecru tinge is procured. White silk laces are soaked in milk over night, then soused in warm soapsudes, rinsed, and finally pulled out and carefully pinned down while damp. Laces must be dipped, gently squeezed, and clapped between the hands until day or nearly so. They may be whitened by letting them stand covered with soapsuds in the sun, repeating the operation several times.

A Child of Nature.

It was a primitive home in the Tennessee mountains, where the kitchen range is still a thing of vague and distant future, Cindy, the capable, buxom and barefoot, performed her duties on the hearth of the yawning fireplace, and deftly raked the coals around the barber where the cordodgers were browninw. A glowing ember, unseen by all gave old Rudd, rolled up on the hearth as Cindy stepped forward with the pot-hooks and he sounded the warning:

"Sa-ay, Cindy—"

"Whut, pa?"

"You done sot yet fut on a coal o' fire."

"Say, did I, pa? which fut?—Success Magazine.

Fore Careless Persons.

One housekeeper who has mahogany bedroom furniture and a careless family has hit upon a way to protect the top of her bureaus. She buys a remnant of white oilcloth and has it cut to fit the top of the bureau. This is put on beneath the ordinary bureau cover.

Naturally a cover that is not transparent must be used, but those of pique or heavy linen are both smart and serviceable and the oilcloth not only keeps the wood from scratching, but prevents more serious scarring from hit curling irons od ropped matches.

"Nature plans well for mankind's needs."

"I should say so. What could be more convenient than ears to hook spectacles over?"—Washington Herald.

ISSUE ORDER RETIRING STATE GUARD OFFICERS.

The following executive order, retiring twelve National Guard officers, have been issued out of the adjutant-general's office at Trenton, and was at once signed by Governor Fort:

Pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 3, laws of 1909, entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning the militia of the State, approved May 16, 1906,'" approved March 2, 1909, the following named officers of the National Guard of this State are hereby relieved from their respective commands and placed upon the retired list:

General staff, Brigadier-General Joseph W. Congdon, inspector-general, Staff corps, Colonel James S. Kiger, deputy adjutant-general; Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Boltwood, assistant inspector-general; Lieutenant-Colonel Mortimer Lampson, medical inspector; Captain J. H. Crissey, assistant military storekeeper. Department staff, Lieutenant-Colonel Daniel B. Murphy, inspector-general; Lieutenant-Colonel George W. Terriberry, deputy surgeon-general. Line and staff, Brigadier-General Edward A. Campbell, First Brigade; Captain John T. Hilton, Fifth Infantry; Captain James L. Marsh, First Infantry; Captain William H. Howard, First Infantry; Captain Cornelius Brett, chaplain; Fourth Infantry.

Charles Willard, of the Charles Willard Music House, Olean, N. Y., is visiting his brother, A. E. Willard, of the Stillman building.

Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place, who has been detained at home the past two weeks by illness, is much improved and is now able to be about the house again.

THE BIG NAVY CRY.

Land-Batteries, Says a Correspondent, Are More Economical and Effective.

The following communication appeared in a New York paper a few days since:

I was much pleased to read, in your yesterday's issue, the letter of "Hague" on "The Cry for a Big Navy." I sincerely hope that it was generally read and appreciated. His comments on Congressman Hobson, I think, are quite proper, and that a further increase in our navy is not at all necessary for home defence, that land batteries are more economical and effective. He points out that mines and land batteries prevented the Japanese from entering Port Arthur in 195, and that a large navy is built for offence, on the principal that a man who goes around armed is more likely to pick a quarrel than one who is unarmed; that in sending our navy around the world we are stimulating an increase of the navies of other Powers, which means increased taxation in over taxed countries, and now it is proposed to have this country build four monster war vessels, which are to cost about $10,000,000 each, "to maintain peace." It seems to me that it is an insult to the intelligence of right thinking people to thrust such a reason upon them, and to increase taxation, when the extravagance of the government has been such that it is proposed to tax coffee and tea to help meet the deficiency in revenue this year and next. The Financial Chronicle, in its issue of December 5 last, states the deficiency of the Treasury for the fiscal year ending June 30 next will be $110,000,000, and the following year $143,000,000. I think it is time for the people to call a halt, that Congressmen should be asked to stop squandering money, particularly in times of peace. In view of present expenditures, I would ask, what would they be in case of a war? It is to be hoped that public opinion will be educated to oppose wars, and have all international disputes and difficulties settled by the Hague Tribunal.

I think it is almost forgotten that about forty years ago, the Geneva Arbitration settled a question which had it not been seetled by such a court, would have led to a war between the United States and Great Britain, which would have been disastrous to both nations.

HENRY HENTZ.

STATE PRISON FOR BUTLER BURGLARS.

Harris Van Zile and Andro Ballo were given State prison sentences at Morristown on Wednesday, on conviction for breaking in a butcher shop at Butler. It was Van Zile's second offense, and he was given five years. Ballo had not been in trouble before, but a murderous looking set of loaded knuckles was found in his possession and only comparative leniency was shown him. He was given four years. The knuckles weighed nearly a pound. They had four jagged points, four finger holds and a round piece of the metal to fit in the hallow of the hand, enabling the wearer to strike a blow with them that might readily kill a man.

In the case of George M. Farrell who pleaded guilty to uttering a forged check in Morristown, sentence was suspended and he was placed in charge of the probation officer for two years. George Roff, Jr., who pleaded guilty to writing the check, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, and he was placed in charge of the probation officer two years.

William Flynn and William Kinney, of Morristown, pleaded non vult to charges of stealing junk. They were each sentenced to the county jail for three months and until costs are paid.

Silas Morgan, convicted of wife beating, was recommended to the mercy of the court by the jury that convicted him and he was sentenced to the county jail for three months, it being his first offense.

James V. Murray, of Morristown, pleaded non vult to a charge of embezzlement from an insurance company and was sentenced to the county jail for six months and until costs are paid.

Frank Sturgis pleaded guilty to taking the horse and wagon of his employer, George E. Hopping, of Whippany. After driving the animal for a day or so he was caught just as he had returned it to the stable. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and was placed in charge of the probation officer for two years.

Edward Cody, of Morristown, pleaded guilty to stealing milk from a milkman. Sentence was suspended and he was placed in charge of the probation officer.

ORTLEIB, CRACK TWIRLER, SIGNS WITH CLINTON AVE.

Manager Dorflinger of the Clinton Avenue team, announced today that Ortleib, the crack baseball twirler formerly of Westfield, has been signed to pitch for the locals this season. This action was deferred until this time for the reason that the club was not certain as to the future plans of Clifford Randolph. It is now believed that he has a chance to remain with the Newark Eastern League club, but in case he does not, he may be farmed out to some other club for a year.

The local club will open the season here on Saturday, April 24, with the Elizabeth A. C., one of the strongest aggregations in the county. The Elizabeth boys defeated Clinton Avenue last year in one of the best contests witnessed here. The club has announced that a carnival will be held May 22-31 inclusive.

KIELY MAKES RECORD ON A BOWLING ALLEY

High score in Campbell's two-man tourney was boosted a few notches higher last night when Kiely and Causebrook put up a total of 456, beating the former high score held by Skelly and Miller by four pins. The Chief showed some of his old time form last night and averaged 206 for his six games.

An even break was the result of the evening's rolling, each team winning three games.

The scores:

AMUSEMENTS.

The lesson of common-sense taught in "A Woman's Way," Miss Grace George's new comedy by Thompson Buchanan, now playing at the Hackett theatre, New York, promises to be taken to heart by the young women of New York city. Already the play has established the unique record of drawing more bridal couples than any piece produced in years. No less than thirty-five brides and prospective brides applied at the box-office last week for seats. The remarkable feature was that each time the young woman came alone. One of them explained —"This is a piece that all young husbands should see. I want John to know what I will do if he stays out nights." The teaching of Marion Stanton will doubtless bear fruit in the new handling of that generally uncomfortable person—the other woman. Instead of hysteria and the divorce court Marion Stanton uses common-sense and good humor, with the result that when she has gotten through making her husband and the other woman ridiculous, hubby is only too glad to come back, and be good, with never a thought of the woman who at the beginning of the play he felt sure he loved. Marion's receipt is very simple—"Give him so much of the other woman that he becomes heartily sick of the subject, and then when he is properly repentent, be good and forgiving."

With its new circus bill of all imported acts, a new impetus has been given to the already and lasting prosperity of the Hippodrome season. Every performance is one of crowds and never before has a bill at the big playhouse delighted and so thoroughly satisfied so many people. Not only is the new circus one of novelties, but it is unique in the feature that never before were so many really beautiful women seen together in arenic acts. The three Athletas, whose feats of strength are marvelous, are beautiful women with figures rivalling the heralded models of these days. The Pissiutis riding act is a gem and presents two women of wonderful grace and loveliness. The musical elephants have made a tremendous hit, as has also Loyal's riding dog. The big spectacle of "Sporting Days" is as attractive as ever, with its realistic scenes showing the nation's favorite games. The Ballet of Birdland is the talk of the town, and "The Battle in the Skies" is full of realistic scenic wonders. The Golden Gardens show the great tank with the mermaid mystery and living pictures rising from the water. The big flag number, with the stars and stripes made of girls, is another sensation. Marceline, Holland and a score of clowns furnish plenty of merriment.

Julia Marlowe inaugurated her New York season under the management of the Messrs. Shubert Monday evening at Daly's theatre, New York city, Mary Johnston's poetic drama of the French Revolution, "The Goddess of Reason." The Messrs. Shubert announce that Miss Marlowe's New York engagement is limited to four weeks. Apart from the interest attached to any presentation by Miss Marlowe, and apart from the great literary interest in "The Goddess of Reason," which was highly commended by the most authoritative critics when first given to the public in book form, this appearance of Miss Marlowe is of special importance as her first New York appearance within five years as an individual star. Mary Johnston, the author of "The Goddess of Reason," is widely known as the author of such eminently successful novels as "To Have and To Hold" and "Audrey," both of which have been dramatized. However, the present work in blank verse is the first piece ever originally written by her in dramatic form. Miss Johnston's latest novel, "Lewis Rand," has recently been published.

SCHOOLBOY SENT TO JAIL FOR ONE DAY.

Bjak Dizinski, a Pole, aged thirteen years, was arraigned before Recorder James Carroll Wednesday morning at Paterson on a complaint of disorderly conduct, preferred by George I. Brinkerhoff, principal of Public School No. 22, of that city. The complaint was made on behalf of Miss Anna Dougherty, a teacher. He was sentenced to serve one day in the county jail.

The complainant said yesterday morning that the boy is a terror to every teacher in the school. He is in a class taught by Miss Dougherty, and on one occasion, when scolded, he drew a penknife from his pocket and attempted to stab the teacher in the back. He would have succeeded had it not been that the woman turned in time to catch the hand which clutched the knife.

Yesterday morning, according to the principal, Dizinski entered the classroom with his hat on. His teacher told him to remove the headgear, and, when he refused to obey her, she went toward him, intending to remove it for him. As she neared him, the pupil struck her forcibly in the stomach. The police were then called.

FILIPINOS KILL NEWARK MAN NAMED WM. COOK.

Information that her husband had been killed in the Philippines was received yesterday by Mrs. William Cook, of 40 Pennington street, Newark. He had been in the United States navy for the past twenty-three years. The only tidings received by Mrs. Cook came from the department in Washington. It was to the effect that her husband and three other men had been shot by natives two weeks ago.

Cook, it was said at his home today, had about a year to serve on his last term of enlistment. He was in Newark on furlough last July, and at the expiration of it was sent to the Philippines. At the time of his death he occupied the post as drillmaster. Besides his widow, three young children and a sister survive him.

A belated dispatch received from Manilia yesterday stated that two members of Lieutenant Furlong's detachment of constabulary and eight members of a band of hostile Moros had been killed in an encounter at Borlong, March 8, and that a company of the Twenty-fifth Infantry and scouts had gone to the aid of the constabulary. Whether this fight is connected with the death of Cook has not been learned.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

When Mr. Maurice V. Samuels went to Balzac and took the central conception of the Freichman's "La Peau de Chagrin" (The Magic Skin) as the theme of his psychic drama, he had a world of material with which to build up a logical, convincing and up-lifting play, which was written along demonstrated scientific lines. And he did it so well that the great thinking public have been discussing "The Conflict" since it was first produced. The local premier of the piece will be given at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow, matinee and night, by an ideal cast headed by Robert Drouet.

Comedy, pathos, songs and dances are some of the principal features of "Rory of the Hills," the Romantic Irish drama booked at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night. These elements, well blended as they are in this play, make a successful production that appeals to all classes. Scenic features are introduced that are new and attractive and they make a vivid stage picture of the land of the Shamrock. Special attention has been given to the play, as well as to the selection of the company. Every detail necessary to secure an adequate production has been carefully attended to and the management of the company guarantees a perfectly satisfactory performance.

For Batery A Armory.

Mr. Colgate, of Orange, resumed his fight in the House Wednesday at Trenton for an armory for Battery A, in East Orange, at a cost not to exceed $100,000. He reintroduced a bill to take the place of House 146, providing for the armory, and which was defeated last week, after a sharp fight. The new measure is an exact replica of the old and Mr. Colgate is confident of its passage.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders held on Thursday, March 4, 199, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present—Director King, Freeholders Cady, Cladek, Crane, Darby, Doane, Garrison, Haviland, Jones, Krouse, Martin, Perry, Robison, Smith, Stephan and Swain—16.

Absent—Freeholders Adams, Jensen, Meisel and Wilbur—4.

On motion of Freeholder Cady it was ordered that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be dispensed with, and that they be approved as per printed copies on the members' desks.

Communications, Etc.

From Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, as follows:

February 9, 1909.

Mr. S. Rusling Ryno, Clerk of Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Dear Sir—Replying to your favor of February 1, which was presented at a meeting of the Board of Governors held last night, I would state that the by-law recently adopted, authorizing an increase in the number of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, provides that the additional member shall be designated by your Board of Chosen Freeholders. This by-law was so framed for the express purpose of placing on our Board of Governors a representative of your body who should be chosen by it. It would defeat our plan to secure your independent choice in this matter were the appointment to be made on our suggestion. Will you therefore kindly make your designation at your convenience and oblige

Yours very truly,
Board of Governors Muhlenberg Hospital.
By HOWARD W. BEEBE,
Secretary.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the communication be received and that the Director appoint a member from this board, as requested, which was so ordered. Director King thereupon designated Freeholder J. Hervey Doane, of Plainfield, to represent this board on the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

From the Grand Jury as follows:

Honororable Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

The grand inquest in and for the body of the county of Union for the term of January, 1909, having inspected in a body the Union county jail, begs leave to report that they have found same in most excellent sanitary condition, the prosiners well cared for and in the best of health, and they heartily commend Warden Dodd, Under Warden Drake and Mrs. Dodd, superintendent of the women's jail, for the excellent aministration of their respective offices.

CALVIN B. ORCUTT,
Foreman.

On motion of Freeholder Jones, received and placed on file.

The following communication was read:

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 27, 1909.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—The subcobmittee of the U. C. Co. which approached the Board of Freeholders some time since, with reference to the establishment of a workhouse or farm for short-time offenders in the jail, still feels the need as pressing as formerly. Though no report has been received from the committee appointed by your body, it has been learned that the cost of the farm is the main objection to it.

It is true that to change the present system would require an expenditure of time, effort and money. But is it not worth while to make a start? The present method of caring for these prisoners involves a large outlay by the county, to say nothing of the burden on the community in caring for their families. In the long run, might not the inauguration of the system prove a financial gain to the county? A farm would seem to have some decided advantages over a workhouse. It would be a clear gain to place men broken down physically, mentally and morally in a wholesime condition of life with air and sunlight, with healthy occupation, where the result of their labors might accrue to the benefit of the county, and where they might be better fitted to engage in honest and profitable work after their release.

The committee would ask you to give this important matter the same thoughtful consideration which is given to other matters in the county, more in evidence perhaps, but not more reserving of attention. Union county would do well ti take the initiative in a movement which must come sooner or later throughout the State, for at the present time the county jail system neither punishes effectually nor reforms, as is evidenced by the number of times short term offenders are returned to the jails.

I am very truly yours,
ELIZABETH TIFFANY,
Chairman.

MRS. DEXTER TIFFANY,
MRS. E. E. WILLIAMSON,
MRS. CHARLES E. RYDER,
REV. CHARLES L. COODER,
Sub-Committee.

Freeholder Swain moved that the communication be referred to a special committee of five to report not later than the May meeting of this board, which was so ordered. The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Cady, Krouse, Crane, Cladek and Garrison.

From Perry E. Hall as follows:

Hoboken, N. J., Feb. 27, 1909.

Honorable Body of Chosen Freeholders:

Dear Sirs—About two years ago the Morris County Traction Company laid a second track past my place at Springfield, N. J., a distance of about 1,000 feet. In so doing they changed the grade and destroyed a sidewalk which had been used for several years, and left about 400 feet of ploughed ground. Although they had agreed to fill in all places where they raised the tracks, this has not been done. Some of the electric poles stand right in what should be the walk and some are in on my property. For about 300 feet east of my house on my property there is a drop from the track to anywhere from 10 inches to 15 inches. This is a space between the track and what should be curb and should be filled in. There have been two serious accidents at this spot by means of the stream not being filled in, and in the summer time weeds grow up and it is impossible for vehicles to see the effect. This is on the county road, and it seems to me up to the freeholders to have it remedied. An early reply would be appreciated.

Yours respectfully,
PERRY E. HALL,
Per E.

On motion of Freeholder Jones received and referred to the County Road Committee and County Attorney.

From Frederick Lausch as follows;

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 6, 1909.

Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—I herewith wish to announce my resignation as bridge tender, expiring March 1.

Respectfully yours,
FREDERICK LAUSCH.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse received and resignation accepted.

Reports of Committees.

By the Committee on Jail Inspection:

Elizabeth, N. J., March 1, 1909.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Jail Inspection would respectfully report that it has inspected the jail, also the books of the warden. During the month of February, eighty prisoners were committed; eighty were confined in the jail March 1, sixty-one men and nineteen women.

All parts of the jail were found to be in a clean and sanitary condition, with the exception of the witness rooms and hall leading thereto. The prisoners are now at work cleaning these rooms, calcimining the walls of the witness rooms and the hall. When this work is completed the rooms will be light, cheerful and a more healthful atmosphere will prevail.

Cost of maintenance of the jail for the month of February, 1909: Charles W. Dodd, salary, $125; Fanny Dodd, salary, $3; Charles J. Drake, salary, $60; Frederick Krouse, salary, $60; R. T. Potts, provisions, $66.28; Hildebrandt Co., groceries, $79.62; Central Beef Co., meats and provisions, $97.80; J. O. Brokaw, fish, clams, etc., $17.16; F. Leppeny, shoes, $21.20; Henry J. Schmidt, drugs, $16.45; W. C. Tubbs, milk, $6.72; C. W. Dodd, sundries, $5.45; A. E. Force, material (aprons) cotton, etc., $15.96; M. C. Van Arsdale, rubber boots, $9; total, $610.47.

On account of unforseen expense incurred for preparing the cells in the jail for padding, your committee requests that an extra appropriation be allowed for this work.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSEPH PERRY,
J. HERVEY DOANE,
JOHN H. STEPHEN,
Committee.

Freeholder Jones moved that the report be received, filed and request granted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By Committee on Surrogate's Account:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your Committe on Surrogate's Account respectfully reports: We have examined the books and vouchers of the Surrogate for the month of February, 1909, and find them correct, and the net receipts $1,064.83, which amount has been turned over to the County Collector.

CHARLES A. SMITH,
WILLIAM H. GARRISON,
BRADFORD JONES,
Committee.

Dated March 3, 1909.

On mention of Freeholder Jones received and placed on file.

By special committee:

Elizabeth, N. J., Mar. 4, 1909.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

The undersigned, the special committee to whom was referred the communication of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson under date of February 3, 1909, respecting the admission of patients to the Elizabeth General Hospital and manner of making appropriations by this board for hospital purposes, etc., beg to report:

1. That the reports of this board show that there was appropriated by this board for hospital purposes for the year 1908 the sum of $20,000, which was divided between the hospitals of Elizabeth and Plainfield—Elizabeth, $14,750, and Plainfield, $5,250—that the amount appropriated for the Elizabeth hospitals was divided as follows: Elizabeth General Hospital, $8,000; St. Elizabeth Hospital, $3,750; and Alexian Brothers' Hospital, $3,000.

2. We find that all these hospitals are also supported, in addition to the money appropriated by the county, by the respective cities in which said hospitals are located and by private subscription.

3. We found that a large proportion of the patients who receive treatment in the various hospitals were indigent patients who are unable to pay the expense of such treatment. So far as we have been able to learn, such patients who are treated at the various hospitals who are able to pay are required and do pay for the same.

4. Prior to the receipt of the communication of Mrs. Williamson respecting the difficulty of securing admission of indigent patients to the Elizabeth General Hospital occasional rumors have come to this board intimating and suggesting that there was difficulty in getting patients admited to the Elizabeth General Hospital unless pay for their treatment was guaranteed from some source. Your committee therefore thought it wise to make a further invsetigation regarding the matters in connection with it, and accordingly, this committee has had two sittings, to which all parties having cause for complaint and the hospital board were invited. These hearings were attended by many, and this committee was represented by the County Attorney and the hospital board by F. J. Faulks.

We have not gone into the form of a trial, but the statements of those who appeared before the board were taken without oath and a stenographic report of such report made, which tenographic report is hereto attached and made a part of this report.

We find that in cases coming from municipalities outside of the city of Elizabeth it has been the custom of the hospital authorities to insist upon a guarantee from the poormaster from the municipality wherein the indigent patient resides to pay for treatment given to such indigent patient and that these poormasters were in the habit of paying for such treatment. We feel that this should not be. We believe that the hospital authorities should treat indigent patients without regard to what municipality they come from, if residing in this county, without being paid for by the poormaster of the municipality. We also found that the impression did exist that it was difficult to secure the admission of indigent patients into the Elizabeth General Hospital who could not afford to pay, but your committee hopes that, thanks to Mrs. Williamson's letter which caused this investigation, this impression is now dispelled.

We believe that patients who are able to pay should be required to pay, but no persons, in our opinion, should be denied the benefit of the hospital for the reason that they are unable to pay.

Some of the complaints brought to the attention of this committee, upon investigation, were in the opinion of your committee, groundless. We believe that the Board of Governors of the Elizabeth General Hospital are gentlemen given to conducting the affairs of the institution in a proper and public-spirited manner and are doing noble work, and your committee is of the opinion that the cause for the impression relative to the admission of indigent patients has occurred largely, perhaps, through overzealous employes at the hospital seeking to guard against imposition rather than through any intention on the part of the hospital authorities to refuse admission to the deserving poor.

Your committee feel that all patients claiming to be poor should be admitted upon application, and any investigation as to the financial condition of the patient should be made after such admission.

Your committe beg to recommend that inasmuch as the county of Union is appropriating a large sum of money toward the support of the various hospitals throughout the county, with a probable increase in the near future, it would be advisable for the Director of this board to appoint a special committe of five members to visit the various hospitals to the support of which moneys are appropriated by this board, at various times as, in their opinion, may be required and to whom all complaints against hospitals should be made and who shall investigate such complaint and report to this board; and further that it be understood between this board and the hospitals to which this board contributes funds that patients residing outside of the City of Elizabeth, but residents of this county, be admitted without their treatment being paid for by the overseers of the poor of the municipalities where such patients reside, unless the municipalities, in their discretion, desre to pay for their indigent patients, which they are allowed to do by law.

We further find that the sum appropriated by this county to hospitals is placed in the general fnud by the hospital authorities for their support; that the cost of maintaining county patients is not charged directly to this fund.

Your committe further recommend that a copy of this report be sent to Mrs. Emily E. Williamson with the thanks of the board for her interest in the county poor patients and to the Elizabeth General Hospital and to other hospitals in the county to whom this county contributes funds.

HENRY KROUSE,
W. H. GARRISON,
N. R. LEAVITT,
Committee.

Freeholder Smith moved that the report be received and recommendations therein contained adopted, which was so ordered without dissent

The Director appointed as the committee authorized in foregoing report, Freeholders Krouse, Wilbur, Garrison, Haviland and Swain.

New Business.

By Freeholder Haviland.

Resolved, That Philip Frehauf be appointed bridge tender for the Summer street drawbridge at Elizabeth for the term of one year, to date from March 1, 1909, at a salary of $250 per year.

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll call was unanimously adopted.

Bl Freeholder Doane.

Resolved, That for the information of those interested, the clerk of this board be directed to have published in each newspaper in the county—two insertions—the following notice:

Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.

March 5, 1909.

To all whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that under the laws of New Jersey the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county is authorized to purchase and erect markers at the graves of dead soldiers, sailors, and marines, interred in any cemetery in Union county, who may have served the county in any war since 1861, and been honorably discharged therefrom.

Blanks may be had on application by next of kin to the Board of Chosen Freeholders or to General J. Madison Drake, supervisor, Elizabeth, N. J.

J. HERVEY DOANE,
JOHN N. CADY,
JOSEPH PERRY,
CHARLES J. JENSEN,
JOHN H. STEPHAN,
Committee.

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll call was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Krouse.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the flooring of the bridge on Fifth avenear Spruce street, Roselle, N. J., the committee to report at the next meeting of this board as to the advisability of replacing the present wooden floor with steel beams and masonry arches, together with the probable cost of the same

On motion of Freeholder Cady the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committe Freeholders Krouse, Perry and Swain.

The Director announced that owing to the illness of Freeholder Adams he would designate Freeholder Krouse to act as chairman of the County Road Committee until Freeholder Adams had recovered.

A Gentleman From Mississippi!

By THOMAS A. WISE.

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs.

Copyright, 1909, by Thomas A. Wise

With this idea in view, realizing that dishonest men would try to make money out of the government, these members of the naval base committee, after they settled on Altacoola, went out quietly and secured control of all the land that will be needed for the naval base, and these men secured this at a very nominal figure. Now they are ready to turn over their land to the government at exactly what they paid for it without a cent of profit.

"Then they're going to sit up over there in that senate. They're going to realize that a new kind of politics has arrived in Washington—the kind that I and lots of others always thought there was here.

"And, gentlemen"—he advanced on his colleagues triumphantly—"when I, Senator Langdon of Mississippi, your creation in politics, have finished that speech I dare one of you to get up and deny a word!"

"The boss of the senate" and his satellite were dumfounded. Firmly believing that Langdon could find no way to pass the bill for Altacoola and yet spoil their crooked scheme, they were totally unprepared for any such de-nouement. To think that a simple, old fashioned planter from the cotton fields of Mississippi could originate such a plan to outwit the two ablest political tricksters in the senate!

"I dare one of you to get up and deny a word!"

Langdon eyed his colleagues triumphantly.

Peabody, however, was thinking quickly. He was never beaten until the last vote was counted on a roll call. He knew that, no matter how apparently insurmountable an opposition was, a way to overcome it might often be found by the man who exercises strong self control and a trained brain. This corrupt victor in scores of bitter political engagements on the battlefield of Washington was now in his most dangerous mood. He would marshal all his forces. The man to defeat him now must defeat the entire senate machine and the allies it could gain in an emergency; he must overcome the power of Standard Steel; he must fight the resourceful brain of the masterful Peabody himself.

Peabody whispered to Stevens, "We must pretend to be beaten."

Then the Pennsylvanian advanced, smiling, to Langdon and held out his hand.

"Senator Langdon," he said, "I'm beaten. You've beaten the leader of the senate, something difficult to believe. What's more, you've given me the chance of a lifetime to become known as a public benefactor. As soon as you've finished your speech in the senate I will get up and make another one—to second yours. Here's my hand. Anything you may ever want out of Peabody in the future shall be yours for the asking."

"Senator Langdon, I'm beaten."

Langdon refused to grasp the proffered hand.

Senator Stevens made a show of protesting against his superior's seeming surrender.

"But," he objected, "look here"—

Peabody turned upon him instantly.

"Oh, shut up, Stevens; don't be a fool. Come on in. The water's fine."

The pair of schemers, with Norton at their heels, hurried away.

The Pennsylvanian drew Stevens into committee room 6 and, ordering the stenographer to leave, drew up chairs where both could sit, facing the door.

"We've thrown dust in that old gander's eyes," whispered Peabody. "It's now ten after 1. He is to be recognized to make his speech at 3:30. That gives us two hours and twenty minutes"—

"Yes, but for what?" asked Stevens excitedly. "I've been trying myself to think of something. What will you do—what can you do?"

"The boss of the senate" smiled patronizingly on the senior senator from Mississippi, as though amused and scornful of his limitations as a strategist, as a tenacious fighter. Then his jaw set hard, and his brows contracted.

Peabody eagerly clutched the receiver.

"I will not do anything. I cannot do anything"—he hesitated a full ten seconds—"but Jake Steinert can."

Stevens' hands twitched nervously.

"And," continued Peabody, "I'm expecting a phone call from him any moment. I told him this morning that he might be able to make $1,000 before night if"—

The telephone bell at the desk interrupted him.

Peabody leaned over and eagerly clutched the receiver.

The senior senator from Mississippi jerked himself to his feet. He stood at a window and looked out over the roof tops of the city.

CHAPTER XXVII.

MRS. SPANGLER GIVES A LUNCHEON.

WHEN Senators Peabody and Stevens had gone Langdon and Bud went over the situation together and concluded that their opponents had no means of defeating Langdon's program—that, after all, Peabody might really have meant his words of surrender.

"But they might try foul play. Better stay right here in the capitol the rest of the day," suggested Bud.

Langdon scoffed at the idea.

Haines bustled away to get a few mouthfuls of lunch to fortify himself for a busy afternoon—one that was going to be far busier than he imagined.

The telephone bell rang at the senator's desk. It was Mrs. Spangler's voice that spoke.

"Senator Langdon," she said, "Carolina and Hope Georgia are here at my home for luncheon, and we all want you to join us."

"Sorry I cannot accept," answered the Mississippian, "but I am to make an important speech this afternoon"—

"Oh, yes, I know. The girls and I are coming to hear it. But you have two hours' time, and if you come we can all go over to the senate together. Now, senator, humor us a little. Don't disappoint the girls and me. We can all drive over to the capitol in my carriage."

The planter hesitated, then replied, "All right; I'll be over, but it mustn't be a very long luncheon."

"Gone to eat; back by 3 o'clock," he scratched quickly on a pad on the secretary's desk and departed.

Mrs. Spangler's luncheons were equally as popular in Washington as Senator Langdon's dinners. The Mississippian and his daughters enjoyed the delicacies spread lavishly before them.

Time passed quickly. The old planter enjoyed seeing his daughters have so happy a time, and he was not insensible to the charm of his hostess' conversation, for Mrs. Spangler had studied carefully the art of ingratiating herself with her guests.

Suddenly realizing that he had probably reached the limit of the time he could spare, the senator drew out his watch.

"What a stunning fob you wear," quickly spoke Mrs. Spangler, reaching out her hand and taking the watch from her guest's hands as the case snapped open.

"Oh, that's Carolina's doings," laughed Langdon. "She said the old gold chain that my grandfather left me was"—

"Why, how lovely," murmured Mrs. Spangler, glancing at the watch. "We have plenty of time yet. Won't have to hurry. Your time is the same as mine," she added, nodding her head toward a French rennaissance clock on the black marble mantel.

Deftly turned back the hands of the senator's watch.

As the hostess did this she deftly turned back the hands of the senator's watch thirty-five minutes.

"Do you care to smoke, senator," Mrs. Spangler asked as her guests concluded their repast, "if the young ladies do not object?"

Langdon inclined his head gratefully and laughed.

"They wouldn't be southern girls, I reckon, if they didn't want to see a man have everything to make him happy—er, I beg pardon, Mrs. Spangler, I mean, comfortable. Nobody that's your guest could be unhappy."

The hostess beamed on the chivalrous southerner.

Langdon drew forth a thick black perfecto and settled back luxuriously in his chair, after another glance at Mrs. Spangler's clock. He was absorbed in a mental resume of his forthcoming speech and did not hear the next words of the woman, addressed pointedly to his daughters.

"Do you know, really, why this luncheon was given today?" she queried. Then she continued before Carolina and Hope Georgia could formulate reply.

"Because your father and I wanted to take this opportunity to announce to you—our engagement."

The speaker smiled her sweetest smile.

The two girls gazed at each other in uncontrollable amazement, then at Mrs. Spangler, then at their father, who had turned partly away from the table and was gazing abstractedly at the ceiling.

Hope Georgia was the first to regain her voice.

"Oh, Mrs. Spangler," she ejaculated, "you are very kind to marry father, but"—

"What's that?" exclaimed the senator, roused from his thoughts by his youngest daughter's words and thrusting himself forward.

Mrs. Spangler laid her hand on his arm.

"Oh, senator, I have just told the dear girls that you had asked me to marry you—that we were soon to be married," she said archly, looking him straight in the eye. She clasped her hands and murmured, "I am so happy!"

The hero of Crawfordsville tried to speak, but he could not. He stared at his hostess, who smiled the smile of the budding debutante. His own open mouthed astonishment was reflected in the faces of Carolina and Hope Georgia as they observed their father's expression. He forgot he was in Washington. He did not know he was a senator. The fact that he had ever even thought of making a speech was furthest from his mind.

What did it all mean? Had Mrs. Spangler gone suddenly insane? His daughters—what did they think? These thoughts surged through his flustered brain. Then it flashed over him—she was joking in some new fashionable way. He turned toward the fair widow to laugh, but her face was losing its smile. A pained expression, a suggestion of intense suffering, appeared in her face.

"Great heavens! I'm late, I'm late!"

"Why do you so hesitate, Senator Langdon?" she finally asked in low voice, just loud enough for the two girls to overhear.

The junior senator from Mississippi looked at his hostess. She had entertained him and had done much for his daughters in Washington. She was alone in the world—a widow. He felt that he could not shame her before Carolina and Hope Georgia. His southern chivalry would not permit that. Then, too, she was a most charming person, and the thought, "Why not—why not take her at her word?" crept into his mind.

"Yes, father, why do you hesitate?" asked Carolina.

Senator Langdon mustered his voice into service at last.

"I've been thinking," he said slowly, "that"—

"That your daughters did not know," interrupted Mrs. Spangler, "of our"—

"The telephone—upstairs—is ringing, madam," said a maid who had entered to Mrs. Spangler.

The adventuress could not leave the senator and his daughters alone, though she knew it must be Peabody calling her. At any moment he might remember his speech and leave. Already late, he would still be later, though, because he would have no carriage—hers would purposely be delayed.

"Tell the person speaking that you are empowered to bring me any message—that I cannot leave the dining hall," she said to the maid.

To gain time and to hold the senator's attention Mrs. Spangler asked slowly:

"Well, senator, what was it that you were going to say when I interrupted you a few moments ago?"

Langdon had been racking his brain for some inspiration that would enable him to save the feelings of his hostess and yet indicate his position clearly. He would not commit himself in any way. He would jump up and pronounce her an impostor first.

After a moment of silence his clouded face cleared.

"Mrs. Spangler," he began, "your announcement today I have considered to be"—

"Premature," she suggested.

The maid returned.

"Mr. Wall says Senator Langdon is wanted at once at the capitol."

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Langdon, springing to his feet and glancing at the clock. "I'm late, I'm late! I hope to God I'm not too late!"

"Mr. Wall says a carriage is coming for Senator Langdon," concluded the maid.

"We must talk this matter over some other time, Mrs. Spangler," the Mississippian cried as he sent a servant for his hat and coat. "I hope that carriage hurries, else I'll try it on the run for the capitol."

"It's a half hour away on foot," said Mrs. Spangler. "Better wait. You'll save time."

But to herself she muttered as though mystified:

"I wonder why Peabody changed his mind so suddenly? Why should he now want the old fool at the capitol?"

The rumble of wheels was heard outside.

"Hurry, father!" cried Hope Georgia.

The senator hurried down the stone steps of Mrs. Spangler's residence as rapidly as his weight and the excitement under which he labored would permit. Opening the coach door, he plunged inside—to come face to face with Bud Haines, who had huddled down in a corner to avoid observance from the Spangler windows. The driver started his horses off on a run.

Came face to face with Bud Haines.

Struggling to regain his breath, the senator cried:

"Well, what are"—

"Never mind now. But first gather in all I say, senator, as we've no time to lose. When I couldn't locate you and I saw you probably wouldn't be at the senate chamber in time to make your speech on the naval base bill I persuaded Senator Milbank of Arkansas to rise and make a speech on the currency question, which subject was in order. He was under obligation to me for some important information I once obtained for him, and he consented to keep the floor until you arrived, though he knew he would earn the vengeance of Peabody. That was over an hour and a half ago. He must be reading quotations from 'Pilgrim's Progress' to the senate by now to keep the floor."

Bud paused to look at his watch.

The senator stretched his head out of the window and cried, "Drive faster!"

"Got your speech all right?" called Bud above the din of the rattling wheels.

"Yes, here," was the response, the senator tapping his inner breast pocket.

"Thought maybe she"—cried Bud, jerking his head back in the direction from which they had come.

The Mississippian shook his head negatively and set his jaws determinedly.

The coach swung up to the capitol entrance.

"Tell me," asked Langdon, as both jumped out, "how did you find out that"—

"I phoned the house—gave a name Peabody uses"—

"Great heavens, but how did you know where to phone?"

They were at the door of the senate chamber.

"Norton gave me the tip—for your sake and Carolina's—for old time's sake, he said," was Bud's reply.

LITERARY

Lindsay Denison, the well-known newspaper and magazine writer, contributes to the March number of The Circle Magazine a remarkable article, in which he details a hitherto unreported conversation with Theodore Roosevelt. The conversation took place at a time when the President little expected ever to be elected to his office, believing that the machine of his party had marked him for destruction.

The Red Book Magazine for March contains several features of more than ordinary importance. First of them, perhaps, is an extremely frank article by Professor Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago on "Woman's Morality—Savage and Civilized." What Professor Starr would have us understand is that so far as her morality is concerned the woman of civilization has nothing to boast of over her sister of the jungle.

We are in receipt of an unusually attractive calendar for 1909 from the publishers of Recreation, 24 West 39th Street, New York. The calendar is composed of two heavy mounts of art paper, on the smaller of which is tipped an attractive picture printed in double tone sepia, showing two children leading a younger one into the ocean; the youngsters are accompanied by a dog who seems as interested as the boys.

Legislation which is wanted by the whole nation cannot be obtained. Why? A. E. Thomas' article, "The Barnacles on the Ship of State," in the March number of "Success Magazine," answers this question and throws interesting side-lights on prominent politicians of the day. In the same number Ernest Poole in his article, "The Vegetable Factories of Paris," shows us what can be accomplished by intensive cultivation of the land.

The two series which gave distinction to the February Atlantic continue with increasing interest in the March number. The Diary of Gideon Welles relates very fully the Cabinet debates over the Emancipation Proclamation and describes with perfect frankness the various intrigues of Cabinet members which constantly threatened to destroy the success of the Lincoln administration.

Lippincott's for March is as fresh and vigorous as the month's bracing winds. More than half its substantial bulk is given up to the complete novel—"A Knight Errant in Broadway," by Rupert Sargent Holland, whose book, "The Count at Harvard," was well received a couple of years ago. Mr. Holland takes as his theme the career of a rather scrupulous young man who comes to New York from a small country town to seek his fortune.

That most interesting and unique of all magazines—The Wide World—contains this month an astonishing amount of attractive material gathered from all the quarters of the globe. To travelers no less than to those who are unable to penetrate beyond the confines of their own State the Wide World has become a necessity, for it contains information about out-of-the-way places, customs, and peoples which are to be found in no other magazine.

The Popular Science Monthly for March contains the following articles: "The Electric Operation of Steam Railways," by Professor J. B. Whitehead; "The Influence of Radium Rays on a Few Life Processes of Plants," by Professor C. Stuart Gager; "The Work of Boards of Health," by Dr. George A. Soper; "A Biographical History of Botany at St. Louis, Missouri," by Dr. Perley Spaulding; "Fire's Havoc a Senseless Waste," by F. W. Fitzpatrick; "The World's Annual Metal Crop," by Theo. F. Van Wagenen; "Science and Morality," by Professor Albert P. Mathews.

The Strand Magazine for March provides its readers with a budget of good things and is particularly strong in fiction. Hall Caine's latest novel, "The White Christ," is continued and increases in interest as the plot thickens. The present instalment is rendered intelligible to new readers by the addition of a short synopsis of previous chapters—an excellent plan which might be adopted with advantage by other magazines.

In the March American Magazine, Mrs. L. H. Harris states a very old truth in a new way. She says: "The more lonesome a man air, Mister, the more apt he is to git Eve-hungry. Adam hadn't et his first meal in Paradise before the Lord knowed that was the seat of his trouble; and every man since then gits a tech of it soon or late."

Edith Wharton contributes the most striking feature to the March number of Scribner's Magazine. It is the first complete short story in a series to be called "Tales of Men." It is a remarkably powerful description, ingenious and pathetic, of the attempts which a man makes to escape from what Henry James has called "this moral predicament." Mrs. Wharton has never done a more original short story than "The Bolted Door." Professor J. Laurence Laughlin discusses the next great monetary question—whether our currency should be issued by the government, or by the National Banks chartered by the Government.

"Let the buyer beware!" John Parr says is the watchword of the Wall Street manipulator. His article in the March Everybody's is called "The Stock Yards of New York," and is the second shot fired against the ruinous practice of margin gambling. It shows by the citing of actual cases how the big speculators beat each other out of money that they have wrested from the unsophisticated outsider.

Which Shows Newark the Beautiful and Wearable New Styles

That which has been conjecture is now proven an absolute fact. Our garment department for years has been looked to as an authority on style. We do not refer to style as exemplified by the odd and strangely shaped garments which satisfy the freakish taste; but such as give grace and charm to the wearer and still have individuality, are here in profusion, and from the marks of approval we can safely say that they are the accepted style for good dressers in this vicinity.

AS A PART OF SPEECH.

(The latest fulmination against woman's condition declares that while man is a noun, woman is merely a preposition.)

Only a preposition? Nay, a woman's more than that
When it comes to being a part of speech, she's on the job there pat;
For speech and every part of it is woman's natural field,
And not an inch of it to man, rest all assured, she'll yield;
She'd not give her perogative to dwindle in one word,
A little unimportant one, which last should not be heard.
Oh, no! Of all the foolish talk, that is a little peach,
To say a woman's only but the measliest part of speech.

She is a noun—or just as good, for person, place or thing
Are either doing work for her or something to her bring;
She is a pronoun, for she stands for each male noun to boss,
And when it comes to adjectives, what woman's at a loss?
An adverb, too, she qualifies what ever man may do,
Or what he is or how he acts—but why the list pursue?
Except to say she is a verb—the cause for this pursuing,
'Tis very clear where woman is, there's always something doing.

A proposition? Only that? Yes, that and all the rest,
That man had ne'er monopoly of speech must be confessed,
Just see how silent he is now when charge on charge is heard;
He trembles 'fore a suffragette, afraid to say a word.
No, woman's not one part of speech, she's the whole blooming nine,
And man is but a rushlight snuffed when the doth please to shine,
She is the Properest Noun of all whenever she see fit,
In fact, to put it in a word, poor woman—she is "It!"
—Baltimore American.

TRUTHFULNESS AND THE CHILDREN.

One of the principal duties of a parent to a child is the duty of absolute truthfulness. No father or mother, under whatever circumstances, can ever find justification for the slightest deviation from this rule. Indeed, is it beholden to parents to "set a watch before their mouths and to keep the doors of their lips."

To promise a believing little child something impossible of fulfillment is a sin. To exaggerate, state falsely, unduly emphasize, speak deliberately what is not true for whatever ends are faults that may destroy the character of the child, wholly innocent as he is by nature or deception.

Tell the absolute truth to your children, and the time will come when for your return you will see in their eyes that clear, steadfast look of honesty that will cause them to take their places in life worthy of dependence and able to receive the confidence of their friends.

The entrance of the father into his child's life is a distant milestone and it will be set in all probability about the time of his fifth birthday. To bring her little child to his father's heart is one of the deepest joys ever met with in all a woman's life and many times, as she watches them together she thanks God that her son has for his father a noble and honorable man. Neither has she fear for his future. The love of his father will compass him about as time goes on and have him, even from himself.—The Doctor's Wife, in Philadelphia Press.

FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER.

To remodel last season's sleeves for now is not so difficult a task as it has frequently been in other fashion periods. Three new sleeves there are that have grown right out of last year's sleeves. If they were long and fairly full, cut a long leg-o'-mutton model, open down the top of the outside arm; face both of the edges and decorate them with rows of buttons; under this opening insert a long strip of tucked chiffon cloth to match the yoke.

Now, if it is necessary to piece your goods, do so without a fear, for you can conceal the piecing in the folds of a rather closely fitted mousquetaire sleeve, which is a very acceptable model right now. Many of them have a frill down the outside. When the material is scant the fullness is pushed part way up the arm, and the lower part of the sleeve is a close-fitted long lace cuff.

Again, another method is to use a tucked tulle lower sleeve, with a long sleeve cap falling over it to the elbow—the cap being a "left-over" from last year's gown, and either pointed at the lower edge with a band or galloon to finish it or bordered with a narrow crocheted ball fringe.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 21, 1909.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—"Pilgrim's Progress" series.—III. The wicket gate.—Matt. vii, 1-114.

This portion of Bunyan's book carries us from the Slough of Despond through the wicket gate to the house of Interpreter. After Pliable had returned to his house and Help had lifted Christian from the Slough of Despond and conversed with him somewhat Christian walked solitarily toward the wicket gate.

Straight was the gate and narrow the way to it, and Christian should have followed in the narrow way toward the gate. But instead he was deflected for a time from his course. On his way he soon met Mr. Worldly Wiseman, who dwelt in the town of Carnal Policy, which was near by the City of Destruction. He had heard of Christian, and he recognized him, especially by the burden on his back. They entered into conversation, and Worldly Wiseman tried to persuade him to return to his home and pointed out the dangers on the way to the City of Destruction. He even claimed to know how he might get rid of his burden. Christian confessed to him that it was his great desire to be rid of the burden. Worldly Wiseman then directed him to the village of Morality, where dwelt one named Legality. Christian was loath to leave his pathway, but was finally persuaded to do so by Worldly Wiseman and started to it and must needs go over a hill to reach it, and as he approached the hill it seemed so high, its sides to lean over, and his burden grew heavier, so that he was greatly perplexed.

In the journey of the Christian life almost every Christian must meet the types here represented in Mr. Worldly Wiseman of Carnal Policy and Legality of Morality. One urges him to take life easy and to enjoy the world, and as "the children of evil are wiser than the children of light," so far as this world is concerned, the argument used is usually a strong one and hard to resist. Worldly Wiseman seems respectable and prosperous, and his voice is very presuasive, and be leads many astray. But we should stand out against him, "for we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen, for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal." Mr. Legality of the town of Morality is also a dangerous enemy of the soul. His advice is that through our personal righteousness we may be saved. There are many moralists and legalists. They depend upon their own uprightness for salvation and eternal life. But this is a false basis for salvation. God tried the law, but man did not and now cannot keep the laws perfectly, and hence cannot thus be saved. "But what the law could not do * * * God has done through His Son"—that is, provided for salvation and entrance into the City of Zion. The folly of leaving the narrow way through the advice of Worldly Wiseman to visit Mr. Legality was well represented by Christian, and we should profit by his example.

In Christian's perplexity Evangelist appeared again and, hearing his story, warned him of his danger and started him on his way to the wicket gate. Here he was received by Mr. Good Will, who, after hearing of his experiences, started him forward again. The gate is Christ Himself, through whom we enter into the gracious acceptance of God and finally into the kingdom. "I am the door. By Me if any man enter in he shall be saved."

"Oh, Taste and See."

Rev. Henry W. Hunter, Christian Endeavor superintendent of Missouri for the Christian church, relates the following pointed anecdote. The boy is Paul Alexander, and he lives in Paris, Mo.

This boy when six years of age had a recitation to give before a teachers' institute, entitled "Grandma's Cooky Jar." In learning the piece he said to his instructor, "I'll say it so they will taste cookies." A gentleman said after the performance, "That boy made me hungry."

"My brother Christian," adds Mr. Hunter, "let us so live Christ that men may want to 'taste' of Him and His goodness. Make the world around us 'hungry' to live His life and pattern after His ideals." This is the way we should talk in our Christian Endeavor prayer meetings.

Dallas Wants 1911 Convention.

Dallas, Tex., is going to leave no stone unturned to get the international Christian Endeavor convention of 1911. Eighty-three of the workers met at a banquet lately to discuss plans for this purpose, and similar meetings are to follow. A special train or two will carry Dallas and Texas workers to St. Paul, and if hard work and hustling can attract a convention to their state it is likely to "go." At the banquet several fine addresses were given, and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The Extension Campaign.

The Christian Endeavor societies have started on a fivefold campaign to cover Christian Endeavor extension—missionary activities in meetings, study classes and giving; evangelistic endeavor for training personal workers, Christian citizenship and temperance and a publicity campaign to increase the circulation of religious papers and missionary publications.

Miss S. F. Conklin Tells How Cubans Commemorate the Forty Days.

AT WARREN CHAPEL MEETING.

Balls, Parades and Festivals Except on Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, She Says.

The work of the past year was reviewed in the annual reports by the officers of the Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel held in the church auditorium yesterday afternoon, when officers for the coming year were elected. The reports show that the society, which numbers 103 active members and 35 honorary members, has been doing a valuable work in both foreign and domestic fields during the past year. The speaker of the day was Miss S. F. Conklin, of Roslyn, L. I., who has been a missionary under the direction of the New York board for the past eight years.

The annual election of officers resulted in the choice of Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman to act as president of the organization in continuation of her work in this office for the past seven years. Mrs. George Hoagland and Mrs. William Newmiller were chosen as the vice-presidents, succeeding Mrs. Theodore Martin and Mrs. John Higgins. The balloting for the other officers resulted in each case in a re-election, as follows: Recording secretary, Mrs. Gibson Smith; treasurer, Mrs. John Green; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Gavett; secretary of literature, Mrs. Augustus Jenkins.

During the year the society has raised $229 for mission work; of this amount, $153 has been turned over to the New York board for use in the foreign mission field, and the balance has been turned over to the synod of New Jersey for use in the home field. Boxes of clothing and useful articles have been sent off for the benefit of Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador, the home mission field, in Missouri and the Freedmen.

Of especial interest was Miss Conklin's talk of the work among the Cubans at Havana. She told of the observance of Lent there as a period of fasting and rejoicing, stating that the only fast days are Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. On the last-named day, the people wear mourning and are strict about their church attendance. But all during Lent, balls and festivals are held with great frequency. The Sunday before Lent is always observed by a mammoth ball, and during the forty days of Lent, there are balls, pageants and parades with great frequency. Easter Day is made an occasion of great jollification and festivity and the Sunday concludes with a mammoth ball, attended by all church people. Miss Conklin, who has been engaged in mission work in Mexico as well as Havana, was engaged as a Bible reader in Cuba, and told many interesting facts about the home life of the Cubans.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members and their guests, who included a delegation from the Hope chapel missionary society, spent a social hour before disbanding. Mrs. John Snyder headed the committee in charge of the refreshments.

TRINITY'S DUTCH ARMS HAS JOLLY GOOD TIME.

The Dutch Arms, the men's association of Trinity Reformed church, held an enjoyable and profitable business and social session in the lecture room of the church last night. It was decided at the business meeting to make the regular April gathering, Friday night, April 16, a "ladies' night" affair.

During the social part of the evening, the men were entertained with phonographic selections by H. V. Lough. The records were of humorous and classic characters and pleased the members. Later refreshments were served. About seventy-five men were present and the meeting was one of the most successful since the club was organized.

Produced an Alleged Confession.

Peter Jannelli, charged with setting fire to Aaron Hill's barn at Summit, was put on trial before Judge Atwater in the Union county court, yesterday. He is represented by J. Henry Crane, of this city. The trial will be finished on Monday. The prosecution made a strong point yesterday when it produced a confession alleged to have been made by the young man. This was obtained by County Detective Gallatian.

Will Change P. S. C. Officers.

The Public Service Corporation will remove its office from East Front street to one of the stores in the Stirling building on Park avenue on Tuesday, where it will have better accommodations.

GIVES HIS GAS REBATES FOR WHITE PLAGUE WORK

Charles A. Clark has sent to The Daily Press his batch of receipted gas bills on which rebates are due from the Central Union Gas Company, of New York City, for gas consumed at his former home, 1071 Franklin avenue, Borough of Bronx, between December 14, 1906 and October 1, 1907. It is the wish of Mr. Clark that the money due him on the rebates shall be devoted to the fund started for fighting tuberculosis here, and accordingly the bills have been turned by this paper over to Leon R. Thurlow, treasurer of the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, for collection.

The practise of donating the gas rebates to the work of the New York White Plague agents has been the means of swelling the fund being raised in New York to stamp out the dred disease. Mr. Clark, who removed to Plainfield from the Bronx, is much interested in the work of the local tuberculosis society and decided to donate his rebate to the local work. New Yorkers are securing affidavits of their rights for rebates in great numbers, and in many cases gas consumers are specifying that the rebates shall be paid to Gotham's tuberculosis society.

The firm of E. L. Suffern & Sons, public accountants, of New York, the members of which are Plainfielders, is in charge of the refunding of the gas rebates, and much of this work is attended to by H. J. Cochran, of Hillside avenue.

SHOOT THREE DOGS FOR PUBLIC SAFETY

Three more dogs have been sacrificed in the borough as a precaution against another hydrophobia case similar to that which startled the residents last Monday. Though none of the dogs which were bitten by the mad animal have shown any symptoms of hydrophobia, that of Charles Berry was killed by its owner yesterday, he having decided to take no chances.

Frank DeCamp's dog was shot by Marshal Weiss yesterday and William H. Snell's followed it today. Seven other dogs are known to have been bitten and probably inoculated with the disease germs, all in the vicinity of Washington park, where the mad dog of Monday encountered several groups of dogs. These beasts, however, are kept in confinement and under close inspection by Dr. Pocock, the veterinarian.

GREAT PSYCHIC DRAMA AT THE THEATRE TONIGHT

To see Harry Leighton play Bodie, the big hearted, breezy, alert, keen-witted American in "The Conflict," is like taking a deep breath of pure mountain air early in the morning, for it certainly vitalizes one, and is in sharp antithesis to the other characters in Mr. Maurice V. Samuel's psychic drama, based on the central idea of Balzac's wonderful study, "La Peau de Changren." Paul H. Liebler cast about for sometime, when selecting the players for the piece, before he found Leighton, whose life in the west, and his long experience there, the dramatist drew.

One of the big events of the local dramatic season will be "The Conflict," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Junior C. E. Society Elects.

The annual business meeting of the West End Tabernacle Junior C. E. Society was held Thursday afternoon, when the following were elected as officers: President, Miss Dorothy Murdick; vice-president, William Patterson; secretary, Miss Helen Taylor; treasurer, Theodore Martin; superintendent of the work, Robert Love.

Asa R. Bush Funeral.

Will Receive Medal.

First Baptist Sunday-school basketball team will be presented tomorrow afternoon with the medal as champion team of the Sunday-school League. Charles W. McCutchen will make the presentation.

N. P. Baseball Club Dance.

The North Plainfield Baseball Club is planning to hold a dance in Saengerbund hall Friday night, April 23. The Owl Social Club will also give a ball one week later in the same hall.

Harry Ackor, of this city, has been visiting relatives at Somerville.

"DAVE" FULTZ TO SPEAK AT Y.M.C.A. MEETING

David L. Fultz, of New York, at one time one of the greatest athletes in the country, will be the speaker at the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Fultz's work as half-back on the Brown University foot-ball team during the four years of his college course gave him a place in the very front rank of football players and his name is always mentioned along with those of Heffelfinger, Newell, Lewis, Butterworth, Gailey, Poe, Eckersall and others who belong in this class. Successful on the gridiron, he was even more successful on the diamond and it is as one of the most brilliant players in the history of the national game that he is known to "fans" everywhere. During the years that he played with the Milwaukee, Philadelphia and New York teams of the American league, his fine all-round work helped to make each of these teams a pennant-winning possibility.

Since quitting baseball Mr. Fultz has taken up the practice of law in New York city where he has become greatly interested in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in whose service he has done most effective work as a speaker at its men's meetings.

The service tomorrow begins at four o'clock. All men are welcome. Boys over fourteen will be admitted.

DR. ANTHONY HEADS MOTOR CYCLE CLUB

The Plainfield Motor Cycle Club, an organization of motor cycle owners comprising about forty cyclists, held a meeting at City Judge Runyon's office last night, when Dr. William H. Anthony was elected president. R. D. Martin was chosen vice-president and Allen Fulmer, through whose efforts the organization was effected, is the secretary. The object of the club is to promote the interest in motor cycling and the first club run will be held tomorrow morning.

The riders will meet at Park avenue and Randolph road at 9:30 o'clock and will ride to Metuchen New Brunswick and Bound Brook. The run will be in charge of Arthur Hulick, who has been elected club captain. "Bud" Howard is the club lieutenant. The route of tomorrow's run will be considered with a view to its suitability as an endurance course for club events planned for the near future. The motor cyclists are also arranging to hold a banquet.

ELECTRIC FIRMS TO MERGE INTERESTS

The Strang Gas-Electric Car Company has acquired an option to purchase the factory site owned by J. Rogers Maxwell, in Garwood. The company has entered into an agreement with the Garwood Electric Company providing for a joint occupancy of the factory site and a lease to the Garwood Electric Company of a part of the machinery, tools, equipment, dies, jigs and other fixtures for a term of five years, for a yearly rental of $12,500.

For the purpose of acquiring the title of the land, buildings and equipment now used by the company in Garwood, and for the payment of security of all present indebtedness and for obtaining additional capital to meet the growing needs of the business of the company, the Strang Gas-Electric Company has authorized the New Jersey Title Guarantee and Trust Company to execute under the corporate seal and deliver bonds in the sum of $350,000, payable on the first day of May, 1929, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum.

AGITATING FOR SEWERS

Another Conference Planned Among City, Borough and Dunellen Representatives.

PLANT TO COST ABOUT $230,000.

The General Opinion that It Would Be Located in the Greenbrook Valley Section.

The question of sewage disposal in North Plainfield is being agitated in a lively way at present, chiefly because the borough has come to a full realization of the fact that it must have a system of disposal and that within a short time. The plan is one that has interested Plainfield and Dunellen as well, all three municipalities being concerned in a proposition to establish one large plant, thus preventing, if possible, the location of several smaller ones.

North Plainfield township is also greatly interested in the scheme, so much so that it has appointed a committee to look after the welfare of that community. Mayor Samuel Townsend, of the borough, has invited Plainfield, Dunellen and the township representatives to attend a conference to be held within a few days to consider detailed plans.

The latest proposition is to establish sewage beds in the extreme southern portion of North Plainfield township in the vicinity of the Bound Brook line. There is some opposition to this on the part of property-owners in that vicinity, but it is argued that those who favor the plan are largely in the majority and if this is true there seems to be grounds for the report that the new arrangement will be adopted and become a fact.

Dunellen is also much concerned about the matter for it would mean that Plainfield's sewage beds would be removed from its backdoor and located a couple of miles away. This change would open up a large tract for building purposes in the west end of the city, and would make it an attractive place. It would also benefit Dunellen, as well as give the residents of the place a sewer.

It is estimated that the total cost of the new plant which would take care of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, as well as North Plainfield township, possibly, would be $230,000. Divided among the several municipalities it would make the expense on each one comparatively light when the cost of the trunk line sewer is considered. Besides the cost of maintenance would be small as compared with the other scheme. Many if not a majority of the largest property-owners concerned favor the building of one large system into which all three municipalities can sewer and it is agreed that this is what it will have to come to eventually.

MR. AND MRS. WHEELER PLAN A SUMMER CRUISE.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Wheeler, of Park avenue, have returned home from Florida, having been there since December 1. Mr. Wheeler had good success shooting, getting deer, turkey, quail and ducks. Just before leaving for home he purchased a large cruising yacht. The captain will leave Daytona on April 1 and bring the yacht to New York, where it will be refitted and go into commission June 1. The yacht has four double state rooms below, dining-room, 17x16, large galley and store-room, two bathrooms and toilets.

On the upper deck there is a saloon or smoking room, 15x13, and aft of that the owner's quarters. Mr. Wheeler will use the yacht on Long Island Sound this summer and send it back to Florida in the fall for winter use.

JEFFERY, THE BUNGALOW MAN, WINS AN EASY VICTORY.

William Jeffery, "The Bungalow Man," won another victory on Tuesday night when his friends triumphed at the New Providence township district school meeting. The meeting was held at Berkeley Heights lyceum. Among those who had a walk-over as candidates for school trustees were Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnston, president of New Jersey's civil service commission, and "Mayor Joseph Kuntz."

After the meeting the "Bungalow Crowd" gathered about the piano and sang topical songs, much to the edification of Henry S. Fullerton, whose forces met with a decisive defeat.

Socialist De Leon Talks.

Daniel De Leon, of New York, gave a talk on "The Paris Commune and the Lesson It Taught the Working Class" Thursday evening in Saenger hall, Elizabeth, under the auspices of the Elizabeth section of the Socialist Labor party.

AGED WOMAN KILLED SAVING GRANDDAUGHTER

Mrs. Mary E. Taylor, who was killed by a railroad train yesterday at Chestnut street crossing, Dunellen, by giving up her own life saved that of her grandchild, the six year old daughter of Thomas Humble.

The woman, who is seventy years old, accompanied by the little girl, was picking up coal along the tracks of the Jersey Central, when a west bound fast train bore down upon them. Mrs. Taylor thrust the child out of the way but was herself caught and the entire train passed over her body. The horrified engineer put on the brakes and backed up to the spot. Others had already arrived but life was extinct. The body was taken to Walter G. Runyon's undertaking establishment, and later identified. It had fallen between the rails and escaped being mangled.

It is believed no responsibility can be laid to the railroad company. The officials of the road ordered an investigation which was begun immediately.

The child which accompanied the aged woman had remained at a safe distance after being pushed out of the engine's path by the grandmother, and thus escaped uninjured.

Funeral services will be held Monday. She leaves two daughters and a son, Mrs. Christopher Huff, Mrs. Frank Randolph and Thomas Humble.

DISTRICT COURT JUDGES PLAN AN ORGANIZATION

Judge William Newcorn, of the District court, this city, was toastmaster at an informal dinner given by a number of the judges of the District courts throughout the State at the Trenton House, Trenton, Thursday night. The object of the meeting and dinner was to discuss matters of legislation and other things pertaining to their office. Toasts were responded to by all of the judges present.

One of the objects of the gathering was to discuss plans for a permanent organization, there being none at present. The matter will be taken up more fully later on. The menu card was in the shape of a law book, laying down certain rules and regulations as to what a man should eat, and provided that the things mentioned in the book would be permitted on the date thereof. Judge G. W. Macpherson will appoint a committee to arrange details for organization.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE HEARS DRAMATIC READER

Newton Beers gave a dramatic characterization of the fraternal play "Damon and Pythias," last night under the auspices of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P. The attendance comfortably filled Odd Fellows hall in the Babcock building and the presentation was in every way worthy of the reception given it.

The impersonation was especially good in the last act, giving a strong finish to the thrilling climax. The entertainment was under the supervision of V. W. Nash, Jr.

DIME SOCIAL IS HELD BY HOPE CHAPEL WOMEN.

Mrs. Walter Bradford and Mrs. Marcus W. Clark, of 215 Stebbins place, gave a dime social at their home, last night, it being one of a series being held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel to raise money for chapel work. About eighty members and friends attended the social, which was enlivened by tenor solos by William Anderson, Scotch and English selections. Parlor games were played and everyone had a social time.

Frank Rimmer, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Slorah, had charge of "The Village School, which afforded lots of amusement. Afterward refreshments were served by Mrs. Marcus Clark, Mrs. Walter Bradford and Mrs. J. Fred Wharton.

P. H. S. Plays.

Two comedies will be presented by the class of 1910, P. H. S., March 27, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. They are "The Facts of the Matter" and a "Case of Suspension." William Gano, Bessie Alpaugh and Ouida Hetfield will take prominent parts in the first named, while Edward Sampter, James Manger, Louise Andrews and Katherine Monihan will represent the leading characters of the cast of "A Case of Suspension." Reserved seat tickets can be procured at De Brigard & Collier's, Park avenue.

ICE PLANT PROMOTERS ARE TO MEET TONIGHT

The Plainfield business men who are interested in the formation of a new ice company will hold a meeting tonight to decide on the proposed plans as outlined in The Daily Press of yesterday. There is growing interest in the scheme and there is every reason to believe that it will be carried out to success. The promoters including J. D. Loizeaux, William R. Codington, John E. Dunn and Fred Endress are gratified over the prospects, believing that there is a field here for such a business as they propose.

If the ice plant is erected the company plans to retail ice to everybody at thirty cents a hundred and wholesale it at twenty-five cents a hundred delivered at the plant. That is purchasers will be expected to do their own hauling. In this way everyone will have an equal chance and anyone desiring to do so can purchase it in wholesale quantities at twenty-five cents a hundred and retail it for thirty. The same idea will be carried out in selling coal if pockets are built at the plant.

One interested citizen said today that he thought Plainfield to be too large a city to be confronted with the present ice situation every summer and there was no reason why there should not be plenty of ice for everyone at a fair price. It is because the promoters of the new company believe that there is a field here for the business that they are busy perfecting their plans to engage in the selling of ice at wholesale and retail.

BOYS' CLUB OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED AT HOPE

The officers-elect of the Hope chapel Boys' club were installed at the chapel last night as follows: President, Clinton Firstbrook; first vice-president, Howard Firstbrook; second vice-president, James Doig; secretary, Arthur Hoffman; treasurer, Earl Huff; entertainment committee, George Patterson; athletic committee, LeRoy Bilyeu; membership committee, Arthur Mundy; house committee, Bertram Smith; initiation committee, Alfred Patterson; games committee, John Herron and lookout committee, Thomas Herron.

After the business an elaborate supper was served by the entertainment committee, assisted by other members. The guests were Rev. L. R. Howard, G. Herbert Condict, I. W. Travell, and W. H. Webster. Mr. Condict spoke on "Progress," in various fields of invention during the last decade and urging the desirability of progress in everything, especially in spiritual matters. He also spoke of the union with the church and pictured the ideal Christian life as the life to strive for and to make progress toward that goal.

Mr. Webster spoke in a similar vein, urging his hearers to live for things which go for permanent satisfaction, pointing out that it was worth while to do that instead of enjoying one selfishly. Rev. Mr. Howard spoke upon the "Aspect of Life as a Fight," giving several practical illustrations. Mr. Travell talked about the experiences of a man who suffered failure many times before succeeding, urging the boys to stick to what they are doing provided it is right. The club now has a membership of forty with new ones being added each month.

COP DISCOVERS RED HOT STOVE AS FIRE BREAKS OUT.

While patroling his beat in the West End at about 9 o'clock last night, Patrolman Sweeney saw that the stove in the Plainfield avenue grocery store of Councilman W. W. Wilson had burned to a red heat, and realizing the danger of fire, notified one of the clerks who lives in the neighborhood. As the two entered the store, a gross of matches stored there flammed up and officer and clerk had a lively time quenching the flames. There was no loss, and the fire was properly dampened for the night before the men left the store.

To Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will preach at the morning service at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning, and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preach at the Scotch Plains church. In the evening Dr. Chambliss will preach at his own church. His topic will be "A Young Man's Vision."

Many Good Seats Left.

Tickets for Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady," will be on sale at the New Plainfield theatre Monday morning between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock. There are still many good seats left from which to make a selection. The play will be given for the benefit of The Day Nursery.

WANT TO PRESERVE ROCK

Continental Chapter D.A.R. to Ascertain Ownership of Historic Spot.

THE STATE REGENT'S ADDRESS.

Miss Ella Meeker Speaks on "Patriotic Education" at Mrs. Chas. W. McCutchen's Home.

The Continental Chapter, Daughters American Revolution, was entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen on Rockview avenue. The attendance was large, there being about twenty charter members present. There were two important features. One was the address by Miss Ella Meeker, of Salem, State regent, on "Patriotic Education," and the other was the decision of the Chapter to make a thorough investigation of the ownership of the Washington Rock property.

The Chapter is especially anxious to ascertain who owns this historic site for the reason that for several years it has been engaged in efforts to raise funds with which to place a suitable marker at that place. If it is not to be permitted to carry out the objects, the members want to know it at this ime. Mrs. Charles W. McCuchen was appointed a committee of one to make the investigation and report to the Chapter at the next meeting o be held Thursday, April 29.

The talk by Miss Meeker was of unusual interest. She told of the adopted plan of the State D. A. R. to dedicate the New Jersey room in the D. A. R. building in Washington, on Monday, April 19. The wood in this room, as well as the furnishings, was taken from the British frigate "Augusta," which was raised by the New Jersey D. A. R. The furnishings will include a handsome desk set made from this wood. The local Chapter will be well represented at the dedication.

IN HIS NAME CIRCLE TO GIVE A TEA AND SALE.

In His Name Circle of King's Daughters, the youngest in the city, will hold a tea and sale at the home of Ruth Timpson on Hillside avenue, Saturday afternoon, March 27. The proceeds will be for the King's Daughters work in the city. Mrs. Frederic W. Butler is president, Ruth Timpson vice-president, Gertrude Butler secretary and Dorothy Leal treasurer.

REALTY CONCERN BUYS NEW BRUNSWICK PROPERTY

The Lebanon Milling and Producing Company, of which Ira L. La Rue, of this city, is president, has purchased a large business property on Burnet street, New Brunswick, having a frontage of 40 feet and being 144 feet deep. Extensive improvements are planned and the property will be converted into two stores.

At present real estate is booming in New Brunswick because of the possibility of the passage of Senator Silzer's bill which would permit vessels of large tonnage to enter that place. The plan is to cut off the canal at the Albany street bridge, causing a deeper waterway to be made and the entrance of large vessels.

Cranford Gunners Win.

In the clay bird shoot a few days ago between the Log Cabin Gun Club, of this city, and the Cranford Golf Club, at the latter place, in which ten men on each team shot at fifty birds, Cranford won by 37 birds. Schaffler made the best score for Plainfield, breaking 44 out of a possible 50. The total scores were 365 to 328. Cranford has engaged in six matches and won five. A return match will be shot in this city soon.

Treat for Music Lovers.

Archer Gibson, one of the most famous organists in this country, assisted by David Croxton, basso, will give a recital at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Monday night. Mr. Gibson is organist at the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, and Mr. Croxton is the bass singer there. The program will be of exceptional interest and such well-known artists should attract a large audience. Tickets can be had at Armstrong's drug store.

SOMERVILLE.

The State Tuberculosis exhibit is to be held in the Somerville Carriage Company building in Main street and Doughty avenue, March 2, and the remainder of that week under the auspices of the local association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis. The exhibit will show many practical points for the prevention and relief of this disease. In connection with this exhibit, there will be a mass meeting in the assembly room of the High School, on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. W. S. Cramner will preside, and Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen will speak, as will also Dr. S. B. English, superintendent of the State Institute at Glen Gardner. Arrangements are being made for short talks at the exhibit in the afternoon and evening of each day.

Three members were elected on the Board of Education Tuesday evening. When the annual meeting was held in the assembly room, H. F. Galpin and William Hardgrove were re-elected, and Louis P. Gaston was elected in place of Calvin D. McMurtry. District Clerk Henry P. Mason read his report, which was both comprehensive and clear. No action was taken on the matter of appropriations. A special meeting will probably be held in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schwed, of Elizabeth, have been visiting the former's father, Charles Schwed, in West High street, this week.

TREASURY APPROVES OF THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Washington, March 20.—The administrative features of the new tariff bill are highly satisfactory to the Treasury Department, which has a deep interest in the provisions regarding classification and other matters affecting the enforcement of the law according to the intent of Congress.

From the Treasury viewpoint the maximum and minimum feature of the new tariff bill is one of the most important provisions. The provisions affords a weapon by means of which the government is in a position to retaliate for any discrimination sought to be practised by a foreign government, and in this way the interests of American exporters will be conserved and promoted.

HE HELD COURT IN THE SMOKING CAR.

"Wherever you catch a Supreme Court Justice you have the Supreme Court" is a saying among lawyers, the truth of which is seldom questioned. Justice Garrison gave a practical demonstration of the accuracy of the saying yesterday morning when he held court in the smoking car of the 9:12 train from Camden, while on his way to Trenton to attend the session of the Court of Errors and Appeals. Justice Garrison was caught on the train by former Judge Joseph H. Gaskill, who on behalf of Alfred A. Clement, made application for a writ of certiorari to review the action of the Borough of Haddonfield in authorizing the issuing of $100,000 of four and a half per cent. bonds for the erection of a water plant. Later in the day the writ sought was denied.

The contention made on the train by Mr. Gaskill was that the bond issue was illegal because the bonds had been disposed of at private sale. In support of the contention that the borough would be loser by the transaction, Mr. Gaskill told the court that the prospective purchaser of the bonds, Howard K. Stokes, a brother of the former Governor, had arranged to dispose of the bonds to the State school fund at an advance of $3,200 over the purchase rate.

This understanding coupled with the private sale, Mr. Gaskill contended, constituted ample grounds for setting aside the sale.

The application was opposed by William T. Boyle, representing the Borough of Haddonfield. He told the court that the borough had tried to float a four per cent. bond issue which had been offered at public sale without any bidders.

The best offer that had been made, except that of Mr. Stokes, counsel said, was for the purchase of bonds bearing four and three-quarters per cent. dividends. Under these circumstances, he argued, there was no impropriety in accepting the Stokes offer.

Justice Garrison held the case temporarily and it was noon when he filed an order with the Supreme Court clerk denying the application for a certiorari.

Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, will hold a regular meeting tonight.

Mrs. A. P. Peek, formerly of East Millstone, was the guest of Plainfield friends Thursday night.

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

GOLF.

As matters look now President Morgan of the Metropolitan Golf Association will have to choose the dates for the Lesley cup intercity matches this fall. The teams will meet at the White Marsh Valley Country Club course and the details under the deed of gift are always arranged by the presidents of the three associations concerned. The Philadelphians have asked for October 15 and 16, the week after the women's championship at Merion, but the specific reason is that the ratification of the newly organized Pennsylvania Golf Association will not be held until October 11, and it is desired to wait for the merger to please a couple of Pittsburg golfers on the team. President Windeler of the Massachusetts Golf Association has expressed a wish to have the matches on October 1 and 2. President Morgan has the deciding vote, or he may name new dates as a compromise. The Montclair Golf Club has claimed October 14, 15 and 16 for an open tournament, but if the last two are taken for the intercity matches the New Jersey tournament will be put forward to September 30, October 1 and 2.

The Transmississippi championship will be held at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club July 13-17. The Des Moines golfers are planning for an open professional tournament in which the first prize will be of $1,000 and the aggregate $5,000.

Team matches will again be a feature of the Yountakah Country Club's competitive season. Already six home-and-home contests have been arranged by H. G. Giles, who is captain for the second year. Last season the Nutley golfers won five out of six matches. Interclub contests thus far arranged are as follows: May 1, Ridgewood Golf Club, at Yountakah; May 8, Upper Montclair Country Club, at Yountakah; May 12, Hackensack Golf Club, at Yountakah; May 16, Yountakah, at Ridgewood; May 22, Yountakah, at Upper Montclair; May 26, Yountakah, at Hackensack.

In addition to these the usual home-and-home affair will be arranged with the North Jersey Country Club, but as yet no dates have been given out. A long list of members' competitions in which there will be handicaps in two classes will also be issued. Those handicapped from 1 to 16 will play in class A, while those rated from 17 to 27 will make up the B division.

The club was never in such a flourishing condition as at present, the membership having increased to 320 despite a recent raise in the dues. President Taft has been elected an honorary member. The course has been completely rearranged and improved for the opening of the season.

Instead of going across the road, as was customary heretofore, a start is now made at the old fourteenth tee, which is close to the clubhouse. The old fifteenth is the second and the former sixteenth the third. These are rather long holes, comprising a total of 1,100-odd yards, as against 800 yards before, which means that congestion at the outset will be avoided even on busy days.

After playing the old seventeenth and home holes for the fourth and fifth the new arrangement takes in the former first, second, third and fourth holes, to represent the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth. The latter has been shortened to 135 yards, with the green converted into a circus affair, completely surrounded by traps.

Starting the homeward journey, the old fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth are now known as the tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes. The tenth has been lengthened to 260 yards, while the bunker in front of the fourteenth green, originally the ninth, down near the creek, has been removed.

The playing length for the full round is slightly greater than formerly, the total reaching about 5,900 yards. George Pearson, the professional, remains for another year, while J. F. Moore, formerly connected with the Englewood Golf Club, has been engaged as caddie master.

BASEBALL.

With Ortleib on the firing line for Clinton Avenue that department of the team should be well fortified in case Randolph fails to come back this season. Ortleib certainly had the Indian sign on all of the local clubs last season, especially Scotch Plains, and he is said to be even better this year. He and Seery should make a fine battery.

Jake Weimer has joined the Giants and declares that he is now in condition to pitch a regular game. He is practically down to proper weight and should be able to give a good account of himself, and besides if Wiltse does not go with the Giants McGraw will probably have plenty of use for Weimer.

"Lou" Wiltse, of this city, will probably be seen in the game at Syracuse this summer, where he did fine work last year. He is a favorite in that city and has always been able to make good there.

President P. T. Powers of the Eastern League made public Thursday the playing schedule for the coming championship season, which opens on April 22, with Buffalo at Jersey City, Montreal at Providence, Toronto at Newark and Rochester at Baltimore. On Decoration Day the schedule calls for Jersey City at Newark, also on May 31 in the morning and with Newark at Jersey City in the afternoon. On the same day Montreal plays at Rochester and Toronto at Buffalo. Newark is scheduled for Jersey on July 4. Balti. plays at Providence on Independence Day too. There will be double headers generally throughout the league on July 5, Newark in Jersey City in the morning and Jersey City in Newark in the afternoon, Montreal at Buffalo, Toronto at Rochester and Providence at Baltimore.

Both July 4 and May 30 fall on Sundays, so it appears there is expectation of a Sunday baseball bill in New Jersey. With Jersey City added four clubs of the league would have Sunday ball. The schedule gives Jersey City twelve Sundays and thirteen Saturdays, with only two double headers on the Saturdays. Newark has twelve Sundays and ten Saturdays. There is only one double header on the list.

There will be double headers all around the league on Labor Day, September 26. The season ends on September 28, with the Toronto-Baltimore game in Baltimore.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Tomorrow will be review day at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school.

W. E. MacClymont will give the oratio of "Elijah" at Grace church right after Easter, with a chorus of seventy voices and a full orchestra.

The three women's societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold their annual meeting Tuesday at the church. It will be an all-day session.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will begin the rehearsal of Easter music tomorrow. The exercises will be held Sunday, April 11.

Prof. Edward Howard Griggs will lecture in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, Thursday afternoon, March 25, on "The Tragedy of the Pursuit of Knowledge."

Rev. A. E. Richer will speak at the Congregational church tomorrow morning in the interest of home missions, at which time the annual offering for home missions will be received.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, speaking on the topic, "The Wicket Gate."

Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades, of New York, will speak at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning on foreign missions. He is a delightful talker and undoubtedly will be heard by a large congregation.

BANQUET FOR MISSIONARY.

A banquet was given in the parlors of the Third Presbyterian church, Westfield, Thursday night, in honor of Dr. William M. Schultz, who will go to China to do missionary work for the church. The dinner was held under the auspices of the forward movement committee of the church, and covers were laid for about one hundred and twenty-five. M. B. Dutcher acted as toastmaster. A brigade composed of about sixty boys who are members of the congregation gave a drill under the command of Colonel W. A. Stryker.

Speeches were made by E. B. Sturgis, of Scranton, Pa., and Robert E. Speer. The former spoke on "The Busy Man's Place in the Mission Business," and the latter took as his topic, "What Are Foreign Missions Doing?" Other remarks were also made by Rev. Dr. E. B. Cobb, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Elizabeth, and Rev. Dr. William I. Stearns, the pastor of the Westfield church. The affair closed with benediction.

Since the church has been engaged in the work it has sent three representatives to the missionary field. They are: Rev. J. McCarrell Leiper, at Big Laurel, N. C.; Rev. F. S. Curtis, at Corea, Japan, and Miss Helen Snyder, at Anasco, Porto Rico.

THREE NEW PICTURES FOR SOMERSET SCHOOL.

Somerset school has added three new pictures to its art collection. They were purchased with the proceeds from an entertainment given last year by the pupils of the school.

The subjects include "A Chariot Race in the Roman Collosseum," "Indians Sighting the Columbus Caravels," and "Deer of the Northern Woods." The first named is the largest of the group and is hung at the end of the hall on the second floor, while the others occupy positions on the side walls.

Her Conclusions Correct.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I have read with more than considerable interest in "The Forum" column, the letter signed "An Old-Fashioned Mother," in your issue of the 18th. It is a splendid letter and I do not see why in the world the good lady did not sign her name so that those of us intelligent enough to see the good of it, could write to her expressing approval. The lady is absolutely correct in her conclusions.

FIGURES IN ARTISTIC ROMANCE.

Church Altar Piece the Center of Interesting Love Story.

There is perchance no more romantic episode in art than the love of Fra Filippo Lippi for the little nun, Lucrezia Buti, and romantic, too, is the history of the altar piece painted for her convent church in Prato. Fra Filippo, who had been commissioned to decorate this altar, asked the abbess to allow the timid nun to stand as his model for St. Margaret. The abbess consented (this circumstance itself speaks for the curious manners of the times), and thus in the long hours of posing and tete-a-tete an intimacy sprang up between the pair. Upon the occasion of a church fete and under cover of the crowd, Fra Filippo carried off the no longer unwilling Lucrezia and she went to dwell in his house, where her son Filippino was born. The affair caused much talk, even in those days, the more so that several of Lucrezia's sister nuns followed her example and Filippo's house became the center of revolt. The pope's intervention and that of the powerful Medici were finally invoked, with the result that Lucrezia and her companions were forced to return to the convent, and by a curious irony of fate they were put to do penance before the very picture which had been the cause of their downfall! This altar piece now hangs in the municipal gallery of Prato and is known as the "Madonna della Cintola."—Helen Zimmern in Metropolitan.

BORDERED ON THE SARCASTIC.

Barber's Comment Certainly Not Remarkable for Tact.

Bentley had been out late the night before, or rather, he had stayed in late in a little affair at bridge, and about all he had left to show for it in the morning was an old-fashioned away-from-home-made headache. In hope of relief, he had sought his old friend the barber, and the latter had been busy on Bentley's head and face for the past hour.

"By jove! Karl," said Bentley, as the barber rubbed the top of his head, "that feels mighty good, I can tell you. The man who invented massage was not only a genius, but a benefactor to the whole human race. They ought to put up a statue to him. There's nothing like it when a fellow feels seedy. There's only one trouble about it."

"Vot iss it?" asked Karl, hoping that perhaps he might overcome the difficulty.

"Why, it's all on the outside," said Bentley. "If there were only some apparatus that would enable you to get inside a fellow's head and clear out the pains of the morning after, what a blessing it would be."

"Vell," said Karl, "I t'ink that maybe some day dose vacuum- cleaner fellers vill do dot already yet. Vot?"—Harper's Weekly.

Not to Be Forgotten.

Mr. Hammond's face was so ugly as to be almost grotesque, although nobody ever thought about his looks after hearing him talk. "If I hadn't known I was one of the homeliest people in the world I might have been surprised at a remark made by old Pomp, the body-servant of one of my southern friends," he once said.

"I hadn't seen Pomp for 15 years, and as I had grown from a boy to a man in that time, I did not expect him to remember me, but he said: 'Howdy, Marse Hammond, sah!' the moment he caught sight of me.

"'So you remember me, Pomp,' I said.

"'Couldn't nebber forgit yo' face, Marse Hammond, sah,' grinned Pomp. 'hit's so kinder complicated!'"—Youth's Companion.

Remunerative.

"In the sheep raising district of England," remarked an Englishman now living in New York, "there was an old man who used to wander about picking up and selling wool which the sheep scratched off their backs by rubbing against the hedges. The old fellow was somewhat of a butt in the neighborhood, but he stuck to his work, unmindful of jeers, wandering miles over the downs every day—silent, absorbed, untiring.

"Well, how much do you suppose that old boy left when he died? Just guess, now."

"One thousand pounds," opined one auditor.

"Five hundred," said another.

The raconteur shook his head.

"Not a demned cent," he said.

Idea by No Means New.

The object of New York's newest club is to eat wisely but not too well. That is, to educate housewives in the domestic sciences. But this idea is as old as the hills and was tried by Boston years ago with more or less failure. Clubs of domestic science are all over the United States now and one can determine their value to society by harking back to the old days of the simple life when eating and the preparation of food was not the main object and the servant problem had not started on its wild career.

Approval.

"Do you think it is an advantage for a young singer to go abroad to study?"

"I dunno as it's any advantage," answered Mr. Cumrox. "But it's mighty considerate of the home folks and the neighbors."

They All Do.

"What kind of a lunch did she serve last night?"

"I thought it was all right, but she apologized for it just the same."—Detroit Free Press.

The Demon of Fear.

—by—

Rev. Dr. Chas E. Herring

In an oriental legend of a dialogue between a Pilgrim and the Plague, the Pilgrim is represented as saying to the Plague, "Where are you going?" "I am going to Bagdad to kill five thousand people," answered the Plague. In a few weeks the Plague returned from Bagdad, and the Pilgrim meeting him said. "You told me you were going to Bagdad to kill five thousand people, but you have killed fifty thousand. "No," said the Plague, "I killed five thousand as I said I would; the others died of fright." This is a legend, I know, but it is very suggestive. We are quite sure at the present time, that the demon of fear is killing his thousands, and there have arisen numerous cults which are seeing to throttle him; New Thoughters, Faith Healers, Christian Scientists and others. A certain nerve specialist states that a generation ago there were fifty thousand cases of nervous weakness in the United States. Now he says that number has been increased to two hundred and fifty thousand. He gives his reasons for the increased nervousness of the age as due to the mad rush for wealth, mental idleness, over-work, self indulgence and, in no small degree, to the breaking down of religious faith. Tolstoi was right when he said that the cause of all the trouble of men is that they have lost their sense of God. It was the prophet Isaiah who proclaimed this inspiring message to Israel, "Fear not for I am with thee; be not dismayed for I am thy God." Through several chapters of his prophecy he is sounding forth this message, "Fear not," because of God's presence in your life.

The constant spirit of fear and forboding unfits us for normal living in the world. Many diseases are caused by morbid mental and emotional conditions. Diabetes we are told, is caused by mental strain, and cancer is often due to prolonged mental anxiety. Fear is the basis of many physical as well as mental ills. The only way for a man to live in this age of unrest, is to folow the exhortation of Saint Paul, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." We all feel the influence of the turmoil of our business activities, and yet I believe it to be true as some one else has phrased it, "It is a large part of the beauty of living, to be in a tempest and not to be tempest-tossed." The daily routine of present day living is strenuous. We cannot get away from it, and yet we can learn from our Lord who said, "My peace I give unto you." Is not the relation Christ sustains to God very much like the relation we may sustain to Him, and is it not true that God will keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Him?

Dr. Macdonald, of Brooklyn, amends Emerson's remark, "Hitch your wagon to a star," to "Hitch the stars to your wagon; let Heaven help you draw your load." Here is a remedy to help ever man. Remember that your God is a living God, and living for your personal interest.

A dying and despairing infidel wrote on the walls of his room, "God is nowhere," but his little girl, when she returned from the Sunday school, read it aloud, "God is now here." It startled him. He said, therefore, "if you say so, Nellie, it must be true." The child's heart could not read it otherwise.

Herbert Spencer, agnostic though he was, felt compelled to say, "We are in the midst of an Infinite Power that forms all things," but Scripture teaches us that the Infinite Power is our Father who is interested in each man's welfare.

You can block the way to God's help by your doubts and despair. Be fearful, and you are in the demon's power. The French proverb says, "Paint the devil on the walls of your room, and by and by he may appear to you." Your fears may become grim realities. Don't paint them, therefore, on the walls of your heart. Remember that God will keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Him; that His peace will abide regardless of circumstances, environment, and heredity.

Fit for a King.

The coverlet of the Duchesse de Chaulnes' son's crib is one of the most marvelous pieces of lace that have been made in modern times. The coat of arms forms the central figure in a magnificent piece of point de Valois lace measuring more than a yard in width and a yard and a half in length. It took 500 working days to finish the lace and on the coat of arms alone twenty expert lace makers were employed.

Up in the Air.

"No," said the fair but frigid maid, "I wouldn't marry any man on earth."

"That's all right," rejoined the practical youth. "My airship is anchored on the roof and a friend of mine who is a minister will gladly tie the knot above the clouds."

And seeing that her bluff had been called there was nothing left for the fair maid to do but fall into his waiting arms.—Chicago News.

CONNECTICUT GOVERNOR SEEKS REST AT SUMMIT?

There appears to be a difference of opinion as to whether or not Governor George L. Lilley, of Connecticut, is a patient at the American Hygienic Institute at Summit. According to a friend of Dr. C. H. Ohly, one of the proprietors of the Institute, the latter told of the institute, while a woman who said she was the head nurse there, insisted this morning that the Governor was not a guest. When told of Dr. Ohly's statement, the nurse said she presumed the doctor thought Governor Lilley was at the institution.

From Hartford, however, came advices to the effect that Governor Lilley, with his executive secretary, Charles A. Woodwin, left that city yesterday, their destination being the Summit institution where they expect to remain a week or more. From what is considered an authentic source it was learned that Governor Lilley, not fully recovered from the effects of his last political campaign, selected this section as one in which he could successfully isolate himself and gain a complete rest.

The suite said to be at the disposal of the Executive commands a broad view of the Orange Mountains, and the institute is located on a high point and is two miles from town. The only means of communication with the "outside world" is by stage coach which makes several trips during the day with passengers and mail.

CONGDON SWORN IN AS ERRORS COURT MEMBER.

General Joseph W. Congdon, of Paterson, was sworn in yesterday at Trenton as a judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals, to which position he was appointed by Governor Fort last Tuesday. The oath was administered by Chief Justice Gummere in the presence of the full court and a number of lawyers. Immediately after signing the oath of office General Congdon retired to the conference-room, from which he merged a few minutes later resplendant in the judicial robes worn by members of the court.

Judge Congdon took the place on the bench vacated by his predecessor, the late Judge Elmer Ewing Green. His seat is between that of Justice Minturn and Judge Gray.

Judge Congdon will sit in the remaining cases to be heard during the present term of court.

LOST MAN FOUND IN SWAMP.

Passaic Man, Half Dressed and Up to His Waist in Mud, Couldn't Explain.

Paul Zubach, of 49 Van Winkle avenue, Passaic, who disappeared from his home last Tuesday, was brought back yesterday, after a strange experience which he is unable to explain.

Zubach has suffered recently from a peculiar malady, being unable to sit down without immediately going to sleep. Tuesday morning he left home on a bicycle to go to the office of a physician. He was found yesterday morning by a party of hunters in a swamp at the foot of an incline road near Haverstraw, N. Y. He was up to his waist in mud and had no clothing on except his trousers. His bare feet appeared to have been frozen. His face and body were badly bruised, and when discovered he was unable to walk. Neither his missing clothing nor his bicycle has been found. His watch and a small amount of money were found in the pockets of his trousers.

TO TEST VANDENBURG LAW.

Brigadier General Campbell Wants Retirement Order of Governor Fort's Reviewed.

Brigadier General Edward A. Campbell, of the 1st Regiment, who was retired by the executive order issued by Governor Fort on Wednesday, obtained yesterday from Chief Justice Gummere a writ of certiorari to have the action of the Governor in issuing the order reviewed.

This means the beginning of a legal battle to test the constitutionality of the Vandenburg law retiring commissioned officers of the national guard at the age of sixty-four years.

NO SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Clash Expected Between Park Owners and the Police When Season Opens.

Sunday baseball within the city limits of Paterson will be thrashed out as soon as the coming season opens. A conflict between park owners and the police is expected. For years baseball games on Sunday mornings, where no admission fee was charged, have been tolerated upon the outskirts of the city, where the grounds were not inclosed.

It was said yesterday morning that the management of the newly inclosed Morlot grounds and those adjoining Westside Park in Paterson, intended to get around the matter by placing a receptacle of some kind at the entrance into which patrons could place voluntary contributions. Police Chief Bimson says he will not tolerate Sunday afternoon baseball within the city limits where an admission fee is charged.

Horse Saved in Burning Car.

An Adams Express car on a Pennsylvania Railroad train caught fire at New Brunswick yesterday. The fire started in a bale of oakum against the steam pipes. There was a horse in the car bound for Philadelphia. The express messenger stopped the train and called out the city fire department. The car and locomotive were disconnected from the train and the fire was soon put out. The messenger burned his arms badly in throwing out the burning oakum.

A Dull Looking Church.

In some communities one or more churches present evidence of badly painted exteriors. The beautiful finish and coloring of the L. & M. Paint distinguishes a church painted with it. The L. & M. Paint is Metallic Zinc Oxide combined with White Lead, and wears like gold. A liberal quantity of L. & M. Paint is given to every church whenever they paint. This has been done throughout the United States during past 35 years. More churches have been painted with L. & M. Paint than with any other. Sold by Woolston & Buckle, Plainfield; H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains; Edw. Pennock, Dunellen.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mrs. Keturah Langley, ninety-three years old, of Elmer, fell Wednesday and broke her shoulder blade.

The Tuckahoe Gas Improvement Company has completed its line of pipes through the town and turned on the gas.

Forty students of the chemistry class of the University of Pennsylvania were visitors at the Millville glass plant yesterday.

James Hargues, eighty-six years old, of Ferrell, familiarly known throughout that section as "Uncle Jimmie," is seriously ill, and was taken to the county farm yesterday.

Charged with neglecting to send her children to school, Mrs. Thomas Moore, of West Millville, was arrested by Marshal Biggs and held for a further hearing by Mayor Smith yesterday.

John Wilson, fifteen years old, of 1080 East Twenty-second street, Paterson, while at work in the Bamford mills there yesterday, was hurt. His finger was crushed in a set of cogwheels.

John Ahde, an Egg Harbor City sportsman, killed his eighteenth fox yesterday near there. He recently killed a black fox, known to exist only in the Northwestern States. Besides the value of the fur, Ahde will receive $2.50 bounty for each fox killed.

The family of Jacob H. Peer, of Cedar Run, have had an exciting time the past fortnight. First, Clifford, a son, just growing up to manhood, lost his left hand by the bursting a his gun barrel. Another son, Harry, while chopping wood, hit his foot with the axe, making a bad gash across the ankle, which physicians say will lame him for life. To cap the climax, a daughter was born into the family right after the last accident.

Showing to the court that he was not aware of the import of the order and that he had not been properly served, Luke J. Kelly was yesterday purged of contempt by Vice-Chancellor Leaming, of Camden. Kelly holds an option on land in Centre Township, of which William Seeh is the tenant, and the latter had Kelly haled before the court for contempt after he continued chopping down timber and carting away sand in violation of an injunction procured by Seeh.

What promises to be the first case of hydrophobia in Atlantic City is developing in the Municipal Hospital, where Clyde Gandy, four years old, is suffering from the early symptoms. He was bitten March 10 by a mad dog while he was on the porch of his home. Another child, the son of Morris Freas, is under watch in Chelsea, since it was learned the animal had attacked him. John Ortman, three years old, bitten in the arm, who is also at the hospital, is improving, and it is believed he will recover.

PREFERS NEW YORK TO NEW JERSEY CHARTER.

Timothy L. Woodruff told the stockholders of the Union Typewriter Company at their annual meeting in Jersey City that he favored taking out a New York charter and moving from the State of New Jersey. Mr. Woodruff is one of the largest stockholders.

A resolution to this effect was introduced by James M. Giffords, counsel for the concern. It was pointed out that by incorporating in New York the company could save about $70,000 a year in expenses, including the hiring of lawyers and other fixed charges. It is expected that the directors will put the change into effect at once.

The statement of the company showed that during the year 1908 a profit of $812,628 was made. The company now has a net surplus of $2,692,000, and its total assets are over $24,000,000. The old board of directors was re-elected yesterday.

SEEK COUNTERFEITER OF TEN-DOLLAR BILLS.

The police of Paterson are on the lookout for a professional counterfeiter who is believed to be working Paterson. The morning squad of officers were instructed to pick him up on sight. The man in question is circulating bogus ten-dollar notes bearing on the face a picture of a buffalo.

The notes are printed on paper composed of several layers with pieces of heavy silken thread and fibre between them, imitating the genuine paper. The operator usually goes to a butcher shop or delicatessen store and makes a purchase of sausage or frankfurters and pays for them with one of the counterfeits. He invariably throws away his purchase upon return to the street. It is said that several merchants of Paterson have been victimized but the police would neither deny nor affirm these rumors.

Mrs. William Springer, of Newark, is visiting relatives in town for several days.

L. H. Morgan, of West Front street, will leave for Europe within a short time.

Miss Carrie Smith, of Jersey City, who has been spending several days with friends here, has returned home.

THE ONLY WAY.

Many Plainfield Citizens Have Discovered It.

Just what to do when the kidneys are affected, is a question that concerns both young and old. Weak kidneys neglected in childhood lead to life-long suffering. People of avanced years, with less vitality, suffer doubly. In youth or age, langour, backache, dizziness and nervousness make life a burden.

There is one remedy that acts directly on the kidneys and cures these troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills owe their world-wide fame to the fact that they cure kidneys and cure them permanently. Follow the example of this Plainfield citizen and you will be convinced that this is so.

John W. Snedeser, 244 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all persons suffering from kidney complaint. I had this trouble for some time and was in a bad way. When I awoke in the morning I felt unrefreshed and during the day suffered from a dull backache. My condition gradually grew worse and I always felt weak, tired and depressed. My mother finally to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did so with the very best of results. I am now entirely free from kidney trouble and my back does not bother me in the least."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Maurice V. Samuels, whose psychic drama, "The Conflict," which appears here this afternoon and tonight, has brought him fame over night. In his younger days took an active part in democratic politics in California. The State central committee had him playing a series of one night stands, with morning and afternoon speeches thrown in for good measure. In those days the dramatist was much of a stripling in looks and physique with a face as innocent of hirsute adornment as a newly born babe. Imagine his feelings as he left the hotel in Bentwood, Cal., one night and made for the opera house, where he was to be the speaker of the evening to see placed on the wall of the rallying place an eight sheet muslin poster, of what purported to be a picture of himself. There was the bust of a typical Bowery barkeeper. Black curly hair, plastered down over the brow and parted in the center, a long dropping mustache, a red, white and blue necktie and in the center of the shirt bosom reposed a huge diamond, larger even than the famous Cullen gem, given by the Transvaal to Edward VIII. The poster bore this legend in red and blue letters: "The Hon. Maurice V. Samuels, of San Francisco will address the meeting." "The Hon. etc.," tore down the "banner with the strange device" and took it home to his good mother in San Francisco. Mrs. Samuels took a hasty glance at the portrait, looked at her son and gave a gasp of astonishment, and Mr. Samuels retired from politics.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Automobiles Not in Experimental Stage.

The question of equipping the new East End fire house with an automobile apparatus is by no means certain. The Councilmanic fire committee, or at least some of the members, are not convinced that it would be a wise move. Mr. Mygatt, who has made more or less of a study of the question, had a personal interview with Chief Croker of the New York fire department a few days ago, and the latter informed him that in his opinion the automobile apparatus is still in the experimental stage and is not considered absolutely reliable for fire purposes. However, he believes that it will be the coming thing for fire-fighting. This opinion does not agree with that of Chief Doane, who says that he now believes the automobile apparatus to be the only thing, although it was not long ago that he had the same idea as Chief Croker. Chief Doane says that the machine has passed the experimental stage and favors the installation of one in this city. Still, while the fire committee is undivided in its opinion the Common Council is not likely to purchase an auto machine. The committee now intends to advertise for bids for a combination chemical and hose wagon.—Plainfield, N. J., Press.

Thirty-five years ago chemical engines were first used. Every large city in the world except New York many years ago learned that chemical engines had passed the experimental stage, and from fifty to eighty per cent. of all fires outside of New York are now extinguished by chemical engines. It may take New York thirty-five years to learn that automobile apparatus has passed the experimental stage. Auto fire apparatus has passed the experimental stage and many auto hose and chemical wagons, underwriters' salvage corps wagons and chiefs' vehicles have been in successful operation in many cities, New York included, for long periods. The chief of Plainfield knows much better than does the chief of New York what is adapted to the requirements of the Plainfield fire department. New York is neither a leader nor a good advisor on modern fire apparatus and fire department methods.—Firemen's Herald.

Henry Hudson Tercentennial.

State Senator Hillery introduced a bill in the Senate yesterday allowing municipalities to appropriate, by resolution of their governing bodies, funds to defray the expenses of celebrating the Henry Hudson tercentennial. The provisions of the bill allows cities of the first-class to appropriate $10,000 for the purpose; cities of the second class $5,000 and all other municipalities $3,000.

A Gentleman From Mississippi!

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ON THE FLOOR OF THE SENATE.

TOO much occupied in concentrating his thoughts on his speech, Langdon failed to notice the consternation on the faces of Peabody and Stevens as he walked to his seat in the senate. They had failed to succeed in getting Milbank to conclude and consequently could not push the naval base report through. But they noted the passing of over an hour after their opponent's appointed time and had felt certain that he would not appear at all.

"The boss of the senate" leaned across to Stevens and whispered hurriedly:

"We must tear him to pieces now—discredit him publicly. It's his own fault. Our agents can sell the land to Standard Steel. Our connection with the scheme will be impossible to discover—after we have made the public believe Langdon is a crook."

"But how about our supposed combination to protect the government that Langdon will tell about?" asked Stevens. "We can't deny that, of course."

"No," answered Peabody. "We can't deny it, but we will not affirm it. We will tell interviewers that we prefer not to talk about it."

"It's our only chance," replied Stevens cautiously.

"Yes, and we owe it all to Jake Steinert," went on Peabody. "That fellow Telfer will do anything to please Jake. Jake has convinced Telfer that Langdon was responsible for the defeat of Gulf City, and the mayor is wild for revenge."

"A lie, a lie!" screamed Langdon.

"The bogs of the senate" rose and walked to the rear of the senate chamber to issue orders to two of his colleagues.

"Report of the committee on naval affairs," droned the clerk mechanically. "House bill No. 1109 is amended to read as follows"— And his voice sank to an unintelligible mumble, for every senator present he well knew was aware that the amendment named Altacoola as the naval base site.

Senator Langdon rose in his seat.

"Mr. President," he called.

"Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mississippi," said the presiding officer as he leaned back to speak to Senator Winans of Kansas, who had approached to the side of the rostrum.

The Langdon speech on "The New South and the South of the Future" proved more than a document suited only to a reverent burial in the Congressional Record. Although wearied at the start owing to the exciting happenings of the day, the Mississippian's enthusiasm for his cause gave him strength and stimulation as he progressed. His voice rose majestically as he came to the particular points he wished to accentuate, and even those in the uppermost rows in the galleries could hear his every word.

At the close of his formal speech he began on his statement of the action of the naval affairs committee in buying control of Altacoola land to foil attempts to rob the government. As he had predicted, the senate did "sit up." The senate did agree that a new kind of politics had arrived.

During this latter part of the speech many curious glances were directed at Peabody and Stevens, who sat in the same tier of seats, in the middle of the chamber, only an aisle separating them. Through this choice of seats they could confer without leaving their places. Various senatorial associates of these two men in other deals found it difficult to believe their ears—but was not old Langdon at this moment narrating the amazing transaction on the floor of the senate? Would the statue on the pedestal step down? Would the sphinx of the desert speak the story of the lost centuries? Would honor take the place of expediency in the affairs of state? What might not happen, thought the senate machine, now that Peabody and Stevens had taken to their bosoms what they termed the purple pup of political purity?

Neither did the full portent of the situation escape the attention of the reporters' gallery. Dick Cullen observed to Hansel of the Record:

"Virtue's getting so thick around here it's a menace to navigation."

"Blocking the traffic, eh?" queried Hansel, and both laughed.

"Hello! What's this?" exclaimed Cullen a few minutes later. "Horton has been recognized, when the program was to adjourn when the naval base bill was over with."

Langdon's speech had proved the hit, the sensation of the session. After he concluded, amid resounding applause, in which senators joined, as well as occupants of the galleries, Senator Horton of Montana rose and caught the presiding officer's eye.

"I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution."

Hearing no objection he continued in a manner that instantly attracted unusual attention:

"It is my unpleasant duty"—Peabody and Stevens exchanged glances—"to place a matter before this body that to me, as a member of this honorable body, is not only distasteful, but deeply to be regretted.

"There has arisen ground to suspect a member of this body of having endeavored to make money at the government's expense out of land which he is alleged to have desired his own committee to choose as the naval base.

"I therefore offer this resolution providing for the appointment of an investigating committee to look into these charges."

Langdon was intensely excited over this new development. "Some one has learned something about Peabody or Stevens," he muttered. He feared that this new complication might in some way affect the fate of the naval base—that the south, and Mississippi, might lose it. He rose slowly in his seat, while the senate hummed with the murmur of suppressed voices.

"I ask for more definite information," he began when recognized and after the president of the senate had pounded with the gavel to restore quiet, "so that this house can consider this important matter more intelligently."

Senator Horton rose. He said:

"I will take the liberty of adding that the senator accused is none other than the junior senator from Mississippi."

Langdon's eyes blazed. He strode swiftly into the aisle.

"Mr. President," he cried passionately, "I know this is not the time or place for a discussion like this, but ask that senatorial courtesy permit me to ask"—then he concluded strongly before he could be stopped—"what is the evidence in support of this preposterous charge?"

"This is all out of order," said the presiding officer after a pause, "but in view of the circumstances I will entertain a motion to suspend the rules."

This motion passing, Horton replied to Langdon.

"Your name is signed to a contract with J. D. Telfer, mayor of Gulf City, Miss., calling for 3,000 shares in the Gulf City Land company, and"—

"A lie, a lie!" screamed Langdon.

"That official," went on Horton coolly, "is now in Washington. He has the contract and will swear to conversations with you and your secretary. His testimony will be corroborated by no less a personage than Congressman Norton of your own district, who says you asked him to conduct part of the negotiations."

"And I might add," cried Horton, "that it is known to more than one member of this honorable body that you had drawn up a minority report in favor of Gulf City because of your anger at the defeat of your plan to take the naval base away from Altacoola."

Langdon sank into his chair, bewildered, even stunned. There was a conspiracy against him, but how could he prove it? The ground seemed crumbling from under him—not even a straw to grasp. Then the old fighting blood that carried him along in Beauregard's van tugged at the valves of his heart, revived his spirit, ran through his veins. He leaped to his feet.

A sound as of a scuffle—a body falling heavily—drew all eyes from Langdon to the rear of the main aisle. An assistant sergeant at arms was lying face downward on the carpet. Another was vainly trying to hold back Bud Haines, who, tearing himself free, rushed down to his chief waving a sheet of paper in the senator's eyes.

"Read that," gasped the secretary breathlessly, and he hurried away up a side passageway and out to reach the stairs leading to the press gallery.

Langdon spread the paper before him with difficulty with his trembling hands. Slowly his whirling brain gave him the ability to read. Slowly what appeared to him as a jumbled nothing resolved into orderly lines and words.

"The letter is signed 'Charles Norton.'"

He read and again stood before the senate, which had regained its usual composure after the fallen sergeant at arms had regained his feet and rubbed his bruises.

"I do not think there will be any investigation," he said, with decided effort, struggling to down the emotion that choked him. "I ask this house to listen to the following letter:

"Dear Senator Langdon—When you receive this letter I shall be well on my way to take a steamer for Cuba. I write to ask you not to think too harshly of me, for I will always cherish thoughts of the friendship you have shown me.

"Peabody and Stevens have finally proved too much for me. When they got old Telfer to swear to a forged contract and wanted me to forge your name in the land records at Gulf City, I threw up my hands. Their game will always go on, I suppose, but you gave them a shock when you broke up their Altacoola graft scheme. And I'm glad you did. They cast me aside today, probably thinking they could get me again if they needed me.

"I am going on the sugar plantation of a friend, where I can make a new start and forget that I ever went to Washington."

Langdon paused deliberately. The senate was hushed. The galleries were stilled. Not even the rustle of a sheet of paper was heard in the reporters' gallery. The Mississippian gazed around the senate chamber. He saw Stevens and Peabody craning their necks across the aisle and talking excitedly to each other.

Then he stepped forward and spoke, waving the paper in the air.

"This letter is signed 'Charles Norton.'"

The old southerner gazed triumphantly at the men who had sought to destroy him. It was with difficulty that the presiding officer could hammer down the burst of handclapping that arose from the galleries.

Senator Horton, however, was not satisfied with Langdon's sudden ascendency.

"How do we know that that letter is not a forgery, a trick," he exclaimed.

"Go get Congressman Norton—if you can—and get his denial," responded Langdon.

The junior senator from Mississippi hurriedly pushed his way out of the senate chamber. His day's work was done.

* * * * * * *

Down on a broad plantation along the Pearl river an old planter, who has borne his years well, as life goes nowadays, passes his days contentedly. He delights in the rompings of his grandchildren as they rouse the echoes of the mansion and prides himself on the achievements of their father, Randolph, who has improved the plantation to a point never reached before.

Sometimes he receives a letter from his daughter, Hope Georgia, now Mrs. Haines, telling him of her happy life, or perhaps it is a letter from Carolina, describing the good times she is having in London with the friends she is visiting.

And the old planter goes out on the broad veranda in the warm southern twilight, and he thinks of the days that were. He remembers how the Third Mississippi won the day at Crawfordsville. He thinks of the days when he fought the good fight in Washington. His thoughts turn to the memory of her who went before these many years and whom he is soon to see again, and peace descends on the soul of the gentleman from Mississippi as the world drops to slumber around him.

Spaniards' Taste In Reading.

The librarian selected a book entitled "Farming In the Ohio Valley." "Will you give this to that young man waiting at the desk?" she said to an assistant. "He is a Spanish student learning to read English, and I think this will suit him."

"That sounds like a very unpromising subject for a student in English to tackle," a friend remarked.

"It would be uninteresting to anybody but a Spanish student," said the librarian, "but the Spaniards run to farming literature. When training beginners in English of any other nationality something sprightly in the way of fiction or travel usually is recommended. But not to the Spaniard. Nine times out of ten it is a work on agriculture that he will make the best progress in."—New York Press.

Had to Bow to Custom.

The late King Oscar of Sweden was the least conventional of monarchs, but he had to courtesy to custom nevertheless. The king and M. Bonnier, the botanist, met as strangers while out in search of flowers near Stockholm. They were soon the best of friends, and Bonnier suggested lunch at his inn.

"Come home with me instead," said the other.

When the way led to the palace gates Bonnier hesitated.

"I'm sorry," said his companion, "but I happen to be the king of this country, and this is the only place where I can entertain my friends."

EXCISE PROBERS' BILLS WILL LIKELY BE PAID

It begins to look now as if the State Excise Commission's bills will be audited by the New Jersey Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee and will be recommended paid. These amount to more than $15,000 and last Monday night the committee frowned upon them on the ground that the commission was not authorized by the Legislature to do the work, and consequently had no right to run up such an expense.

Yesterday afternoon, however, the committee met again and it is understood agreed to give favorable consideration to the items. Governor Fort has interested himself in the matter and is using his influence to get the bills included in the appropriation bill.

WATCHUNG BOWLERS IN THIRD PLACE

With ten more games to roll in the Knights of Columbus bowling league in which eight Councils of the State are represented by teams, Watchung Council bowlers stand third in the list, topped only by the strong Paulus Hook team, of Jersey City and the Newark lodgemen. The Paulus Hook bunch have a record of nineteen wins and three defeats and the Plainfielders feel proud to realize that one of the defeats was administered by their team. Watchung is neck and neck with the Newarkers, who have lost the same number of games, but have two more wins. Of these one is a contested game with the Orange lodgemen.

The record to date follows:

	W.	L.
Paulus Hook, Jersey City	19	3
Newark	15	7
Watchung Council	13	7
Conception Council, (J. C.)	14	8
Hoboken Council	10	10
Hope, Jersey City	9	11
Orange	8	14
Jersey City	1	17

P.H.S. WINS DUAL MEET

Defeats Westfield High School by the Score of 35 to 27 Here.

CHAMPION ATHLETIC TEAM.

Lidgate Makes 15 Points for Locals —Visitors Depend on Class and Clark.

P. H. S. won supremacy in athletics over Westfield High School yesterday afternoon at Y. M. C. A. gym with a final score of 35 to 27 points. It was the annual interscholastic meet, usually including four schools, but N. P. H. S. and Leal's did not participate this time.

Westfield brought a large crowd of rooters and the locals were backed by an even noiser bunch, so that the spirit of rivalry was intense and was manifested by constant cheering.

The events were all closely contested, which fact kept the interested spectators on edge during the entire meet. In the potato race enthusiasm reached a maximum height and when Snyder and Ricketts of the local team saved the mile relay for P. H. S., the gallery thundered much applause.

Lidgate was the most valuable man for Plainfield, securing 15 points, while Class and Clark were the main stay of the visitors.

These were the results:

Standing boad jump—Howard Runyon, first, Plainfield, 9 ft. 6¾ in.; Eugene Lidgate, second, Plainfield, 9 ft. 2½ in.; , Bull, third Westfield, 9 ft. 1¾ in.

Running high jump—Eugene Lidgate, first, Plainfield, 5 ft. ⅜ in.; Class, second, Westfield, 4 ft. 11 in.; Clark, third, Westfield, 4 ft. 11 in.

Three standing broad jump—Clark, first, Westfield, 28 ft. 4¼ in.; Davis, second, Plainfield, 28 ft. 11 in.; Lidgate, third, Plainfield, 27 ft. 9½ in.

Standing high jump — Runyon, first, Plainfield, 4 ft. 5 in.; Lidgate, second, Plainfield; Class, third, Westfield.

12-pound shot put—Bull, first, Westfield, 33 ft. 5¼ in.; Class, second, Westfield, 32 ft. 3¼ in.; Lidgate, third, 32 ft. 1¾ in.

One mile relay potato race—6 min. 30½ sec.—Plainfield team: Ricketts, Snyder, Beacon, Wilcox. Westfield team: Taggart, Traynor, Brown, Rider.

220 yard potato race—First, Keeler, Westfield, 53 3-5 secs.; second, Lidgate; third, Ricketts, 53 3-5 secs.

Judge, Springstad, Westfield; scorer, William Russell; referee, G. L. Listman.

Two Games Tonight.

Y. M. C. A. second team will play Milburn tonight and the Business Men will play the Metropolitans of New York at the Y. M. C. A. gym.

To Join Trade Federation.

The Westfield Board of Trade has decided to join the State Federation of Boards of Trade. H. B. Udell, secretary of the Westfield board, has tendered his resignation, action upon which was laid over until the April meeting.

SECOND LENTEN RECITAL AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

The second of a series of four Lenten organ recitals is being given at Holy Cross church this afternoon by the church organist and choirmaster, R. Burns Eglinton, of New York. Mr. Eglinton is assisted by W. F. Lambert, of New York city, a basso, who contributes a single number, a bass solo, "Out of the Deep." The recitals are scheduled for each Saturday afternoon in Lent, and commence at 4:15 o'clock. To-day's program follows:

Minuetto, (Tours); Melody, (Lemaigre); Pastorale, (Faulkes); bass solo, "Out of the Deep," (Marks), by Mr. Lambert; Fanfare, (Bridge); Angelus, (Bossi); Andantino, (Lemare).

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY MISS GRACE CRANSTON.

Miss Grace Cranston gave a St. Patrick's party last night at her home on Grandview avenue. Twenty-five guests were present, including a number from Philadelphia, Brooklyn and Bayonne.

In the progressive euchre games Miss Dora Schenck and Dr. Rae Stevens won the prizes. There was music and singing and refreshments were served.

Sing Between Courses.

Over 100 men attended the missionary dinner of the Men's Club in the Presbyterian Parish House at Westfield. A full course dinner was served and the men sang between the courses. M. B. Dutcher acted as toastmaster. Among the speakers were Dr. W. M. Schultz, of Philadelphia, who is to go to China as a medical inspector under the direction of the church; E. B. Sturgis, of Scranton, Pa.; and Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. Dr. Steans, pastor of the church, and Mr. Dutcher also spoke.

Justice of the Peace Arrested.

Albert E. Wickes, justice of the peace, of Cliffside, was committed to the Hackensack jail yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzlement. The complainant is Andrew Rohe, of Cliffside, who says Wickes used $145 he had paid on building lots instead of giving it to the owner. Mr. Wickes denies the charge. His wife left him several weeks ago. She formerly served as a member of the Board of Education at Cliffside.

Garthwaite Cleared.

The special committee of the Union County Agriculture Board appointed to investigate the charge made by Chief Inspector McGuire, of the State Board of Health, that Evart Garthwaite, a Roselle milk dealer, kept his barns in an unsanitary condition, has reported that the charge is not well grounded. President E. R. Collins will take the matter up with the State Board of Health.

Funeral of Mrs. Frank Titus.

The funeral services of Mrs. Frank Titus were held this morning at 8:30 o'clock from the late home on Stony Brook place, and at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's church. Rev. W. H. Miller, pastor of the church, officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., will go to Westfield Friday night, March 26, with the degree team to institute a new council there.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—William G. Mangan, of South avenue, has hit on a novel idea of making people stop and take notice of an exceptionally fine window display of necessities used in preparing Randolph's famous soda.

—Russell Hoagland, of Somerset street, at one time a carrier for The Daily Press, is acting as clerk at the Hotel Kensington on Saturdays, relieving John Napoleon Burns, son of the proprietor, who is the regular clerk, and who now devotes his Saturdays to baseball.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. E. Riddle and son, Markley, of Phillipsburg, are visiting Mrs. William Norman, of South Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. John Utzinger and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Utzinger, of Elizabeth, are vistiing at the home of Mr. Utzinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, on Grandview avenue.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Church of Christ will hold a dime social at the church Thursday night. The society is also planning to hold a fair in April.

Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, will teach the temperance lesson at the Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' meeting Monday night in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church.

TISSUE BY WHOLESALE A HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY.

It is a paying investment in a big family to buy tissue paper in quantity. The same quality of paper that retails at a cent a sheet can be bought by the ream for a dollar.

Five hundred sheets may seem a great deal of paper to use up, but it is found a great convenience to have a supply on hand when wanted for tying up prizes or to use in packing during the year, while an abundant supply is indispensable at holiday times.

This paper comes tied in heavy blue paper, and this wrapper is large enough to fold quickly and easily around the tissue paper and prevent it from yellowing or getting soiled if kept a long time.

DRESSES AND YOKES.

Filet net has had its day and, as was expected must make way for ever beautiful laces.

There is a distinct return to small yokes of white lace in colored gowns rather than those of filet net.

When there are sleeves as well as a yoke of the transparent material it may be as well to retain them, but if only a yoke is used white lace should be chosen.

There is no return to the wide yoke of any kind that reaches across shoulders. The cloth must come up from the waist in a straight line to within two inches at most of the base of the neck.

The shallow square, or round yoke, is the kind used, and it is made of point applique, brussels, baby Irish of German valenciennes.

In dressy frocks lace is used for the tight sleeves as well as for the yoke, and in frocks of soft cloth or heavy stuffs the sleeves are of the material quite long and plain.

The Englishwoman.

The searching glare of the law courts has been brought to bear upon the subject of the English woman's figure. During the progress of a case between a wholesale custumer and a draper expert opinion was called to compare the figures of English women to those of the American and French.

It was discovered that Americans lack the Englishwoman's height, though their shoulders are broader and waists larger; the stock shoulder size for American ladies is six inches, while the English woman can boast of but four and three-quarters.

But the length from neck to waist for the average woman in America is only fourteen and a half inches, while in England it is sixteen and a half.

Refused to Pardon Lang.

The Court of Pardons, in special session yesterday at Trenton to consider the case of Frederick Lang, under sentence to be hanged for killing his niece near New Brunswick, refused to interfere with the sentence of death imposed by Justice Swayze. Lang will be hanged on next Tuesday. The court paroled Walter H. Morris, who was convicted of killing a man named Jacobs in Newark.

Union County's Carnegie?

We can't understand why the Hon. Charles Newell Fowler, the Carnegie of Union county, N. J., who thrilled the country last fall with the announcement of his candidacy for Speaker of the House of Representatives, got no vote for this office yesterday. Wasn't he present? —New York Sun.

No Strawbridge Successor.

No successor to Secretary John H. Strawbirdge, of the Elizabeth Young Men's Christian Association, who retired yesterday to take a similar position at Sioux City, Ia., has yet been selected by the board of directors, and no choice will be made in the immediate future. Several names are under consideration.

CONFERENCE'S PROGRAM

Plainfielders to Take a Part in Methodist Episcopal Annual Meeting.

BEGINS AT NEWARK NEXT WEEK

Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea and Dr. James R. Joy Assigned Important Parts.

The program for the fifty-second session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will be held at the Centenary M. E. church, Newark, beginning Wednesday, March 31, is now in preparation. Preliminary to the formal opening of the session it has been arranged to have Walter M. Chandler, of the New York bar, deliver his lecture on "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint," in the church on Tuesday evening, March 30, Judge Jay Ten Eyck presiding.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely will preside at the conference. Examinations of applicants for admission and orders will occur in the church at 10 o'clock on the morning of March 30. The actual opening of the conference will take place Wednesday morning, when the sacrement of the Lord's supper will be observed by the members. Following the roll call, the customary memorial service will be held at 1:30.

The anniversaries and reports of the Woman's Home Missionary Society and the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society will occupy the greater part of the afternoon, leaving time for a meeting of the Conference Life Insurance Association in the lecture-room. In the evening the anniversary of the Board of Education will be observed in the Franklin Street Methodist church in that city, Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of this city, presiding. The speaker will be Rev. Thomas Nicholson, corresponding secretary of the board.

Bishop Neely will be in charge of devotional services, which will open each day of the conference, except Sunday. The remaining hours of the morning will be devoted to business. On Thursday, at 2:30, Dr. Isaac T. Headland, professor of science in Peking University, China, will speak at the anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. J. H. Knowles, conference secretary, presiding. In the evening Rev. David G. Downey, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday-schools, will speak at the anniversary of that board.

The anniversary of the Freemen's Aid Society, Rev. F. L. Rhodes in charge, will be celebrated Friday evening, the secretary, Rev. Patrick J. Maveety, addressing the meeting. In the Halsey Street Methodist church, in that city, at the same hour, the conference Epworth League will observe its anniversary. Rev. Frederick W. Hannan, of Brooklyn, will speak, and Rev. M. W. Womer will preside.

Rev. Joseph B. Hingeley, corresponding secretary of the Board of Conference Claimants, will address the members of the board at their anniversary in the church Saturday evening, at which Rev. W. E. Palmer will occupy the chair.

The Sunday session will begin at 9 a. m. with the conference love feast. Rev. Joshua Mead will lead. Bishop Neely will preach at 10:30, and the ordination of deacons and elders, followed by a missionary sermon by Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, will occur in the afternoon. At the Centenary church in the evening the Home Missions and Church Extension anniversary will be observed, the speaker to be Rev. Charles M. Boswell, assistant corresponding secretary of the society. Rev. Samuel T. Jackson will be in charge of the meeting. At the same hour in the Central Methodist church Bishop Neely and Dean James B. Brooks, of the College of Law, Syracuse, N. Y., will address the anniversary meeting of the Methodist Brotherhood. The topic of the evening will be "Move On." Dr. James R. Joy, of this city, will preside.

On Monday at 7:45 p. m. William H. Anderson, legislative superintendent of the AntiSaloon League of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at the meeting of the Total Abstinence and Prohibition Society. Rev. Dr. Charles S. Woodruff will preside. The Foreign Missions anniversary will occur at the same time in St. Luke's M. E. church in that city, where Rev. J. C. Floyd will speak.

Provision for the entertainment of out-of-town visitors to the conference is being looked after by a committee headed by Edward H. Jones. The arrangement of the program is in the hands of a committee of which Rev. Charles L. Mead, pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, is chairman.

BOYS GO OUT TO PLAY; TREAD FORBIDDEN GROUND

Four little colored boys who wandered out to the Park Golf Club grounds to play yesterday afternoon found themselves "pinched" just as soon as they arrived there. Special Marshal Eric Sohl had been laying for the kids that have been breaking the club house windows and doing other damaging things, and he swooped down upon the little band of pleasure seekers and took them to the borough police station. A white boy who led them out to the place made his "get away," leaving his dusky followers to face the difficulty.

One of those captured was Percy Simmons, twelve years old of Elm street, and the other three, ranging ing in age from ten to fourteen, were the sons of John Carey, of Westervelt avenue.

The lads will be given a hearing before Recorder Charles Dolliver tonight, on a charge of trespassing. Mrs. Lydia Loizeaux a member of the grounds committee, reported to the police Saturday night that the boards had been torn from some of the windows and the glass broken with stones, and at her request a policeman was stationed there with instructions to arrest any one disobeying the posted "Keep off" signs.

CONGREGATION GIVES $800 TO CLEAR CHURCH DEBTS

A generous response to the pastor's appeal for contributions resulted in $800 being raised at the First M. E. church yesterday, that sum being needed to clear up the debts for the conference year just closed.

Rev. Dr. McCrea explained to the congregation at the morning service the condition of the church treasury and asked for donations. They came in liberal numbers and size, but it was still $87 short of the required amount when another appeal was made at the night services. The sum was raised in but very few minutes and now the church begins the new quarter entirely free from debt.

DRUNKEN PRISONER IS SEIZED WITH FITS.

Some liquor which Thomas Trotter took on while being entertained by some friends Saturday night drove him into a series of fits in a police court cell after his arrest for refusing to go home, when told to do so by Chief Kiely on Front street, he acted so violently in his iron cage that Dr. Lufburrow was summoned by the police to calm him down. The police say he had about twenty fits in rapid succession at shortly after midnight.

Trotter appealed to Chief Kiely late in the evening with the request that he arrest a man who had struck him in a near-by saloon. The chief observed that he was intoxicated and urged him to go home and forget his grievance. He became excited and his arrest followed. At his hearing before City Judge Runyon at the session of court today, Trotter was truly penitent and told of a job he had at Asbury Park. He has only been married since July and this is the first time he has fallen off the water wagon since he was arrested two years ago. The Judge heard his appeal for "one more chance" with favor and suspended sentence on condition that he leave town and get on his new job.

MAKES THINGS LIVELY FOR TIME ON PARK AVENUE.

In the course of a "booze fight" which landed him in a police court cell after he had tried to wreck a candy store and a lunch wagon, Charles Morton, who came to town from Westfield Saturday night, took occasion to mix a cock-tail in a local drug store late Saturday night. He wandered into the store, and taking a seat at the soda counter, ordered "half a glass of selzer." When it came, he pulled a flask from his hip pocket and started to make a cocktail. He was ejected.

Morton is a "village cut-up" and as he was "out for a night of it," he went into a Park avenue candy store and practised fancy rights and lefts on piles of candy on the counter. Again rebuffed, he went to a lunch wagon near-by and sought to entertain himself in the kitchen end thereof.

Patrolman Morris Higgins led him to headquarters, and today he was punished by a fine of $5.

SERMON ON "BEING GOOD"

Rev. S. C. Kemble Tells Monroe Avenue Congregation That It Pays.

HONESTY IS BEST POLICY.

If It Did Not Cost to Be Good, a Rascal Would Be Honest, He Says.

In answering the question "Does it always pay to be good?" Rev. Charles S. Kemble at the Monroe Avenue church yesterday, took the following text, from Hebrew xi-6, "For he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him."

Referring to the deep seated conviction voiced by Cato, "If there's a God above us, he must delight in virtue, and that which he delights in must be happy," most men have an uneasy feeling that somehow God does not make his existence as plain as he might.

"He hides himself, so wondorously as though there were no God.
He is least seen when all the fools of men are most abroad."

Many secretly symphasize with Ingersoll's bold challenge, "If there were a God he could have written on every blade of grass, on every leaf, on every tree where all might read it unmistakably 'There is a God.'" But a moment's thought will convince us of the faturity of all such demands for a God so manifest that we could walk by sight and not by faith. If God's existence were just as obvious as that of the sun in the heavens, belief in him would have just as much moral value as belief in the sun; bad men and good would see him with equal clearness. Now perception of him is just in proportion to purity of heart. It is equally true of the effort of intellectual theists to demonstrate the existence of God. It cannot be demonstrated as incontrovertibly as that the angle of a triangle are equal to two right angles. If it could be so demonstrated its acceptance would have the same moral value on the perception of the adequacy of any other geometrical demonstration.

No, "he that cometh to God must believe that he is and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently serve him."

If God's hand was so clearly manifest in giving property to every one who served him that none could question the wordly expediency of serving him the reproach of Satan would be more universal. "Does Job serve God for naught?" Or put in our modern garb—

"It's easy to be righteous when the profit comes that way;
It's easy to have virtues if the virtues only pay.
But the saints are few in number who go on through thick and thin,
Being righetous when, unnoticed,
they might make it pay to sin."

Which is being interpreted, that men will not serve God unless it pays, that men follow Christ only for the sake of the loaves and the fishes.

The story of Job was written to disprove that accusation. The looses endured by many a good man through his very virtues are allowed for the same reason as Job's trials that men may not be led to serve God through purely selfish motives. "Honesty is the best policy," but if it never cost anything to be honest the most unscrupulous rascal would also be honest from policy. It costs sometimes to be honest that honesty may be shown to be not a mere policy but a principle.

Bonfire Ignites Chicken House.

A bonfire in a neighbor's yard spread to the fence and chicken coop of James Manning of Dunellen avenue this morning, and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters at about 11:30 o'clock. It was necessary to use a line of hose to extinguish the flames, which gutted the chicken house and burned a considerable portion of the dividing fence. The loss was about $50.

New Ice Company Progressing.

The business men interest in the formation of a new ice company expect to complete the details today or tomorrow. Everything is said to be working along satisfactorily and as soon as certain things are decided upon it is expected that a contract will be awarded for the construction of the proposed plant on the Loizeaux property on Madison avenue.

Notable Recital Tomorrow Night.

Lovers of fine music should not miss the opportunity to hear Archer Gibson play and Frank Croxton sing at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Mr. Gibson is organist at the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, and Mr. Gibson is the bass there. Tickets for the recital can be had at Armstrong's drug store.

JACOB KELLER DIES; LIVED LONG IN BOROUGH

Jacob Keller, one of the oldest residents of the borough, died yesterday morning at the home of his son, Charles Keller, on Harrison avenue. He had been in poor health for several years, suffering with kidney trouble, but not until Friday was he confined to his bed.

Mr. Keller was seventy years old and had lived in the borough forty years. He was a clothing cutter by trade, but had been in retirement during the last fifteen years, living quietly among his children. Three sons and one daughter survive him. They are Herman, Charles and Frank Keller, and Mrs. George Bremmer, all of the borough.

Funeral services wil be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of Charles Keller, 46 Harrison avenue. Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, of the German Reformed church officiating. Burial will be made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

INSPECTED SUGGESTED SEWAGE PLANT SITES

Mayor Samuel Townsend, W. J. Buttfield and Charles W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield; Councilman F. E. Mygatt and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, of this city, and Mayor Harry Swackhamer, of Dunellen, took a trip yesterday afternoon to the western part of North Plainfield township to inspect the property in that vicinity considered available for sewage disposal purposes.

Three farms were visited, the one owned by Kraemer, the Sovolack farm at Sebring's mills and the Porter farm which is just over the line in Bridgewater township. Each of these tracts has been considered desirable for a sewage disposal plant and it was with the idea of deciding upon the best situation that the trip was arranged.

None of the members of the party would talk about the matter today. It is known, however, that the borough and city officials believe that the Sebring vicinity would make an ideal location for sewage beds. It is said that Mayor Swackhamer, of Dunellen, has also changed his original views considerably. The plan as now outlined is to also include Sotch Plains and Fanwood, making five municipalities that would bear the cost of installing the system and expense of maintenance, estimated to be about $250,000.

A conference of the representatives of the five towns will be held soon to further discuss the proposition.

It is said that the North Plainfield township committee will take no action regarding the proposed installation of a plant in that territory until after the township voters have expressed their views at the polls. There appears to be strong objection in the western end of the township to the scheme. The owner of the Kraemer farm is among those who are making an objection. He now claims that had he known of the purpose for which an option was obtained to buy his land he would not have given it.

PROCEEDINGS IRREGULAR; HAURAND'S LAWYER WINS.

An opinion handed down by Judge Parker, of the Supreme Court, reverses the Elizabeth district court in the case of Carrie L. Schorb and Josephine A. Mason against Henry Haurand. The case has to do with proceedings started by the two women against Haurand to compel him to vacate the East Front street building now occupied by E. C. Westcott, in 1907.

Action for unlawful detainer of the property was begun at Elizabeth, but after judgment was given, Francis J. Blatz, as Haurand's attorney, took the case to the Supreme Court on certiorari, requesting that the judgment be set aside as irregular, claiming that the notice served on Haurand was deficient. He contended that ejectment proceedings should have been instituted by the women, who are the joint owners of the property. The claim that Haurand was holding possession unlawfully was denied.

Melosh and Morten, of Jersey City, represented the plaintiffs.

TALKS ON ILLUMINATION

William C. Hubbard Lectures on Natural and Artificial Light.

BEFORE MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

He Dwells on the Proper Care of the Eyes—Describes Some Modern Inventions for Lighting by Means of Electricity.

"Light and Illumination" was the subject of an interesting lecture given before the Men's Association of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, by William C. Hubbard, of this city. He is the general agent for the Cooper Hewitt Company, of New York, and has made an exhaustive study of the subject. He said he based his remarks on the text, "And God said, let there be light and there was light." Continuing Mr. Hubbard said in part:

"This command," said Mr. Hubbard, "was spoken 'in the beginning,' when all was seemingly chaotic and nebulous, and whether that was 6,000 or 6,000,000 years ago we know not, but we do know that light was then first created for our solar system and that radiant energy has existed since. On that first day or period, God divided the light from the darkness calling the light day and the darkness night and man has been so accustomed to light since that he takes this great blessing for granted, the same as he does air, earth and water.

"Light is described as a phenomenon of wave motion, independent of the sense organ which betrays its existence to us, or more simply, light is the thing we recognize by the sense of sight. Light is radiant energy transmitted through the air and either in wave lengths of from 1-33000 of an inch for red to 1-65000 of an inch for violet light. A beam of light travels through limitless space at the rate of 187,000 miles per second, namely a distance equal to over seven times the circumference of the earth, during the swinging of a pendulum.

"But light is not illumination. We can have the sensation of vision without seeing an object, but we cannot see an object without the agency of light. The sensation of vision is the process of seeing things.

"Good illumination involves three essential points—the right quality of light, the right quantity of light and the right use of light. The difference between light and illumination is the difference between cause and effect and illumination may therefore be defined as utilized light. The incandescent type of light has opened vast fields because of its safety and ease of control. The Welsbach has introduced economy heretofore unknown; the commercial production of calcium carbide makes the generating of acelytene the most highly luminous of gases, simple and inexpensive in quantity.

"The proper care of the eyes necessitates some knowledge of the manner in which they perform their work. Americans have been charged with caring as little for their eyes as they do for their stomachs. The increasing use of eyeglasses is convincing evidence of the careless use of eyes. The eye is the counterpart of the photographic camera in its general structure and operation, though, as we shall see not as accurate in its operation as the finer made lenses. Treat your eyes as you would your photographic plates and you will fulfill all requirements for their proper care. Three dont's—don't under expose, don't over expose and don't let the light shine into the lens. Keep the light source out of the direct range of vision.

"The new light sources are nearly all excessively intense. The familiar incandescent lamp for example has a loop of fine carbon wire, which can be seen only by close scrutiny, yet this filament becomes intensely bright by the passage of current and gives out sixteen or more candles. Notwithstanding the greater convenience, cleanliness and heat of the electric lamp, many still cling to the oil lamp for reading and close application. They say that the lamp light is easier on the eyes. As a matter of fact the light itself from an oil lamp, gas flame or incandescent electric lamp are practically the same. The reason that a light from an oil lamp or gas flame is easier on the eyes is that for an equal quantity or volume of light the flame source is not nearly so bright or intense, therefore when the eye encounters the light direct it does not receive such a strain.

"It may be stated as a fact in artificial lighting that most modern light sources are too bright to be used uncovered where light is to be used for careful vision. They should be enclosed in some kind of globe, which will diffuse the light or placed so that the eyes cannot see the source of light.

APPEAL TO LEGISLATURE TO REVIVE A CHARTER

A delegation of members of the Board of Trade and Merchants' Association go to Trenton today to be present at the public hearing of the bill for the revival of the charter for the Plainfield-Metuchen trolley line. Those who make the trip are F. A. Duttenhofer, Herman Schwed, J. Fred MacDonald, A. S. Herr, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Abel Brousse, E. M. Laing, A. E. Force and P. J. McDonough. Other delegations of persons interested in the line will be present from South Plainfield, New Brunswick and Metuchen.

If the franchise can be renewed for the proposed line, it is said that the work of constructing the line will be commenced in the near future. Should the bill be killed, it is probable that the auto 'bus line between the cities will be started. A member of the committee appointed some time ago by the Board of Trade to arrange for the 'bus line, said today that a type of car has been decided upon for use on the line should the trolley franchise request be refused.

RACING HAY CARTERS TELL JUST HOW IT WAS

Things looked pretty black for John Lenk, Arthur Brokaw and John Cooley, three hay carters haled before City Judge Runyon at the city court today, when Harold Hansen, who swore out complaints against them about a week ago for colliding with his rig on West Front street, took the witness stand and told how the three, driving loads of hay, swept down on his light rig at top speed and wreck his wagon. According to Hansen's story the three were all hilariously drunk" and were tearing along the road, side by side, leaving him no space to pass. The sight of the "chariot race of the hay carters," when the three wheeling hay mows swept along the highway, gave Hansen's horse a severe nervous shock and it backed around collided with one of the carts, fell and smashed the shafts. Hansen jumped and was uninjured. He said that none of the trio stopped to help him.

But then the hay carters told their story. It developed that the three were on their way from North Branch, and that their wagons were heavily loaded—Cooley said he had a 4,800 pound load on his wagon. But the men swore they were not "loaded." Each told of his past performances in a way that made it certain that all were walking the straight and narrow way past all booze shops. They said all three wagons were going slowly, for the horses were "dead tired." The wind was blowing heavily, and as Cooley's load had shifted, they were keeping on the lee side of the road. The hay blew in front of the drivers and they could not see far ahead. They stopped as quickly as possible, seeing that Hansen's horse was scared. And then, after the accident, they said that Hansen had sworn at them, so they refused to stay and help him.

After each side had told the story of the accident, Hansen started his rebuttal, and a three-to-one vocal argument started under His Honor's nose which kept the court-room air vibrating until Judge Runyon found opportunity to announce that the case would be adjourned until a witness which Hansen had mentioned could be brought to court.

TWO WHEELMEN RACE HILLY ROAD ON WAGER.

An argument between two bicyclists Saturday afternoon was settled by the disputants mounting their wheels and grinding out eleven miles over rough, undulating roads. At the end of the race, George Simon, who made a good showing in the road races last year, was obliged to acknowledged the corn, for this once, anyway.

The victor was E. S. Burd, who is in training for the coming season's racing and expects to always finish well up in front. He covered the distance in 33 minutes finishing something like a half mile ahead of his adversary. The race started at Jack Horner's "Wheelery" and extended to Warrenville and back to the starting point.

One spill was recorded. Simon having struck a rut on the outward trip, but he escaped with twisted handle bars and the loss of but little time. Burd generously dismounted when he saw his rival's plight and waited until he was again in the running.

MEEKER MAKES RECORD

He Has Supervised Construction of 1,000 Miles of Improved Highways.

EXPERT ON BUILDING ROADS.

For Nearly Nine Years Plainfielder Has Been State Road Supervisor and Has Accomplished Much.

To have supervised the construction of about one thousand miles of improved roads in New Jersey is the record held by Robert A. Meeker, of this city, State Supervisor of Roads. The office is attached to the State Road Department of which Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, of Trenton, is the head, and Mr. Meeker has held the position of supervisor for nearly nine years.

Building a macadam road involves many engineering questions such as grades, curves, proper drainage, and so on, besides the question of excavating the old road and putting down the new materials. The question of the materials and the approved way of putting them into a road, also necessitates a knowledge of engineering. Mr. Meeker is a practical engineer. He was graduated from Rutgers College in 1875 with the degree of Master of Science, and subsequently the college conferred the degree of Civil Engineer upon him.

The law establishing the position of State Supervisor of Roads was drafted by the late Dr. Hough, of Ewing Township, Mercer county, who was the supervisor of a road in his township. After the law had been enacted and before a Supervisor had been appointed Dr. Hough's horses ran away with him and he was thrown from his carriage and killed. The late Henry I Budd was then Commissioner of Roads and he appointed Mr. Meeker Supervisor.

Speaking of the road building policy of the State, Mr. Meeker said the object has always been to reduce grades wherever and as much as possible to straighten crooked sections of roads, and to widen roads that were too narrow. With that policy as the foundation, New Jersey has built about 1,400 miles of imprived highways, putting her in the very forefront among the States of the Union in that respect.

Mr. Meeker points out that one thing that has made the good road movement popular in this State has been that the State aid road law is a local option measure. That is, the county takes the initiative and if the first steps be taken in accordance with the State regulations, then the State aids to the extent of paying one-third the cost of the road. In Massachusetts, one of the other States in the lead in highway construction, the State decides what roads shall be improved. That the New Jersey method is the more popular, Mr. Meeker says, is shown by the fact that in the same time, practically, that this State has constructed 1,400 miles of good roads Massachusetts has only built 800 miles.

MISS MARGARET TOWNLEY, AGED 18 YEARS, DEAD.

Miss Margaret Townley, daughter of Captain William Townley, of fire headquarters, died yesterday after an illness following a hemorrhage suffered about two weeks ago. She was nineteen years of age and had a large circle of friends in city and borough.

Miss Townley was stricken with the hemorrhage while dancing at the Company K fair. She was voted as the most popular candidate for queen of the firemen's carnival held here last summer. The funeral will be held from her parents' home in the New Madison tomorrow morning at 8:15 and solemn requiem mass will be said at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church.

Two Tipsy Bakers.

Seymour Yadish, just over from Germany, and his friend, Henry Gilsdorf, who has been here only a little longer, both bakers, were arrested in the borough Saturday night in an intoxicated condition. The police stated that they were trying to find their way home but were going in an opposite direction. They were each fined $2 this morning by Recorder Dolliver, but both denied being drunk, each claiming he was trying to help the other.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Erin's green isle has been the theme of song and story that has touched many human hearts throughout the civilized world. It seems to be prolific in subjects that appeal to human nature. For stage purposes, Irish life and character have proved wonderfully successful. Scores of plays with scenes laid in the land of the Shamrock have been written and proved profitable. An illustration of this fact is found in the Romantic comedy drama, "Rory of the Hills." It will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night. This play contains all the element of success, comedy, pathos, heart interest, songs, dances and it is presented by capable players costumed in a creditable manner.

Rose Stahl will appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, March 29, in James Forbes' delightful comedy of stage life, "The Chorus Lady," which, although in its third season, is still a source of unfailing enjoyment to playgoers in general. Miss Stahl brings back with her the identical cast and production seen last season and she still makes Patricia, the same joyous personage of old. The dressing room scene this year has been doubly endeared to feminine auditors by the fact that the original Tanagra sheath gowns, which were the first gowns of this character to be worn publicly, are shown during this act. While Miss Stahl is not advertising a "Farewell Tour," yet it is practically understood that this will be her only appearance here in "The Chorus Lady," as Henry B. Harris is sending the production to London the latter part of March, where it is expected to remain at least a year.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Frank Grant, of the borough, conducted the gospel meeting at Wilson chapel, Watchung, last night.

The annual meeting of the Watchung Sunday-school Association will be held April 1 at Wilson chapel, when officers will be elected.

Rev. Dr. Richard Campbell, of the borough, preached at Warren chapel yesterday morning and evening in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

"The Country Postoffice" will be given at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, March 30-31. In the meantime the thirty participants are having as much fun at rehearsals as they expect the audience to have at the entertainment.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Wilson chapel, Watchung, has elected these officers for the year: President, Ephrain S. Ackor; vice-president, Ray W. Schrope; secretary, Miss Thersea E. Schmidt; treasurer, Miss Sadie Bodenheimer.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Board of Home Missions will be held at the Westminster Presbyterian church Friday. There will be morning and afternoon sessions. The local Presbyterian churches will be represented.

PERSONAL.

Ray W. Schrope, of Watchung, has been visiting relatives at Lansford, Pa.

G. A. Schmidt, of Watchung, has been visiting relatives in East Orange and Newark.

John Herman, of Somerville, has been visiting his son, John Herman, Jr., of the borough.

Thomas Niles, of New York, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hughes, of Watchung.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Goodwin, of Myrtle avenue, will return this week from an extended sojourn at Palm Beach.

Mrs. Willard Cook, of Prescott place, who has been under treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital, has entirely recovered.

TOMORROW THE NEW MILLINERY TAKES PROMINENCE IN A BEAUTIFUL OPENING EXHIBIT

OF all the Opening Exhibits of a new season's fashions the first display of the new Millinery takes precedence in feminine interest. No one knows better than fair woman herself that the hat is her crowning glory and she is anxious to see what newness in shapes, trimmings and colors have been evolved.

Ready to show you tomorrow!

Our Millinery Department has entered the realm of Spring. It is in full bloom with new hats—and they are the most gracious, most charming, most becoming and bewitching hats that it has ever been our privilege to show or yours to look upon.

SIZES: Large, small and "in-between." SHAPES: Varied past description, yet all becoming. MATERIALS: Straws, some of large coarse braid, others of fine soft weave. TRIMMINGS: Flowers in profusion and of every kind, foliage, feathers, ribbons and ornaments of jet, cut beads, etc.

Those are hints, but a poet and painter with a page of space couldn't depict the almost fragant beauty and spring-like charm of these hats. Your eyes will tell you all tomorrow. Welcome!

The New Spring Wash Goods Alluringly Invite You Here

The showing is now in the full charm of completeness — come and see it while it presents such strong attraction. It will help you materially in planning all sorts of pretty frocks, dresses, gowns, waists, etc. What Fashion had designed is here—superior in quality—unrivaled in variety.

Never did we ever present so complete a showing—nor quote more reasonable prices. Splendid value is not all—there's superb quality—superior colorings and designs. Each of the looms are turning out daintier, more charming, prettier wash fabrics and this season's best are here. Sheer fabrics, plain and fancy patterned goods and others that obtain rare effects from delicate and beautiful fast colorings.

Whatever your preference you are most certain to find exactly what you want here.

Buying so largely we are enabled to offer you

Exceptionally attractive values

Supreme Style Display of Ladies' Garments

Most Charming Models in Richly Tailored Suits, Jackets, Waists, Skirts, etc.

Here's a fact clear to the most casual observer—our stocks this season present style, attractions and good values equalled in no other store. Spring is inviting the adoption of new wearables and Fashion has this year excelled the best of previous offerings. All that is new here in alluring, bewitching, captivating display. All new styles—and all grades to choose from.

Completeness marks the showing—scarcely an approved style missing. Garments distinguished by the latest, daintiest fancies of Fashion, the fabrics are of widest variety, the colorings are many and charming, tailoring shows its superiority in every graceful line and curve, fold and drape. Prices do not strain the purse of the prudent, choice is wide and Values Are Wonderful at Every Price.

Superb Assortments of the Fashionable New Dress Goods

Here, are the newest and the best of the new cloths in all the favored shades of the season—and a wide range of novelty effects.

There are many new weaves this season—and many of the staple goods that are in popular demand.

Choose from Serges, Diagonal Suitings, the soft, satin Prunella, Chevron, Suitings, Batiste, Broadcloth—to continue the list would be like reading a catalogue.

The most favored colorings are rose, wisteria, garnet, taupe, sage, cadet, brown, grey, navy, myrtle—and black, of course.

It will pay you to make an early selection, thus getting the cream of the collection.

You'll find the prices modestly moderate at this store.

FREED WOMAN AND JAILED HER ACCUSER.

From the witness box straight to a prison cell was the unexpected trip made by Joseph Martino, in the Camden Criminal Court Saturday. He had appeared against a woman who alleged that he had kept her in slavery.

Martino had caused the arrest of Lena Hudson on a charge of stealing a bedspread. He was unable to prove his allegations, which caused Prosecutor Scovel to remark: "You have kept this girl a slave for some time and had her arrested once before on a serious charge. She tried to get away from you, and succeeded, and now you charge her with larceny. You are one of the most contemptible men I have met in my twenty-five years of practise at the bar."

Turning toward Judge Joline, Prosecutor Scovel continued: "Something should be done to this man; he should not be privileged to do as he pleases in the way that he has, and I ask that he be committed to prison on a misdemeanor charge."

Martino was sent to jail by Judge Joline, while the young woman was discharged.

THE FORUM.

Plainfield in 1800.

Editor, The Daily Press:

As Senator Frelinghuysen told the Board of Trade and its guests at their recent banquet, Plainfield was formerly known as "Milltown." It is an additional matter of interest that the name was changed to Plainfield when the postoffice was established here in the year 1800, on April first. At that time the village consisted of twenty houses and about one hundred and fifty people.

History also informs us that previous to that time the inhabitants received their mail matter from the postoffice at Scotch Plains, and only twice a week at that. The mails were carried by stages, running daily between Flemington and Elizabethtown, now Elizabeth, connecting there with boats to and from New York; but the mail then being only a small matter was taken only twice a week. It was carried by stages until 1838, when the Central Railroad was completed to Plainfield.

The first postmaster here was John F. Randolph, and the office was kept in his residence located at what is now the corner of West Front and Somerset streets. These two streets, according to old deeds went then by the names of "Road from Quibbletown" (now New Market), and "The Mountain road." A small table furnished the needed facilities for the postmaster's use. The second postmaster was Samuel Manning, who took the office December 6, 1805; the third was Aaron M. Osborn, Dec. 3, 1817; the fourth, Jacob Manning, July 6, 1827; the fifth, John W. Craig, a physician, Dec. 30, 1840; the sixth, Elias Kirkpatrick, July 3, 1845; the seventh, Dr. Lewis Crang, whom a few of our citizens well remember, May 3, 1849; the eighth, Jacob Manning, by second appointment, Feb. 19, 1853; the ninth, Elston M. Dunn, May 28, 1861; the tenth, Wallace Vail, April 21, 1869; the eleventh, Elias R. Pope, in 1883; the twelfth, Wm. L. Force, May 1, 1886; the thirteenth, Elias R. Pope, by second appointment, Feb. 25, 1890; the fourteenth, John M. Hetfield, May 11, 1894. The present efficient incumbent, Elias H. Bird, accepted the responsible position on July 1, 1898.

"Let us glance briefly at artificial light sources. The fagot is probably the earliest known and longest used. The candle and vegetable and animal oil lamps were used in Bible times—mineral oil and coal gas are modern, while electric lamps have not been used commercially over twenty-three years. Considering only the electric, the illuminants may be divided as arc, vacuum, vapor and non-vacuum lights; or point sources, line sources and surface sources. The arc lamps are divided into three general kinds—carbon arcs, both open and inclosed or long burning flaming arcs in which the carbons are impregnated with metallic salts, rendering their highly luminous and burning about one inch of carbon per hour and metallic arcs, which burn arc electrode of Titamium oxide, lasting about 100 hours—the light being better quality than either of the other two.

"The Tungsten is the last of the live sources of light. Its filament is the metal tungsten—a rather rare material, which is suspended in loops different in manner than either the carbon or tauntalum lamps. On the purity of the metal depends the quality of the light given. The total output of the incandescent lamps noted is over fifty million per year, a million a week on the average."

In conclusion Mr. Hubbard spoke at some length regarding the mercury light, now produced in colors and gave an interesting description of its many uses. An informal discussion of the subject and a social time followed.

STYLOGRAPHIC PEN INVENTOR IS DEAD.

George Fletched Hawkes, widely known both in New York city and in northern New Jersey as a manufacturing jeweler, died yesterday at his home in Elizabeth. He was 77 years old.

Mr. Hawkes was born in Boston, lived in Jersey City several years ago, but had made his home in Elizabeth for twenty-seven years. Up to two years ago he conducted an establishment for the manufacture of gold pens at 13 John street, New York, and before that on Nassau street. He was the inventor of the stylographic fountain pen, and several of his inventions have been adopted by the Waterman Company. He was awarded prizes at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876.

About two years ago Mr. Hawkes sustained a paralytic stroke, and since that time his health had failed, although he was fairly active up to a short time ago. He was associated with the Elizabeth Enamel Cloth Company, and was connected with various fraternal organizations.

BUST OF LINCOLN TO BE UNVEILED TOMORROW.

Memorials of Abraham Lincoln have been purchased by the State and placed in the State House at Trenton. Invitations have been issued by Commander H. Craig Smith, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to Plainfielders to be present at the unveiling of these memorials one of which is a bronze bust of Lincoln and the other his Gettysburg address on a bronze tablet. The ceremony will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of the Governor and the department commander. It is expected that a large number of veterans will attend and it is requested by Commander Smith the comrades appear in uniform.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GETS JOLT.

Woman suffrage received a setback at Washington, N. J., in a debate between teams representing the Epworth League and the official board of the Methodist church, Saturday night. The league, on the affirmative side, presented forceful arguments as to why the housewife and other members of her sex should not be given the right of franchise, and the judges awarded them the decision by a vote of 4 to 3.

Dr. Eliot for Ambassador.

President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, who retires from that institution in May, is reported to be the choice of the Administration for the appointment as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's. President Taft is said to have made up his mind to offer President Eliot the post, and the offer will be made, accordingly to apparently well-founded authority, on the occasion of the educator's visit to Washington next week to attend the annual Harvard dinner.

John Mitchell at Montclair.

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, delivered the eighth in the series of lectures on the problems of today in Unity church, Montclair, last night. Mr. Mitchell's subject was "The Industrial Unrest." The largest audience of any that has attended Unity church since the series began heard Mr. Mitchell.

Foulard Silks.

After years of suppression the foulard has come back to its own. It is reappearing for the spring trade in all styles, figured and plain, and deserves the popularity which is expected for it. It is at once the coolest and the most durable of the summer silks, while looking far more elegant and draping more gracefully that the raw silk varities.

The Bill Outside.

"Why don't you come in occasionally between drinks," demanded the wife, "and see the play?"

"I don't need to," replied the bibulous husband. "The bartender is familiar with the plot, imitates the actors, and also knows a lot of gossip about their personal and family affairs."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Baptist church, exchanged pulpits yesterday morning with Rev. Dr. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Plainfield. Dr. Chambliss' sermon was enjoyed by a large audience.

The Juniors ball team took advant of the weather Saturday and rushed the ball season ahead several weeks, playing the Fanwood Junior team. The Plains team brought home a victory—score 18-14.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of Terrill road, preached yesterday at the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, occupying the pulpit at both morning and evening services.

Miss Henrietta Parse and Miss Cornelia Alyea, who have been visiting Mrs. Augusta Miller, of Front street, have returned to their home in Newark.

Mrs. William Bacon, of North Plainfield, was the guest yesterday of her father, Robert Walpole, of Front street.

Miss Rita De Mott led an interesting meeting of the Epworth League held last night in the Methodist church.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Baptist church.

Robert Jahn, of Perth Amboy, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Robert Jahn, of Park avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

While playing on the front porch of their home, Catharine McDonough, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McDonough, fell from the porch to the sidewalk and sustained several severe cuts about the face and head.

George Moullison, of Perth Amboy, is making an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Teeple, of Lakeside avenue.

Miss Mary Dahority, of Jersey City, is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Alice McDonough, of this place.

Robert Morrison, of Oak Tree, spent Sunday with Philip Smith, of Brookside avenue.

J. Connors visited relatives in Somerville Sunday.

The Care of House Plants.

A mistake that causes many failures in growing palms, ferns and other plants that are stood in pardinieres, is that the water which drains through the earth and the hole in the bottom of the earthenware pot is allowed to accumulate in the jardiniere.

In this way a plant is often soaked in water for days at a time and naturally it becomes soggy and sickly. An easy way to overcome this difficulty is, about fifteen minutes after a plant has been thoroughly watered lift it from the jardiniere and wipe out all moisture that has drained through. This may seem like trouble, but it is not half the bother of dickering with sickly plants.

The Umbrella Handle.

One ingenious housekeeper has hit upon a novel rack for her bathroom, much used by the children. She unscrewed the curved wooden handle of an old umbrella, bored a hole through the upper part for a hanger and stuck small screw hooks in the handle at intervals. A large wooden spool was slipped on the cut off part of the handle for an ornament and was covered with several coats of gilt paint. This rack, when hung on the wayy made a convenient holder for towels, and some of the smaller hooks were even utilized for toothbrushes.

Necessity Past.

Congress had been asked would it please do something for the Delaware.

"Delaware," repeated the members, with a puzzled air, "what's that?"

"It's a river that Washington once crossed," explained an advanced representative of the people.

"Well, he got across all right, didn't he?" responded the inquirers. "What's the use of improving the river now?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Claret Punch.

To six quart bottles claret, allow the juice of three dozen lemons, one dozen oranges, one bottle brandy and bottle Maraschino cherries. Add six quarts water, oranges and bananas, cut fine, also any preserved strawberries or fruit juices you may happen to have on hand. These add to the flavor. Pour on large pieces of ice.

Explanatory.

The great ocean liner, was limping into port.

"You see," lamely explained the captain, "the injury is in the ship's forefoot. It got on the wrong tack."

Scowling at the reporters who had come on board from the tug, he nervously paced the bridge, after the manner of all great captains.—Chicago Tribune.

Every Time.

It's the girl with a sunny disposition who casts her rivals in the shade.

REV. HOWARD SUBSTITUTED FOR FULTZ AT Y.M.C.A.

David L. Fultz, the former base ball star and hero of the football field, did not appear yesterday afternoon to address the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting, thus disappointing a large audience of expectant young men. A letter received this morning from him explained that a death had occurred in the family. The communication had been delayed by the mails.

There was sufficient consolation, however, in a speech by L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, who obligingly consented to talk in the noted athlete's stead. Miss Etta Raybert sang several solos.

Rev. Mr. Howard declared that no man is really his own master, it matters not how influential or powerful he might be in financial, political or other circles. Business interests would direct his course and demand his constant attention; his time would not be his own and every man was virtually a slave. Likewise, a man was not master of his own character, being subservient to environments.

Then there were other things having a tendency to enslave a man, such as prejudice, pride and the opinions of others. The speaker declared that to accept Christ as the real master and to become subservient to His wishes, following Him as a leader, would make the battles of life easier and temptations would be more easily overcome.

Explained.

"That chap must be a reformer."

"Why?"

"He is so bitter against the 'Salame' craze."

"Oh, he's in the clothing business."—Pittsburg Post.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Two more dates for invitation tournaments have been ratified by Secretary W. D. Vanderpool of the Metropolitan Golf Association—Garden City Golf Club, May 6, 7 and 8, and Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, August 5, 6 and 7. The available open dates for M. G. A. tournaments are rapidly being snapped up and the week of June 14 is now the only blank until after the Connecticut championship at the Greenwich Country Club, July 7-10. Three open weeks now follow in July before the tournament at Shinnecock Hills, after which the dates not claimed before the amateur championship at Wheaton are August 12, 13, 14, August 19, 20, 21, August 26, 27, 28 and September 2, 3, 4. The Deal Golf and Country Club will undoubtedly claim one of the August week ends, which cuts out one opening. Clubs on the doubters' seat should make an early decision, to avoid being up against an opposition when the dates are needed.

The Eastern Professional Golfers Association will change the dates for the championship tournament at the Scarsdale Golf Club to avoid the clash with the two M. G. A. championships now fixed for the week of May 24. As a Tuesday and Wednesday is desirable, the professionals have May 18 and 19, with June 1 and 2 under consideration, in preference to putting the tournament over to the fall.

Secretary James E. Thursby, announces the annual meeting of the Brooklyn Forest Park Club at the Assembly, 155 Pierpont street, in that borough, on the evening of March 26. An amendment to the constitution will be voted on to raise the dues for men from $6 to $10 and to make the dues $6 for women members. The entrance fee for men is $5, but there is no initiation charge to the women. The governors have the authority to suspend the initiation fee for a fixed period whenever it is deemed to the best interests of the club to do so. The club has set up a private restaurant in the buildings it leases opposite the Myrtle avenue entrance to Forest Park and a steward is in charge.

It is expected that the Forest Park course may be closed after Sunday for a few weeks while the frost is coming out of the ground and the new grass getting a good start. The greens that have been fertilized already look bright with new verdure. Golfers who use the course are to send a letter to Michael J. Kennedy, Park Commissioner for Brooklyn Borough, to thank him for permitting play on temporary greens during the winter months. The old plan was to close up the course during the winter and not to permit practice rounds.

BASEBALL.

According to the sporting writer of the Newark Evening News, Manager Wolverton, of the New Eastern League club, is pretty sweet on Clifford Randolph; the Plainfield boy, who is trying for a place on the pitching staff, and adds "he is pitching swell ball."

Judging by the way Schlei is catching for the Giants, Bresnahan will not be missed so much after all. He is attracting considerable attention by his masterly work.

The local baseball season will open here on Saturday, April 24, when Clinton Avenue will cross bats with the Elizabeth A. C. Ortleib and Seery will be in the points for the locals, if the present plans are carried out. The infield and outfield will be about the same as last year.

Jack Martin, the crack shortstop of the Clinton Avenues, has had several offers from other teams this year, but his love for the local team is so strong that he will again be seen "eating 'em up" in infield at the oval this season. He has but few equals in this vicinity.

Speaking of Jack Martin, Emery, who covers third base, is almost a dead ringer of the former and at times it is impossible to tell them apart when on the field.

Fred Falkenberg, the Cleveland pitcher, has cut out smoking since last October and has put on twenty pounds. He can stand that twenty and more and still be a slat. Fred is convinced that smoking cigars affected his pitching, especially his control. Hence the reform.

Charley Farrell has taken off thirty pounds since he joined the New York Americans and has thirty-five more to go before he will be satisfied.

Willie Keeler says he is rid of the stomach trouble to which he attributes his falling off in hitting the past two years.

Kirb White, the Lancaster, O., pitcher, whom the National Commission awarded to Boston over the Chicago Cubs, won twenty-eight out of forty games last year, and was instrumental in bringing the Ohio State Legaue pennant to Lancaster.

Clark Griffith is quoted as saying that Miller Huggins most likely will be the only member of the Cincinnati team who will play in the same position this year as last season.

The BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot Furnace

develops every atom of heat energy possible, by complete combustion, and leaves no clinkers and no waste.

The square pot burns less fuel and it thoroughly consumes all it takes—a double economy. All your earnings don't go into the fire when you run a BOYNTON.

For cleanliness and the trifling care necessary to run it the BOYNTON is easily the first choice of every man who takes the trouble to get acquainted with it. Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town. The price is not prohibitive.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

The Boynton Furnace Company, 207-209 Water Street, New York.

VICTOR

WHY THAT IS THE REAL THING—You Can't Tell it from the Actual Human Voice!

That's what people say every day upon hearing the VICTOR. Do you know what the VICTOR is like? You owe it to yourself to hear it. I will gladly play any VICTOR music you want to hear.

Prices Range from $10 to $200. Come in and see the New Model VICTORS.

CUPID'S BURGLAR

By H. T. SEYMOUR.

"Estelle, I—I—"

"Yes, Jack."

"I shall look for you on the links to-morrow."

"Yes, Jack."

"Good night."

"Good night."

The girl moved out of the shadow of the big lilac bushes, where they had been sitting, and gliding across the moon-lighted lawn, entered the house.

"I wonder if I shall ever find courage to ask her to be my wife?" grumbled the man aloud. "Every night for two weeks I have tried and every time I fail miserably. Why will a man be such an arrant coward when it comes to telling a woman he loves her?"

Jack Allerton, still growling at his own cowardice, walked down to the road and disappeared in the shadows. He was a handsome athletic fellow, who had never known what physical fear meant, but he had courted Estelle Williams for a winter and two summers, and, while he felt reasonably certain that his suit was not distasteful to her, he had been unable to screw up his courage to the point which would put his fate to the test.

As he had done innumerable nights before, he strolled down the road about half a mile and then returning took up a position opposite the Williams cottage in the shadows of the roadside bushes and waited for the light in her room to be extinguished.

"Jack Allerton, for a sane man, you make all kinds of a monkey of yourself," he said finally as the light that he was watching went out and he turned to depart again.

Suddenly he stopped short with a catch in his breath.

A dark form had passed quickly across the lawn and been swallowed up by the shadow of the house.

Allerton sprang to the low fence that surrounded the Williams grounds, and vaulting over made his way stealthily toward the spot where the form had disappeared. The dining-room window was open, and a man was clambering clumsily into the room.

For a monent Allerton hesitated, while he rapidly thought out a plan of action. The house must not be aroused lest Estelle be alarmed. Whatever was to be done must be done quickly and quietly.

Allerton's mind was soon made up. Gliding from shadow to shadow he reached the open window by which the man had entered the house. Crouching beneath it he slowly raised his head so that he could look into the room.

As his eyes became accustomed to the darkness he could dimly make out the form of a man moving stealthily around the room with outstretched arms, feeling along the walls. When he reached the door he passed into the hall and out of sight.

Was he going upstairs?

Allerton's heart was in his mouth.

Placing his hands on the window seat he drew himself up and jumped lightly into the room. It was now a game of hide and seek, and Allerton was "it." For a moment he listened. But the man apparently knew his business well. Not a sound broke the stillness of the night.

Again he listened, but not a creaking board or stair gave him any hint of the direction the man had taken after leaving the dining-room. Allerton stopped and thought again. What would he do, were he a burglar? The sleeping rooms first, for jewels and money, of course. The thought meant quick action. He, at least, had the advantage of a thorough knowledge of the house. He tip-toed to the foot of the stairs and taking one step up, stopped.

It could scarcely be called sound, but to Allerton's straining ears it seemed as loud as the roar of Niagara. It was a gurgling sound like that made by liquid poured from a bottle and it seemed to come from the direction of the butler's pantry at the end of the hall. Allerton retraced his steps and as he turned down the hall he paused and involuntarily crouched against the wall.

There was his man in plain view. The pantry door was wide open, and standing in a patch of moonlight that came through the window stood the burglar. In one hand he held a bottle of beer, and in the other something edible, at which he was contentedly munching.

While he stood out in sharply defined silhouette, Allerton was invisible to the burglar, and would be until he reached the streak of moonlight that penetrated just outside the pantry door. Moving silently along close to the wall, he finally stepped quickly out in view.

With a smothered oath the man dropped the bottle with a crash, and sprang at Allerton, who met the onslaught unflinchingly.

"You fool," whispered Allerton as he blocked the blow aimed at him and caught the man in a grasp of iron, "you'll rouse the house."

"What's your lay, anyway?" grumbled the man, as he ceased to struggle against his too powerful captor.

"First I want you to be quiet; second, I want you to pick up your shoes, climb out of the window through which you came, and just as silently, and then make tracks out of town. I know your face, and if I see you around I'll have you arrested."

"And ain't you going to have me arrested now?"

"No, all I want you to do, is to get out of this house."

"I'm your man, boss. You're the right sort, you are. Most of you swell blokes is apt to be hard on a poor chap."

"All right; now march."

Still keeping a firm hold on the man's collar, Allerton swung him around facing the door, when both started back with a gasp of surprise.

A woman in a long white dressing gown stood facing them with a revolver in her right hand, pointed firmly at them.

The crash of the falling bottle had done the mischief.

"Estelle," said Jack, softly.

"Jack," she gasped, as she recognized him.

"Two's company, three's a crowd. Don't you think I'd better be going, boss?" chuckled the burglar.

Giving the man's collar a vicious twist, Allerton led him, followed by Estelle and her pistol, into the dining room, where he lighted the gas. The burglar picked up his shoes, and, seating himself on the window seat, swung his feet out and prepared to jump when Allerton should release his hold.

"Say," he said, when he felt himself entirely free, "you're a couple of game uns. Don't you think you'd like to marry the young man, miss? He's been trying to ask you for a long time, but couldn't get up the grit. I heard him say so while I was laying low behind the bushes waiting to pull off the job he's spoiled.

"Youse have been good to me; and I'd like to see you happy. Take my word for it, he wants you bad, miss, but hasn't got the sand to tell it."

With a low chuckle of delight the burglar dodged a vicious uppercut that Allerton handed to him and dropping quickly to the ground disappeared.

Allerton looked at the girl, who had recovered from her fright.

"Estelle," he said, falteringly.

"Yes, Jack."

"What the burglar said was true."

"Was it, Jack?"

"Will you—will you—"

"Yes, Jack, only I don't like being proposed to by a burglar."

$100,000 Worth of Books---
Fine De Luxe Editions---
To Be Sold for Less Than $25,000

SPLENDID SUBSCRIPTION SETS AT ONE-FOURTH THEIR WORTH

GREATEST BOOK SALE EVER KNOWN

Today we begin an unprecedented sale that will appeal to lovers of fine books—not the sort of books that are read once and cast aside, but the rich, elegantly bound De Luxe editions that men of letters, scholars, and the most intelligent classes delight to possess—books that it is not only a pleasure to read, but that will do credit to the finest of libraries—books that will last a lifetime and become heirlooms.

Owing to the failure of George Gebbie & Co., of Philadelphia and the widespread depression among subscription publishers, large lots of fine De Luxe Editions of standard authors were recently thrown upon the market at a sacrifice sale.

These elegant library editions, hitherto sold only by agents at high prices, include the well known, high class publications of John D. Morris & Co., Gebbie & Co., The Chesterfield Society, The Davos Press, etc. Represented in the collection are the Great Dramatists and Historians as well as the works of the Great Masters of Romance.

We seized the golden opportunity, made enormous cash purchases, secured entire edition remainders, and consequently offer this De Luxe stock at less than one-quarter its value.

EMERSON—Contents of the set, six volumes: "Representative Men," "English Traits," "Nature Addresses and Lectures," "Conduct of Life," "Essays," "Poems," and a biograph by Richard Garnett. Large type, illustrated, excellent paper, bound beautifully in three-quarter leather. This is a numbered Edition de Luxe.

Morris Price $27. Sale Price, $6.00.

HUGO—Complete romances, poems, essays, best dramas, including Hugo's rare book on Shakespeare and Life of Hugo, in ten handsome volumes. New Edition de Luxe from new plates, with 90 illustrations in photogravure and half tone. This is the best and most complete set of Hugo in English, excepting only one other costly edition which sells at from $100 to $500 per set. Edition limited to 1,000 numbered sets. Elegantly bound in three-quarter leather, de Luxe style.

In Leather, Morris Price, $45. Sale Price, $10.
In Cloth, Subscription Price, $30. Sale Price, $7.50.

KINGSLEY—The type is large, carefully printed on superfine laid paper, photogravure illustrations. The binding is handsomely done in three-quarter genuine leather of a rich dark wine shade; ornaments; full gold backs.

In Cloth, Subscription Price $22. Sale Price, $5.75

THE GEBBIE BURNS—Self-Interpreting Edition de Luxe of Robert Burns' Complete Poetical and Prose Works. Printed for subscribers only. All Scotch words throughout are in italic type and English meaning in small type at the end of each line. The set includes Burns' immortal songs, words and music, letters and life. The only complete edition containing 100 more poems and over 200 more letters than any other set of Burns. The illustrations number over 100 rare engravings, including duotones, photogravures, manuscript fac-similies, colored map, etc. Six volumes. Elegantly bound in three-quarter Levant grain leather.

Gebbie Price, $35.00. Sale Price, $8.75.

GIBBON—New Edition de Luxe, the only larger type set in six volumes (it must not be confounded with cheap, broken type sets in five volumes). Notes by Milman, Guizot, and Dr. William Smith. Elegantly illustrated and bound in three-quarter leather.

Morris Price, $33.00. Sale Price, $7.50.

HAWTHORNE—New Edition de Luxe. Contents of the set; "Twice Told Tales," "Mosses From an Old Manse," "The Scarlet Letter," "The House of the Seven Gables," "Grandfather's Chair," "The Wonder Book," "The Blithedale Romance," "Tanglewood Tales," "The Marble Faun." The type is large and clear, printed upon fine white laid paper made expressly for this edition. Illustrations include frontispiece doutones from originals and a fine new photogravure portrait of the author. Fine three-quarter leather binding. 9 volumes.

In Leather, Subscription Price, $35. Sale Price, $8.75.

THE MOSQUITO IN LABRADOR.

Terrible Pest to Travelers and Natives in the Northland.

No account of travel in Labrador can be complete without some mention of the terrible pest of mosquitoes. These were always present in immense swarms from the beginning of our trip to the end, and sometimes they made life almost unbearable. Nothing could be heard but their buzzing. Whenever we attempted to eat they were down our throats and in our eyes and faces and in spite of our head nets and fly dope we were always badly bitten. The natives seemed to mind them almost as much as we did, their remedy being rancid seal oil. I am satisfied that were one so unfortunate as to be caught out at night without protection, he would be either crazy or dead by morning.

Our tents were provided with a fine mesh bobbinet inner tent, but some would always find their way inside or come up from the ground. At times our light so attracted them we went outside to see if it were not raining, for the constant tapping of the mosquitoes against the canvas sounded so exactly like rain that it was impossible to tell the difference.

On many nights I had to give up the observation of stars for latitude and longitude because a candle could not be kept lit long enough to adjust the artificial horizon. We unfortunately had no chimney and the mosquitoes swarmed so thickly that without this protection the flame was quickly smothered. There were but few nights cool enough to afford us any relief; we found that it required a temperature within a few degrees of actual freezing to subdue them.—Forest and Stream.

Decoration Worthily Bestowed.

President Fallieres' first list of decorations for the New Year included the name of one man who is little known. This was a young physician named Louis Bozy, who lost an eye in the discharge of his duty. Dr. Bozy, while acting as assistant to an operating surgeon in one of the Paris hospitals, had an eye injured through a drop of poisonous matter coming in contact with it. He knew that an antidote must be applied immediately, but by doing this he would have left the chief surgeon unattended, and remained at his post with his eye uncared for until the operation was completed. In consequence of his heroism he lost an eye and was confined to a hospital for a long time. President Fallieres, in conferring the decoration, said that a wound received by a physician in the discharge of his duty was as honorable as one received on the battlefield.

Model Public Servant.

Mrs. Nancy C. Bush, postmaster at Charlotte, Vt., has just celebrated her seventy-eighth birthday. She has been in the postal service for 38 years, beginning as a telegraph operator and assistant postmaster. In response to a petition signed by almost every inhabitant of Charlotte, President Grant appointed her postmaster in 1875. Her office is said to be a model of neatness and her accounts always accurate to the last cent. She has never had a clerk and she superintends one substation and two carriers, besides attending to an extensive money order business and the regular duties of postmaster.

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

A five man match series is on for decision at Campbell's alleys tomorrow night, when the Armrights will meet the cracks of Raritan. The latter will be headed by "Bill" Schaub, who is rolling in good form just at present and his efforts will be backed up by such pin knights as Matthews and Brown and possibly W. Meyer, who has been doing some sensational work on the local alleys. Notwithstanding this the local cracks are confident of the outcome.

Blatz and Nash are showing the way in Campbell's two man tourney with a slight advantage over Meyer and Meyer, who are in second place. The competition is close and a number of teams are bunched in the standing. Causebrook and Kiely have high team score with 456, while McLaughlin's 259 is high individual score. The team standing:

	Won.	Lost.
Blatz and Nash	7	2
Meyer and Meyer	9	3
Skelly and Miller	8	4
Matthews and Brown	7	5
Willett and Skinner	7	5
McLaughlin and Theirs	7	5
Shannon and O'Keefe	7	5
Causebrook and Kiely	7	5
Vanderbilt and Eller	12	6
Herbert and Campbell	11	7
Radin and Schaub	10	8
Conklin and Britton	10	8
Leonard and McNaughton	9	9
Laing and Stout	3	7
Boyle and Owens	5	7
Ortleb and Ortleb	5	7
Quinn and McInerney	4	8
Snyder and Minnick	2	10
Woolston and McCollough	2	16
Reville and Connelly	1	5

The schedule for this week in the two man tourney is as follows:

Monday — Willett and Skinner, Blatz and Nash, Boyle and Owens.

Wednesday—Meyer and Meyer, Snyder and Minnick, Laing and Stout.

Friday — Vanderbilt and Eller, McLaughlin and Theirs, Shannon and O'Keefe.

REV. DR. C. L. RHOADES SPEAKS ON MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades, of New York, secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society occupied the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning and also spoke to the Sunday-school in the afternoon. His theme in the morning and afternoon was concerning home missions and as usual he held the closest attention of his hearers. Dr. Rhoades has a great fund of knowledge concerning both home and foreign missions and he never fails to interest others in the subject. He was listened to yesterday by large audiences. His talk in the afternoon was particularly appropriate for the children.

West End Grass Fire.

An unruly grass fire on West End avenue, near Front street was the cause of a still alarm at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The firemen beat out the blaze, caused by burning grass on the Moore property, and there was no damage.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

J. D. Loizeaux will speak at the Rescue Mission tonight.

Mr. Perrin will give a series of Bible talks at the Rescue Mission every Sunday night for the next eight weeks.

G. Stuart Simons will give an illustrated lecture at Hope chapel, Sunday afternoon, on "Mexico." The views are especially fine.

J. Edmund Skiff, organist of the First M. E. church, is planning to give a concert at the church on Tuesday night, March 30, for the benefit of the choir fund.

James H. Ecob, of Brooklyn, will lecture at the First M. E. church, Friday night on "The Church and Temperance," under the auspices of The Brotherhood. All men are cordially invited.

The regular communion service was held at Marconnier chapel, yesterday, and Elder H. E. Gayle and Deacon A. K. Willett, of Trinity Reformed church, assisted the pastor, Rev. J. T. Lansdale, in the service.

The Rescue Mission at 100 Madison avenue, W. C. T. U. rooms, has placed a large sign upon the wall at the rear end of the room, which is attractive. The sign is painted on white oilcloth in large black letters and reads "Get Right with God."

St. Stephen's College, Annandale, Dutchess County, N. Y., has elected as its President the Rev. William C. Rodgers, on duty for the last two years at St. Agnes' Chapel, in West Ninety-second street, New York. The new president is an Englishman, but came to this country twenty years ago. He was graduated from Christ College, Cambridge, receiving the Master of Arts degree, and has held important charges in Davenport, Iowa, and in the Diocese of Albany before coming to Trinity parish, New York. St. Stephen's was founded nearly fifty years ago to educate young men for the Episcopal ministry. Its endowment amounts to about $100,000. The college has a capacity for about 100 students, but it is purposed to increase the facilities as funds permit.

GAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR TEN YEAR OLD SON.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Blimm, of East Third street, gave a party for their son, Elmer, Saturday afternoon, in honor of his tenth birthday anniversary. About twenty young friends were present and Master Elmer Blimm was the recipient of many handsome gifts also the best wishes of all.

The afternoon was spent in playing games in which everyone took part and at 6 o'clock supper was served by Mrs. Blimm, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Waters, Mrs. Charles P. Thompson and Mrs. Beulah Raleigh. The rooms were attractively decorated with potted plants, palms, ferns, flags and bunting, the color scheme being green and white. Among those present were the Misses Gertrude and Mary Blimm, Florence Waglow, Margaret Wilbee, Helen and Marion Thompson, Maude Edell, Elsie Townley, Marjory Mehl, Amy Lorton, Ruth Compton, and Elmer J. Blimm, Clarence Hook, Ernest Pruden, Leslie and Arthur Compton, Junior Mehl, Roland Clark and Russell Lorton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Runyon, of West Sixth street, are spending some weeks at Braidentown, Fla.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS EXEMPLIFY DEGREES.

About twenty members of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, attended the exemplification of the second and third degrees of the order in Masonic Hall, Elizabeth, yesterday, including District Deputy O'Keefe, who assisted in the ceremonies. The second degree work was done under the direction of Elizabeth Council, while both Elizabeth and Bayley councils conferred the third degree jointly on fifteen candidates. More than fifty Knights received the second degree.

Practically every municipality in the tate was represented in the gathering. The Elizabeth Knights entertained the visitors after the ceremonies. It was reported that all of the councils in the State are in a flourishing condition with bright prospects for the future.

The Chorus Lady.

Tickets for "The Chorus Lady" with Miss Rose Stahl in the leading role, will be on sale at Manager Counihan's private office tomorrow and Wednesday mornings from 9 until 12 and on Thursday. Thursday will be the last day on which the committe for the Day Nursery benefit will get a percentage from the sale of tickets. Those who have engaged tickets are therefore requested to procure them before that time. The show is booked for next Monday night.

Surprised on Her Birthday.

A delightful surprise party was tendered Miss Henrietta Giles at her home on North Front street Friday night on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. There were about thirty guests, and the evening was passed with games, music and dancing. A feature of the supper, served late in the evening, was a large birthday cake, presented by Miss Giles' brother, Elmer. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Utzinger and Master James Huff.

Auto and Carriage Collide.

William S. Tyler's automobile, driven by his chauffeur, ran into the rear of Joseph Sandford's carriage at the eastbound station of the New Jersey Central, this morning. The lamps on the auto were damaged to some extent, but the carriage escaped with a few scratches. The accident was due to the fact that the chaffeur went up the driveway too fast and was unable to stop quick enough to avoid a collision.

Council Meets Tonight.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight when among other matters of business will be the selection of a superintendent and his wife for the city alms house, a consideration of street work and the reception of bids for a new fire apparatus for the new East End fire-house.

Will Visit His Mother.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, left today for Grand Rapids, Michigan, to visit his mother. He will be away about twelve days. Next Sunday, Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of this city, will occupy the pulpit at Trinity church, and the following Sunday Mr. Broek will preach.

Peck Ready for Business.

S. C. Peck having adjusted his fire loss with the insurance company, will re-open his store tomorrow morning. Some lines of goods will be offered at a very low price.

PERSONAL.

N. O. Moore, manager of The Recorder Press, has been detained at home several days with the grip.

Mrs. Rhees, of Brooklyn, is visiting at the home of her brother, S. St. J. McCutchen, of Myrtle avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Cannon, of Somerset street, who were called to Spencer, Mass., by the death of Mr. Cannon's mother, have returned home.

GOVERNORS FAVOR CHANGE IN INAUGURATION'S DATE.

Thirteen Governors of State, fifty United States Senators and 160 representatives in Congress have indorsed the proposition to change the date of the inauguration of President from March 4 to the last Thursday in April. The movement was started as a result of the bad weather that marked inaugural day this year and before.

Among the Governors who approve are Hughes, of New York; Draper, of Massachusetts; Fort, of New Jersey; Pennewill, of Delaware; Stuart, of Pennsylvania; Swanson, of Virginia, and Noel, of Mississippi.

Senators Depew, of New York; Aldrich, of Rhode Island; Crane, of Massachusetts; Bailey, of Texas; La Follette, of Wisconsin; McEnery, of Missisippi, and Fletcher, of Florida, approve it.

Indication are that a constitutional amendement will be passe. upon by Congress this session fixing the third Thurday in April as the inaugural date.

NEWSPAPER TO PUBLISH ALL ASSESSMENTS FREE.

Taking advantage of the offer of a weekly paper to publish the list of property assessments free of charge, the Easton, Pa., Councils unanimously passed a resolution authorizing the special commission appointed recently on equalization of taxes to have typewritten copy prepared.

Mayor McKeen was sitting in the Common Council chamber at the time. "Well, I've got my fountain pen here, and I guess I'll sign that," he said. The whole transaction occupied three minutes. One of the daily papers will publish the list, as there is a sentiment among the taxpayers that each person should know what his neighbor pays in taxes, anl the publication of the list has not been tried at Easton.

Jeremiah Boylan Surprised.

In honor of the fifty-ninth anniversary of his birth, a complete surprise party was given to Jeremiah W. Boylan, of Regent street, Saturday night. There were about fifty relatives and friends present from Newark, Metuchen, New Dover, Oak Tree and this city. The affair was a delightful one and Mr. Boylan was showered with best wishes for many happy returns of the day. During the evening there were vocal and instrumental music and games were played. Mr. Boylan received a number of suitable gifts.

Sunday-School Conference.

Many Plainfielders attended the conference of the Elizabeth branch of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association of the Episcopal church held in Trinity church parish house, Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon. The whole conference was given up to a study of Sunday-school work. Rev. Henry Hale Sleeper, pastor of Grace church, Elizabeth, made an address.

Frightened Team Runs Away.

A team of horses belonging to McDonough Brothers, the coal dealers, was frightened by a train while standing in front of the office on Madison avenue this afternoon, and ran away. The horses ran through West Third street and were caught at the corner of Liberty by James Carter. He narrowly escaped injury in stopping the team.

Alfred Linderman Injured.

Alfred Linderman, aged 38 years, of Forster avenue, was attacked with an epileptic fit yesterday afternoon, while driving near Plainfield avenue and Seventh street, and fell out of the carriage. He received a slight injury to his head and was taken to the hospital for treatment. He was able to return home soon afterward.

More Than 3,000 Vaccinated.

As a result of the recent appearance of small-pox in the city fully three thousand persons have been vaccinated, one thousand being treated at the office of the Board of Health. In consequence there are many sore arms.

Clara Bogan.

Clara Bogan, the two and a half year old daughter of Mrs. Theresa Bogan, of West Third street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital Friday night from scarlet fever. The funeral and burial were held Saturday and were private.

Will Show Inauguration Parade.

Harry S. Sanderson of Proctor's theatre has secured the moving picture of the inauguration parade at Washington for tomorrow only. It is said to be an exceptionally fine film.

ACKERMAN BILL PASSES

Upper House Approves Union County Senator's Employers' Liability Measure.

ONLY TWO NEGATIVE VOTES.

The Father of the Proposed Law Makes a Strong and Convincing Speech.

The feature of the State Senate session last night at Trenton was the passage, after much debate, of the Ackerman employes' liability bill, one of the measures in which Governor Fort has taken a great deal of interest.

The senators tried in various ways to amend the measure, but none of the amendments fitted the situation, and when the final vote was taken the measure, known as senate No. 1 passed the upper chamber, and, it is said, has a fair field in the house before it.

All of the labor unions favor the measure, believing it a fair thing between the man who labors and the employer who hires.

The principal speaker on the bill was Senator Ackerman himself, and his remarks, which follow, give the gist of the measure. It is important, for it is the only legislation of its kind in New Jersey since improved machinery, and the increasing danger to employes, came into general use. Senator Ackerman said:

"New Jersey is a great manufacturing State. Great care must be exercised to protect its prestige. We must not place ourselves at an industrial disadvantage. The industries of New Jersey are classified in 88 different lines, having 2,152 establishments with 76,761 partners and stockholders. The total number of persons employed is 280,280, or 13 per cent. of the population of the State. The capital invested is $629,549,849 with an annual payroll of $144,740,069, giving an average yearly earning per employee of about $500, which earnings per employee is exceeded only by one State in the Union and that is New York. The figures are from the last annual report of the Bureau of Labor & Industries. In theory I might favor a more radical bill than the one which I introduced, but the question is would such a measure be practical or of advantage at the present time to the interests of the people of New Jersey. We must not impose regulations on the industries of New Jersey greater than those already borne by the other States, particularly neighbors like New York and Pennsylvania.

"Senate Bill No. 1 is a step in the right direction, and we may safely take additional steps when the other States have done likewise.

"If we proceed along with advanced or radical measures the result would be to drive many of the manufacturers and their employees from the State. Who would knowingly advocate such a result? Suppose New Jersey should adopt expensive regulations for New Jersey employers—what would be the effect? Would it not add to the cost of manufacture? And unless the other States had the same regulations would not New Jersey enterprises be at a disadvantage in competition with say New York or Pennsylvania? Would there not be a prompt exodus of small manufacturers to other States, the larger concerns following at the earliest moment? What would the people of New Jersey think of the members of the Legisalture whom from the want of foresight or caution blocked enterprise and forced idle mills and workshops? I believe that owing to the changed relations between employer and employees arising largely from the logical formation of corporations and the introduction of modern and dangerous but necessary macinery that a change in the old Common law doctrine is a necessity, looking at the question from the viewpoint of the safety and good of society.

"Some might say, why have any liability law at all in New Jersey? Let the other States enact laws on the subject thus forcing their industries to move to New Jersey.

"Would this not be a selfish and short-sighted policy? Shall New Jersey become notorious for a fixed plan of offering as little protection as possible to defenceless employees?

"No State can enjoy permanent prosperity by denying the rights of justice and equity. Perhaps my bill does not go far enough considering the advanced laws passed on this question in Great Britain and other foreign countries, but we cannot with fairness to our citizens go faster than other States but we may with entire safety to all interests adopt a similar law similar to that now in force in the State of New York.

"The City of New York is famous for the extent and variety of its

DOMESTIC TO SHARE IN A $7,000. LEGACY

Good news has come out of the far West for Miss Sarah O'Brien, of the borough, for she has received word that her sister, Bridget O'Brien, who died about a year ago in Rochester, Minnesota, left an estate valued at more than $7,000 and made no will. The borough woman, who is employed as a domestic, has not seen her sister since nearly twenty years ago.

Bridget O'Brien, who was also a domestic, made her money in mining stock, which she bought on a "tip" from her employer, a man named Richardson. The Richardsons engaged the woman when they lived in Paterson about twenty years ago, and shortly afterward moved to Minnesota, where he was successful in various mining enterprises. At his suggestion, the woman invested her wages in mining stock, bought at a low figure, and was particularly fortunate in her investment.

The estate will be shared by the borough woman, a sister in the West, and two brothers in North Dakota. Surrogate Latimer, of Rochester county, Minnesota, has notified Harry C. Runyon, Miss O'Brien's attorney, of the legacy, and urges him to make an effort to locate the children of two other sisters of the dead woman.

ALLEGED FIRE BUG ACQUITTED IN COURT

Peter Jannelli, who was charged with arson in setting fire to a barn at Summit, was acquitted of the charge in the Union county court, yesterday after a trial lasting two days. The trial was before Judge Atwater and the defendant was represented by J. Henry Crane.

The boy was accused by his employer of setting fire to the latter's barn because he had reprimaned and discharged him. The States also produced a written confession obtained from the boy soon after his arrest. The accused testified that the confession was obtained through fear and threats and although he had endeavored to tell the truth, the detective had distorted his statements in an effort to convict him.

The accused admitted being in the barn, lighting his pipe and throwing the match on the floor, but denied positively that he had any intentions of setting the barn on fire. Mr. Crane made a strong plea to the jury for his acquittal. The jury was out about an hour and brought in a verdict of not guilty.

PLAINFIELD B. AND L. ASSOCIATION'S MEETING.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association held its annual meeting last night and received with gratification the report of the secretary for the year, showing it to be in a prosperous financial condition.

The annual statement showed that $59,400 had been paid in matured shares. Net assets amounted to $213,225.95. Secretary B. Frank Coriell announced applications on hand for loans amounting to more than $10,000.

A new series of shares was opened at the meeting and 250 of the shares were subscribed for and taken on the spot. Immediately after the meeting of the stockholders, the board of directors met and organized. All of the officers were reelected. They are:

L. E. Barkalew, president; Henry Liefke, vice-president; W. R. Codington, treasurer; B. F. Coriell, secretary; auditing committee, A. D. Edgar, Clarence Goss, Wm. McD. Coriell, Jr.; board of directors, L. E. Barkalew, Henry Liefke, W. R. Codington, E. W. Titsworth, Louis Klein, Jacob Voehl, James P. Homan, W. A. Woodruff, Joseph C. Blimm, J. E. Flannery, B. F. Coriell, E. M. Laing.

Only One Bid Received.

Under the suspended rules of the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, bids were received for furnishing the city hay, straw and oats, but only one was presented, that of Joseph Harrigan. He offered to sell the city five hundred bags of oats at $1.42½ a bag, hay, $18 a ton, and straw, $24 a ton. Mr. Harrigan stated that he had been supplying the city with hay, straw and oats for sometime and the prices quoted were the lowest obtainable at this time. The fire committee was a little disappointed over the lack of bids. The one was referred to that committee.

German Supper.

After the regular weekly meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., tomorrow night, the members will partake of an old-fashioned German supper, at Elks' Hall on West Second street.

CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE

Co-operate With Paterson for Distribution of State School Money.

APPOINTMENTS ARE CONFIRMED

Will Purchase Another Fire Horse—The Street Department's Requests Are Granted.

In a communication from Dr. Mc Bride, Mayor of Paterson, received by the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, the local governing body was requested to assist in securing the passage of Assembly bill No. 350, providing that State school money be distributed to all school districts at once. It was referred to the public affairs committee and later, on Mr. Mygatt's motion, it was referred to the finance committee authorizing co-operation with the Paterson officials.

William R. Codington, attorney for the Mutual Land Improvement Company, petitioned the Council to lend its aid in macadamizing several streets in the Netherwood district, it being the purpose of the company to develope and improve the adjourning land and erect several fine dwellings. The company offered to furnish the stone if the city would do the work. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Mayor C. J. Fisk appointed Fred A. Keiderling and J. C. W. Andrews as special policemen; Fred Breem and W. H. Kitchen as poundkeepers, and the nominations were confirmed. Keiderling and Andrews are employed as dog catchers.

The bids of N. B. Smalley & Co., for furnishing crushed stone and that of the Watchung Stone Company for furnishing culverts and crosswalks, were accepted in accordance with resolutions offered by Councilman W. L. Gloak, chairman of the street committee. These bids were the lowest. The resignation of Arthur W. Wolverton as superintendent of the city alms house, was received and accepted. It is effective April 1.

Councilman Taylor offered a resolution which was adopted, appropriating $325 for the purchase of a new horse for fire headquarters. He explained that the fire committee had secured two horses, one for the No. 3 house and the other for headquarters. The one at No. 3 house was not satisfactory and will be returned. At a previous meeting $300 was appropriated for a horse and another one will be secured.

In accordance with another resolution by Mr. Taylor, 300 feet of one inch hose for chemical engine service was purchased at forty cents a foot from the Voorhees Rubber Manufacturing Company. Mr. Taylor explained that a dozen or more bids were received and the one decided upon seemed to be the most advantageous.

WANT DOG ORDINANCE AMENDED BY COUNCIL.

The Plainfield Kennel Club communicated with the Common Council last night, asking that it be given a hearing before that body in reference to suggesting certain changes to the dog ordinance. While the body was in session, a delegation from the club was holding a conference with Mayor C. J. Fisk. Those present from the club were A. G. Hooley, E. L. Mackenzie and A. L. Wilmerding. They suggested that provisions be made for issuing a kennel license to cover all dogs owned by members, it was favorably received by the Mayor and later by members of the laws and ordinance committee who joined the conference.

It was explained by the dog fanciers that their only desire is to afford protection to thoroughbred dogs. The laws and ordinance committee will take the matter at more length and announce a decision in the near future.

Mrs. Mary E. Taylor Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Taylor, who was run over by a railroad train at Dunellen Friday, was held yesterday afternoon in that borough. Services were conducted at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Rafferty, the Rev. E. C. Dutcher officiating. Interment was made in South Plainfield cemetery. The pall bearers were Christopher Huff, George Huff, Andrew Love and Stillman Randolph.

Tin Shower for Miss Emmons.

Mrs. Arthur W. Vail, of Putnam avenue, gave a tin shower for her sister, Miss Aimee Emmons, last night, prior to her marriage soon to Royal Phillips, of Madison avenue. Last week, Miss Lou Fuller, of Arlington avenue, gave a linen shower for Miss Emmons. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Emmons, of Prospect place.

WON'T REVIVE CHARTER

Von Minden Bill for Reviving Metuchen-Plainfield Road Franchise Withdrawn.

PLAINFIELDERS AT HEARING.

Passage of Measure Drawn for Giving Life to Dead Charter Would Be Disastrous.

Efforts last night at Trenton on the part of those particularly interested in the House bill introduced by Rene P. F. Von Minden, of Middlesex, and generally supposed to revise all defunct perpetual franchises of street car railroads in the State, to get the House committee on municipal corporations to report the measure met with no success. The bill, House 344, was introduced last Monday night, and reported out Wednesday afternoon. It was represented to the committee members that one Mary W. Board, of South Plainfield, desired the passage of the measure to permit the completion of a little horse car line in Middlesex and Union counties. That accounted for the hasty report, it was said.

When the real possibilities of the bill became known, there was hastening to and fro and the bill, through the efforts of Chairman H. Stacy Smith, of the municipal corporations committee, Speaker John D. Prince and Assemblyman Amos H. Radcliffe, of Passaic, was withdrawn from the House and taken back to the committee. The delegation here to urge the committee to report the measure again was numerous. At the conclusion of argument Chairman Smith told Frederick Albert Duttenhofer, of this city, that there was no use expecting a favorable report, as the members were unanimously in favor of either reporting adversely or holding the bill.

His advice was that Assemblyman Von Minden and his friends see the Attorney General and have a bill drawn that would not be so general and would affect only the charter of the company proposing to run a line from Plainfield to Metuchen, by way of South Plainfield. It was too late to accomplish anything last night. Mr. Smith said that if the measure came to them in proper form the committe members would probably report it as a committee substitute for 344.

City Counsel James R. Nugent, of Newark, was one of those who declared the Von Minden bill bad. He gave it as his legal opinion that the Attorney General's department could draft a measure affecting only the Plainfield case.

An affidavit by Miss Broad was offered by her in person, setting forth that search had been made by her lawyers and that to the best of her knowledge and belief based on records, there would be no charter but that of her street railway company affected by 344. The search covered grants from 1856 to 1908, it was stated.

George L. Record, of Jersey City, said it had been his experience when he got into court that such bills as Von Minden's revived a lot of old characters, "giving life to things that were dead." Mr. Dutenhofer said that he and his associates for Miss Broad and others had engaged Charles L. Corbin, whose home is in Metuchen, to draft the bill.

"We had no axe to grind and are interested in but the one proposition," said Mr. Dutenhofer to a reporter for this newspaper. "We wanted to revive our old perpetual franchise. I do not believe in these limited franchises. The limited franchise law of today is ruining New Jersey. You cannot get a dollar of investment in a road that has only a 20-year franchise."

Here is the Von Minden bill, brief, to the point, and sweeping:

"When the time limited for the completion of any horse or street car railroad or any part thereof has expired by the provisions of any statute of this State or the charter of the company authorized to construct such railroad has expired by reason of delay in construction, such charter shall be revived and such time shall be and the same is hereby extended to the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and ten."

Surprised Their Pastor.

Members of the Shiloh Baptist church gave their pastor, Rev. M. A. Alexander, a surprise party last night. They also remembered Mr. Alexander with a generous supply of groceries and other useful articles. The affair was arranged by the Willing Workers, an auxiliary of the church. During the evening a purse of $6.25 was presented to Mrs. Alexander.

—Mrs. J. R. Truell, of Truell Hall, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, for a trouble of not a very serious nature She will not be detained at the institution long.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN BIG CARNIVAL.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a carnival this summer which promises to be the finest ever brought to Plainfield. An enthusiastic meeting of the committee in charge was held last night when plans were discussed whereby the carnival will be presented on an elaborate scale. The committee in charge is working hard and the attractions will be the best that money and judgment can obtain.

The committe is comprised of T. J. Shirley, chairman; J. J. Varley, secretary and A. A. Cannon, treasurer, with D. J. Galbraith as press agent. The public will be informed from time to time as the details are completed.

Service at Italian Mission.

The meeting of the Italian Mission last night was in charge of Miles Roberts and the Rev. Lewis H. Bond. Mrs. L. R. Howard and members of the Hope chapel choir assisted in the service. The music was a feature and consisted of American hymns and patriotic songs. Several members of the mission sang songs in Italian, accompanied by the mandolin and guitar. The attendance was large.

Will Now Practice Law.

Martin Stutsman, who was recently admitted to the New Jersey Bar, following his graduation from the New York University last June, has taken desk room in the office of Assistant Prosecutor W. L. Hetfield, Jr., in the Vanderbeek building.

GIRL'S CLOTHES AFLAME; HELD HER UNDER PUMP

Prompt action on the part of her mother saved the life of twelve-year-old Victoria De Nitzo, of Scotch Plains, when the child's clothes caught fire from the kitchen stove yesterday. The little girl, frenzied with fear, rushed from the kitchen into the yard where the wind fanned her clothing into flames. Hearing her screams, Mrs. De Nitzo rushed to her and seizing her dashed to the pump nearby, where she pumped water on the girl until the flaming clothing was extinguished. The girl was badly burned about the lower limbs, and is under a physician's care. Her condition is not serious.

Victoria was shaking the kitchen range when a red-hot coal fell out as she stooped it set fire to her light dress. Seeing the flames, the girl rushed from the kitchen into the yard, where she was soon circled with flames from her blazing garments. The proximity of the pump undoubtedly saved the girl's life, but the flames were not extinguished until the girl had been severely burned.

Victoria De Nitzo is the daughter of William De Nitzo, who was killed at Hetfield & Weldon's stone crusher about two months ago.

ALMS HOUSE HEADS NAMED BY COUNCIL

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McDowell, of Clinton avenue, have been engaged as superintendent and matron for the city alms house to succeed Mr and Mrs. Arthur W. Wolverton, who have resigned. The change is effective April 1. This action was taken at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night, in accordance with a resolution offered by Councilman C. C. Randolph, chairman of the alms committee, who explained that they were selected out of seventy applicants.

The appointment of Mr. and Mrs. McDowell caused considerable fun. Councilman Herbert Buxton was president pro tem, Mr. Tolles being detained at home by illness, and when Clerk MacMurray read the names, Mr. Buxton understood them as "Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCardell." This provoked a hearty laugh on the part of those present. The misunderstanding was quickly explained.

Mr. and Mrs. McDowell have been employed at the Watchung Hunt Club and have had experience in the line of work they will be required to do at the city alms house.

FIRST BAPTIST MEN'S CLUB MAKES SOME CHANGES.

The Men's Club of the First Baptist church met last night and discussed the problem of creating more life and spirit in the organization. Each of the members present expressed his views and made suggestions, the outcome of the conference being that instead of one lecture the programs of the future will contain several interesting features.

Luncheon will be served at the conclusion of the entertainment and the balance of the evening devoted to social chat. The next regular meeting of the club will be held Monday night, April 5, and for that occasion the program committee promises to have something especially attractive.

MRS. GASTON'S FUNERAL; BURIAL AT SOMERVILLE.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha A. Gaston, who died Saturday, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence on Westervelt avenue. Rev. George A. Warner officiated, and Mrs. John Manley sang two songs, "Thy Will Be Done," and "Lead Kindly Light."

The body was taken to Somerville for burial.

Stillman School Team.

The boys of the Stillman School met yesterday and selected James Nash as captain for the baseball team, Howard Firstbrook assistant captain and Fred Lines as manager Twenty games have been scheduled, a majority of which will be played on Hope Common. There is plenty of good material and practice will begin at once. Nash will do the catching and it is possible that Howard Firstbrook will do the twirling. Nash is a valuable acquisition and a severe loss to Holy Cross team. The girls of the school have organized a "rooting" band and will attend all games. An entertainment will be given soon to raise funds with which to purchase uniforms.

—Neuman Brothers have long been famous for the especially fine brand of coffee sold at their store. It is absolutely fresh and is the finest grown.

WORKING ON ICE PLANT

New Equipment Being Installed at Natural Co.'s Artificial Works.

THE CONCERN BUYS A LAKE.

A Forty-five Acres Body of Water at Beaver Creek, Pennsylvania, Purchased.

The F. W. Hallam Company, of New York, which has the contract for installing the new equipment and system for making artificial ice for the Natural Ice Company, of Plainfield, began work today and expect to have the plant in operation May 1. The capacity will be forty tons a day. During the past few weeks the local concern has had a force of ten men employed at the hygeia plant on North avenue tearing out all of the old equipment prior to installing the new system. The first shipment of new material arrived yesterday and work was started this morning.

When the new plant is completed it will be operated day and night and in this way a considerable quantity of ice will be made to meet the demands of consumers. The system to be used is known as the "can system" and the ice will be made from pure distilled water.

The Natural Ice Company according to one of the stockholders, has been confronted with trying conditions for several years past and does not propose to be caught again with a limited supply of ice. To prevent this the concern has acquired a property of forty-five acres near Bear Creek, Pa., where after this year it will be able to gather its customary crop. It still has a lease on property at Watchung, where it has been harvesting most of its commodity, but when this expires a year hence the agreement will not be renewed for the concern will depend entirely on its hygeia plant and the crop from Pennsylvania.

The company has determined that it can harvest ice at Bear Creek and ship it to Plainfield almost as cheap as to cart ice from the houses at Watchung, a distance of a couple of miles. The time consumed in going after the ice at Watchung, together with the loss on shrinkage, makes it a rather expensive business.

SOLEMN REQUEIM FOR MISS MARGARET TOWNLEY

The funeral of Miss Margaret Townley, who died Sunday, was held this morning, when services at her late home in the New Madison were followed by solemn requeim mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. B. M. Bogan, the rector, was the celebrant. Father Daniel Hogan acted as deacon during the celebration, and Father Vincent Sciolla was the subdeacon. Father Bogan took occasion to speak impressively of the loss of the young woman, and favorably known as she was to so many.

Among the mass of floral tributes was a large cross of white flowers. The pall-bearers were Monroe Staats, Edward O'Loughlin, Thomas Kilbride, John Brown, Iran Hunt and Lawrence McCloud. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

FIRST AID TO INJURED. LECTURES AT THE Y. W. C. A.

"Banding" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Thomas D. Blair at the Y. W. C. A. rooms Thursday night. It is one of the series of lectures by prominent physicians being delivered before the members of the association, on "the Care of the Body."

Following Dr. Blair's talk, W. D. Murray will give the last of his lenten season lectures on "Unfamiliar Psalms."

Y. M. C. A. CONCERT TONIGHT BY ASSOCIATION ORCHESTRA.

Another concert by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will be given tonight. The soloist will be Miss Edna May Stoecker, lyric soprano, of St. John's church, New York, a singer, whose voice is exceptionally beautiful.

Miss Stoecker is a former pupil of Madame Ogden Crane. No admission is charged at these concerts, but a silver offering will be taken.

Glee Club Concert Planned.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club, a concert will be given at the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening, April 29, when entertainment will be furnished by the Mendelssohnian Glee Club, of Elizabeth. The organization comprises thirty members, and an attractive musical program is to be presented. The proceeds of the affair will be used for new church hymnals. This will be the last appearance of Miss Anna L. Case as the soprano soloist at the church, for her resignation takes effect May 1.

HOW PUBLIC SERVICE GETS ITS CAR CREWS

WHEN Uncle Sam wants recruits for the United States army he does not accept every man who offers to enlist. Efficiency is what he insists upon and only those men who meet the requirements of a fixed standard are enrolled.

So it is with PUBLIC SERVICE in getting recruits for its army of conductors and motormen. PUBLIC SERVICE wants only efficient men and does its best to get them. It realizes that the more efficient the men the better the service, and its desire is to bring the service up to the highest point of efficiency possible.

SELECTED WITH CARE.

Care is exercised in the selection of men and those chosen are impressed with the responsibility which rests upon them. And this responsibility is great, for, as stated in a previous talk, the PUBLIC SERVICE cars carried last year more than 294,000,000 passengers, and the number of riders is steadily increasing.

To get good men PUBLIC SERVICE insists upon certain conditions being complied with. Applications for employment are received in Jersey City on Mondays; Newark on Tuesdays; West Hoboken, Wednesdays; Paterson, Thursdays; Westfield Junction and Camden, Fridays, and New Brunswick, Saturdays.

Applicants must furnish the names of four men of repute as references and state how they had been employed during the preceding five years. They must be between the ages of 21 and 40 years; at least five feet, four inches tall, and weigh not less than 140 pounds. All references are investigated and if found to be satisfactory the applicant is put through a course of instruction.

SCHOOLING FOR APPLICANTS.

This instruction is more interesting in the case of prospective motormen than of conductors because the former have to do with machinery. For their benefit PUBLIC SERVICE has set up three "schools" equipped with the mechanical parts of a car. These schools are located in the Montgomery street barn, Jersey City; the Miller street barn, Newark, and the car barn at Camden.

After the applicants have had time to learn the road, under the tutelage of experienced men, in whatever division they may have been assigned to, they receive a card from the station master certifying they are likely candidates. They then report to the school of instruction and are taken in hand by competent instructors.

Conductors are subjected to written and oral examinations and motormen are made familiar with the machinery of the car. They are taught the names of the different parts and the functions they perform; how the current passes through, how the speed is regulated and how the brakes are operated. They are shown how to locate trouble in the mechanism, what to do in cases of emergency and in the event of accidents. After the chief instructor is satisfied the men are qualified they are given cars, but still kept under the eye of experienced men until they demonstrate efficiency.

TWO OUT OF FIVE QUALIFY.

It takes from eight to ten days before the average man qualifies. Many do not qualify at all, and some who are capable in other respects are temperamentally unfit or of such a nervous disposition as to make it unwise to put them in service. PUBLIC SERVICE receives from 250 to 300 applications for work each week. Of this number not more than 35 or 40 per cent. qualify for positions.

When applicants are being instructed stress is laid on the necessity of conductors and motormen being at all times, courteous and polite in their attitude toward patrons. They are warned to shun disputes and to even avoid unnecessary conversation. Now and then a passenger may abuse a conductor or motorman, but the employee is under orders to be patient and forbearing, and to remember that it takes two to sustain a quarrel. Taken on the whole PUBLIC SERVICE believes it has a good force of men, but it realizes that all humans are not perfect.

TOMORROW THE NEW MILLINERY TAKES PROMINENCE IN A BEAUTIFUL OPENING EXHIBIT

OF all the Opening Exhibits of a new season's fashions the first display of the new Millinery takes precedence in feminine interest. No one knows better than fair woman herself that the hat is her crowning glory and she is anxious to see what newness in shapes, trimmings and colors have been evolved.

Ready to show you tomorrow!

Our Millinery Department has entered the realm of Spring. It is in full bloom with new hats—and they are the most gracious, most charming, most becoming and bewitching hats that it has ever been our privilege to show or yours to look upon.

SIZES: Large, small and "in-between." SHAPES: Varied past description, yet all becoming. MATERIALS: Straws, some of large coarse braid, others of fine soft weave. TRIMMINGS: Flowers in profusion and of every kind, foliage, feathers, ribbons and ornaments of jet, cut beads, etc.

Those are hints, but a poet and painter with a page of space couldn't depict the almost fragant beauty and spring-like charm of these hats. Your eyes will tell you all tomorrow. Welcome!

The New Spring Wash Goods Alluringly Invite You Here

The showing is now in the full charm of completeness — come and see it while it presents such strong attraction. It will help you materially in planning all sorts of pretty frocks, dresses, gowns, waists, etc. What Fashion had designed is here—superior in quality—unrivaled in variety.

Never did we ever present so complete a showing—nor quote more reasonable prices. Splendid value is not all—there's superb quality—superior colorings and designs. Each of the looms are turning out daintier, more charming, prettier wash fabrics and this season's best are here. Sheer fabrics, plain and fancy patterned goods and others that obtain rare effects from delicate and beautiful fast colorings.

Whatever your preference you are most certain to find exactly what you want here.

Buying so largely we are enabled to offer you

Exceptionally attractive values

Supreme Style Display of Ladies' Garments

Most Charming Models in Richly Tailored Suits, Jackets, Waists, Skirts, etc.

Here's a fact clear to the most casual observer—our stocks this season present style, attractions and good values equalled in no other store. Spring is inviting the adoption of new wearables and Fashion has this year excelled the best of previous offerings. All that is new here in alluring, bewitching, captivating display. All new styles—and all grades to choose from.

Completeness marks the showing—scarcely an approved style missing. Garments distinguished by the latest, daintiest fancies of Fashion, the fabrics are of widest variety, the colorings are many and charming, tailoring shows its superiority in every graceful line and curve, fold and drape. Prices do not strain the purse of the prudent, choice is wide and Values Are Wonderful at Every Price.

Superb Assortments of the Fashionable New Dress Goods

Here, are the newest and the best of the new cloths in all the favored shades of the season—and a wide range of novelty effects.

There are many new weaves this season—and many of the staple goods that are in popular demand.

Choose from Serges, Diagonal Suitings, the soft, satin Prunella, Chevron, Suitings, Batiste, Broadcloth—to continue the list would be like reading a catalogue.

The most favored colorings are rose, wisteria, garnet, taupe, sage, cadet, brown, grey, navy, myrtle—and black, of course.

It will pay you to make an early selection, thus getting the cream of the collection.

You'll find the prices modestly moderate at this store.

BRINGS PICKANINNY; "MAMMY" PLEADS IN VAIN

When the case against four colored boys arrested for trespassing, was called in the borough police court last night, two of them failed to appear and a postponement was made until tonight.

Mrs. John Carey, mother of three of the boys arrested, came to the station leading the smallest of her two and tried to convince the recorder that the other two had not been implicated. She was told to have them there tonight.

The Simmons boy was on hand and the white boy, who escaped from the Marshal has been identified and ordered to appear for the hearing. He is George Hartfeller, fourteen years old.

WANT NO CIRCUSES HERE ON SATURDAYS

A communication from the Plainfield Merchants' Association asking that no license be granted to a circus to show in this city on Saturday during the coming year, caused some merriment at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. It was referred to the public affairs committee, then to the laws and ordinance committee, then back to the public affairs and was finally laid on the table. No one wanted to handle it and the members had lots of fun over the matter.

The association explained that when a circus shows here on Saturday it seriously interferes with business as past experience had shown. It was stated later that the matter of granting such licenses was up to Mayor C. J. Fisk and he would have to be consulted as to the wishes of the association.

FRELINGHUYSEN FIGHTS SCHOOL MONEY HOLD-UP

Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican leader, on the floor, last night at Trenton went on record against Senator Leavitt's bill to hold up the school moneys for six months after they are due for distribution, thus losing over $200,000 to the school districts. He did not go into his reasons for opposing the measures, which was up for adoption as a committee substitute for a somewhat similar bill introduced by the same Senator.

"The financial question can be taken care of without this measure," he declared.

Mr. Leavitt, in speaking for the measure, said that it was designed to set a specific date on which the money might be distributed.

"Does not this bill simply let the State have the use of this money for six months?" asked Senator George S. Silzer, pointedly.

"It may have that effect," admitted Leavitt. The matter of adoption was allowed to go over.

STATE PROVIDES FUND FOR WHITE PLAGUE FIGHT.

Fifteen hundred dollars will be made available under the provisions of a joint resolution passed by the Senate at Trenton last night to defray the expenses of a committee of five to hold public meetings to consider means of stamping out tuberculosis.

In speaking for the measure Mr. Frelinghuysen said: "We can't do too much to help this work along. All over the country these kind of meetings are being held for the purpose. It seems to me that $1,500 is a small amount to spend when the good it would do is considered." The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote.

City Pensions "Jim."

Alexander Ayres, keeper of the city's inn, has a new guest, the Common Council last night having committed to the poor department the custody of "Jim," a fire department horse, which is too old for work. The overseer of the poor will stable the animal at the alms' house barn.

FORM HOLY NAME UNION

Patrick J. Ryan Elected President of Union Co. Organization of Catholics.

ST. MARY'S IS REPRESENTED.

Society's Delegates Await on Elizabeth's Mayor to Protest Against Some Moving Pictures.

Father B. M. Bogan, Michael D. O'Keefe, John Gallagher, Patrick Divver, Michael Watson, John Traynor and Daniel J. Walsh, of this city, attended a large gathering of the Union county members of the Holy Name Society in Elizabeth last night. The objects of the meeting were to form a permanent Union county union.

These officers were elected: President, P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth; vice-president, Thomas J. McGinna, of Rahway; secretary, William Gedney, of Elizabeth; treasurer, John J. Scully, of Elizabeth.

The meeting was addressed by Father Bogan, of this city; John Seelman, and E. J. Flannery, of Jersey City, officers of the Diocesan Union. The principal object of the union will be to discourage all immoral influences, to promote such interests as will tend to the uplift all forms of entertainment and to secure greater veneration for the Son of God. The addresses of the evning were all of that character and it is believed that a strong union will result for the good of the whole county. There were in all 110 delegates present.

While the Holy Name Society was in session a delegation from that body as well as other Catholic societies were in conference with Mayor Mravlag at the Elizabeth City Hall for the purpose of protesting against some of the moving pictures shown at the theatres and nickelodians in Elizabeth. The basis for much of the protest was against showing pictures portraying monks and nuns and priests serving communion and blessing themselves. These pictures were considered sacriligious and should be stopped.

Rev. J. A. Dillon, of St. Mary's church, stated that the theatre was no place for the exhibition of some of the rites and usages of the Catholic church. John F. Martin, another member of the party, stated that the Catholic societies had no desire to interfere with the business of theatres and moving picture places, the only desire being to eliminate those features which have a tendency to bring the church into disrepute.

The managers of all the theatres and moving picture places in Elizabeth, were present and assured the Mayor and the entire delegation that they would do all in their power to produce only such plays and pictures as would meet with the approval of the general public. Mayor Mravlag stated that while no doubt some objectionable things crept into moving pictures there were others that might lead to different opinions from different persons and he was not sure that the city authorities had jurisdiction in such cases. He felt sure that the managers would do all in their power to please the public, and in fact would welcome suggestions.

OCEAN BOULEVARD ASSURED.

House Passes Jersey Bill and Counties Will Begin Work at Once.

After Assemblyman Matthews of Hunterdon had vainly tried to kill the Ocean Parkway bill by loading it with amendments which would make the State responsible for constructing the boulevard as well as all highways between county seats in the State the House last night at Trenton, finally passed the Senate bill permitting the seashore counties to complete the ocean parkway.

Mr. Vredenburgh, of Monmouth, promised the House that the work would be started at once by the counties and rushed through to completion this summer. The measure only needs the signature of Gov. Fort to become law.

Fine Bill at the Theatre.

Four first-class vaudeville acts and three reels of comedy pictures attracted a capacity audience to the New Plainfield theatre, last night. The show was one of the best yet shown and the audience thoroughly appreciated it. The pictures were all works of art. Tonight there will by a "try-out" bill and everyone knows that this means no end of fun. Manager Counihan has arranged for an exceptionally fine entertainment, which will include many favorites. Another "try out" program is announced for Thursday night.

Grass Fire in East End.

HAROLD COOK ANSWERS TO A SERIOUS CHARGE.

The trial of Harold Cook, of this city, on a serious charge preferred by Miss Jessie Smith was begun in the Court of Quarter Sessions before Judge Atwater at Elizabeth, late yesterday afternoon when a jury was selected. Cook is represented by Judge William Newcorn, of this city, and Lawyer Daniel Schleimer, of Elizabeth, while Prosecutor Swift and Assistant Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., are looking after the State's interest. Miss Jessie Smith, who is not yet sixteen years of age, accompanied by her mother, is in court.

It is expected that the trial will occupy the whole day. Cook was formerly employed at a local five and ten cent store, while Miss Smith was also engaged there as a clerk. Cook has a wife and one daughter.

BUT ONE REMAINS OF STAR COURSE EVENTS.

The last of the season's Y. M. C. A. star course entertainments will be held Thursday night, April 1. Edward Elliott, dramatic reader, will give a presentation of the four act comedy drama, "The Man of the Hour." He is connected with the Redpath Lyceum Bureau and is one of its most successful features.

He has appeared in Philadelphia thirteen successive seasons.

Nihcols' Bill Defeated.

In the Assembly at Trenton last night the Nichols' bill for the abolishing of county boards of taxation was defeated. Assemblyman Smalley, of Somerset, spoke against the bill. Assemblymen Pierce and Schwartz, of Union, were also against the measure.

small manufacturing enterprises, (and is growing at a tremendous pace and it is estimated that by 1950 it will have a population of 19,000,000) if they can successfully stand the operations of an employers liability law, what sound argument can be advanced to deny the same measure of justice to the employees of New Jersey? An employers' liability is either under the Common law, or by reason of some statute. Under the common law the master or employer must furnish a reasonably safe place in which the servant is to work; he must keep the machinery in a reasonably safe condition; he is bound to use diligence in selecting fellow-servants and he must warn his servants of defects and danger which he knows to exist, but which may not be known to the servant.

"Referring to this measure the employer is now liable for negligence in respect to the above matters. This bill does not aim to affect the Common law liability as it now exists, except in one particular: Under the common law a master is not liable for injuries to a servant caused by the negligence of a fellow servant; this bill aims to make the employer liable for negligence of a felow servant who stands in the position of a superintendent. If the employer always acted as superintendent, then there would be no need of a law of this kind; but when the employer puts someone in his place, as is usually the case, then it stands to reason that the employer ought to be responsible for the acts of this man. To accomplish this purpose is the aim of this bill.

"Let us build for the future and so dispense justice that our institutions will firmly stand the final test of a crowded and dense population."

FIRE APPARATUS BIDS

Thirteen Offers Submitted for Equipping the New East End Fire House.

COMBINATION WAGON WANTED.

Lowest Bid $1,495—Committee to Meet on Friday Night to Decide the Matter.

Thirteen bids were presented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night from different concerns that want to sell the city fire apparatus with which to equip the new East End fire house. Although the Councilmanic fire committee had practically decided not to purchase an automobile apparatus two or three bids for that style were submitted. All of the bids were accompanied by specifications calling for capacity of chemical tanks from thirty to sixty gallons, both single and double.

The committe believes that the cost of apparatus will come within the $1,750 which it does not want to exceed. Although not decided last night the bid of the American LaFrance Company, of New York, was considered the best. That concerns figures were $1,495. In practically every bid extra price was added for rubber tires. The bids which were as follows, were referred to the fire committee:

Robinson Fire Apparatus Company, New York, $1,957; Combination Ladder Company, New York, $1,354, $1,399, $1,299 and $1,349 according to capacity of chemical tanks and equipment, and $5,000 for combination hose and chemical carriage of automobile type; Accurate Fire Extinguisher Company, Newark, $1,529; James Boyd & Brother, New York, $1,430; Woodhouse Manufacturing Company, New York, chemical and hose wagon, drawn by horses, $1,970; Webb fire engine, chemical and hose wagon, automobile tpye, complete, $8,150; Webb combination chemical and hose wagon, automobile type, $5,000 complete; J. G. Ware & Son, Pittsburg, Pa., horse drawn chemical and hose wagon, $1,135, $1,235, $1,495, $1,696 and $1,895 according to equipment; Fitzgibbons, Crisp Company, of Trenton, chemical and hose wagon, drawn by horses, $2,187; Knox Automobile Company, Springfield, Mass., chemical and hose wagon, automobile type, $4,500, two years guarantee; Zanesville Chemical Company, hose and chemical, drawn by horses, $1,385; American LaFrance Company, New York, chemical and hose, drawn by horses, $1,495; A. F. & C. F. Stewart, Rochester, N. Y., chemical and hose, drawn by horses, one thirty-five gallon tank, $1,400; two thirty-five gallon tanks, $1,600, rubber tires $200 extra; Green Motor Car Company, Bridgeport, Conn., automobile type, two thirty-five gallon tanks, $6,500.

The Councilmanic fire committee will probably meet Friday night and go over the various bids and make a report at the April meeting of the Common Council.

FACTS ABOUT ROSE ST. AND "THE CHORUS LADY"

A comedy in four acts, by James Forbes.

Suggested by a story, "The Girl," which appeared in Ainslee's Magazine for July, 1903, and written by James Forbes.

Dramatised by Mr. Forbes as a one-act sketch for Rose Stahl in August, 1903.

Produced at Keith's theatre, New York, under the title of "The Chorus Lady," in September, 1903, with Rose Stahl as Patricia O'Brien.

Was played over Keith's and other vaudeville circuits in America for two years.

Was presented at the Palace theatre, London, England, on June 2, 1906.

After ten weeks engagement at the Palace theatre was presented in the larger cities of the British Isles.

Present four-act comedy was written around the character of Patricia O'Brien in the summer of 1906 by James Forbes.

Produced as a four-act comedy by Henry B. Harris, with Rose Stahl as star, at the Savoy theatre, New York city, September 1, 1906.

Was transferred after five weeks to the Garrick theatre, New York.

Was again transferred to Hackett's theatre, New York.

In order to keep the production in New York, Hackett's theatre was bought by Henry B. Harris for four hundred thousand dollars.

The play has ran ten months in New York.

The play will receive local presentation at the New Plainfield theatre on Monday night.

Will be presented at the Duke of York's theatre, London, England, April 10, 1909.

Rose Stahl has appeared in "The Chorus Lady" over three thousand times, a record unequaled by any American star in a single play.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Play-goers who were born in, or who have visited the Emerald Isle, will find many things of interest in "Rory of the Hills," coming to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Those who have only read about life in that country, and those who haven't will get a real "object lesson" that is wholesome, instructive and amusing. The play commends itself to all classes, young and old alike being entertained by it. The simple peasant life of the country, songs, dances and specialties are a few features of one of the most popular Irish dramas of the 20th century.

Recently President Roosevelt prescribed some rigid tests to ascertain the "fitness" and endurance of the American Cavalry. Similar tests are made abroad. Lyman H. Howe's Lifeorama at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday night shows exactly what such tests actually mean, for a company of Italian cavalry is shown engaged in about as rigorous tests as could be imposed on horse and rider. There are many hair breadth escapes in coming down narrow defiles which are so steep that many of the riders slip over their horses' heads. The program also takes the audience to Russia, Egypt, France, Cornwall and the Andes; shows Wilbur Wright's remarkable Aeroplane flights; the automobile race for the Grand Prix; the strength and skill of a common fly, and numerous other subjects.

FOR BETTER METHODS OF ROAD CONSTRUCTION

State Road Commissioner Frederick Gilkyson has planned a campaign of education which, it is expected, will result in improved methods of road construction being introduced in some of the North Jersey counties. Mr. Gilkyson, State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, of this city, the county engineer of Camden county, and members of the Camden Board of Freeholders, will meet tomorrow with the engineers of Sussex, Hunterdon, Morris, Passaic, Middlesex and Monmouth counties, the purpose being to inspect several roads built in Camden county the past year in the construction of which new methods and ideas were used.

The Mayor, the street commissioner and the Street Committee of Morristown will join the party. The officials will be taken over the roads in automobiles. The highways to be inspected are the Imperial road, running into Westville; the Blackwood turnpike, upon which heavy asphalt oil was used as binder of the macadam, and the Evesham road, a section of which was constructed of Amiesite.

SEEK SHORE FORGER.

A forger's doings have just been made public at Atlantic City. He first stole printed private checks from Donato Innelli, proprietor of Innelli's Hotel, at Atlantic City, forged the papers and secured nearly $1,000 from trusting New York furniture dealers, who supposed the man to be a prosperous hotel man and gave their goods and change in return for the forged checks.

None of the checks which have been coming to Innelli's Bank at Atlantic City for several days have been cashed, the forger making the mistake of signing them D. Innelli, following the printed name on the checks instead of the full name which Innelli uses in his banking. Detectives are in search of a tranger who spent several weeks at Atlantic City and who is suspected.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Samuel W. Downer, of Clayton, owner of the Downer sand mines, and known in church and Sunday-school work, is dangerously ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Christian Lithgow, seventy-six years old, of Vineland, was found dead at the bottom of the cellar stairs on the return of the family Saturday. Coroner Halsey and Dr. Wilson decided that her neck was broken by the fall.

There are reports that the big electric engines will make more tests on the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad at Clayton this spring and that they will be used on this road for hauling heavy freight.

When John Erstein, twenty-one years old, of 454 Royden street, Camden, started to kill a chicken for his Sunday dinner Sunday and the fowl struggled, the knife slipped and landed in Ernstein's side, causing a painful injury. He was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

It is said that the defense of Harry Shailor, who is to be tried in Camden in May for the murder of his father in Gloucester, in December last, will be insanity. Several of his acquaintances are said to be ready to show that he had acted strangely prior to the tragedy.

An odd defense was put up by Policeman John Spratt when called before Atlantic City's Mayor to answer the charge of intoxication. "I had leave of the chief to attend a wedding," he said, "and no restriction was made that I could not accept the hospitality of the bridegroom in the way of liquids." He was suspended for fifteen days.

William Farrell, ten years old, was found in his underclothing, shivering with the cold, at 2:15 o'clock yesterday morning in the doorway of Institute Hall, Paterson, by a trolleyman. The lad said he was looking for a policeman; that his father was fighting with the lad's mother. The patrol wagon was summoned and the boy, wrapped in a blanket, was taken to his home at 83 Cross street. When the police arrived there William Farrell Sr. disappeared through an alley down Cross street. Reserve Officer Cook caught Farrell at Dewey street.

William Whitefleet, thirty-three years old, of 121 Montgomery street, Paterson, concealed himself behind a tree in the vicinity of Twelfth avenue and East Eighteenth street, that city, Sunday evening. When Patrolman Stapleton started to investigate Whitefleet stepped out into the light, uttered some unprintable language and called the policeman a "rubber-neck." At the same time Whitefleet doffed his coat and made a pass at the officer. Whitefleet was overpowered and was hustled off to the nearest patrol box. He is now in the lock-up on a disorderly charge.

P. S. C. Men to Celebrate.

The conductors and motormen of the P. S. C., at their end of the line, will have a "smoker" and jollification at the Dunellen carbarns Thursday night. Superintendent George Luhr has planned for some excellent talent to entertain the men.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

There are many differences of opinion as to the strength of the Giants this year as compared with last season. Those who follow the game closely conceded that McGraw's aggregation is at least fifty per cent. stronger. Seymour has seen his best days and will not be missed, and the outfield as slated at present looks good to the fans.

George Wiltse, who is now with the Giants, must have been given the $1,000 increase he asked for, if what he said is true. He declared emphatically that he would not play this year for less than $4,000.

The Clinton Avenues are rapidly getting in shape for the season and the opening game in April. Ortleib, who will pitch for the team, is also rounding into form very fast.

Just as soon as the weather will permit the members of the Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenue teams will begin practice on Crescent Oval. It is understood that the Plainfield High School team will play its games there this season.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball squad is getting in some good work these days, and when the season opens the team will be as fine as a fiddle under Manager Listman's direction.

The eyes of the baseball fans will be directed toward the American League Park, New York, this season, where Manager Stallings will present practically a new team. On paper it looks very fine.

Many of the baseball enthusiasts are already beginning to weep tears over the fact that Mike Donlin may not play with the Giants this season, but in case he fails to appear the games will be played just the same and the team's chances will be just as bright for finishing near the top. Tenney will make as good a field captain as Donlin ever dared to be and he is as popular with the players.

With the present trolley schedule in force patrons of Crescent Oval will not experience the trouble of past years in reaching the ball grounds or getting away after a game, while the company is expected to put on extra cars when necessary.

The Brooklyn Nationals are conceded to be a strong factor in the pennant race this season. Jimmy Sebring is expected to do great things with the stick.

GOLF.

Southern resort golf tournaments are treading on one another's heels now and the sojourners are making ready for their home flittings as soon as the last holes are putted.

The North and South championship for women will be the fixture at Pinehurst. Miss Julia R. Mix of the Englewood Golf Club, won the title last year and put out Miss M. B. Adams, of Boston, in her progress to the final. Miss Adams was the 1907 winner, and others to lead the field were Mrs. Myra D. Paterson, Englewood Golf Club, in 1906 and Miss Mary Dutton, Boston. At Aiken the annual Southern Cross championship and minor cups will be in play at the Palmetto Golf Club course. It is the oldest tournament in the South, and H. C. Leeds, Marion R. Wright, who won twice, were early winners. Harold A. Sands of the Country Club of Westchester has been the winner since 1905.

The Texas championship is also on this week at the Galveston Golf and Country Club, which has an all the year round course, although the best golfing is in the winter and early spring months. The club championship of the Augusta Country Club is a fixture also of the week.

Paul E. Hunter, of Chicago, has won the amateur championship of southern California over the Annandale course for the second year. The championship for women will be at Los Angeles, April 7-10. It was won by Miss Anna Chapin last year, Mrs. Herbert Munn in 1907 and Miss Kate C. Hurley, now national titleholder, in 1906. Miss Isabella Smith, of Chicago, has been playing so well in the southern California tournaments that she is expected to win the title at Los Angeles.

Palm Beach players are golfing at a fast and furious speed to get all the fun possible on the closing days of the season. The southern Florida championship there was won by Walter Fairbanks of Denver, who with Paul H. Hunter, is a double year titleholder. Fairbanks—"Forty Holes Fairbanks" since the Onwentsia national championship of 1899—has passed the sixtieth milestone of his terrestrial journey. The committee might well send a special invitation to Fairbanks to play in the seniors' tournament at the Apawamis Club this fall.

Gives $1,000 to Y. M. C. A. Fund.

An unnamed member of the Summit Young Men's Christian Association visited the Association building in that city a few days since, and as he was about to take his departure handed to Secretary Marcley an envelope containing a check for $1,000 to be applied to the fund for the association's new building.

On and Off Chat About Fat.

The society reporter picked up the following gem at Madam Brewster's not twenty-four hours ago. One of her millionaire customers struggling into a new gown asked the famous costumer how she kept her figure in such superb shape. "You habitually eat and drink heartily and even thoughtlessly, not to say riotously at times," she complained, "whereas I live like a hermit. Yet I can't keep slim and, apparently, you can't get fat." "Guilty," replied the fashion czarina. "I admit I don't fatten up nor do I thin down, but it is because I have the power, my dear Mrs. —— (the name almost slipped out), to say to my fat 'Thus far and no farther.' I don't exercise nor diet nor run any danger of wrinkles or stomach trouble either. Here is the secret." She wrote a few words on a slip of paper and handed it to her questioner. "Get that filled at the druggist's," she concluded, "take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime and you will never get any fatter than you want to be. You can take off a pound a day with this receipt, if you want to."

Being fat herself and fully alive to the termendous value of these statements to fat folks everywhere, the society reporter committed an unpardonable social sin; she peeped over the lady's shoulder—and this is what she saw: For Excess Fat simpliest, safest, cheapest, most helpful receipt of any: One-half ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 3½ ounces Peppermint Water.

DOOMED UNLESS PARDONS COURT ACTS

Unless the Court of Pardons shall intervene it is probable that Archibald Herron, who killed Rev. Samuel B. D. Prickett, of Metuchen, last J[illegible] will go to his death in the electric chair next week. The Court of Errors and Appeals, by a unanimous vote of 12 to 0, yesterday, sustained the action of Judge Reilstab, which was affirmed by the Supreme Court, in refusing to direct an inquiry into Herron's sanity. Judge Reilstab was appealed to under the act of 1906, authorizing Common Pleas judges to investigate the alleged insanity of inmates of penal institutions.

Assistant Attorney-General Gaskill contended for the State that the act was not intended to be applicable to capital cases in which the insanity test differs from that in the case of an ordinary person. This view seems to have been sustained by the Court of Errors, although in the absence of an opinion it is not exactly known what were the grounds taken by the highest tribunal.

Herron is now in the death house at the State prison under a reprieve granted by Governor Fort, which will expire next Monday. The official promulgation of the Court of Errors decision will be followed by an executive order directing Head Keeper Osborne to proceed with the execution.

This will probably take place some time next week.

RENAME MILLIONAIRES AS ROAD OFFCIALS.

Morris Township's five millionaire overseers of public roads were reappointed last Saturday, and will again accept their positions. They are Joseph W. Ogden, Rudolph H. Kissel, James Curtiss, Joseph Whitman and Samuel Butterworth. The appointments, including all of the overseers for the township, were made by the committee, at a meeting held in the office of their counsel, John M. Mills.

These wealthy men set the pace for good road building in the township, and all the overseers follow, to the best of their ability. The appointees and their districts are as follows:

David Cronshey and John Nunn, Hanover avenue; Samuel Butterworth, Sussex avenue; William Bowen, Randolph Township line road; Lewis G. Arnold, G. N. Smith, Zenas H. Smith and Frank Gould, Washington Valley; Frank Studley, Phoenix Miller, Elias Pierson and George H. Loree, Jockey Hollow road; E. L. Foster and Royal Dickerson, Hillside avenue; George Mattox and Stephen Haines, Mountain road; Joseph W. Ogden and Joseph Whitman, Loantaka way; Marcus L. Force, Woodlawn avenue; Joseph Burke, Punch Bowl Hollow road; John Osborne, Collinsville; Rudulph H. Kissel and James Brant, Lake road; James Curtiss, Kahdena.

THREATENED WOMAN'S LIFE.

Theodore C. Sharp, a negro, was a prisoner in the Elizabeth police court yesterday on a charge of threatening the life of Mrs. Maria B. Lawson, a widow, who conducts a fashionable boarding-house at 334 Union avenue, Elizabeth.

The man was employed as a waiter in the place, and on Saturday night got drunk. Mrs. Lawson had him arrested. Sunday morning he was discharged with a reprimand. In the afternoon he went back to the boarding-house and demanded $3.75, which he claimed Mrs. Lawson owed him. She gave him seventy-five cents, and said he would be paid the balance yesterday. Then she alleged he threatened to kill her if she did not pay him at once. Policeman Richmond was called and locked up Sharp. Judge Mahon held him in $200 bail to await the grand jury's action.

Complained of Sunday Show.

New Brunswick, March 23.—Prosecutor George Berdine received in the mail yesterday a letter signed "Taxpayer," with an advertisement of a moving picture show announced to take place at South River every Sunday night in Yates Hall. The taxpayer wrote: "I expect you to see that the law is enforced." The prosecutor declared it was up to the borough authorities to act in the matter.

WHICH WILL WIN, THE BIG OR THE SMALL HAT?

The fight in millinery is between the large and the small hat. It is conceded by both sides that nothing eccentric is to be allowed, but certain milliners insist upon one size of hat and find arrayed against them another set who insist upon the large picture hat.

One French writer of leading authority says that the large hat is winning out among the best houses who are making spring millinery. "The hat that was thrown out of the back door by the fashionables now returns through the front door," is her way of phrasing the situation.

The hat that is advocated by the milliners who are fighting for small ones is cone-shaped and not very high. It is trimmed with a scarf of gauze or chiffon taffeta, and has a cluster of tiny oranges at the side. This is to be worn with a severe black veil, closely pinned at nape of neck and top of hat.

Those who are going in for large hats advocate a flat sailor almost in second empire shape, with immense osprey or curled feathers.

It is especially significant that neither of them advocates the eccentric turban in any of its shapes.

ASK CITY CO-OPERATION FOR CLEANING THE BROOK.

The Common Council at its adjourned meeting last night received a communication from the Plainfield Board of Health, asking for co-operation in making Green brook sanitary and attractive instead of an eye-sore as at present. The communication explained that a conference with the North Plainfield Board of Health had been held and it was decided to ask both the Plainfield and North Plainfield Councils to take the matter up with a view to making the desired improvements. It was also suggested that a suitable committee be appointed by the city body for this purpose.

It is the plan of the boards of health to have the brook cleaned, straightened and walled on both sides, if possible, and if the governing bodies of the two municipalities agree this will be done during the coming year.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield Road Overseer Edward Walters has been ordered by Council to cut down the new line of poles of the Public Service Corporation on Grove street and Rahway road if the poles are not taken down by the company before April 1. Council made no objection when the poles were erected, but shortly after they were up and the wires strung ordered the company to take them down, as no permission had been secured for their erection. The company has made no reply to the order. Several weeks ago Council ordered the company not to place any more of its wires on poles carrying telephone wires. As the Public Service Corporation owns many of the poles on which the telephone wires are strung this order has been but partially obeyed.

Kicked by a Horse.

Charles Myers, a clerk at the grocery of J. A. Smith & Brother, was kicked by a horse yesterday afternoon just as he was driving in the firm's barn on Central avenue. A part of the harness broke. This frightened the horse and he raised one foot high enough to give Mr. Myers a glancing blow on the side of his left leg. The injury, while not a serious one, will keep Mr. Myers at home a few days.

"Ladies' Night" at Trinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter David will furnish the entertainment for the "ladies' night" meeting of the Dutch Arms of Trinity Reformed church on Friday night, April 16. Mrs. David is a harpist and Mr. David is a humorist. Both are very talented. The affair will be held in the main auditorium.

SUGGEST DOG LICENSES

Kennel Club Makes Recommendations for Provisions of Proposed Ordinance.

TO CHANGE PRESENT TAX.

Leather Muzzles, Instead of Iron Contrivances, Urged by the Local Canine Fanciers.

As a result of the conference of members of the Plainfield Kennel club and the Councilmanic laws and ordinance committee, Monday night, valuable suggestions were offered and doubtless will be incorporated in the proposed new dog ordinance. The club, with a membership of 135, has as its principal objects to secure local legislation that will tend to protect valuable dogs.

Members of the club believed that some of the provisions of the proposed ordinance were too drastic and having gathered data on the subject were invited to attend a conference and make suggestions. As now drafted it will have the hearty support of the club and undoubtedly all lovers of dogs.

One of the provisions that has caused some discussion is that of license fee to be imposed. In most cities it is $1, but the committee suggested making it considerably more. It was finally decided to let that matter rest for the present and later a fee that will be satisfactory to all concerned will be determined upon.

Another feature discussed was that relative to muzzling dogs. It was stated by the dog fanciers that muzzles of any kind were only an irritation and the best of them were inadequate. However, it was agreed that the old fashioned leather muzzle was the best. It was explained that inasmuch as a dog does not perspire through its skin, but solely through its mouth, it is quite necessary that the dog should not be seriously interfered with in this respect. The committee agreed with the representatives of the club on this point and it is believed that the ordinance will not be made too severe in this particular.

The club has the interest of all dog owners at heart, and not only those of the organization as some people believe. It has been suggested that some arrangement be made to issue a license covering all kennels where there are five or more dogs and this may be done. The club is getting ready to hold its first annual bench show here and it promises to be one of the best in this part of the country. It is hoped that in this way a more general interest may be aroused in behalf of better protection for dogs and will encourage the raising of thoroughbred stock.

EDWARD KIELY ARRESTED.

Henry Voehl, Jr., Has Him Brought Before Recorder.

On the complaint of Henry Voehl, Jr., Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough, arrested Edward Kiely, of that place, this morning, charging him with the theft of some harness from Voehl's barn two weeks ago. Mr. Voehl claimed that when returned the harness was cut in pieces. It was also alleged that a wagon had been borrowed nocturnally. The prisoner admitted taking the things but said that it was according to an understanding.

Recorder Dolliver said the man had no right to take the things without permission and advised Mr. Voehl to secure a warrant from a justice of the peace for Kiely's arrest if he did not settle.

Parcel Shower for Bride-to-Be.

An ante-nuptial parcel shower was tendered to Miss Bessie Bond, of East Front street, at her home yesterday afternoon, when about fifty of her friends from the Pastor's Aid Society and the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church gathered at her home. The presents included cut glass, china, linen and pictures. The affair was a complete surprise.

For State Executive Mansion.

In a special message to the Senate and House of Assembly today at Trenton Governor Fort made an earnest plea that the State House Commission be authorized to inquire into the feasibility of securing a residence in the city of Trenton for the Governor of the State, and that the Commission to report at some future Legislature.

Turned Over to Juvenile Court.

Howard Scott, the twelve-year-old son of Mrs. Sarah Scott, colored, of East Second street, was remanded for the Juvenile Court at Elizabeth by City Judge Runyon at the session of court today. The boy has been causing lots of trouble for Miss Adelaide Ball, the truancy officer of the city schools, and is declared to be incorrigible.

ORCHESTRA AND SOLOIST PLEASE Y.M.C.A. AUDIENCE

Y. M. C. A. orchestra was greeted by a full house last night at the association auditorium. It was the thirty-second concert given by the organization, and besides the instrumental program, vocal solos were rendered by Miss Edna Mae Stoecker, of the P. E. church of St. John the Evangelist, New York.

Miss Stoecker is a soprano singer, remarkably sweet voiced and gains the popularity of the audience from the beginning.

Her "Song of the Nightingale" was especially good, and her encore response was: "If None Ever Marries Me."

The orchestra invariably received spontaneous applause and was obliged to render a number of extra selections.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS AT CRANFORD WIN BY 41 TO 8 SCORE.

The girls of the North Plainfield High School went to Cranford yesterday and defeated the girls team of that place by a score of 41 to 8. The game was one-sided as the score will indicate, but the playing was clean. Bessie Conroy of the N. P. H. S. team led in the scoring with 20 points.

The line-up: N. P. H. S.: Marjorie Cooley and Ida Englehardt, guards; Henrietta Winn, center; Bessie Conroy and Anna Daley, forwards. Cranford H. S.: K. Cooper and K. Warner, forwards; G. Miller, center; D. Day and E. Wood, guards. Field goals: B. Conroy 9, K. Cooper 4, M. Cooley 4, H. Winn 2, A Daley 3; I. Englehardt 1; foul goals: B. Conroy 2, A. Doley 1. Referee, Miss Trembath.

TO PRESENT PYTHIAN ALTAR TO LODGES.

Delegations from Unity and Perseverance Lodges, Knights of Pythias, will attend the presentation of the Pythian charity altar to the Elizabeth lodges at a meeting of Volunteer Lodge to be held Friday night in Masonic Hall, Elizabeth. The gathering of Pythians will be a notable one and prominent members from various lodges throughout the State will make addresses.

The object of the presentation of the altar is to raise funds for the State home for the aged and indigent members of the various lodges.

Many Protests Against Bills.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has presented to the Senate protests against the passage of Assembly bills Nos. 179 and 180, by Mr. McKeag; from the board of education of Cranford, Linden, Roselle, Springfield, Scotch Plains and other places. The bills if passed would terminate the terms of all county superintendents of schools and take the appointing power from the State Board of Education and place it in the Governor's hands. Senator Ackerman has also received protests against the passage of Senate bill No. 231 as being unfair to the practice of osteopathy.

Fined $1 for Fibbing.

Borough Recorder Dolliver fined George Hartfelder, aged fifteen years, $1 last night, because he fibbed about his name and then ran away from the police when he was arrested at the Park Golf grounds on Sunday. Percy Simmonds, ten years and Thomas, Joseph and Paul Carey, aged fifteen, thirteen and eight years respectively, companions of the white boy, were given suspended sentences. The boys did considerable damage about the golf club grounds and house and were arrested by Special Marshal Eric Sohl.

George Lucy Was Drunk.

George Lucy, who lives on Prescott place, was arrested last night for drunkenness and reelased with suspended sentence at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today. Lucy said he had only been in Plainfield about a week. He said he had been told by a man in New York that Plainfield was an easy place to get work, so he came here. The strange part of it all is that he did get a steady job. The Judge continued his streak of luck by suspending sentence.

Randolph Shows Up Well.

Clifford Randolph, who is now with the Newark Eastern League club, appeared in the lime-light of a big game yesterday for the first time and won many honors as a twirler. He shared with Mueller in the box work for Newark in the contest with the New York Americans at Macon and not only fanned five men in six innings, but only allowed three hits.

Clothesline Fight in Court.

Mrs. Maggie Waller, colored, was summoned to the borough police court last night charged with disorderly conduct on complaint of Mrs. Rosie Juliano, a daughter of Italy, who feared Mrs. Waller would attack her. Her action was the outcome of a quarrel and the woman was given a suspended sentence.

TWO BIBLE CLASSES HAVE A SOCIAL TIME

Under the auspices of the young men's Bible classes of Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry and Mrs. William Clark and the young women's Bible class of Mrs. S. A. Krom a delightful entertainment and social was given at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, to the Sunday-school and their friends. The whole affair was arranged by the members of these classes and was a great success. The attendance was large.

During the evening there were two sketches, one being "A Lesson in Obstancy," and the other "An Interrupted Proposal." Both were exceedingly amusing and kept the audience in continual laughter from beginning to end. Those taking part in the sketches were Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Eleanor Stutsman, Miss Mae Whitney, Miss Sarah Boyd, Martin Stutsman, Augustus Nash and Charles Hillyer. Another amusing feature of the program was "A Musical Romance," given by Miss Mamie Clark, Miss Arleen Brown and Miss Marjorie Brown. They played various selections on the piano descriptive of courtship, marriage and bridal tour of a young couple. The selections included "Soldiers' Farewell," "Dixie," "Merry Widow Waltz," and "America," the last named one indicating the future home of the couple. The interesting part of this feature was that those in the audience were expected to guess the titles of the musical numbers. Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry had charge of this portion of the program. After the entertainment, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

ARCHER GIBSON GAVE A PLEASING RECITAL

Archer Gibson, organist of the Brick Presbyterian church, of New York city, gave a delightful organ recital at the Crescent Avenue church last night, when he was assisted by Frank Croxton, basso of the New York church. The affair was the first public recital with the new church organ, the previous recitals having been primarily for the church people.

The organ numbers of last night's program were especially suited to the instrument, and Mr. Gibson's playing won the keenest appreciation. Mr. Croxton sang three times, rendering the aria from Handel's "Julius Caesar," "The Two Grenadiers," by Schumann, and Haydn's aria from "The Creation." He was in fine voice, both his full tones and his wide range winning the heartiest appreciation.

At the organ, Mr. Gibson delighted by his successful use of the various stops which produced a rare tone effect in several of the selections. The various numbers on the program were transcriptions for the modern organ by Mr. Gibson. The program follows:

Handel, from Organ Concertos, (a) Larghetto, (b) Allegro ma non troppo, (c) Siciliano, (d) Minuetto; Handel, Aria from "Julius Caesar;" Dubois, Cantilene Nuptiale; Bizet, Intermezzo (Suite "L'Arlesienne"); Mascagni, Prelude and Siciliano; Schumann, "The Two Grenadiers;" Soederman, Swedish Wedding March; Puccini—Gibson, Rhapsody on "La Boheme;" Haydn, Aria from "The Creation;" Gibson, (a) Elegy, Spring Song (by request), (d) Improvisation; Wagner, (a) Prelude, (b) Good Friday, "Parsifal, (c) Liebestod ("Tristan"), (d) Evening Star ("Tannhauser"); Rossini, Overture "William Tell."

Carriages at Bargain Prices.

Here's an opportunity. Look at L. M. French's advertisement of carriages, buggies, surreys, traps and runabouts. Go and see them while they are all there. High class goods going at closing out prices are not offered often. All are stylish, up-to-the-minute designs. Mr. French is continuing his business at the same stand — Somerset street — but in other lines. He is disposing of these carriages quickly to make room.

CHILD'S BURNS FATAL

Death Relieves Three-Year-Old Victoria Nizio, of Scotch Plains, of Her Agony.

SHE INHALED THE FLAMES.

Mother's Heroic Efforts to Save Child's Life by Pumping Water On Her Were of No Avail.

Victoria De Nizio, the year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary De Nizio, of Scotch Plains, died last night as the result of burns received when a red-hot coal from the kitchen stove set fire to her dress yesterday. County Physician Westcott, who attended the child, said that death was caused by inhalation of flames, which completely enveloped the little girl as she ran screaming from the house. The efforts of the mother, who seized the blazing child and carried her to a near-by pump where she extinguished the flames by pumping water on her, were of no avail, for the little one was horribly burned about the limbs.

The little girl, who was an only child, is the daughter of Felix De Nizio, who was killed at Hetfield & Weldon's stone crusher at Scotch Plains about two months ago. She was helping her mother yesterday and was in the kitchen shaking the fire in the stove, when a red-hot coal dropped out on the floor. The child did not notice her danger until her dress burst into flames. Crazed with fright, she dashed screaming out into the back yard. Her mother saw her, enveloped from head to foot in flames, which were fanned by the high wind, and rushed to her assistance, seized the girl and carrying her to the pump, which stood nearby, she held her under the spout and pumped water on her until the flames were extinguished.

Although the child's limbs were terribly burned, her condition was not considered serious at first. Dr. Westcott was summoned and dressed the burns, but his fears that the little girl had inhaled the flame proved true, and she died last night. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the church at Stony Hill. Burial will be in the Stony Hill cemetery.

JOHN HARDING DIES AT FIREMEN'S HOME

John Harding, aged seventy-six years, one of the best known residents of Plainfield, having lived here more than sixty-five years, died at 11 o'clock last night in the State Firemen's Home at Boonton, where he had been for the yast four years. Mr. Harding was born in Ireland and came to this country when a young man locating in Plainfield soon afterward.

Mr. Harding was married twice, first to Miss Margaret Crowley, of this city, when he was eighteen years of age. His second marriage was to Miss Farley twenty years ago. He was employed as an assistant at the freight house for nearly forty years. He was a faithful member of the T. A. B. Society and served as its president for two years. He was a member of the old volunteer fire department during its existence here and later became identified with the Exempt Firemen's Association, always retaining his interest in fire matters.

By his first marriage there are three sons, John Harding, of Chicago; William and Edward J. Harding, of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Henry Mitchell, of Los Angeles, and by the second marriage there are two sons, Fred and Robert Harding and two daughters, Mrs Hand and Mrs. Snyder, of this city.

Announcement of funeral will be made later.

Cook Case Adjourned.

The trial of Harold Cook on a serious charge which was on in the Court of Quarter Sessions, Elizabeth, yesterday, was adjourned in the afternoon until tomorrow, when the defense will be continued. Miss Smith, the complainant, was on the stand for two hours and when she completed her testimony she collapsed from the nervous strain and was attended by a physician for an hour afterward.

Get Your Tickets Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be the last day of sale of tickets for "The Chorus Lady," for Monday night, whereby the City Union, of King's Daughters, will benefit. For that reason those wishing to help this charity should purchase their tickets not later than tomorrow.

MUSICALE AND SALE FOR CHURCH BLDG. FUND

The musicale and sale held at the home of Mrs. John V. Beekman on West Eighth street, yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Women's Association and the Girls' club of the Congregational church, for the church enlargement fund, was a great success. There was a large attendance of members and friends and the affair will net about $125.

The musical program was a delight to all. There were two groups of songs by Miss Edith Mooney, of Westfield, and she was obliged to respond to an encore. Miss Beth Martin and Miss Martine Weeks gave charming piano selections and Miss Jessie Haynes, contralto, pleased all with her singing. She was accompanied by Miss Alice Morgan.

Mrs. John V. Breekman was chairman of the affair. Those who presided at the tea table and poured were Mrs. Philip Suffern, Mrs. F. A. Weeks, Mrs. J. A. Rawson and Miss Florella Clark, assisted by Miss Ida Dealman, president of the Girls' club, the members of which also assisted in serving and at the tables.

Those at the fancy table were Mrs. Eugene M. Laing, Mrs. Gilbert T. Roades and Mrs. George Fisher, while those at the cake table were Miss Jessie McIntosh, Mrs. J. R. Martin, Mrs. H. V. Hubbard. A fortune-telling booth was in charge of Mrs. Percy VanAlstyne, who told the past, present and future of all who ventured within. A candy and fancy articles' table was in charge of the Misses Ida Dealman, Emmons and Lillian Whitall.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH WOMEN ELECT

The three women's societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church, the home and foreign mission and the Ladies' Aid, held an all-day meeting at the church yesterday at the same time the annual meeting of the societies was held in the afternoon. The morning was devoted to sewing and at noon luncheon was served by women from the various societies. There was a large attendance and considerable interest was shown in the work of the organizations.

Following the luncheon, the home missionary society convened. The present membership is about forty-five and the report of the treasurer showed that about $180 was raised during the past year for home mission work. These officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Charles F. Dayton; vice-president, Mrs. E. Frank Vail; secretary, Mrs. J. S. Pray, treasurer, Mrs. Frank Lyons.

Then followed the annual meeting of the foreign missionary society, the membership of which is about forty-five. The sum of $130 was raised during the year for its work. These officers were chosen for the year:

President, Mrs. A. F. Finn; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Tennant, secretary, Mrs. S. A. Krom; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Doane.

The Ladies' Aid Society then met, but the election of officers was postponed to another time. Mrs. H. H. Moore was appointed chairman of the work committee. This society raised about $130 during the year and the present membership is about forty. The whole day was one of profit and encouragement to the women and all the reports showed considerables progress.

DOG-CATCHER PICKS UP A DRUNK ON PARK AVENUE.

George Moncton, who is wanted by the borough police for deserting his wife, was helped to a city police court cell yesterday afternoon by Special Officer Keiderling, the dog-catcher. Keiderling was out with his wagon, looking around for stray dogs, when he spied Moncton, "down and out" on Park avenue. He and his helper hastily jumped from the wagon with their pets and caught the man.

At the session of court today, Judge Runyon turned him over to the borough police, suspending sentence. He was transferred to a borough cell this morning and will be given a hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryno Surprised.

Mr. and Mrs. Corra Ryno, of Codington avenue, were given a complete surprise party at their home last night, by a number of their friends, who dropped in at 8:30 o'clock to spend the evening. The time was passed in playing progressive pinochle and this afforded lots of fun for everyone. Refreshments were served at midnight, when the guests departed leaving their best wishes with Mr. and Mrs. Ryno.

FAVOR I. P. RUNYON FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

North Plainfield's Republican leaders have sent to State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen a petition in favor of Isaac P. Runyon, of the borough, for the proposed district court judgeship in Somerset county. The bill, introduced by the Somerset Senator, creating such an office, will come before the Legislature this week for action. There is no known opposition to it.

The friends of former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, the borough's leader, are solid for Runyon and their petition urges Frelinghuysen to recommend him to Governor Fort for appointment provided the bill becomes a law.

The Somerville contigent favors Frederick E. Pope, of Bridgewater township, but there is a general feeling through the county that the plum should go to North Plainfield.

ANDREW M'CLEAN PARKER DESCRIBES BRIDGE.

Andrew McClean Parker, of this city, addressed the boys of the mathematic division of the senior and junior classes of the P. H. S., this morning on "Bridge Construction." Mr. Parker, a graduate of P. H. S., is one of the leading engineers of the country and is now connected with the construction of the new Mahattan bridge, New York. He was also employed as an engineer on the Panama Canal work. He related many interesting facts about New York's new bridge which will be completed next September.

MEDALS FOR N. P. H. S. BOYS AS BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS.

The members of the N. P. H. S. basketball team which won the interscholastic league championship, were presented with medals this morning by Superintendent Henry C. Krebs. The medals are of gold, inscribed on one side, "Interscholastic Championship," and on the other the name of the winning team with the date, 1908-1909.

The team comprises Fred Becker, Herbert Sline, Clarence Steiner, Alan Overton, Tone Overton and Russell Conroy, captain.

FIRE IN TRAVELL CELLAR STARTED BY CHILDREN.

A fire starting in the basement of Ira W. Travell's residence on Third place at 1:45 this afternoon was subdued by hand extinguishers before the fire department, responding to a still alarm, arrived.

Children playing in a box of excelsior with matches was said to be the origin of the blaze.

Creatore a Genius.

Signor Giuseppe Creatore, who comes to the New Plainfield theatre with his band on Friday night, is unquestionably the most startling and interesting personality before the musical world today. His concerts have proven a revelation to all classes and Creatore is the most successful of the musical leaders both from a financial and artistic standpoint.

Jacob Keller Buried.

Funeral services for Jacob Keller, who died Sunday, were held from the residence of his son, Charles Keller, on Harrison avenue, this afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Charles H. Schneegras, of the German Reformed church, officiated. A large number of friends and relatives were in attendance. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

No Quorum Present.

Because there was no quorum present, at the meeting of finance committee of the Plainfield Tuberculosis Society, held last night at the parish house of Grace church, no business was transacted. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, president of the society, adjourned the meeting until next Tuesday night.

No Session of District Court.

There was no session of the District court today as expected, Judge Newcorn having returned to the original day for holding court, beginning next week. There will be no session tomorrow morning as Judge Newcorn has a case in chancery which will take him from the city.

DISAPPEARED FROM HOME

Miss Donna Campbell's Absence Explained by Her Dislike for School Life.

AT UNCLE'S IN NEW YORK.

Without Telling Her Mother She Went on a Visiting Trip and Parent Became Alarmed.

Donna Campbell, the fifteen-year old daughter of Mrs. Louise A. Campbell, of 249 East Front street, who disappeared from her home Monday morning, was located last night in New York city, where she was visiting her cousin, Miss Hilda Lynch. The girl's trip was a truancy prank, and Miss Campbell spent Monday at the homes of two girl friends in Elizabeth before going to her uncle's home. She is a member of the freshman class at the Plainfield High School, and has frequently complained to her mother about the irksomeness of the school life.

The girl left home Monday morning with her school books, and her mother supposed that she was going to school. She met a girl friend and told her that she was going visiting in Elizabeth. Still carrying her school books, Miss Campbell took a train for Elizabeth and lunched with a friend there. In the afternoon she left this girl's home and went to the home of another friend on South Broad street, where she took supper. In the evening she took a train for New York, saying that she was going to visit her cousin, Hilda Lynch. Mrs. Campbell says that her daughter has not seen Miss Lynch for more than five years, and the girls are practically strangers. To the Lynch's home Miss Campbell went, nevertheless, and spent the night and all of yesterday.

Mrs. Campbell, the mother, went to New York Monday, and did not learn of her daughter's disappearance until late in the evening, when she returned home. She reported her daughter's absence from home to Chief Kiely, and he notified the police of Newark, Elizabeth and New York city to be on the look-out for the girl. Yesterday a letter came from New York in reply to a telegram sent to Mr. Lynch by Mrs. Campbell. Mr. Lynch wrote that Donna Campbell was at his home, and wanted to know what was the matter, for he was at a loss to explain her appearance there Monday night and her visit with the cousin whom she had not seen in so long.

"My daughter will be home today," said Mrs. Campbell, in speaking to a Daily Press representative about the girl's disappearance today. "The whole affair is simply a school-girl's prank, for Donna got tired of school and went off on this little visiting tour. I think that she was afraid that I would not let her go, so she just started off without telling me."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE PLANS FOR A SUMMER GARDEN.

Harry S. Sanderson, who is associated with F.F. Proctor, at Proctor's theatre, has decided upon elaborate plans for the coming season which will make the playhouse more popular than ever. When the theatre was opened on November 30 last, it was the original intention to eventually produce high-class plays, although the plans decided upon then were temporarily for a moving picture entertainment exclusively.

Since the opening Messrs. Proctor and Sanderson have become convinced they say that the people of Plainfield and vicininty like the present form of entertainment and have decided to continue it indefinitely. The playhouse will remain open throughout the summer season and improvements will be introduced which will make it a cool and comfortable place during the hot weather. The vacant strip of land adjoining the theatre on the southwest will be transformed into an attractive summer garden through the use of flowers and shrubbery. Seats and small tables will be provided for the serving of ice cream and temperance drinks for those who desire refreshments.

Mrs. Thomas Hyland.

The funeral services of Mrs Thomas Hyland, formerly of this city, who died at Somerville, Monday, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Somerville. She had been ill about a year with dropsy and was a great sufferer. Her husband was the proprietor of the Elmwood Dairy on Rahway road for about twenty years.

Will Build a Bungalow.

Tax Collector Fred A. Martin, of the borough, has plans for a six-room bungalow, two stories, on Johnston Drive, just east of the Herring cottage. The work will be started at once.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Preparations are well under way for the fair to be held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church Friday and Saturday nights. The program for the first night will consist of recitations and a farce comedy in one act, entitled, "The Dentist's Clerk; or, Pulling Teeth by Steam." An orchestra will furnish the music. There will be ice cream and other good things for sale. On Saturday night supper will be served between 6 and 9 o'clock.

One week from today the conference of the Methodist church will be held at Newark. Among the many changes in pastorates will be that of the borough. The many friends of Rev. E. C. Dutcher will regret to see him leave.

W. F. McGorgan, of New York, was inspecting residential property here yesterday with a view to purchasing.

John S. Dorner, of Asbury Park, spent several hours among old acquaintances in the borough yesterday.

Rev. W. W. Giddes will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church at Bound Brook Sunday.

The sale at the Elliott farm Monday was well attended.

Mrs. E. C. Dutcher visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Recorder Campbell is still wrestling with that cold.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Over-Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Verhoff, in Clinton street, South Bound Brook, were Mrs. Anna Vanderbeek, of Somerville; Miss Claudia Wheeler, of Cranford; Mrs. Benjamin Stein and Mrs. Harry Kennedy and sons, William and Eugene Kennedy.

The funeral of Jacob Van Duyne, one of the best known colored men in this vicinity, was held at his late home in South Bound Brook Monday afternoon. Interment was made in the Bound Brook cemetery.

Mrs. Stephen G. Staats, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, is spending several days at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Wiggins, in Craig place, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Amzi Stoor and children, of Belle Mead, were guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Storr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Koehler, at Elizabeth and High streets, South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parry, of Somerville, were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. Parry's mother, Mrs. Edward Long, in Prospect street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Kinsey Mathews, of Cedar street, and Mrs. John Mathews, of Main and Cedar streets, South Bound Brook, spent yesterday with relatives in Newark.

Miss Minnie Bowlby and Miss Catherine Slattery, of Bound Brook, were lately guests at the home of Miss Mary C. Brutcher, in Gaston avenue, Raritan.

Mrs. Margaret Giles, of New York, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Somers, in Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winberg, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lumis, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cavalear, of Clinton street, South Bound Brook, were over-Sunday guests of relatives in Plainfield.

Miss Margaret Power, of Franklin street, South Bound Brook, was lately a guest at the home of Miss Edith Davison, in Elizabeth.

Mrs. William Scudder, of Washington street, South Bound Brook, is spending several days with friends at Northport.

Miss Wiggins, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, spent Sunday with friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. Henry Dougherty is seriously ill at her home, in Warren street, South Bound Brook.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Charles Meyer, of Prospect avenue, who is employed as a clerk by J. A. Smith and Bro., of Plainfield, was kicked on the ankle by a horse he was driving to the delivery wagon Monday afternoon. Meyer was able to get home and did not think the injury amounted to much. Monday night the limb started to swell. Yesterday he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment. It is thought that a small bone in the ankle is fractured. If so it will be several weeks before he will be able to be around again.

Manager George Frentz, of last year's ball team, is fast getting a representative team together and is already booking games with some of the fastest teams in this section of the State. No series has as yet been arranged with the Clinton Avenue team, but Manager Dorflinger will no doubt be heard from in the near future, as the rivalry between the two teams is just as strong as ever.

Miss McGowan, of the corps of teachers, has been detained at home for several days suffering from a severe cold. Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Jr., is acting as substitute teacher during her absence.

The farewell reception to Rev. W. W. Dieterick, pastor of the Methodist church, will be held tonight in the church. The friends of the church are invited to attend the reception.

The condition of Victoria, the little 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. William De Nitzo, who was burned Monday while helping her mother about the house, still remains serious.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra concert given last night in the Association Hall, Plainfield, was enjoyed by a number from here.

Thomas Sellers has resigned his position with the Rushmore Dynamo Company, of Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A smoker will be held tonight in the fire-house by the Middlesex Baseball Club, during which plans are to be made for the coming season. Connors, formerly of the West Ends, of Somerville, will be seen behind the bat, while Phil Smith, of last year's Bound Brook club, will pitch. The team will certainly be the best the club has ever turned out.

The South Plainfield Juniors will still be there. They open a strenous season at New Market on April 9 and ends on August 15. With a few exceptions the line up will be the same as last year. The team will be managed by Edward Teeple.

George Anderson has returned to his home in Brooklyn after a visit with friends here.

TODAY THE NEW MILLINERY TAKES PROMINENCE IN A BEAUTIFUL OPENING EXHIBIT

OF all the Opening Exhibits of a new season's fashions the first display of the new Millinery takes precedence in feminine interest. No one knows better than fair woman herself that the hat is her crowning glory and she is anxious to see what newness in shapes, trimmings and colors have been evolved.

Ready to show you tomorrow!

Our Millinery Department has entered the realm of Spring. It is in full bloom with new hats—and they are the most gracious, most charming, most becoming and bewitching hats that it has ever been our privilege to show or yours to look upon.

SIZES: Large, small and "in-between." SHAPES: Varied past description, yet all becoming. MATERIALS: Straws, some of large coarse braid, others of fine soft weave. TRIMMINGS: Flowers in profusion and of every kind, foliage, feathers, ribbons and ornaments of jet, cut beads, etc.

Those are hints, but a poet and painter with a page of space couldn't depict the almost fragant beauty and spring-like charm of these hats. Your eyes will tell you all tomorrow. Welcome!

The New Spring Wash Goods Alluringly Invite You Here

The showing is now in the full charm of completeness — come and see it while it presents such strong attraction. It will help you materially in planning all sorts of pretty frocks, dresses, gowns, waists, etc. What Fashion had designed is here—superior in quality—unrivaled in variety.

Never did we ever present so complete a showing—nor quote more reasonable prices. Splendid value is not all—there's superb quality—superior colorings and designs. Each of the looms are turning out daintier, more charming, prettier wash fabrics and this season's best are here. Sheer fabrics, plain and fancy patterned goods and others that obtain rare effects from delicate and beautiful fast colorings.

Whatever your preference you are most certain to find exactly what you want here.

Buying, so largely we are enabled to offer you

Exceptionally attractive values

Supreme Style Display of Ladies' Garments

Most Charming Models in Richly Tailored Suits, Jackets, Waists, Skirts, etc.

Here's a fact clear to the most casual observer—our stocks this season present style, attractions and good values equalled in no other store. Spring is inviting the adoption of new wearables and Fashion has this year excelled the best of previous offerings. All that is new here in alluring, bewitching, captivating display. All new styles—and all grades to choose from.

Completeness marks the showing—scarcely an approved style missing. Garments distinguished by the latest, daintiest fancies of Fashion, the fabrics are of widest variety, the colorings are many and charming, tailoring shows its superiority in every graceful line and curve, fold and drape. Prices do not strain the purse of the prudent, choice is wide and Values Are Wonderful at Every Price.

Superb Assortments of the Fashionable New Dress Goods

Here, are the newest and the best of the new cloths in all the favored shades of the season—and a wide range of novelty effects.

There are many new weaves this season—and many of the staple goods that are in popular demand.

Choose from Serges, Diagonal Suitings, the soft, satin Prunella, Chevron, Suitings, Batiste, Broadcloth—to continue the list would be like reading a catalogue.

The most favored colorings are rose, wisteria, garnet, taupe, sage, cadet, brown, grey, navy, myrtle—and black, of course.

It will pay you to make an early selection, thus getting the cream of the collection.

You'll find the prices modestly moderate at this store.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Vineland Daughters of Liberty celebrated their fifteenth anniversary Monday evening with a literary program and banquet.

Mrs. Anna W. Bullock, widow of Anthony Bullock, was found dead in bed at her home at Chesterfield yesterday, aged sixty five.

In search of better health, Judge Joline, of Camden, is on his way to California, where he expects to remain about five weeks, through the advice of his physician.

Through a resolution the Camden Board of Health Monday afternoon decided to arrest all milk dealers who fail to take out a license by April 1. The license fee is $1. The fine for neglecting to take out a license is $20.

Claiming it would put the glass factories out of business, a Millville mass-meeting of glassblowers adopted a resolution to protest against the factory bill pending in the Legislature, to raise the age limit of child labor.

The three year-old child of Anthony Cutler, of Vineland, had one arm crushed in a gate Monday, on which companions were swinging. The four-year-old son of A. R. Dodge fell while at play and fractured the right jawbone.

Five chairs found in the possession of Edward Parker, colored, by the Camden police, were identified Monday by Rev. M. B. Headley as having been stolen from the African Union M. P. church, and Parker was sent to jail for three months in police court.

It is semi officially reported at Vineland that the West Jersey Railroad will extend the third rail this coming summer from Newfield Junction to Millville. The opposition which was rampant here two years ago has all died out, and now the people want the improvement.

Following a demand from Atlantic City officials for free municipal telephone service from the Bell Telephone Company, whose charter does not compel it to obey, every Bell telephone has been ordered removed from city offices by members of the Property Board of City Council.

Atlantic City's Common Council last night passed finally the ordinance creating a $2,500 job for a fire commissioner, who will be Czar of the paid department. Filling of the office will probably cause a bitter fight between backers of John J. Mahoney, slated for the job for services in the Third Ward fight which helped to elect Mayor Stoy last fall, and of former Fire Commissioner Louis Donnelly, who organized the present crack department.

Jersey City Lodge, No. 211, B. P. O. Elks, last night, unanimously elected these officers: Exalted ruler, William J. O'Brien; esteemed leading knight, Frank A. Jaeger; esteemed loyal knight, Charles A. Denecke; esteemed lecturing knight, John J. Kelly; secretary, Robert McDonald; treasurer, James F. O'Malia; tyler, Bartley Coyle; trustee for three years, Enoch J. Smith; representative to the grand lodge, E. J. Wessels; alternate, William Cunningham.

Tuckahoe having been favored by the opening of a new highway through it to the sea, in order to keep it abreast of the times, a local company has secured a charter for a town lighting plant, under the name of Tuckahoe Light and Fuel Company, Captain C. S. Hand, president; H. W. Gandy, vice-president; Captain M. Hess, treasurer. The generator house is a two-story concrete block building. The company will have a formal opening and exhibition of the light on Saturday night.

The Federal Government having tried in vain for the past five years to purchase and get a clear title to an acre tract of land at the North Point of Tucker's Beach, has begun condemnation proceedings in the United States District Court at Trenton. The land lies where the waters of Great Bay and Little Egg Harbor enter the ocean. It is the purpose of the government to build a lifeboat house and place an entrance beacon here for the convenience of coastwise trade, this being the largest and deepest inlet on all the Jersey coast, and the anchorage for small vessels between Sandy Hook and the Delaware Breakwater.

WESTFIELD.

The case of Augustus Laurent against Policeman Martin Canfield was tried before Justice of the Peace Collins Monday afternoon. The suit was brought to recover the cost of painting Canfield's house. Judgment was for the plaintiff.

Two cannons donated by the Navy Department to the Westfield Park Commission are to be shipped to town so that they can be properly installed by the Fourth of July.

Several buildings are to be started this week on the Graceland tract near Westfield.

H. C. McVoy has sold a house in St. Mark's avenue to W. H. Weldon, of Rahway.

George Simons wishes to deny the statement that he and E. S. Bird engaged in a bicycle race last Saturday for money. There was no money consideration whatever. Simons is now in training for a challenged race to be run off within a few weeks.

BOWLING.

The Armright bowling team disposed of the Raritan pin knights with little trouble at Campbell's alleys last night.

The locals were out for high score and took all three games by large margns, reaching a team total of 950 in the second game. W. Schaub, of the visiting team had the distinction of rolling high and low individual score, tallying 234 in the second game and 122 in the third.

Britton was high for the home team with 229. The scores:

A Princely Array of Outergarments for Women

Costumes, Coats, Suits, Skirts

We cannot recall the time when there has been so great a variety in ideas of beauty and novelty and richness, yet practical worth and such fine styles as we are now showing, the maker and we have planned and studied and experimented with the result that we have developed a wealth of artistic ideas in women's wearing apparel. Tomorrow's offerings are a direct appeal to your purse—an appeal you cannot afford to overlook.

25.00 Costumes, Dresses

Costumes suitable for any function—dresses that you will declare handsome and stylish, messaline silks or twill satins, fancy or plain taffetas or plain French serges, embroidered or otherwise trimmed with laces and nets, impossible to portray their beauty in words—lingerie far from the ordinary and mediocre, those that have an effect of richness and beauty that distinguishes them from other assortments, others from $15 and less and up to $150..... $25

25.00 New Tailored Suits

Equal to custom made at one-half the price—imported or domestic worsteds, satin cloths, striped prunellas, plain serges and fancy mixtures, colors and sizes in great variety, not one or two styles from which to select but many in women's, misses' or junior sizes, 2 and 3 piece models, black, navy and other blues, rose and its variations, corn, reseda, mulberry, copper, and other colors; best of Skinner satin or peau de cygne linings, pearl gray to match; others starting at $10.00 and up to $100.00..... $25

15.00 Splendid Spring Suits

These suits were bought to sell at $20.00. Materials, linings and workmanship are fine and you get a genuine $20.00 suit. The materials are fine serges, or chevrons, in a collection of models, three-button bias buttonholes, soutache and fancy silk braid at neck, loop and button trimmed back and front, cuff trimmed. Very pretty skirt, black, navy, gray, tan, green and other colors..... $15

Latest Separate Skirts, $8.50

Skirts that have individuality are an ad. in themselves; note the superior pressing, the stitching and general and graceful fullness and hang, position of pleats when on and other points; Panamas, serges and worsted, black, navy, gray and pretty mixtures, strapped and piped or self trimmed; good value at $10.00..... $8.50

BANKER-POET VISITS BISKRA IN ALGERIA

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph and party have recently visited Biskra in Algeria, North Africa, south of the Aurez mountains. Biskra is the northernmost and most important of the oases of the Desert of Sahara, about 400 miles from Algiers across the Atlas Range. It was a place of some consequence under the Romans two thousand years ago and was called Visescra. Its population—nearly ten thousand—is chiefly Arab. But the French took possession in 1844, and, despite several uprisings, hold this and all other parts of Algeria. It is an important military station. The climate for the first three months of the year is dry and bracing. Afterward it is hot. Biskra is watered by a stream from the mountains, whose valley the railway follows for fifty miles; and in the bed of the stream at Biskra, strong springs arise, increasing the flow of the brook, or "oued," from the higher country. The town has many date-palms and fine parks. The most beautiful spot in this vicinity is "Villa Benevente," owned by Count Landon de Longueville, and celebrated by Hichens as "The Garden of Allah."

Upon his visit to Biskra, Mr. Randolph wrote this tribute to that oasis:

BISKRA.

O Biskra, bright Biskra! Thy sire was the Dessert—
Thy mother the "Oued" of the far,
hoary mountain.
Their soul-thought in common, thou
bloomedest in beauty—
The child of the sand and the fast-flowing fountain.

The East and the West in thy garden may commerce;
War's terrors no longer can trammel.
The hard-footed iron-horse, welcoming burden,
Takes the fardels of trade from the soft-footed camel.

On thy pure arch of turquoise a rich revelation
Is written at sunset—entrancing the story!—
Of a desert all golden; of peaks amethystine;
Of emerald palms; of a sun's liquid glory.

When Aures' sweet breath thrills the Garden of Allah
Through its "allees" at eve-tide it dallies and whispers;
When pine-trees and poplars and palms stoop to listen
Who can say if it crooneth in love-chants or vespers?

O Biskra! proud Biskra! Thy mighty have fallen!
The boast of the marabouts fades into Tophet!
Thy warriors stalk listless in ghostly apparel—
The purposeless wraiths of the power of the Prophet.

O Biskra, thy life is the favor of Allah!
The sand for the oued can but patiently linger.
Far away from His grace, we were lorn as the desert;
We wait for the life-giving touch of His Finger.

Under Bond to Quit Gang.

Judge Mahon yesterday at Elizabeth, put Hugh Brady, a boy, under $100 bonds to keep away from a gang which frequents the foot of Elizabeth avenue, near the water front. Detective-Sergeant Matson said that the gang was the worst in that city and that the chief occupation of its members is to hold up and rob foreigners of the ignorant class.

M'CLELLAN IN LECTURE EULOGIZES CLEVELAND

"Principles in Politics," his subject in the first of his Stafford Little lectures before the university, served as a basis for Mayor George B. McClellan, of New York, in a eulogy of his predecessor at Princeton, the late Grover Cleveland.

"I feel that I pay him the tribute that he would have preferred." Mayor McClellan began, "in choosing as my subject one that meant so much to him." Later the lecturer alluded to Cleveland as one who had "assumed the Presidency acclaimed as the savior of Democracy," and left it "ignored by his party's convention and repudiated by his party's chiefs.'

Mayor McClellan said he found it difficult to define the meaning of the term "political principles." From an ethical point of view they might not be principles at all, for they were at best only the political hopes of parties or individuals, and might not be either generally accepted, fundamental, universal or even truths. He believed that the very theory of the State that the fathers believed in implicitly, that men in their natural state were free, possessing absolute liberty, had been rejected.

"Each of the two great parties,' he declared, "has been at one time or another strict constructionists and loose constructionists, centralizer and decentralizer. Party history has shown that while both parties have always expressed a loyal devotion to the Constitution, that party which has invariably shown the greatest solicitude for its strict interpretation has been the party for the moment in opposition and free from all care and responsibility in its enforcement."

Crediting Cleveland with the establishment of the good standard, Mayor McClellan said:

"While it is true that to the Republican party belongs the credit of incorporating in its platform of 1896 the single gold standard plank drawn by ex-Senator Platt, of New York, it is no less true that to President Cleveland belongs the honor of having irrevocably committed our country to its maintenance."

Reverting to the alienation of President Cleveland from his party, the lecturer said:

"It has often been said that Mr. Cleveland might have prevented the break in the Democratic party had he treated the Democratic leaders in Congress with more consideration and tact. Those who have said this forget that the leaders of the Democratic organization were at the time in open alliance with the Populists; that the very smallest olive branch they could have accepted with the consent of their following in the South and West was the President's support of the cause of 'free silver.' The country was trembling on the verge of bankruptcy; any compromise would have meant the stoppage of gold payments and absolute national ruin."

Mr. Cleveland was confronted, Mayor McClellan said, with the choice of saving his party or preserving the credit of the country. He preferred his country to his party, he added, and by doing so proclaimed his devotion to political principle as opposed to opportunism. The lecture was closed with a quotation from Mr. Cleveland's last message, in which he said that nothing in the retrospect of his public service was more comforting than the recollection of duty well performed and the memory of a constant devotion to the interests of "our confiding fellow-coutnrymen."

A SUICIDE ON WIFE'S GRAVE.

Ludwig Gerhard, of Elizabeth, Ends Life in Cemetery.

Ludwig Gerhard, of Elizabeth, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head yesterday. He went to Evergreen Cemetery, where his wife was buried, and, sitting on her grave, he took his own life.

Gerhard had been inconsolable ever since the death of his wife last November. He had been in the habit of visiting the grave from two to three times a week, and went there on Sunday.

His body has been removed to Elizabeth, where the funeral will be held.

Dr. A. H. Dundon, of the borough, has been elected chairman of the auditing committee of the New York Club, a social organization, the annual meeting of which was held yesterday.

CHRISTIAN'S RECREATION

Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard Preaches on "The Disciple at Work and Play."

A LENTEN SERMON SERIES.

Craving of Artificial Excitement is a Sign of Moral Weakness, He Says.

The fourth of a series of Lenten sermons on Discipleship was preached at Hope chapel, Sunday morning, by Rev. L. R. Howard. The special subject was: "The Disciple at Work and Play," from the text, I Cor. x-31, "Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

In answer to the question as to what should be the attitude of the Christian disciple toward the work and play of the world, Mr. Howard said that it must be a natural attitude, not one that was forced, or unreal. The Christian must be himself and give his service and his devotion in his own way, not try to force himself into some other man's mold. One cannot set an exact pattern for another. Each must seek to catch the spirit of the Master and then try to do the Master's work in the best way he can, each under the conditions of his own life.

It is necessary for the Christian to realize, however, that there are two contrary influences in every heart, and two contrary ideals of life at work in the world. Although he is to be himself, yet it must be his higher self, and not that which is lower. It must be the self which is ruled by Christ, and is seeking the will of God and the blessing of mankind, not the self which desires only its own indulgence. The every-day world will surely be ruled by the selfish, snatching principle, unless we take our Christianity right into the midst of it, and live there according to the helpful, loving spirit of our Master. Everyone can know for himself, if he cares to, whether in his private concerns he is seeking most to honor God, or to serve himself, and the Christian disciple must make the choice in favor of the higher service.

There is no part of life in which it is more difficult to show this better spirit than that which has to do with our work. The Christian in his business is the Christian who is being most severely tested nowadays—the Christian earning his living. Jesus taught his disciples, however, to think of God as concerned with their bread-winning, and to pray to Him in connection with it. The Apostle Paul taught that even the work of a slave should be done as unto God, and not unto men. However commonplace, however tiresome the task, when done simply for one's self, it is possible to make it welcome by doing it in a differen spirit and with a different motive. God is interested in our physical welfare and that of our families. If we pray to Him to direct us in our daily labor and think of it as being done to meet his requirements of us, it will wonderfully remove the weight of drudgery and change the atmosphere in which our work is done. What you do in the name of the Lord you cannot well do cherishing mean thoughts or talking in a blasphemous or irreverent way. You will even be careful to see that the indirect consequences of your work are not by any possibility injuring others, if you are devoutly seeking to do it to the glory of God.

It is this which compels every Christian to consider the relations of his work to the wider social and economic evils. He ought to know whether his business, or his job, has any part in increasing the amount of avoidable unemployment, or of children's labor, or of civic corruption, or any of the other evils that are associated with the industrial life of the time. He cannot be doing his work as a Christian without thinking of these things, as well as of the more immediate conditions and results of that work; and if he does not do his work as a Christian, any amount of trying to be a Christian apart from his work cannot make of him a true disciple. You cannot injure your fellows in business and expect to make up for it by the good you do in church. Life is all of one piece, and the disciple at work is more than ever before the disciple in his place of largest responsibility.

The very intensity with which men go into work today is, however, tending to increase the emphasis upon recreation. Many of our Christian ancestors would have considered the abandonment of many forms of pleasure so common at present, an evidence of great wickedness. Nevertheless, thoughtful people now realize that recreation is a most necessary and wholesome feature of life. On the other kind, however, the need of carrying the same spirit of unselfishness and respect for God into our play as we expect to show elsewhere, is equally beyond debate. In some respects, it seems as if there was even more danger of the Christian world forgetting its Christianity in its play than in its work. It is here that they are subjected to the strongest temptations to self-indulgence. There seems to be a disposition in many quarters to think that it is perfectly proper to relax self-control when one is seeking pleasure or recreation. There could not be a notion more viciously destructive of all that is good than this. Better no play time at all than that a people's play time should be used for the sapping of its virility of character, and yet this is what is taking place wherev r the Christian sentiment is not exceedingly positive and outspoken.

It is this which accounts for the nature of so many of the so-called recreation parks, for example. Instead of being places of recreation, they are places of reckless indulgence in one sort of excitement or other. The danger of the theatre and the moving picture show is the same. The management of these places is no more at fault than the people at large, as a rule, in the oftentimes vicious and morally repulsive character of the scenes which are presented. When the people welcome not what is beautiful and wholesome, but what is exciting and evilly suggestive, they must expect to bear the blame of such representations. The disciple of Christ ought to be able to get more benefit out of recreation than any one else, but he needs to use to the full the strength at his disposal to overcome the evil influences which offer themselves so frequently in this connection.

Even forms of recreation associated with outdoor exercise are not free from dangers. To thousands of people so fine a game as baseball has become but another form of intense excitement. They care not so much for the healthful exercise or the development of skill in play as for the incidental excitements which can be brought into connection with it, including the excitement of gambling on the results. This craving of artificial excitement is a sign of moral weakness, and one of the most threatening dangers of modern times is the appearance of great increase in this sort of craving.

Christians are the followers of One whose life is the model of noblest manhood. They see in Him power, force, and ability of the loftiest conceivable order, combined with the utmost moderation and self-control. Wherever he went and whatever he did, he found opportunity to honor God, and yet was in no way an ascetic or recluse, shutting himself off from the normal physical activities of his fellows. Like Him, the disciple does not seek to divide his life into different compartments for different days of the week, or different occupations of the day. He is loyal to his Master in the house of God, and loyal to his Master in the market-place. He is showing the spirit of Christ on Saturday afternoon and evening as much as on Sunday morning, and everywhere he goes he becomes known and marked as a man who is a Christian in word and in deed doing all things reverently in the name of Christ, as unto God and not unto man.

NEWARK The Reliable Store—Established Over 51 Years

Women's Attire That Captivates

You hear it on the right, you hear it on the left, you hear it whenever women's suits are spoken of in connection with a store, that Snyder's has this season struck the chord of fashion—refinement—quality, harmony; that this store's garments preserve every style note and keep within the bounds of good taste and economy. Here are examples of such achievements as that we speak of, so that you may single them out when you come:

At 19.95 New suspender model, of imported serge; fancy cut coat, buttons diagonally; bengaline silk collar, embroidered in Persian colorings; full man tailored; turn-over cuff; coat messaline satin lined—remarkably fine for the money.

At 26.98 New Model—Satin finish imported two-tone stripe serge; foreign style; coat three-button cutaway, open on side, trimmed with inlaid self-color piping; bengaline silk collar and cuffs, with Persian bands; fancy buttons; French skirt, button trimmed; coat silk lined; raspberry, Copenhagen blue, French green, stone gray, navy blue, black.

At 33.95 Foreign style coat suit of imported twill; coat richly braid trimmed and braid collar, reveres and cuff of embroidered satin; coat buttons with one large studded button, lined throughout with best taffeta silk; skirt high cut empire style, gored and button trimmed; raspberry, stone green, smoke gray.

And Millinery That Charms: Snyder's

The secret of Snyder's millinery is that it is Snyder's. It charms the individual woman because of the individuality back of it—that study of personal requirements pursued so successfully by no other Newark store. We show hundreds and hundreds of hats of which no two are alike, yet each preserves the Snyder touch of personality—a quality that adds not a cent to the cost; that is true of hats at $5.00, $7.50, at $10.00, at $25.00, at $50.00 and more—at every price.

PATENTED

This is the Square Pot of the

BOYNTON FURNACE

that saves fuel and dollars and will heat the whole of a house. In every great engine and under every big boiler you'll find a square fire box. Ever noticed it? Well—we have adapted that principle to our furnaces. A square pot gives a clean, hot, clinkerless fire without waste of fuel. It requires the least attention and responds instantly. BOYNTON furnaces only have square fire-pots. It is our patent. There are other improvements. A square ash pit that improves the draft and makes removal of ashes easier. A pure air supply—for health's sake. A dust flue that saves the rooms above.

Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town and talk it over.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

A little backache at first.

Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.

Disorders quickly follow;

Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

This is the downward course of kidney ills.

Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Plainfield citizen.

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "About three years ago I was suffering badly from kidney trouble. There were dull, heavy pains in my back and in the top of my head. I also had dizzy spells and was subject to chills. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. They promptly did away with my trouble and I have had no symptoms of its return since."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Plays founded on life and scenes in Ireland have for many years been among the most popular productions of the stage. And in spite of their age and frequent repetition they hold their own with modern drama. Irish character, Irish comedy, Irish wit, Irish songs, always appeal to all classes of play goers. These elements are found in "Rory of the Hills" to be presented at the New

Bernard Daly in "Rory of the Hills," at New Plainfield Theatre tonight.

Plainfield theatre tonight. There are also sensational scenes, pathos and plenty of action. Light and shade are happily blended in this play. "Rory of the Hills" does not deal with political themes. It abounds with stirring scenes, as found in the "Ould Country," with plenty of heroic action, love episodes, pathos, comedy and is noted for its great "heart interest." Clear, concise and dramatic is the story of "Rory of the Hills." The play is a vehicle for the re-appearance of Erin's sweetest singer Bernard Daly and is marked by the strength of its comedy, and gives this charming player an opportunity to exercise his varied talents. Special scenery has been constructed and original costumes designed for the play. No better character study of Ireland has been written and produced in years.

We may read in newspapers what goes on in every corner of the globe, but at Lyman H. Howe's Lifeodrama seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night, the spectators actually can see what goes on. The new program chronicles in pictures the facts and events of last month—last week—of yesterday. For instance it illustrates the last Grand Prix automobile race of Dieppe—probably the last the French government will ever permit. The fatalities, the maddening speed of cars hurling themselves around the most dangerous curves, the dare devilry of drivers playing momentarily with death, make this feature of the new program one of breathless interest. It is spectacular in the extreme. With cars skidding at all angles, overturning, crashing through fences or shooting past the camera with the speed of an arrow, the picture can be relied on for all the "thrills" it implies. The scenes are unprecedented in the history of racing of any kind. No sporting event anywhere ever attracted such enormous crowds. They lined the entire course for miles and paid farmers five to ten francs for standing room privilege in open fields. Splendid close facial portraits—taken just before the race—are also shown of Cissac, driver of the Panhard and Schaub his mechanician, who both met such a tragic fate on the last round of the race when a tire was ripped off and the machine turned turtle.

Following a number of long runs in the principal cities, after an entire year in New York City, Miss Rose Stahl comes to the New Plainfield theatre on March 29 in James Forbes' delightful comedy, "The Chorus Lady." Miss Stahl's appearance in this play was one of the most remarkable features of New York theatricals two seasons ago, where, practically unknown, with a play from the pen of an unknown author, she appeared on the stellar horizon and in a single night scored one of the greatest successes that has been credited to an American actress in recent years.

At the suggestion of Mayor Ellis, Camden Council, at the meeting on Thursday, will likely amend an ordinance regulating the speed of automobiles from twelve to eight miles an hour. The Mayor has received numerous complaints concerning the reckless automobiling during the past few days.

Prospect Park Borough is greatly worked up about the controversy between the two fire companies, each believing it is the official one. The Common Council, when the Mayor was absent, rushed through a resolution designating one of the companies as "official." The Mayor vetoed the measure.

4-cylinder, 30 Horse Power, selective type, sliding gear, 107-inch wheel base, 5 lamps, generator, horn, kit tools and splitdorf magneto. $1,250 F. O. B. Detroit.

Weighs only 1,800 lbs (60 lbs for each horse power); expense for tires and up-keeps reduced to a minimum.

Design, workmanship and material is the best that money, brains and experience can produce.

The factory is making 12,000 of this one model for 1909. This makes the price of $1,250 possible. Were they only building a few hundred of these cars it would be impossible to sell them for less than double. The list price includes a splitdorf magneto, full lamp equipment, horn and kit of tools.

We guarantee all E-M-F cars sold by us free of repairs from defects for 3 months. Let us demonstrate it to you.

ALL WANT CLAIMS PAID

Interpleader Proceedings are Brought by the Owner of Recently Built House.

WERE RELEASES FRAUDULENT?

Men Who Furnished Materials So Allege and Ask for Division of $600 That is Still Due.

Argument on an interpleader filed by Benjamin S. Harris was made before Vice-Chancellor Emery in the Chancery Court at Newark, yesterday. J. H. Crane and W. S. Angleman represented Mr. Harris, while Paul Q. Oliver and Samuel Koestler appeared as counsel for Tuttle Brothers, of Westfield, and Francis J. Blatz as counsel for Judge William Newcorn, trustee in bankruptcy proceedings. The case is a complicated one and following the argument, Vice-Chancellor Emery reserved decision.

Mr. Harris made a contract with Apgar Brothers, of Dunellen, to build for him a dwelling at Clinton avenue and West Eighth street. When the last payment of $600 was due Apgar Brothers gave Mr. Harris a release signed by Tuttle Brothers, of Westfield; the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, of this city, and Willard L. Larrabee, of Dunellen, all of whom furnished materials. After the release was given, Mr. Harris received stop-notices from paying Apgar Brothers made by those furnishing material who alleged that the releases were obtained through fraud.

An assignment of Apgar Brothers' claim was made to Mr. Larrabee, and W. M. Stillman as counsel for Mr. Larrabee commenced a suit in the Supreme Court. Then Mr. Harris filed an interpleader bill, while Tuttle Brothers began a mechanic's lien suit in the Middlesex County Court, both actions being stayed by injunction. Apgar Brothers were then thrown into bankruptcy and Mr. Larrabee assigned his claim to Judge William Newcorn, the trustee of their estate. Tuttle Brothers filed a cross bill to set aside the release on the grounds that it was obtained through fraud in that Apgar Brothers had not satisfied the claims against the firm.

It being impossible for Mr. Harris to settle the matter in dispute he decided to pay the money due into the court and have it make the proper distribution of the sums due the contesting parties.

SETBACK FOR THE LIABILITY MEASURE.

"Sensational courtesy" had a part in defeating the Blauvelt employers' liability bill, House 34, in the Assembly Tuesday night. At least it looked that way to some. The Blauvelt measure was lost by one vote. Mr. Ward, of Bergen, who first voted "aye," then changed to "no," only to return to the "aye" column again and back once more finally to "no," furnished it. Senator Edmund Wakelee, of Bergen, sat beside him until the defeat of the bill was assured. Then he picked up his overcoat, smiled, and strolled out. Mr. Wakelee voted for the Ackerman employers' liability bill, which got through in the Senate Monday night. The Ackerman act is a mild and acceptable one to the employers, and as the State Board of Guardians have decreed, it is understood, it must be the only measure of its kind to pass both houses. Mr. Wakelee is a Guardian. Hence the "Senatorial courtesy."

Newark to Keep Randolph.

"Manager Wolverton, of the Newark Eastern League Club, is so well pleased with the work of Clifford Randolph, the Plainfield wonder," says the Newark Evening News, "that he will keep him and carry him North, and he will be one of the regulars unless he shows a sudden reversal of form." Randolph's work since going South has been of the consistent sort and whenever called upon to perform has done so in a way that has attracted favorable commen:

Want to Laugh Heartily?

For real fun and heaps of it, the New Plainfield theatre is the place to find it tonight. It's try-out night and a bunch of amateurs will show they believe that they are born actors or actresses. Mixed with these on the program will be some crack-a-jack moving pictures, fully in keeping with the Counihan motto, "the best in town."

L. M. Tesh to Speak.

Luther M. Tesh, field secretary of World-Wide Baraca, will speak tonight at the Temple Baptist church, on "The Baraca and Philathea Movement." All of the men of the city and borough churches have been invited to be present.

HE IMPOSES PENALTIES ON THE LAW-BREAKERS

In the Union County Court at Elizabeth yesterday Judge Atwater imposed the following sentences:

Bernard Brazitis, a saloon-keeper at 208 First street, Elizabethport, for selling liquor without a license, fined $250 and given two weeks to pay the money, bail being furnished; Harry Albright and Emil Yeager, of Elizabethport, convicted of stealing strawberries from a car on the Central Railroad, punishment postponed for one week; Louis Koplin, an old man, for assault on an officer, was placed in charge of the probation officer for one year, and must pay $1 a month during that period; Frederick McDonald, an Elizabethport boy, for sending in a false alarm of fire, two months in jail; Otto Vogel, assault and battery, two months in jail; Samuel Cutler, colored, larceny of a watch at Westfield, sentence postponed one week.

KIDNAPPING MAY MEAN LIFE TERM OR DEATH

Passaic Assemblymen lined up against the rest of the State last night at Trenton in opposition to the Martin bill, permitting Newark to spend $50,000 in a scheme to aid in the purification of the Passaic river, the position taken being consistent with the policy of Passaic in opposing all Passaic river purification outlays. They lost, however, for the bill was passed by a vote of 46 to 5.

Assemblyman Clark, of Essex, introduced a resolution requesting the Attorney General to draw a bill making the penalty for kidnapping life imprisonment, with the death penalty where the stolen child is not returned unharmed. A bill somewhat similar to this was enacted two years ago.

Assemblyman Colgate's bill requiring all vehicles to carry lights at night was opposed on the score that it was too drastic. It was passed in spite of the fight waged by some of the rural members.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF PRESBYTERIAL SOCIETY.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions in the Presbytery of Elizabeth, will be held in Westminster church, Elizabeth, tomorrow morning and afternoon, and the local Presbyterian churches and chapels will be largely represented. The morning session will open at 10 o'clock, followed by reports and greetings from former officers.

The Young People's Society conference will be held at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon and at 2 o'clock Mrs. Aug. S. Crane will speak of her visit to Porto Rico, of the hospital and mission schools there; and an address will be made by Rev. S. R. Springs upon his work among the Alaskans at Point Barrow. This being the silver anniversary of this society a generous offering will be requested.

Plan Certification of Milk.

All dairymen desiring to obtain a certification of their milk by the milk commission of the Union County District Medical Society are requested to make application for the preliminary statement of requirements at the office of the secretary, Dr. Arthur Stern, 224 East Jersey street, Elizabeth, at once. The commission is now getting busy and it wants to give all dairymen in the county full and ample opportunity to take advantage of the new condition:

Special Meeting of P. C. C.

The Plainfield Country Club will hold a special meeting at the Hartridge School auditorium, tonight, for the purpose of considering ways and means for enlarging the clubhouse to meet increasing demands. There is a belief that the club wil improve the clubhouse according to the proposed plans of the special committee appointed for the purpose.

Women to Hold Sale.

The women of the Church of the Holy Cross will hold a "Utility and Novelty Sale" in the parish house on Mercer avenue, Monday afternoon, March 29, from 2 to 6 o'clock, or if stormy the first fair day following. The proceeds of this sale will go toward purchasing new hymnals and music much needed for the church services.

Cake Sale at Trinity.

There will be a home-made cake sale in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the visitors of the Home Department of the Sunday-school. The proceeds will be used to purchase flowers and fruit for sick members.

RIFLE INSTRUCTION CAMP ESTABLISHED

Governor Fort, through Frederick Gilkyson, acting adjutant general, has issued orders announcing the establishment of a camp of instruction in rifle practice on the rifle range at Sea Girt from April 1 to October 31.

The range and camp of instruction will be under the command of the inspector general of rifle practice or an officer detailed to the department; but in case no such officer is present, the senior inspector of rifle practice of the detachments on the range will have full charge.

During the occupancy of the range by United States troops or military organizations from other States all expenses incident thereto must be borne by such organizations and no part thereof paid from or charged against any appropriations of this State.

Colonel Charles A. Reid, Lieutenant Colonel William Libbey, Lieutenant Colonel William A. Tewes and Lieutenant Colonel David M. Flynn, assistant inspectors general or rifle practice, will report to the inspector general or rifle practice for assignment to duty at Sea Girt during the season of rifle practice from April 1 to October 31.

MOVING PICTURE TRUST EMPLOYS CENSORS NOW

The Board of Censorship of motion picture programs, recently appointed in New York, began operations this week and arrangements have been completed for censoring all the fresh output of both independent manufacturers and licensees of the Motion Picture Patents Company. No film will be put on the market in the east unless approved by the board of censorship. This body, with Dr. George William Knox, of Union Theological Seminary, as chairman, was organized by a number of civic bodies on petition of the New York Association of Exhibitors. All expenses will be paid by the exhibitors and the board will work in co-operation with them.

The effect of the censorship will not be felt for perhaps two weeks yet, for the number of new and old films that must be passed on by the board will represent several weeks' work. For the present the work will be carried on in the offices of the manufacturers, importers and renters. No stamp of approval will be required for new films, as all films put on in the east must be approved beforehand, but for old films a stamp has been adopted. It will read, "Approved, Board of Censorship," and will be printed on film to be attached immediately in front of each subject title. The Motion Picture Patents Company has adopted a plan to cover the entire country as to censorship.

The action on the part of the Board of Censorship in New York will directly affect Plainfield for all moving pictures shown at the New Plainfield theatre and at Proctor's theatre from now on will bear the stamp of approval and the public is assured that no objectionable film will be shown. Harry S. Sanderson, of Proctor's theatre, attended a conference of the board of censorship this week, and was assured of complete protection in regard to all films sent here.

Col. Chandler to Speak.

Colonel Alfred A. Chandler, in charge of the Salvation Army training operations in the East, will visit this city on Sunday evening and conduct the meeting at the Salvation Army's auditorium, 157 East Second street, at 8 o'clock. The colonel is one of the Army's most able speakers and has held many important offices in different countries. Captain and Mrs. Hewitt both were trained under the colonel's supervision and will welcome their training school principal with much pleasure.

STILL SEEKING CHARTER

Another Effort to Be Made to Have City-Metuchen Line Rights Revived.

THE ORIGINAL BILL CHANGED.

Promoters Ask for Perpetual Charter and Four Years' Time to Build Two Miles of Track.

Notice is given by publication in this paper today that the promoters of the enterprise will apply to the Legislature for a revival of the "Plainfield Horse Car Company" charter. The franchise expired eight years ago and it is sought to renew it for the purpose, so it is claimed of building a road between this city and Metuchen. The request is made that the original two year limit for constructing the first two miles of track be extended to five years, or in other words until July, 1914. From this it appears that there is no intention of constructing the proposed road at any early date.

The notice of intended application for a franchise from the State is signed by Mary W. Board, a daughter of one of the original incorporators. Those interested in the undertaking hint that a local capitalist will provide the fund necessary for construction work. They deny, however, that the P. S. C. is really back of the scheme and they also repudiate the assertion that if the charter is renewed that the P. S. C. will be an eager bidder for it. It is stated by them that at the present time, there is little liklihood of such a road being a paying investment but declare that the charter will be of great value at some future date.

The original charter, which it is sought to revive, was a perpetual one and expired because of failure to carry out conditions imposed. The effort to revive it is made because at the present time the Legislature will not grant anything but a limited franchise.

At the hearing before the laws' committee at Trenton this week, the promoters were informed that the bill introduced by Assemblyman Rene Von Minden was altogether too broad inasmuch as its effect would be to revive all dead charters. Accordingly another has been drafted by William H. Corbin, of Metuchen, making the act apply solely to the charter in question

MRS. W. H. LARRABEE HAS PASSED AWAY

With the death of Mrs. Letitia B. Larrabee yesterday morning there closed a long life devoted to christian work. She was seventy one years old, the wife of William H. Larrabee, and had been a resident of the borough thirty years, twenty-four of which was lived in the Willow avenue home in which she died. She was born in Labanon, Ohio.

She had been an invalid for five years, suffering from a chronic malady. Only her husband of the near relatives survive her, but scores of friends mourn her death.

Mrs. Larrabee was an active worker in the W. C. T. U. for more than a quarter of a century and taught in the Sunday school of the First M. E. church up to fifteen years ago. She was formerly a teacher in the Foreign Missionary School of the Methodist Episcopal church at Sandusky, Ohio.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been announced as yet.

Lost His Little Finger.

Benjamin Connor, employed at the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company yards in the West End, caught the little finger of his left hand in some machinery yesterday afternoon, and injured it to such an extent that when he reached the hospital it was found necessary to amputate the finger. He returned home soon afterward.

Exhibition of Rough Riding.

Following an equestrian fete at the Central Park Riding Academy, New York, last night, Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, gave a fine exhibition of rough riding. She also led a double set of lanciers, being accompanied by J. E. Maher. Miss von Ohl, was highly praised for her excellent display of horsemanship.

—In the absence of Chief T. O. Doane, Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings is in charge at fire headquarters today. The chief has been subpoenaed as a witness in the Harold Cook trial.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, has purchased the Harriett property on East Second street, and after extensive alterations will occupy the same about May 1.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CONGREGATION'S ANNUAL

E. Frank Dorman was elected church clerk of the Park Avenue Baptist church at the annual meeting held last night. He succeeds Harry C. Runyon, who for the past five years has been the occupant of the office. Mr. Runyon explained to the members of the church board that he would be unable to accept the office for another year, and it is with genuine regret that the parish loses his valuable services in the capacity.

The other officers elected, a treasurer for the benevolent fund and three deacons, were re-elections. J. F. LaRue was chosen treasurer of the benevolent fund, and William M. Tallman, Isaac F. Giles and Charles F. Dayton. The deacons will serve two years and the treasurer one year.

Reports were received from the officers of the Sunday school and the various societies of the church, and these showed a steady growth during the year. It was announced that the parish meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 14, and at this time the report of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, will be received, along with those of the various parish societies.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. MR. DIETRICH

The members of the Methodist church, Scotch Plains, tendered a farewell reception to their pastor, Rev. W. W. Dietrick, at the church, last night. It was a fitting conclusion to a successful four years' pastorate. There was a large attendance of members and friends who have been closely identified with Mr. Dietrich in his work at the Plains.

The speakers of the evening were Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Roselle Park, a former pastor of the church, and Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of the Baptist church. They both referred in praiseworthy terms to Mr. Dietrich as a pastor and minister of the gospel and of his work during the past four years. Mr. Dietrich will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday. His plans for next year have not been decided upon, his new charge being subject to the pleasure of the Bishop of the Conference.

SHERIFFS' FEE BILL GETS BEFORE HOUSE.

House 330, the Olwell bill, to permit former Sheriff Kaiser, of Hudson, to get back from the county some $13,500 paid by him at the court's order because as sheriff he was a salaried official and under the law had no right to moneys accruing from a contract to feed prisoners during his term of office, was reported without recommendation in the House yesterday.

This is the measure about which there has been so much criticism, and legalizes and makes binding on the Board of Freeholders and sheriffs of any first-class county, any contract heretofore made for the feeding and maintenance of prisoners.

The Kaiser bill, which is House 330, was advanced to third reading without amendment.

MR. LOREE TO SUCCEED "THE RAILROAD KING."

L. F. Loree, formerly connected in an official capacity with the management of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and a cousin of Mrs. Edmund Pack, of Park avenue, is mentioned as a probable successor to E. H. Harriman in the railroad and financial world. Mr. Harriman, it is said, will soon retire from active management of his many interests.

Mr. Loree has for a long time been a prominent figure in railroad circles and his rise to positions of responsibility and great trust has been rapid. He is said to be a close associate of Mr. Harriman and when it was rumored that the latter was to retire, Mr. Loree's name was at once mentioned as his probable successor.

CAR STRIKES LITTLE BOY WHO SCAMPERS HOME.

Thomas Matthews, 8 years old, was struck at Fifth and East Jersey streets, Elizabeth, by a Newark-Elizabeth trolley car yesterday. He almost went under the wheels. An ambulance was summoned, but the boy did not wait for its arrival. He ran to his home at 411 East Jersey street, a block away, bleeding profusely.

His sister bandaged up his head and then took him to the Alexian Hospital, where it was found he had also sustained severe body bruises. He is still at that institution. His father, Charles C. Matthews, is employed at the Singer Sewing Machine Works.

MONCTON WANTS BAIL; MUST SUPPORT WIFE

George Moncton is waiting in a borough police cell for some one to put up $100 bonds as a guarantee that he will make $1 weekly payments to his wife for her support. He will be held until tomorrow and if relief does not come he will be taken to Somerville.

Moncton's wife filed the complaint against him several weeks ago but he has been living in Westfield and not until yesterday were the police able to lay hands on him. He had arrived in this city and became helplessly intoxicated, in which condition he was found by Dog Catcher Keiderling. He was later turned over to the borough police and given a hearing before Recorder Charles Dolliver last night.

Since filing the complaint, Mrs Moncton has moved over into the city, but was on hand for the hearing of the case.

EXCISE COMMISSIONS FOR CERTAIN CITIES

Assembly bill No. 242, introduced at Trenton by Assemblyman Schwartz, of Union county, and providing for an elective excise commission in cities ranging from 50,000 to 100,000 inhabitants, has passed the House after some rapid-fire work by its sponsor. It was taken up for a vote at the night session and adopted 58 to 1. Mr. Schwartz is confident that the bill will also pass the Senate.

The bill is framed to provide for a commission of five members. Their salaries are not to go above $500 each. The commission is vested with power to handle all the excise affairs of the city, to dispose of all license matters and to have jurisdiction over billiard rooms and bowling alleys.

There is a clause under wihch the commission is empowered to have its ordinances published in keeping with the custom in other cities. The local board has now adopted this plan with reference to its transfer announcements in order that those who desire to register objections may have an opportunity to appear before the body.

The commissioners are to be elected on the general tickets. Boards now in power are recognized under the bill as excise commissions and the officials now in office will serve their regular terms.

SIX BOY PLAYMATES WERE VICTORIA DENIZIO PALL BEAR

The funeral service of three-year old Victoria DeNizio, who died yesterday as the result of inhaling the flames of a fire which ignited her clothing in the kitchen of her home at Scotch Plains Tuesday, was held from the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary DeNizio, this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Following the service at the home, there was a service at the Stony Hill church, in charge of Father Schwartz. The pall bearers were six of the girl's playmates from Scotch Plains. The interment was in Stony Hill cemetery.

Harold Cook Denies All Charges.

Harold Cook, of this city, who has been on trial in the Court of Quarter Sessions, Elizabeth, on a serious charge preferred by Miss Jessie Smith, also of this city, was on the stand today and he made a complete denial of all charges. The defense represented by Judge William Newcorn, called a number of witnesses in an effort to clear the accused. It is expected that the case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

New Market Entertainment.

An Easter fair will be held in Friendship Hall, New Market, tomorrow and Saturday nights, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church. The Euterpean Orchestra will furnish music. Saturday night a regular supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock. Among the various attractions will be "The Coal Mine," where articles will be hidden from view and sold for a nominal sum.

Grace M. E. Trustees.

Trustees for Grace M. E. church were elected last night to serve for a full term of three years. They were William J. Conroy, Dyckman W. Winckler and Andrew Wilson. L. B. Bennett was elected treasurer.

Borough's Annual Report.

The twenty-fourth annual financial report of the North Plainfield Borough Council, printed in pamphlet form, has been delivered at the borough clerk's office and is ready for distribution.

"First Aid to the Injured."

Dr. Thomas D. Blair will lecture at the Y. W. C. A. tonight on "Bandaging," in the "First Aid to the Injured" series of talks.

COURT HOME DEDICATION

Jurists to Speak at Exercises at Somerset County's New Marble Structure.

CEREMONIES SATURDAY, APR. 3.

Hons. Magie, Parker, Lindabury, Bergen, Vail and Schenck to Make Addresses.

Interesting exercises have been arranged for Saturday, April 3, when the new $300,000 white marble court house will be formally turned over to the Somerset County Board of Freeholders. The building is completed in every detail, and the county officials have taken up their offices there, former Freeholder William J. Logan, who was chairman of the building committee which erected the new court house, being in charge as janitor. The exercises will be held in the main courtroom at 3 p. m., and former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, counsel to the building committee, will preside. The order of exercises, as arranged, will be as follows:

The contractor will turn over the keys of the building to the architect, the architect to the chairman of the building committee, who will in turn hand them over to the director of the Board of Freeholders with appropriate remarks, the director responding. After these preliminaries have been gone through with, prayer will be offered by the Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, of Somerville. Special addresses will be delivered by former Chief Justice William J. Magie, Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker, presiding judge of the Somerset county courts; R. V. Lindabury, of Newark; Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen, of Somerville; Judge Benjamin A. Vail, of Elizabeth, Circuit Court Judge of Somerset county, and Judge Louis H. Schenck, of the Somerset Court of Common Pleas.

The grounds surrounding the county buildings are being put in fine condition.

TO INSTALL ELEVATOR IN THE COURT HOUSE.

At their meeting at Elizabeth yesterday, the building and grounds committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders voted to have William Ackerman, of Paterson, prepare plans for an elevator to be installed in the court house. Mr. Ackerman is the architect of the court house, and in his original plans had an elevator provided for. At that time, it was considered unnecessary, but recently it has been demonstrated that an elevator would be of great advantage in the building.

Mr. Ackerman will prepare the plans at once, making slight alterations in his drawings prepared at the time the building was projected.

Will Explain Sub-Marine Methods.

E. E. Parvin, secretary of the International Mercantile Marine Association, will speak at Warren chapel tonight at 8 o'clock on the subject, "Ocean Transportation." Mr. Parvin will use a number of drawings and sketches to illustrate his talk and will explain the method of communicating under the seas by means of the sub-marine bell. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Men's Association and Men's Bible classes of the Sunday school and the public is invited.

Belated Wedding Announcement.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Tillie Quinn, of North Plainfield, and Herbert Adams, of this city, which took place on February 12, at Three Bridges. Rev. Mr. Case, pastor of the Reformed church, that place, performed the ceremony. The couple are now living at 10 Stone street, the borough. Mr. Adams is employed in a local lunch wagon as manager.

Mrs. Mary Allen.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Allen, who died Tuesday night at the residence of Mrs. Mary Johnson in Lincoln, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Catholic church at Dunellen. The burial will be at Westerly, R. I., tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Allen has been living at Lincoln for several years and had been ill a long time.

Rev. J. W. Musson to Preach.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who is on a State missionary tour, will not return home until next week. The pulpit will occupied Sabbath morning by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church.

"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"

MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

SQUIRE WHO FINED AUTOISTS QUITS JOB.

Justice of the Peace Manfred Naar, of Trenton, whose impeachment is sought by the Auto Club, of America, resigned yesterday. He called on Governor Fort and was not long in leaving his resignation behind. The movement against Naar grew out of his activity in fining autoists.

Naar had confided to his associates Tuesday night that he would resign instead of going before the Legislature, and those legislators who heard this were not sorry of being relieved of an unpleasant task. Naar doesn't say, however, that he will not seek re-election next fall.

He gave to the newspaper men Tuesday night a long statement in which he declared that Assistant Secretary of State J. B. R. Smith, who is also the State commissioner of motor vehicles, had told him he was not violating the law if the autoists complained of voluntarily submitted themselves to his jurisdiction and paid the fines and costs.

Mr. Smith said Naar was unkind to say what he did about him and declared the justice of the peace dreamed mightily and well.

In his statement Naar declares that in no instance has he defrauded the State; that he has collected fines from 215 persons by mail, and he backs up his statement that he has been entirely honest in his fining autoists, by showing that there is no charge against him that he failed in any instance of turning in to the State every penny of the collected fines.

HAD FORMER LOVER ARRESTED

Bayonne, March 25.—Miss Jennie Delveker, a beautiful young woman, appeared in the Bayonne Police Court Tuesday against Anthony Figa, her former sweetheart, and charged that he threatened the vengeance of the "Black Hand" upon her because she refused to become his wife. The young woman, who is an orphan, came to this country two years ago and went to live with her sister, whose husband, Pasquale Figura, keeps a small fruit store at 461 Broadway.

It was there that Figa, who was a frequent caller, met and immediately fell in love with the girl. They became engaged, but his fiancee subsequently learned, she says, that Figa was addicted to liquor, and she broke the engagement.

Figa pleaded to be forgiven, but he was refused admittance to the house, and this so enraged him that he broke a pane of glass in a rear window and entered the house when all in the dwelling were asleep. He was endeavoring to locate the young woman when he was discovered and ejected. It was after that, she said, that he threatened her with vengeance.

Recorder Mara caused Figa to pay a fine of $25 and to furnish a $500 real estate bond to keep the peace.

HIS STORIES CONFLICTED, CONVICTED OF PERJURY.

Edward Heenan was convicted of perjury in Mercer court at Trenton Tuesday afternoon. The allegation was that the defendant when first appearing before the grand jury claimed to have no knowledge that he had been assaulted by three men against whom he had sworn out such a complaint. The next morning he told the grand jury the men mentioned in the complaint were guilty of the assault.

Heenan's counsel, Kafes, contended that his client was befuddled by drink when he first appeared before the grand jury, and that he was not responsible for his statement at that time.

Heenan was employed seven years as a timekeeper for the B. F. Walton Company. One night last winter he got into a row in a saloon and was badly beaten. It was his complaint against the alleged assailants that he repudiated when before the grand jury the first time.

The maximum penalty for perjury is fifteen years imprisonment.

TAILORS DESCRIBE THE NEW SUMMER FASHIONS.

New York, March 25.—With merchant tailors gathered from all parts of the United States, the American Style and Fashion Show opened in New York Tuesday, and will continue until tomorrow. One well-known tailor sums up the prediction for summer styles as follows:

"The mode this summer will be plain, soft, well-tailored garments. There will be no gingerbread effects. While some tailors stick to the college styles and make snappy stuff, the men who pay $85 and up for suits want the money to show in real tailoring, not in gewgaws."

There are some startling garments among the exhibits. Among them are an evening coat made with "hips," the "Taft" overcoat, which contains enough cloth for a small circus tent and which coincidently is sent by Charles H. Taft, of Erie, Pa., a cousin of the President, and a smoke-colored suit from Pittsburg. The "loudest" garment in the collection is a waistcoat from Kansas City.

HOW TO LIVE A CENTURY.

Sir James Sawyer, a British physician, has formulated the following rules for prolonging life to 100 years:

1. Eight hours' sleep.
2. Sleep on your right side.
3. Keep your bedroom window open all night.
4. Have a mat to your bedroom door.
5. Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
6. No cold tub in the morning, but a bath of the temperature of the body.
7. Exercise before breakfast.
8. Eat little meat, and see that it is well cooked.
9. Eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
10. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy these cells.
11. Daily exercise in the open air.
12. Allow no pet animals in your living rooms. They are apt to carry about disease germs.
13. Live in the country if you can.
14. Watch the three D's—drinking water, damp and drains.
15. Have a change of occupation.
16. Take frequent and short holidays.
17. Limit your ambitions.
18. Keep your temper.

FOR A CANDY PULL.

Here are recipes for a candy pull:

Old-Fashioned Molasses Candy—Two cups best New Orleans molasses, one cup sugar, one cup milk, two tablespoonfuls butter, one tablespoon vinegar. Let boil until it will harden in cold water, taking care that it does not burn. Add one teaspoon soda, and pull when partly cold. Butter the hands well to prevent the candy from sticking.

Salt Water Taffy—To each cup white sugar add two tablespoons water, and cook without stirring until it will crisp in cold water. Just before removing from the heat add a quarter of a teaspoon of cream of tartar and one teaspoon vanilla or lemon flavoring. Pull when partly cold as you would molasses candy, until it is perfectly white, then stretch and cut into small pieces with chopping knife or shears.

TODAY THE NEW MILLINERY TAKES PROMINENCE IN A BEAUTIFUL OPENING EXHIBIT

OF all the Opening Exhibits of a new season's fashions the first display of the new Millinery takes precedence in feminine interest. No one knows better than fair woman herself that the hat is her crowning glory and she is anxious to see what newness in shapes, trimmings and colors have been evolved.

Ready to show you tomorrow!

Our Millinery Department has entered the realm of Spring. It is in full bloom with new hats—and they are the most gracious, most charming, most becoming and bewitching hats that it has ever been our privilege to show or yours to look upon.

SIZES: Large, small and "in-between." SHAPES: Varied past description, yet all becoming. MATERIALS: Straws, some of large coarse braid, others of fine soft weave. TRIMMINGS: Flowers in profusion and of every kind, foliage, feathers, ribbons and ornaments of jet, cut beads, etc.

Those are hints, but a poet and painter with a page of space couldn't depict the almost fragant beauty and spring-like charm of these hats. Your eyes will tell you all tomorrow. Welcome!

The New Spring Wash Goods Alluringly Invite You Here

The showing is now in the full charm of completeness — come and see it while it presents such strong attraction. It will help you materially in planning all sorts of pretty frocks, dresses, gowns, waists, etc. What Fashion had designed is here—superior in quality—unrivaled in variety.

Never did we ever present so complete a showing—nor quote more reasonable prices. Splendid value is not all—there's superb quality—superior colorings and designs. Each of the looms are turning out daintier, more charming, prettier wash fabrics and this season's best are here. Sheer fabrics, plain and fancy patterned goods and others that obtain rare effects from delicate and beautiful fast colorings.

Whatever your preference you are most certain to find exactly what you want here.

Buying so largely we are enabled to offer you

Exceptionally attractive values

Supreme Style Display of Ladies' Garments

Most Charming Models in Richly Tailored Suits, Jackets, Waists, Skirts, etc.

Here's a fact clear to the most casual observer—our stocks this season present style, attractions and good values equalled in no other store. Spring is inviting the adoption of new wearables and Fashion has this year excelled the best of previous offerings. All that is new here in alluring, bewitching, captivating display. All new styles—and all grades to choose from.

Completeness marks the showing—scarcely an approved style missing. Garments distinguished by the latest, daintiest fancies of Fashion, the fabrics are of widest variety, the colorings are many and charming, tailoring shows its superiority in every graceful line and curve, fold and drape. Prices do not strain the purse of the prudent, choice is wide and Values Are Wonderful at Every Price.

Superb Assortments of the Fashionable New Dress Goods

Here, are the newest and the best of the new cloths in all the favored shades of the season—and a wide range of novelty effects.

There are many new weaves this season—and many of the staple goods that are in popular demand.

Choose from Serges, Diagonal Suitings, the soft, satin Prunella, Chevron, Suitings, Batiste, Broadcloth—to continue the list would be like reading a catalogue.

The most favored colorings are rose, wisteria, garnet, taupe, sage, cadet, brown, grey, navy, myrtle—and black, of course.

It will pay you to make an early selection, thus getting the cream of the collection.

You'll find the prices modestly moderate at this store.

GOVERNOR TO BUY NEW HOUSE IN EAST ORANGE.

The fact that Governor Fort has sold his present home in East Orange was the cause of the circulation of a report at Trenton that he is looking for a home in Princeton and will eventually settle in the college town. This report was denied yesterday by Leslie R. Fort, son of and secretary of the Governor. It was admitted that the Fort home in East Orange has been sold.

Secretary Fort further stated that his father will go to Spring Lake about May 1 and remain there until the Sea Girt encampment opens, when he will make his temporary home during the encampment at Sea Girt in the executive house there.

The Governor has no intention of removing from Essex county, said Mr. Fort. He will buy a new home in East Orange and continue his residence in that city.

POSSIBLE CHANGES IN U. S. SUPREME COURT.

Washington, March 25.—While there is no official authority for the statement, there is good reason to believe that one vacancy, and possibly two, will be created on the bench of the United States Supreme Court some time in the coming summer. Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justice Brewer at an early date may signify to President Taft a purpose to retire, both having reached the age for retirement.

The Minnesota delegation in Congress has decided to place Judge Walter H. Sanborn, of the Eighth Circuit, in nomination for a place on the Supreme bench. Justices Harlan and Peckham are also eligible for retirement.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and have initiation.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 6:13, rises 5:49; moon sets 11:08 p. m.; 6 p. m., planet Neptune apparently stationary.

Plainfield, N. J., March 25, 1909.

At last New Brunswick has shown some signs of getting abreast with the times. It has actually raised its excise license fees. "While there's life, there's hope."

Those who have just cause for complaint against the service and methods pursued by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company here should let them be known to the joint investigating committee. The Merchants' Association and the Board of Trade are both represented on this committee and the Protective Association will also have representation. To make the investigation thoroughly satisfactory, every citizen having the interests of the city at heart should co-operate with the investigators.

It has remained for Governor Fort to make a recommendation to the Legislature that should have been made years ago. It is that the State build an executive mansion. It is a sad admission to make that New Jersey is away ahead of the great majority of the sister States of the Union in other respects and enjoys the reputation of enjoying exceptional public improvements should be so far behind when it comes to providing proper accommodations for its chief executive. By all means build a mansion for the Governor and build it on a scale creditable to this progressive State.

The Common Council is evidently departing from its rule to build for the future when it comes to firehouse equipment. Although it must realize that the day will very shortly be here when horse drawn apparatus will be a thing of the past, it contemplates such vehicles for the new east end house. As time is being spent dreaming of a sewage disposal plant which will serve the needs for future generations, why build only for the present when it comes to fire protection? Certainly the original cost for an automobile combination chemical engine and hose wagon is not so great, particularly to such a lavishly conducted municipal government as ours.

Big Night Tonight.

The New Plainfield theatre will offer a big "try-out night" program tonight, which wil include a prize cake-walk, buck and wing dancing contest and a big vaudeville bill which will comprise Homan Bros. horizontal bar performers and daring feats; Delmore & Gibson, musical experts; Florence Braddock in illustrated songs and four reels of the best comedy pictures.

THE FORUM.

Answers to Dr. Moldenke.

Editor The Daily Press:

Referring to an article in a recent issue of the Plainfield Courier-News from the pen of Richard Moldenke, in which he attempts to justify his course of action in joining hands with North Plainfield in its sewage disposal problem against the interests of the citizens of North Plainfield township, allow me to say that his "greatest good to the greatest number" will not stand the flashlight of justice in this case. The problem is one of dollars and cents, or in other words, of taxing each citizen of the municipalities a few dollars each year for the disposal of their sewage in a sanitary way, or imposing on a few residents of the country district by dumping it at their doors.

The instalation of such a cesspool in this community would mean almost the ruin of a number of citizens whose whole life work is represented in a home and a few acres of fertile land. It is evident to any one who is not looking through distorted glasses of selfishness that it would not be according to the American principle of a square deal to cause a number of neighboring residents to loose, through depreciation of property, amounts ranging from five to twenty-five thousand dollars, that the taxpayers of the boroughs or cities might be saved a few dollars each in taxes for a few years in order to establish a trunk line sewer to tide-water and not contaminate God's pure free air with the vile stench from sewer-beds.

Should North Plainfield, as Mr. Moldenke intimates, compensate all property owners for all damages the cost to them would be very great. In all probabilities much greater than their proportion of the cost of a tide-water sewer. Exclusive of the damage to the citizens of North Plainfield township the properties, not in North Plainfield township but in the vicinity of the proposed site would be damaged, by a moderate estimate, to an extent reaching fifty or seventy-five thousand dollars. Or would not the people accross the township line be included in the compensations. Where such sums are at stake it is needless to say that the owners would not submit to such injustice and imposition without having recourse to the courts and the State Board of Health for redress.

It is quite definitely known, from actual observation, how far the stench from sewer beds os carried on the air; and, unless just compensation is made to all property owners within this radius, whether inside or outside North Plainfield township, the verdict of a fair and unprejudiced public will be—guilty of gross injury to a fellow-man that a dollar or two in taxes may be saved. To sum up the whole matter, it means simply the greatest harm to the smaller number or the smallest good to the larger number.

Respectfully yours,
THEODORE F. PETIT.

can be well done or poorly done—all depends on where you buy. It stands buyers in hand to be wary of furniture bargains in unreliable places, "bargains"—so-called, that are to be had in endless variety. In many cases "regrets" would be a better word than "bargains."

We give you high value at low cost. The housewise need never feel that the low price paid here for any article implies inferiority or old style. Here is where the idea of reasonable prices are always maintained; where the best and choicest Furniture and Carpets are always found and sold at low prices—low prices and genuine worth make genuine bargains.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Contractor John Bornman's horse started to run away while left standing at the Loizeaux lumber yard near the station yesterday. The animal started up South avenue and in attempting to take the corner by Sheelen Bros.' store collided with one of their delivery wagons. The animal was caught before it could become untangled from the wreckage. The shafts of the delivery wagon were broken and wagon scraped, while Bornman's harness was broken.

The local ball team is considering changing its ball diamond from the common near the trolley to a field on Hunter avenue. The grounds which have been used for several years are too small, both right and left field being short.

Miss Sadie Johnson, of South avenue, Plainfield, was the guest yesterday of her aunt, Mrs. John Marsh, of Front street.

Miss McGowan was welcomed back to her desk at school yesterday, after an illness of several days.

Rudolph Bruchman has returned from a visit with his sister, Mrs. George Cairus, at Newark.

Albert Meyer has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Alexander Muir, of Essex street, Newark.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

George Smith, of Maple avenue, has resigned his position at the Pond Machine Tool Works, Plainfield, and taken one with the Coal Storage Co.

Judge W. E. Smith, who has been at Hot Springs, Ark., the past three weeks for his health, shows no sign of improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberlain, of Somerville, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne.

Manning Mallinson, of Perth Amboy, has returned home after a short visit with his sister, Miss Belle Mallinson.

Mrs. William Boehls and Miss May Boehls have been visiting at the home of Thomas Brantingham.

John Hogan, of New road, lost a valuable cow yesterday. The animal had been sick for several days.

Mrs. Melvin Teeple, of Maple avenue, has been visiting friends in Perth Amboy for several days.

The Misses Florence, Gertrude and Helen Bunting, of Newark, are visiting friends in this place.

William Johnson has removed into the Brookside cottage and will work for Mrs. W. E. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackford, of Samptown avenue, have removed to their new home.

Mrs. Rufus Delafield and her mother, of Sunswick Farm, are both ill with the grip.

Andrew Miles, of Plainfield avenue, is entertaining his cousin from Plainfield.

Daniel Schenck has removed to Scotch Plains.

What is Needed for Baby.

In years gone by all little tots were made comfortable and grew up into sturdy men and women, but never were there so many pretty things for the baby as now; what was once considered a luxury is now a necessity.

It is an unfortunate baby indeed who is not presented with a lingerie basket at birth.

All around the inside are separate baskets attached to the sides, and in each one is kept some necessary article. The top basket has a lid, and the lower baskets are wadded and lined in blue or pink silk.

A Delemma.

"You are a man of abundant leisure," said the friend. "Why don't you go in for politics?"

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night is the appearance of Creatore and his band, one of the greatest musical organizations before the concert public. In presenting Creatore to the music loving audiences in various cities, it is with the utmost confidence that he will fully maintain the reputation he now enjoys on both sides of the Atlantic, as the foremost artist of the day in his line. Seldom enough in any city are music lovers privileged to listen to instrumental music of such peculiar charm and interest as that heard at the Creatore band concerts. Every one admits these musical entertainments to be unique, and careful students of music in every large American city and in many places in Europe have admitted the educational value of listening to and studying Creatore in his masterly interpretation and striking performance of the grandest works of the music masters.

Lyman H. Howe's moving pictures to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday night are not only the best but they are entirely different from the rest. The new program leaves a greater gap than ever between this and all other moving picture exhibitions. In subject matter as well as realism the new program is incomparable. It takes the audience to Russia, Egypt, France, Cornwall and the Andes; shows the amazing performances of a common fly; the fearless horsemanship of Italian cavalymen; the daring drivers of huge automobiles racing for the Grand Prix, France; Wilbur Wright's Aeroplane flights, the Great Flood in Moscow, and numerous other features of extraordinary interest.

Rose Stahl will be seen on Monday night at the New Plainfield theatre in "The Chorus Lady," James Forbes remarkable comedy of stage life. The phenomenal record of this play which was attested by its engagements in New York and other cities, is one that has astounded theatrical managers and public alike for the past two seasons. Originally produced in New York as a play by an unknown author, with an unknown star, it found favor instantly and accomplished the unpralelled feat of playing at three important Broadway theatres in one season to capacity business, and thus breaking the well known theatrical superstition which predicts failure for a play moved from one house to another. Produced at the Savoy, it was forced out by previous bookings and put in the Garrick, where it was again compelled to give way to another play and taken to the Hackett. There it rounded out the entire season, and in the early summer was taken to Powers' Theatre, Chicago, where a four months' run to capacity business, ensued. Long engagements in other large cities followed, until when Miss Stahl insisted upon a brief respite at the close of a run in Boston last May. "The Chorus Lady" has been presented for ninety-four consecutive weeks to record breaking business.

ARRESTED WIFE EXPECTS HUSBAND FROM EUROPE.

Mrs. Mildred C. Martin, whose arrest at Asbury Park on a charge of being partner with her husband, George C. Martin, for sending questionable books through the mail, and whose arraignment in Newark Tuesday produced a profound sensation, seems now to fully realize the awful predicament in which she is placed.

Mrs. Martin said yesterday her husband has sent her a cablegram from Europe, where he is at present, stating that he will return at once and try to straighten out the tangle.

Last night Mrs. Martin, who was overcome by the newspaper reports of the case, denied that she had signed a confession that her husband and herself were in partnership, and said that if Mr. Martin had been in business it was entirely without her knowledge. She denied further that she was aware of the character of the books when mailing them, which she did, she said, at her husband's request. She states that she never heard him express any purpose to trail Roosevelt in the African jungle. In Asbury Park the consensus of public opinion seems to be that Mrs. Martin has been imposed upon.

The Fad of the Moment.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Plainfield will be represented on the diamond this season by at least a dozen amateur teams and this means lots of sport for the fans who all have their favorites.

There is still a chance that Clifford Randolph may be retained by the Newark club this season. But in case he is not Manager Wolverton will probably send him to another club, possibly in the Connecticut State League for a year.

James Nash, who left the Holy Cross team, to go to the Stillman School team, has considerably weakened the church aggregation. Still, there is plenty of material and the borough boys will make a strong fight for honors.

"Jimmie" Scott will be with the Y. M. C. A. team this year and Manager Listman hopes that he will be in his usual good form. When right Scott is hard to beat. He has good curves, plenty of speed and fine control.

Clinton Avenues outfield will be stronger than ever this season and that is saying a good deal. Of course, Adam Schott, the old reliable will be there, while two equally as good men will occupy the other positions.

The Daily Press columns are open at all times for all items in the sporting line and managers of teams are requested to send in anything new concerning the lineup and plans for the coming season.

Schoonmaker will be seen behind the bat for Y. M. C. A. this season. He is one of the best backstops to be found in this vicinity and he knows the game like a book. His stick work last year was a feature of the team's work.

The Stillman School team will open the local season on Hope Common Wednesday, April 14, when a game will be played with the P. H. S. freshmen.

Elizabeth will again have Sunday baseball this season and the fans will have an opportunity to see some fine games between leading teams in and out of the State.

Manager Frentz, of Scotch Plains, is beginning to get busy with his season's plans. It is safe to say that the 'Plains will have a strong aggregation.

The sporting writers who are covering the Newark Eastern League club on its southern training trip are saying many fine things these days about Clifford Randolph, the Plainfield boy. His work in the game against the Yankees at Macon on Tuesday was remarkable. He pitched for six innings and allowed but three hits. Among those he fanned was Hal Chase and he held the Yankees safe to the end, although Newark lost by a small score.

The Hope chapel boys' club will put a strong team in the field this season and already several games have been scheduled. The club will also have a track team and will arrange for a track meet this summer.

Eddie Siever, the former Detroit pitcher, who was released by Indianapolis, may land in Montreal. It is reported that Casey wants him and will give him a good salary.

Joseph Bonner, who played first and second base, for the Hazleton team of the Atlantic League last year has signed for the coming season with Lowell, of the New England League.

President Murphy, of the Chicago National League Club, has annulled the transfer of Pitcher Liese to Toledo, because Manager Chance had made the deal without his (Murphy's) knowledge or consent.

President Murphy, of the Chicago National Club, has entered protest with the National Commission against the award of Pitcher Forrest More to the St. Louis National League Club. He paid $2,500 last summer for that player to the Springfield (I. I. I. League) club.

Johnny Lush wants a raise in salary from the management of the St. Louis Cardinals but he has refused to become a hold-out in order to get it. Lush says he will demand a raise of $600 a year, but that, whether he gets it or not, he will still play with the Cardinals.

The catching department of the Cardinals will be stronger than ever before. Bresnahan ranks as one of the brainiest, hardest working catchers in the business today, and with big Ed Phelps to help out there is no need of worrying about this department of the Cardinal make-up.

It is estimated that more than 300 ball players are now in training for the big leagues in the South, and that before the championship season starts the magnates will have expended $300,000, with no return except hard wings and sound legs, with here and there a well developed batting eye.

GOLF.

Among the most recent arrivals of homecoming professional golfers were George Low, of Baltusrol, former metropolitan open champion; James Maiden, who is scheduled to take Alec Smith's place at Nassau; Fred Bell, a younger brother of the late David Bell, and Peter Robinson, of the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburg. They were passengers on the Baltic on Sunday.

Low brought back a bundle of whins in the root, and he hopes successfully to transplant this element of trouble, so prevalent on all Scotch links. Throughout February Low played regularly at Carnoustie, his native heath. He also had a match at St. Andrews, he and Colonel Lumsden playing against John L. Low and Andrew Kirkaldy. In the opinion of the Baltusrol "pro," the feature of the match was a great shot made by John Low going to the seventeenth hole.

The St. Andrews man had sliced his second into the road, and as the green was guarded by rough grass and traps, except for a narrow strip of turf, Low appeared in a hopeless position to make the hole in less than 6. The well known amateur, however, made a full iron shot, with the result that the ball landed exactly on the spot of good turf and ran up to within less than a foot of the cup, so that he had no difficulty in getting a par 4.

That well known authority on the game in Great Britain, Horace Hutchinson, has gone on record as being in favor of handing over the management of the amateur championship to a committee appointed by the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews. One point claimed by many is that the existing rotation of tournaments is not entirely satisfactory, but, on the other hand, if the existing rotation were done away with, a free choice would be placed in the hands of a body which no one—not even its own members—can pretend to be representative of the leading golf clubs and leading golf opinion today. Times have changed since 1886, when that body was constituted.

As the time for the beginning of another competitive golf season in the metropolitan district draws near, it becomes evident that the next few weeks will see the return to the game of many oldtimers, who made history years ago. Among the erstwhile tournament regulars who have decided to play again is John Moller, Jr., of New York, a member of the Garden City Golf Club.

In the spring of 1903 Moller was runner-up to Findlay S. Douglas in the metropolitan championship at Deal, and the following year he went abroad, playing over the principal courses in Scotland and England. He met Walter J. Travis on the other side, and they played together almost constantly right up to the eve of the championship at Sandwich, which Travis won.

Moller has figured prominently in numerous tournaments in this vicinity, and several years ago he won the open affair at the Country Club of Westchester. He was also runner-up to Travis in one of the Lakewood tournaments. Moller says he intends to compete at Lakewood next month.

During the last month the Western Golf Association has gained materially in membership through the acquisition of the Claremont Country Club, Oakland, Cal.; Hutchinson Country Club, of Kansas; Joliet Country Club, Illinois; La Porte Country Club, Indiana; Logansport Country Club, Indiana; Los Angeles Country Club, California; Muskegon Country Club, Michigan, and Portsmouth Golf Club, Ohio. The two California clubs joined so as to be eligible to play for the Tom Morris memorial trophy. During 1908 the United State Golf Association lost six members.

Over Boston way sanction has already been given for more than thirty open amateur tournaments by clubs in the Massachusetts Golf Association. Not a few of these are one-day affairs, which have grown so popular during the last few seasons. Although the course has not as yet been selected, it has been decided to start the amateur championship tournament of Massachusetts on Thursday, June 17, Bunker Hill Day. This will necessitate the final being played on the following Monday. The Massachusetts open championship will fall on June 30 and July 1, over a course to be selected.

SUNDAY FUNERALS IN ELIZABETH ARE BARRED.

Sunday funerals are to be under the ban of the newly organized Coach Drivers' Protective Union of Elizabeth. At a meeting Tuesday night the organization unanimously resolved that its members should not drive hereafter at any Sunday funerals in Elizabeth. An exception will be made to this rule in cases where death has been caused by some contagious or infectious disease and where immediate interment is absolutely necessary.

The organization received its charter last night. The meeting was well attended.

"Here's to Sorosis" The Shoe Supreme.

For many years the women of this country—from Maine to California—have been devoted to Sorosis Shoes and have worn them to their everlasting comfort and satisfaction. Now comes the women of other nations, where Sorosis has been introduced, with their songs of praise for the shoe of all shoes.

No shoe has ever been made that rallied round its standard so many of the best dressed women of all countries as Sorosis. It has become the recognized standard of quality and whenever shoes are mentioned Sorosis comes to mind as first among the good makes.

First in quality, first in comfort, first in style.

Joining with the army of women are the boys and girls and the little innocents—all gladly boosting Sorosis as best of all shoes.

Hear, too, the roar in the distance—coming nearer, nearer every day—increasing in volume—steadily increasing—a roar of voices of men—men who have adopted the Men's Sorosis and who, since they have experienced the pleasure that comes with the wearing of Sorosis shoes are ready to join in the loud acclaim of their merits.

The widely varying lasts over which the Sorosis are fashioned enable us to fit many types of feet, and once you have found the model that suits you best you will be glad to adhere to it in the future, for no shoe will give more comfort nor better service, and add more beauty to your dress than Sorosis.

Women's Sorosis Shoes and Oxford Ties, $3.50 to $8.

Misses' Sorosis Shoes and Oxford Ties, $3.

Children's Sorosis Shoes and Oxford Ties, $2 and $2.50.

Boys' Sorosis Shoes and Oxford Ties, $3, $3.50 and $4.

Men's Sorosis Shoes and Oxford Ties—an entirely new line—an innovation of which we will have more to say later—$4 and $5.

Infants' Sorosis Shoes, $1.25 to $1.75.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

NOTICE.

Whereas, At a meeting of the Common Council, of the City of Plainfield, held on the first day of March, A. D., 1909, by resolution adopted on that date and approved on the same day, to which resolution, and the record thereof in the office of the City Clerk, reference is hereby made and the same made a part of this notice, the Common Council did ascertain and determine that the whole amount of the costs, damages and expenses of making and constructing that definite part of the system of sewerage of the City of Plainfield already completed and constructed, and therein referred to, amounted to the sum of seventy-four thousand and eighty-three dollars and twenty-four cents ($74,083.24), and did refer the assessment thereof and all assessments of damages and benefits in the City of Plainfield, authorized by the acts of the legislature and the ordinances in said resolution referred to, to the subscribers, the Commissioners duly appointed, qualified and sworn under the ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to provide for the Appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," approved February 8, 1905; and,

Whereas, The ordinances referred to in said resolution include the ordinances entitled, "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a ssytem of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894; "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of an Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897; "An Ordinance for the Construction of a further addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 16, 1905; "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the system of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved July 5, 1906; "An Ordinance to Provide for a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved December 18, 1906; "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved June 3, 1907; and other ordinances and resolutions of the Common Council enacted and passed under and in pursuance of the act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto:

Notice is hereby given that the subscribers, the said Commissioners of Assessments will hold their first meeting for the purpose of making said assessments in the manner and according to the principles prescribed in said acts of the Legislature, on Friday, the twenty-sixth day of March, A. D., 1909, at the hour of eight o'clock P. M., of that day, in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at which meeting all persons interested in or affected by the said improvements will be given ample opportunity to be heard upon the subject of said assessments.

The character of the work, and improvements for which said assessments are directed to be made, is the making and construction of sewers and appurtenances, including the pumping station and appurtenances at the intersection of Randolph Road and Cedar Brook, and including house connections; and the following is a description of the streets and avenues and rights of way for sewer construction or particular sections thereof, upon and along which said improvements were made, the lands fronting on which are required to be included in said assessments

BOWLING.

A Knights of Columbus League series will be rolled at Campbell's alleys tonight when the Jersey City Council Bowlers will oppose the team of Watchung Council.

The local team are centering their efforts on finishing in second place, and two victories tonight will aid them materially in that purpose.

ROOSEVELT WIRELESS FOR THE GOVERNOR

Governor Fort yesterday sent to the Assembly a special message vetoing House bill No. 134 on the ground that it tended to commercialize the profession of law and degrade it in the public estimation. The measure aimed to give lawyers the right to maintain actions against clients for the recovery of fees. The Governor declares there is no demand among lawyers for such a law, which, according to his idea as a lawyer and jurist, would do incalculable harm to all reputable members of the bar.

The Governor signed the House bill providing for primary election recounts.

One of the incidents of the day was the receipt of a wireless message from Theodore Roosevelt, conveying the latter's thanks for a message of good cheer and best wishes which Governor Fort sent him yesterday as he was leaving for his African expedition.

It was discovered at Trenton yesterday that the Bradley bill, passed by the Senate for the purpose of permitting civil suits for damages against saloon keepers who persist in selling to habitual drinkers, has been lost somewhere in the House, notwithstanding that it met with no opposition, not even from the liquor men, in the Senate. It had not been referred to committee and no one seemed to know just what had become of it. An investigation is being made.

MAP OUT ROUTE OF "OCEAN BOULEVARD"

The passage of the bill permitting seashore counties to construct an ocean boulevard from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May meets with general approval, and there is no doubt of the measure receiving the sanction of Governor Fort. In fact, the Governor suggested the great ocean highway at a banquet given to him by the property owners of Monmouth county last September. On that occasion he said:

"All the New Jersey coast resorts should be linked together by a single road system, and all the inland towns of the State from county seat to county seat, from Newton, in Sussex, to Cape May Court House, in Cape May, should be equally united together by a continuous highway."

This ocean boulevard, which is to cost $400,000, will be 126 miles long, and will connect Philadelphia and New York with all the coast resorts by one of the finest roadway systems in the country.

There is already an excellent highway from Atlantic Highlands to Asbury Park. The proposed route will be from Asbury Park through Ocean Grove, crossing Wesley and Fletcher lakes, to Sea Girt. From the State's military camp, the boulevard will go inland to Manasquan, and thence will extend from Brielle and Point Pleasant and Bay Head to Seaside Park. Barnegat bay is to be bridged and another State aid road will be reached.

The highway will extend through Cedar Creek, Forked River, Waretown, Barnegat, Manahawkin and Tuckerton, inland to New Gretna, and then to Absecon, and through Atlantic City.

A bridge will be built across Great Egg harbor, and the boulevard will follow the present State aid road to Cape May Court House. It is also intended to build a road to connect Anglesea, Wildwood and Holly Beach with the boulevard.

The bill also provides for the construction of highways between the county seats, thus completing the system of improved roads that will traverse the entire State. There is already a fine highway from Camden to Atlantic City.

The plans are practically all prepared, and the construction of the boulevard will be begun as soon as possible after the bill is signed by the executive.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Where Mr. Fowler Landed.

We think that the papers that have been criticising Congressman Fowler for joining the insurgents in the organization of the House of Representatives are fully justified. Mr. Fowler was elected as a regular Republican and he should have stood by the majority of his party. But Mr. Fowler has too many bees in his bonnet. He imagines himself the greatest financier in the house, and it is no secret that he even aspired to the position held by Uncle Joe Cannon. Judging from the prominent place he has occupied in the public prints, and in the official records of the house proceedings, it does not appear that he has been very badly eclipsed by the "drastic rules" of the house. But he voted with the insurgents and what are the new rules? They are worse than before. Practice will probably prove that it will be more difficult to obtain recognition from the speaker's chair than ever, and it would not be surprising if the speaker took advantage of the new arrangement by remembering those who opposed him at the house organization. If Congressman Fowler's idea was that he would cut more of a figure in his office than he has in the past, the probability is that he will find himself greatly mistaken. And if so, as Happy Hooligan says: "Serve him right."—Paterson Call.

The Excise Probers' Pay.

The attitude of the Appropriations Committee on the expense account of the State Excise Commission is discourteous and undignified. The Senators are less excusable for such treatment for the reason that the Senate passed the resolution calling for the appointment of the Excise Commission and directing a thorough investigation of conditions existing throughout this State. If the House can hide behind the lack of any formal record that it voted to authorize the commission, the Senate has no such refuge.

Here is a commission. It was not self-appointed. It was not created by any ordinary civic body. It was appointed by the Governor of the State upon what he officially regarded as full and complete authority, so certified to him by the proper official and so announced by him in transmitting its findings to the Legislature. This commission was a court of investigation; it was directed to visit the different counties in the State, to summon witnesses, to probe conditions, to make reports and to incur expenses.

Now, aside from the quality or quantity of work done or good accomplished, this commission is entitled to fair, just, courteous consideration. Its members did as they were officially directed to do, and if the Governor believed he was right in appointing them they were right in believing they were duly appointed and duly authorized to do the work required of them and to incur the necessary expenses. They unquestionably have a moral claim on the State for every dollar of expense incurred. And it is hardly to be doubted that they have a legal right to be reimbursed.

Yet the House discourteously refused to recognize the commission or to make any provision to meet its expenses, and on Monday last the Appropriations Committee laughed the commission's secretary and official stenographer out of the room, and flouted the idea of an appropriation to reimburse him. Yet Mr. Dengler has done his work, not only, but has advanced $6,000 of his own personal funds to pay the proper expenses of the commission, and if the Legislature continues in its policy of wilful injustice, he will lose every dollar thus advanced in good faith.

There appear to be several reasons for this hold-up of the commission's expenses. Some of the majority members in the House are very anxious to rap the Governor, and take this occasion to do it. And again, this commission had the audacity to put on record some exasperating revelations concerning the liquor traffic, and every legislator who acknowledges, secretly or openly, the influence of the saloons and breweries in politics, finds this an opportune occasion to belittle the Excise Commission and square himself with the powers in control. But popular sentiment is not in accord with any such conduct. The people of New Jersey may not be ready for local option or for the bill reported by the Excise Commission, but they stand for the same fair treatment to this commission that has been accorded to every other commission that has done any work for the State.—Newark News.

Washington Rock.

It is reassuring to know that the story recently started out from Plainfield, to the effect that Washington's Rock is to be demolished to make broken stone for road building, is entirely without foundation. The effect of the tale should, however, be to inspire some patriotic society to buy the rock and thus preserve it from any possible destruction in the future.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Two of a Kind.

A distinguished specialist in Washington was called upon a week or two ago by an eminent government official for treatment for a nervous ailment.

"The first thing you must do," said the physician, after an examination, "is to give up both smoking and drinking."

Whereupon the eminent official became real peevish. "Look here doctor," he burst out, "now you're talking just like my wife!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

State Gets the New Jersey's Flag.

Two representatives of the officers and crew of the battleship New Jersey yesterday afternoon presented to the General Assembly for the State a 600-foot silk pennant, which was displayed from the vessel upon her return to her home port from the cruise around the world with the United States fleet.

Miss Florence Madden, of this city, who has been under treatment in a New York hospital, has recovered and will return home Sunday.

SEWAGE PROBLEM TALK

City's Membership on Joint Disposal Committee Discusses Local Interests.

WAIT FOR OTHERS TO ACT.

Plainfield Representative Favor the Plan—Greenbrook Citizens Hold Meeting.

The special sewage commission from the Common Council, comprising Councilman F. E. Mygatt, Duncan W. Taylor, Charles C. Randolph, with President Tolles, exofficio, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, held a private conference in the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, last night, to discuss informally some new phases of the sewage problem as concerns North Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Dunellen and this city.

Nothing of real importance was done in the matter, it being decided to await further developments in the other interested municipalities. The principal object of the meeting was to consider Plainfield's interest and what recommendations would be made provided it was decided to construct a sewage system to take in all five municipalities. The general proposition was considered not only feasible but desirable. It would mean that Plainfield would get rid of its sewage beds and they would be located in a place where little or no objection could be offered. As a result of the meeting the committee is now prepared to attend the conference of the five municipalities as proposed recently.

At the same time the Plainfield Councilmen were in session, an informal gathering of the Greenbrook Improvement Association was held at the schoolhouse at Greenbrook. Owing to the stormy night the attendance was small. Those present discussed the present situation and still declared opposition to the location of sewage beds on the Kraemer farm or in that particular neighborhood. The other proposition to locate the beds either on the Porter or Svoloneck farms was favored and in fact it is doubtful whether there would be any opposition to that plan.

It was stated that less than a half-dozen persons would be directly affected by the latest proposition and there is no doubt but what it would be an easy matter to purchase their holdings for sewage purposes. This would take the disposal of sewage so far away that it would not probably affect anyone. This would give the borough a system of sewage, as well as Dunellen, Scotch Plains and Fanwood, and would also take the sewage beds out of the city.

There will be another meeting of the Greenbrook Improvement Association tomorrow night when the question will be taken up at greater length. It is possible that representatives from the other municipalities may attend.

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES AT MR. HARDING'S FUNERAL.

The funeral service of John Harding was held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's church, where there was a large gathering of relatives and friends. Rev. B. M. Bogan conducted the service. There was a large number of floral tributes, including set pieces from Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus and the T. A. B Society, of which Mr. Harding was president for two years.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, and the pallbearers were Edward Harding, John F. Casey, Jr., Robert Harding, Thomas Connolly, Cormack Caulfield and John Walsh.

John Hess.

John Hess, who came to this city to live but two months ago from Newark, died last night at the home of his brother, Eugene Hess, of 1226 Clinton place. He was fifty years of age, and his death was due to kidney trouble. He was unmarried. The funeral will be from St. Marys church tomorrow morning at 8:30 oclock, and the burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

PRESBYTERIAL SOCIETY SESSION AT ELIZABETH

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterian Society of the Elizabeth Presbytery opened in the Westminster Presbyterian church, this morning and was continued this afternoon. There is a large delegation of women from the local Presbyterian churches and the gathering is considered one of the best in the history of the organization.

Following a short business meeting this morning luncheon was served and at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon there was a young people's conference, conducted by Mrs. Adrain G. Lyon, of Perth Amboy. This was followed with an address by Rev. S. R. Spriggs, a missionary of the church, who told about the work being conducted by himself at Point Barrow, Alaska.

Mrs. Augustus S. Crane, of Elizabeth, president of the society, gave an interesting talk on mission work in Porto Rico, describing the progress in the mission schools and hospitals, which she visited. This being the silver anniversary of the society an extra large offering was received for mission work.

N.P.H.S RECEIVES CUP WON BY BASKETBALL TEAM

Following the chapel exercises this morning, Russell J. Conroy, captain of the victorious N. P. H. S. basketball team, presented the interscholastic championship cup to the High School. Principal Benjamin J. Phelps received the cup and responded with a few remarks. He said that the season had been profitable for North Plainfield High School and that the pupils of future years ought to look on this cup and be inspired by the fact that it was the first championship brought to North Plainfield High School, and the team that brought the championship deserved the glory and honor of the fact, that they, were the first to bring home an honor of this nature. He further said that the scholarship of the players had been satisfactory and up to the standard required.

Superintendent H. C. Krebs called on Miss Ida Englehardt to explain a package he held in his hand, and she responded, presenting to Miss Trembath a belt buckle with the thanks of the girls for the aid and help that she had been to them during the past season. Miss Anna McGuinness then presented to Miss H. T. Stahlberger a cut glass bon-bon dish with the thanks of the Sophomore and Freshman girls for the coaching she had given them for the season 1908-09.

The final part of the program was Mr. Kreb's and he presented to George E. Webster a handsome loving cup. This cup was the gift of the championship team for the coaching he had given them for the season, his aid having been needed by the team for the winning of the championship. Mr. Webster thanked the boys for their loyal support and their gentlemanly conduct on the floor, and their willingness to do as he said and not look for personal glory.

Re-planting Somerville Trees.

Thomas Hand, of South avenue, has secured the contract for re-setting the row of shade trees along Main street, Somerville, and is now at work there with a gang of men. The thoroughfare has been re-graded and it is necessary to lower the curb and sidewalk to conform with the new street level. This necessitates the re-planting of the curb row of large shade trees. Mr. Hand has recently finished setting out a lot of trees at State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen's country home at Raritan and but a short time ago supplied and planted many shade trees for the J. B. Duke estate near Somerville.

Doctor's Topic "What is Life?"

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan spoke on the topic "What is Life" at the Men's club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night. Despite the storm, about sixty members were present. The speaker traced animal life to the lowest protoplasmic form, beyond which he stated that no scientist could go. He said that the germ of all life was God-given and dwelt at some length upon man's responsibility to God for this gift. At the conclusion of the address, several selections were rendered by Dr. Buchanan's orchestra of eleven pieces. Refreshments and cigars concluded the evening's entertainment.

EDWARD HOWARD GRIGGS GIVES INSTRUCTIVE TALK

Professor Edward Howard Griggs delivered his postponed lecture at Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. He discussed at great length the life and achievements of Paracelus, the sixteenth century philosopher and mycticist, as presented by the poet Browning.

Taking Browning's interpretation of Parcelus' character through the five periods of his life, he began with the boyhood ambitions, which he designated as the arrogance of youth, and traced his career to the untimely death, emphasizing the manner of the world in spoiling its leaders by flattering attentions, only to cast them aside in the end.

The lecturer endeavored to show what the true character of Parcelus really was; and to express appreciation of his fervid imagination and powerful convictions, as well as his honesty and love of truth as demonstrated when he laid bare his methods and threw off the cloak of mystery which had surrounded him and his work.

Parcelus was born about the year 1490. His father was a physician and the boy entered the university at Basel at the age of sixteen. He later prosecuted researches in chemistry while yet a young man, filled with the fiery spirit of youth. This was followed by a period of investigations in mining, where he learned the nature of rocks and physical properties of ores, minerals, and metals, after which he went wandering over Europe picking up what knowledge he could, thus acquiring a great store of facts which gave to him unquestionable superiority to his contemporaries. Paracluse's doctrines were confirmed by his success in curing a mitigating disease with which the regular doctors were powerless to cope. A growing jealousy culminated in his leaving Basel and he later became a wanderer on the face of the earth, to meet with a violent death, the true facts of which have never been known.

HAROLD COOK FOUND "NOT GUILTY" BY JURY.

Harold Cook, a local young man who has been on trial at the Union County Court on a serious charge preferred by Jessie A. Smith, also of this city was acquitted last night. The jury was out three hours. It is reported that during the first hour and a half the jury stood eight to four for conviction.

When Louis Stahl resumed the witness stand yesterday afternoon he told of remarks passed by Cook in the witness room yesterday when the latter said, according to Stahl:

"When I get on the witness stand I'll lie." Repeated questioning by Samuel Schleimer, of counsel for the defendant, failed to shake Stahl's evidence.

Grover Marsh, of this city, stated that what Cook said was: "When Miss Smith was on the stand she lied."

The latter at one period of his testimony admitted that he lied on Wednesday to Chief of Police Kiely, of this city, but later denied this. The Smith girl was on the stand for a short time yesterday afternoon, but because of her weakened condition only a few questions were asked her.

There was an exciting word battle between Mr. Schleimer, C. Addison Swift, the prosecutor, and his assistant, Walter Hetfield, on the refusal of the two latter to give Mr. Schleimer the original complaint in the case. On the order of the court Mr. Swift finally gave up the document, but said he would not admit it was the original complaint—that it merely purported to be the complaint of Jessie Smith.

Improving Crosswalks.

Under the direction of the Councilmanic street committee, Street Commission Gavett is having a number of crosswalks rset in the business section of the city. This will eventually be done in other parts of the town. This work has been more or less neglected during the past year or so and many of the crosswalks are buried out of sight, making street crossing difficult in bad weather. In some cases it will be necessary to lay new walks, the others having passed beyond the useful period.

McIntyre Musicale.

The second of musicales will be given by Joseph McIntyre at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The McIntyre trio and assisting artists will furnish the program.

TO ENLARGE CLUB HOUSE

Plainfield Country Club Votes Special Issue of Bonds to Make Improvements.

APPROVE ARCHITECT'S PLANS.

Proposition to Increase Dues Defeated—Description of the Improvements.

The Plainfield Country Club last night voted in favor of an enlargement of the clubhouse and a new bond issue, in consequence, referring all details to the board of trustees. President Leighton Calkins, stated that all but $200 of the money necessary for the club extension has been subscribed. The trustees appointed a building committee consisting of John P. Stevens, chairman; Percy H. Stewart and George S. Clay. The plans submitted by A. L. C. Marsh, architect, were approved. The work will begin this month with the idea of opening the enlarged clubhouse on Decoration Day.

In the meantime the assembly room and locker rooms will be in commission, but only light lunches will be served during the work of enlarging the kitchen. The club is now about to enter upon its brightest and most successful season. New members are joining rapidly in order to take advantage of the reduced initiation fee.

The purpose is to pay for improvements in the future by the sale of bonds, recommending an increase of dues to $35 or even $40, if necessary. But the majority approved of the plan of the trustees and to pay for improvements by selling bonds. Alexander Gilbert also spoke against increasing the bonded debt, recommending curtailing the service of the club and not making any improvements at all. Messrs. Ladd, Lounsberry, Wherry and Murray spoke strongly in favor of the plan which had been recommended.

The club ought to have its golf course, it is said, in good playing condition early in April, except, of course, for the putting greens, which are being seeded and top dressed with loam. But the fair greens will all be rolled in a week, almost a month earlier than usual, and the tennis courts are being put in shape.

The enlargement of the clubhouse means for one thing that the new dining-room, which will be about thirty-five feet square, can be thrown open by sliding doors, into a large assembly room, for dances and special occasions. There will be two entrances into the present inside dining-room, one direct from the driveway, and one from an extension of the piazza, where the office is now located.

There is to be a large serving pantry, twenty-four feet by fourteen, an enlarged kitchen and cellar, and rooms over the kitchen for servants. Another year the locker rooms may be improved and the club will then have an adequate clubhouse in all departments. The golf and tennis committee are planning an active season, and the schedules of competitive events will be out in about three weeks.

GOLDEN RULE CIRCLE HOLDS TEA AND SALE

Under the auspices of the Golden Rule Circle, of The King's Daughters, a successful cake and candy sale was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Anna M. Most, on Myrtle avenue. Considering the disagreeable weather the attendance was large and the Circle will realize a good sum to meet its pledge in support of the King's Daughters work in the city.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion, the prevailing color in the dining-room being yellow, through the use of daffodils. Tea was served here, Mrs Isaac P. Runyon and Mrs. Charles L. Moore pouring. They were assisted by other members of the Circle. Those who presided at the cake and candy table were Miss May G. Steiner and Miss Clara Van Fleet. The officers of the Circle are as follows: President, Mrs. Anna M. Most; vice-president, Miss May G. Steiner; secretary, Miss Nettie Bauersachs; treasurer, Miss Clara Van Fleet.

Ruined in Wall Street.

As a result of a crash in Wall street that hit him, so the advertisement states, a Plainfield banker gave notice in the Newark News columns yesterday that he would sacrifice his $30,000 home here for $17,000 at once, as he must have the ready cash before Saturday night. "Ruined in Wall street" is the only clue as to the identity of the unfortunate advertiser.

E. D. CUTTING PRESENTS THE "DIXIE MINSTRELS"

The Dixie Minstrels entertained a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night with one of the best performances of that nature of the season here. Elmer D. Cutting is at the head of the troupe of vocal artists which has pleased audiences in the city before.

The jokes of the end men were breezy and set forth in a creditable manner, as was evidenced by the unsparing applause, and their songs comprised the latest hits of the year.

Harry Blimm sang "None of Them Has Anything on Me," using the names of local celebities. Each verse was puntuated with noisy applause. He hit the public censors, told things about Mayor "Charley" Fisk and "Newt" Smalley, and did not forget "Jim" Martine.

George Case singing "You're in the Right Church but the Wrong Pew" was one of the good things, as was Hugh Rickett's "I'll Be Back in a Minute, but I Got to Go now."

Harry Messersmith sang "Meet Me in Rose Time, Rosey," and Elmer D. Cutting, "As Long as the World Rolls On."

Other musical achievements were "Yankee Doodle's Come to Town," by the "Merry Minstrels;" "Down in the Old Cherry Orchard," by John Hall; "Garden of Dreams," by Master A. Martin; "Any Old Port in a Storm," by Joseph C. Martin; "Almost Home," by Fred Miller; "Great Scott, I Think I See My Brother Coming Now," by John Todd.

One of the most laughable features of the entertainment was the Dixie quartette in a comic song. William Briggs, as a clown with his trained dog Tuxitinia, and Cooper and Hall, in a song and lance specialty, were pleasing.

An afterpiece, written by Joseph Martin, entitled "The Last Room," was presented with this cast:

Augustus Hash, proprietor of hotel, Joseph Martin; Jerry, janitor, "always busy," Fred Miller; Richard Slansfield of the drama, "a guest," George Cose; Patrick Meyer Goldberg "Patrick in Front," Harry Blimm; Miss Marie Garten of the Chorus Opera Co., Elmer Cutting. Time — Present. Place — Washington, D. C.

In the company were: Harry Blimm, Harry Messersmith, Hugh Ricketts, Clarence Kinsey, Fred Miller, William Smith, Edward C Searing, Joseph C. Martin, William Briggs, James Nerrie, Archie Davie, Horace Martin, Edward Bennett, John Todd, George Cose, Joseph Randall, Elmer D. Cutting, Arthur Martin, Charles Martin, A. Spotes pianist.

MRS. EGLINTON TO SING AT HOLY CROSS RECITAL.

R. Burns Eglinton, organist of Holy Cross church, will be assisted by his wife, a soprano, at the third Lenten organ recital to be held at the church tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Mrs. Eglinton will sing "Come Unto Him," Handel's arrangement, and there will be six instrumental numbers.

The program follows: Prelude, Sonata 3, (Guilmant); Melody in E flat, (Lemaigre); Pastorale in C, (Weley); soprano solo, "Come Unto Him," (Handel); Grand Offertoire, D. Minor, (Batiste); Lento Assai, Sonato 7, (Guilmant); Cantilene Nuptiale, (Dubois).

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight; Saturday, increasing cloudiness and warmer. Maximum, 56; minimum, 32.

Entertained at Whist.

Dr. and Mrs. Guy S. Hillman, of Park avenue, entertained a party of friends at their home last night at whist. There were four tables and F. A. Dunham and Mrs. John McLoughlin made the best scores. Refreshments, music and general sociability followed the cards.

CLINTON AVENUE NINE TO HOLD A CARNIVAL

The Clinton Avenue Baseball club has completed arrangements for the carnival to be held on the Brady brothers' property on West Front street, near Grant avenue, May 22-31 inclusive. The club has obtained its license from Mayor Charles J. Fisk, and has signed contracts with the Graybill Amusement Company, of Philadelphia. This is one of the largest amusement companies of the kind in the country, carrying more than thirty-five separate attractions.

The proceeds from the carnival will be used to purchase land for a permanent baseball field, as Crescent Oval will not be available after this season, plans being adopted to cut it up into building lots. David B. Martin as president and captain of the club will have general supervision of the affair. Among the attractions will be "A Clinton Avenue Text" to be in charge of the women friends of the ball players. The Graybill Company carries a uniformed brass band with its attractions.

The club has been organized for twentythree years, always conducting good, clean sport.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF EUGENE M. LA FORGE

The funeral of Eugene M. La Forge was held from his late home on Morris street, New Brunswick, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and from Masonic Temple at 2 o'clock. The temple was crowded with friends of Mr. La Forge, members of Union Lodge, No. 19, F. & A. M.; Goodwill Council, No. 32, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the Ancient Order United Workmen. Rev. Linn E. Wheeler had charge of the services, after which the Masons held their Masonic rites in the temple. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. La Forge, who was a brother of Mrs. P. A. Van Fleet, of North avenue, died Monday afternoon at his home in New Brunswick, not having regained consciousness since he was stricken with appoplexy the previous Tuesday while erecting a monument in the Spotswood cemetery. He was born in this city and learned his trade as marble cutter with the late Andrew Vanderbeek, where The Daily Press office is now located. He was born in 1848 and moved to New Brunswick thirty-two years ago and engaged in the marble and granite business. He owned the large marble yard on Neilson street, at the foot of Paterson. He had served as a member of the New Brunswick Board of Education and was a prominent lodgeman.

Mr. LaForge was progressive, a warm friend and a man of the highest integrity. He is survived by two children, Miss May and Frank; also a brother, Morrell Le Forge, of Somerville, and a sister, Mrs. P. A. Van Fleet, of this city.

MISS BUSHNELL'S WEDDING ON THURSDAY, APRIL 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bushnell, of Central avenue, have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Helen Frances Bushnell, and David Allen Roberts, of Moorestown, N. J.

The affair which will be one of the brilliant social functions of Eastertide, will take place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon, April 15, at 4 o'clock. A large number of invitations have been issued for the wedding and also the reception which will follow at the home of the bride's parents, 831 Central avenue.

Fire Committee to Meet.

The Councilmanic fire committee will meet tonight and consider the many bids received for furnishing the city with a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for the new East End fire-house. It is expected that action will be taken at the April meeting of the Common Council. According to the present plans the committee will recommend an apparatus drawn by horses, although an automobile apparatus is favored by some.

Explained Wireless Communication.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of Warren chapel, E. E. Parvin, of Watchung avenue, gave a talk on "Ocean Transportation" at the chapel last night. He spoke particularly of the methods of communications between ships at sea and explained the mechanism and operation of the wireless telegraph. A social hour followed the address.

S. S. A. L. Meet.

Athletic teams from four Sunday-schools will take part in the S. S. A. L. meet Monday night at Y. M. C. A. gym. They are Trinity Reformed, First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Crescent Avenue. The competition will begin at 8 o'clock.

TROLLEY MEN'S BIG TIME

Public Service Railway Employees Hold Jolly Smoker at Car Barns.

A BANG-UP ENTERTAINMENT.

Jolly Bunch Have a Royal Time—George Luhr Acts as Motorman for the Affair.

Knights of the controller handle and the bell rope to the number of about two hundred gathered at the West Dunellen car barns last night on the occasion of the first annual smoker of the Public Service Company employes of this city. With them were delegations of gong pounders and "step lively" artists from Elizabeth and New Brunswick, who arrived on special trolleys, lavishly decorated with flags, and declared that the Plainfield wearers of the "P. S. R." were bully good hosts.

The affair may properly be described as a "large time." It snowed, of course, and the wind howled through the car sheds outside the social hall, but there was no "pay-as-you-enter" apparatus at the door, and there was "lots of room up front." Supervisor George Luhr ran the thing and acted as "starter" for a series of fourteen vaudeville acts which served to royally entertain the men 'til early morning. The rule about "smoking on the last three seats only" was not enforced, for the committee, which was headed by William J. Davenport and George Powers, passed out "T. D.'s" and tobacco almost before the guests could shake the snow off, and later good Havana cigars were circulated and the blue haze settled even thicker.

A bunch of the company's "big men" from Newark, Elizabeth and New Brunswick were "among those present," and a rattling good talk was served up by N. W. Bolan, of Newark, the superintendent of transportation, early in the evening. Mr. Bolan urged "the boys" to cooperate with each other as employes and pointed out that lots of trouble was caused by spreading tales about their fellow workers because of a feeling of jealousy. "The company," he said, "considers every man it takes on a good man until he proves himself otherwise, and the best interests of the men are gaining more and more consideration at the central office and all along the line." He went on to show that the position of each and every man was fully appreciated and the officials knew of his hardships, and he substantiated this statement by saying that all the officials today are men who have worked their way up in railroading by experience in all departments. He said that he realized the criticism brought to bear on Public Service employes as well as all trolley men and the police are told of an effort that is being made by the publicity department of the company to educate the public to the fact that even motormen and conductors are human. Mr. Bolan's talk was essentially democratic, and he got the long hand-clap when he finished.

It was along after midnight that Supervisor Luhr, who was acting as announcer for the program, mounted the platform and said: "We will now have a few remarks from George Luhr." His talk teemed with the democratic spirit of the ranks, and his narration of his experiences as car driver in New York city more than twenty years ago brought forth whistles and shouts of applause. When he finally announced the next act, the smokers stood up and howled "What's the matter with George Luhr?" and the roar of response had the volume of veracity.

The program of entertainment comprised fourteen numbers, and wound up a fast three-round bout between two Bound Brook lads, Matthews and Kelly, "both members of this club." It was all Matthews from the first time-call, but it was a feature of the entertainment for all that and every blow was cheered with enthusiasm. The dancing numbers by colored men from this city and New Brunswick made great hits, and so inspired the audience that Martin Phalen and Peter Kelly, two wearers of the "P. S. R.," mounted the platform and patted the boards in a genuine Irish jig to music that set everybody's feet twitching. The Mandy Minstrel troupe, of New Brunswick, worked a lot of local gags in a clever show and "Bennett, the Butt-In Magician," put on an act of mystery. The Black Diamonds, a colored quartet marshalled to the scene by "Skinny" Wilson, appeared collectively and individually in an assortment of vocal and instrumental harmony and footwork that made them head-liners. A Hallet & Davis piano was used.

The committee had an abundance of refreshments on hand and freely circulated sandwishes, ice cream,

Miss Anna Hamilton is confined to her home by illness.

COAL PILED UP IN CENTRAL'S YARDS

The yards of the Central Railroad at Elizabeth are congested with cars filled with more coal than has ever been allowed to remain unmoved in that city since it became one of the important coal shipping points of the Atlantic seaboard. It was in anticipation of a strike among the miners that thousands of tons were shipped from the Pennsylvania coal fields to be stored against the possibility of a famine. It is estimated that in the last month there has been piled at various points in this State and Pennsylvania 10,000,000 tons of coal.

There is little opportunity to pile it in the Central yards at Elizabeth, so it still remains in the cars in which it was shipped. These cars have been run onto the sidings on the main line of the Central between Spring street and the 'Port depot, every foot of available rail being covered. At the foot of 'Port avenue, where are located the docks from which half of the coal is shipped to the Boston market is loaded on barges, there is also congestion. As rapidly as possible the coal in the cars that block the tangle of tracks at this point will be transferred into the chutes and bins on the half dozen wharves owned by the Central. Many hundred tons will also be shipped to Hampton Junction.

Elizabeth is not the only point at which stores of coal have accumulated. Along the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield there are mountains of coal and at Port Jefferson, near Bayonne, there is in immense quantity stored. At Perth Amboy the Pennsylvania Railroad has a yard three miles long that is given over entirely to the storage of coal.

BASEBALL.

Conway, who covered third base for the Y. M. C. A. team last season, has been offered the captainacy of the aggregation this year. He has not decided whether he will accept or not for he has a position in New York and is not sure he will have his Saturday afternoons during the summer. However, he will practice with the squad in the gymnasium.

Jimmie Scott, who was one of the best pitchers on the Y. M. C. A. staff, is practicing every day at the gymnasium, and he says that his arm is in fine shape and that he is once more back to his old-time form.

The Philadelphia Athletics will have at least one New Jersey boy on their roster next season Johnnie McInnis, of Gloucester, whom Manager Connie Mack secured from the Haverhill (New England) League Club last fall, is the native son. The Athletics' leader likes McInnis' playing and said he will be kept as a utility infielder.

Walter P. Gampfer, a former Brooklyn National League pitcher, was shot and killed at Memphis, Tenn., yesterday, by W. A. Doyle, superintendent of the Bohlen-Huse Ice Company, who had recently discharged Gampfer.

Eddie Fertch, who was one of the Newark twirlers a few seasons ago, has signed a 1909 contract with the Spartansburg (S. C.) League Club.

The New York Nationals took things easy at Dallas, Tex., Wednesday. In the morning the Giants held a batting practice and in the afternoon witnessed the contest between the Washington American League Club and Dallas, in which each team scored one run.

The Boston Americans and Pittsburg Nationals will meet in an exhibition contest at Hot Springs, Ark., some day before the month is over. It will be the first time since the world's series in 1904, in which Boston was the victor, that the teams will have met.

Manager Kittredge, of the Wilkes-Barre (N. Y.) State League Club, is negotiating with Buffalo for the purchase of Second Baseman Billy Keister, formerly with Jersey City.

GOLF.

W. C. Shoup, of Englewood, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the New Jersey State Golf Association to succeed J. Whitney Baker. Other appointments by H. V. Keep, the president, are F. H. Thomas, of Morris County, chairman of the handicap committee, and Jason Rogers, of Montclair, chairman of the tournament committee. Leighton Calkins, the former president, is on the executive committee.

It is expected that the date set for the championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association will be changed. The original dates anounced were May 26 and 27, but Herbert Strong, the secretary, said last night that he thought Tuesday and Wednesday, May 18 and 19, would be chosen. This would avoid any conflict in dates. The tournament will be held at Scarsdale.

F. A. Wright, president of the East Jersey Golf League, has sent out word that the annual meeting of the organization will be held on Tuesday, March 30, at his office, No. 110 East 23d street. The principal business to be transacted will be the election of officers and the arranging for one-day tournaments under the league's auspices.

The annual spring ratings, as compiled by the handicap committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association, have been sent to the printer and will be ready for distribution shortly. As usual, the list will include those handicapped from scratch to 9

Especial attention is being paid this spring to the greens at the Englewood Golf Club, with a view to making them truer than ever. This will be good news for the professionals, who will gather there on June 24 and 25 for the national open championship tournament.

Prizes announced by the Country Club of Lakewood for the spring tournament on April 22, 23 and 24 are a gold medal for the low score in the thirty-six hole qualifying round, a team prize to be decided in this round, and the Country Club, Metedeconk, Carasaljo and Manetta cups, with runner-up prizes for the first four sixteens to qualify for match play There will also be an eighteen-hole handicap on April 24, with a gold medal for the best gross and a cup for the best net prize. The Princeton Golf Club won the team prize at the last tow spring tournaments at Lakewood, while at the one last year Fred Herreshoff won the score medal with 78—78—156, and Findlay S. Douglas the Country Club cup. Entries close at Lakewood on May 21 with Raymond E. Todd.

THE THIRD INFANTRY TO HAVE A BIG TIME

The Third New Jersey Infantry on the night of May 1 will celebrate the eleventh anniversary of its departure from Elizabeth at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. Arrangements will be made to hold the celebration in the camp quarters at the Cory building, Elizabeth, or probably in a larger hall. An extensive program will be prepared. Many of the former officers and men will be called upon to make addresses, and it is planned to have several men prominent in military circles of the State there. All officers and men who served in the Third Regiment will be asked to be present.

There are few citizens of Elizabeth that do not remember May 2, 1898. The Third Regiment had been ordered to Camp Voorhees at Sea Girt to be mustered in. It was reported at that time that the regiment would go at once to Cuba. The troops were to leave at 10 a. m., but the city was astir at daylight. Broad street and Elizabeth avenue were thronged. The regiment formed at Broad and East Grand streets and escorted by the veterans of the Civil War—Ulric Dahlgren Post, No. 25, and Judson Kilpatrick Post, No. 64, G. A. R.—they proceeded to the Elizabeth avenue station of the Long Branch Railroad. An impressive feature of the march was an ovation given the departing boys in blue by the school children of the city.

PRINCETON MEN TO ORGANIZE.

Hudson Graduates of University Meet Tonight to Form Alumni Association.

There will be a meeting of the Hudson County graduates of Princeton University in Hasbrouck Hall, Jersey City, tonight for the purpose of organizing a Hudson County Princeton Alumni Association. Interested in this movement are Chas. E. Hendrickson, Jr., a member of the State Board of Assessors; Thos. G. Haight and Alfred Dear.

The association is to be formed for the purpose of furthering the interests of Princeton in Hudson county, in every possible way, and to bring in closer contact the alumni of the university. There are Princeton alumni in Orange, Montclair, Plainfield, Trenton and other parts of the State. On Saturday last, at the Princeton alumni societies of New Jersey was organized, with Wilson Farrand, of South Orange, as president.

Some of the Princeton "grads" of Hudson county expected at tonight's meeting are: Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker, County Judge John A. Blair, Judge Charles C. Black, Counselors James B. Vreedenburg, William D. Edwards, Chas. D. Thompson, Charles J. Roe, Clarence Linn, Robert Lawrence, Albert C. Wall, Rufus Besson, Thomas G. Haight, Police Justice John Wahl Queen, Mungo Currie, W. R. Barricklio, Archibald Alexander, W. Patterson Atkinson, the Rev. Chas. Herr, George Brensinger, Pierre F. Cook, Arthur Dear, George Hendrickson, Elmer H. Green, Dougal Herr, Charles H. Higgins, Edward G. Kent, David Edwards, Edwin Manners, William Van Buskirk, John B. Vredenburgh, Colonel E. A. Stevens, Richard Hermann and Peter Bently.

GOOD SHOOTING IN OFFICIAL TRY-OUT

Four men made scores and seven retired after making a few shots in the official try outs for the international smooth-bore match which will take place next month. Major William B. Martin was high, shooting a score of 290 out of a possible 300. Sergeant James Dabb, of Company C, Second Regiment, was a close second to Major Martin, scoring 282. The other scores were: Sergeant L. Apgar, Company K, Plainfield, 279; Sergeant A. R. Trenchard, Company K, Plainfield, 273.

Contestants who retired were Lieutenant A. I. Littell, Company K; Sergeant N. H. Hort, Company K; Private James Pearsall, Company K; George L. Schenck, G. B. Woodruff and Shiras Campbell, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club.

The international match will be between United States, Great Britain and Australia, and will be a cable shoot to be held during the week of April 19. The number of men to be selected for the United States team is fifty. The distance to be shot is seventy five feet and the number of shots thirty to a man. Any position can be taken by a man shooting, and he can use any rifle not over .230 in cilabre. The shoot is an indoor one.

The try-outs were held under the direction of the National Rifle Association, Captain Conrad Hall, of Company I, being present to represent the organization The rules governing the try out were the same as will govern the match. These try-outs are being held all over the country this week. They are held on the galleries of any organization affiliated with the National Rifle Association and are for the purpose of determining the personnel of the United States team. The scores made last night will be sent to Albert S. Jones, secretary of the N. R. A., and he will notify the contestants when the scores from all over the country are in whether or not they have qualified for the match. Only fifty men will be selected from the United States.

PERSONAL.

Emery N. Downs, of Park avenue, has been entertaining his mother from Brooklyn.

Robert Eick, of East Third street, has taken an excellent position with a Newark shoe house.

President R. I. Tolles, of the Common Council, has been detained at his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring of West Seventh street, will return from New York April 1, where they have been living for the past month.

ELIZABETH ELKS CHOOSE OFFICERS.

Assemblyman Augustus W. Schwartz Elected Exalted Ruler Last Night.

At a largely attended meeting the Elizabeth City Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, last night elected officers for the ensuing year in Masonic Hall. These officers, which were chosen unanimously, will be installed next Thursday night under the direction of District Deputy Stalter, of Paterson. The election resulted as follows:

Exalted ruler, Assemblyman Augustus W. Schwartz; esteemed leading knight, Abe J. David; esteemed loyal knight, John R. Covington; esteemed lecturing knight, John G. T. Shoe; secretary, Emil J. Hirtzel; treasurer, George B. Cladek; representative to Grand Lodge, Past Exalted Ruler, Samuel Cohen; alternate, Past Exalted Ruler Ralph R. Thomas; trustee, John Reuter, Sr.

The election was concluded with a social session. The lodge will hold a big bazar in the fall, when its handsome new home is formally opened. This affair will be quite elaborate, and a committee of active workers will have charge of the arrangements. The lodge has grown to a surprising degree during the past year, and is now near the 500 mark. It embraces nearly every prominent business and professional man in Elizabeth and vicinity.

WOULD UTILIZE GLEN GARDNER

Support Asked for Bill to Establish Pavilions There for Tuberculosis Cases.

Dr. Frank H. Fields, of the Passaic Health Board, has asked the health authorities here to indorse the Assembly bill allowing municipalities to establish pavilions at Glen Gardner for treating curable cases of tuberculosis, and it is understood that several of the health commissioners favor the plan.

Dr. Fields claims that the following benefits would be realized: Ideal environment, supervision of cases by experts employed by the State, opportunity for exercise of the patients under proper direction and observation, which would be impossible in the city with limited acreage; bacteriological observations and better statistical facilities; a small cost, as the per capita expense diminishes with the increase in the number of patients cared for.

The Boys' club of Hope chapel will hold a regular meeting at the chapel tonight.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY BILL.

If nothing else is accomplished by the present Legislature the session will not be in vain should it place upon the statute books an employers' liability law. Strange as it may seem New Jersey is away behind many of her sister States in not having such a law, although for a long time one has been greatly needed. A measure of the sort, wise and conservative, that will stand the test of time and one not drafted in the interests of employing corporations, surety companies of other ulterior objects, is demanded.

The Ackerman bill, which is merely a duplicate of the excellent New York law, would best serve the purposes. It is the fairest to the employer and the employee alike. It is neither too mild nor too radical. In short it contains all the good features of similar measures in forcing in other States, with their undesirable conditions eliminated. A "trick" bill might be more acceptable to certain interests, but the people, particularly the workingmen, are wise in this generation, and a law of that type would have a very short life.

If the House on Monday night gives its endorsement to the Ackerman measure, already almost overwhelmingly approved by the Senate, it will be discharging its duty to the letter.

AUGUST STREITWOLF,

August Streitwolf, 51 years old, an expert wine tester, died suddenly at his home in New Brunswick after a few days' illness with pneumonia. He was born in Germany and came here a poor young man. He engaged as a bartender upon coming to New Brunswick for Randolph H. Becker, and in a few years opened a saloon and restaurant of his own. He prospered from the start, and soon engaged in a wholesale business. At one time he was the largest real estate holder in the business section of the city, but had disposed of most of his holdings. He retired about eleven years ago from the liquor business and since then had conducted a furniture store at New Brunswick and had been engaged in the preparation and sale of kumiss in New Brunswick and this city.

He had traveled extensively, having visited every civilized land excepting China and Japan, and he was planning a trip to these countries for next fall. He had recently returned from a trip to Jamaica and Bermuda. He was a charter member of New Brunswick Lodge of Elks and they will have charge of his funeral tomorrow afternoon. He leaves a wife and one son, August C. Streitwolf, a lawyer, who has an office in New York and resides in New Brunswick.

ELIZABETH SWEPT BY WIND AND RAIN.

Fiercest Storm in Months Causes Great Damage, Particularly Along Water Front.

Elizabeth Wednesday night and yesterday morning was in the grasp of one of the most violent storms of the winter. About 9 o'clock Wednesday night it began to drizzle and rain, and by midnight the wind increased in violence until a real storm was in progress. As a result two barges sank along the water front, the lowlands are flooded, traffic along the sound and on the Elizabeth river is practically at a standstill, limbs of trees were blown down, telephone wires put out of order and other damage done. Many compliants were made to the telephone company yesterday morning by those whose telephones were out or order. Probably the greatest damage was done along the water-front.

The wind reached a great velocity, and blew almost directly from the east. According to the Weather Bureau's report, .35 inch of water fell up to 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning. On account of the storm there was no school yesterday. Many youngsters failed to hear the early signal and appeared, but went home immediately.

WORK FOUND FOR BOYS.

Mrs. Williamson Has Succeeded in Placing Eleven So Far.

As a sequel to the conference between Mrs. Emily E. Williamson and the unemployed boys of Elizabeth, in the City Hall recently, work has been found for eleven of the sixty young men who attended. Two were placed yesterday. Through the efforts of Mrs Williamson several secured work with the trolley company, others in stores and the rest in factories.

Mrs. Williamson has talked with the officials of a number of local industrial plants and has been assured that in about a week there will be a general revival of trade and that there will be work for many men and boys. She has a list of all those who attended the conference and will lose no time in notifying the young men as fast as work is found for them.

Received Grand Lodge Report.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, met last night, and received the report of Harvey R. Thorn, one of the two delegates to the Grand Lodge session held recently at Atlantic City. They were very exhaustive and proved of considerable interest to all the members. The other delegate, Judge William Newcorn, was unable to be present. After the business, there was a social hour and cigars were passed around.

To Give Charity Ball.

The Lyceum of Sacred Heart parish will hold a charity ball at Sacred Heart Hall, Elizabeth, Thursday night, April 15, for the benefit of the poor. The committee of arrangements consists of Thomas Lynch, M. Battersby, J. Brady, Thos. Kennedy, Thomas Lloyd, J. P. Kelly and A. Bradley.

Creatore's Band Tonight.

Creatore's famous band will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, when the noted bandmaster will have his company of musicians in this city and will present a program of instrumental music.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

LITTLE GIRL STRUCK BY A TROLLEY CAR

Annie Combre, aged nine years, residing on Lake street, was struck by a Netherwood trolley car at East Seventh and Richmond streets, shortly before noon today, but Motorman Howard Van Nest, who was operating the car, had it under control that he brought it to a standstill before any serious injury resulted. The passengers praised Van Nest for his quick work in preventing what might have been a fatality.

The girl was playing about a pile of sand in the street and suddenly started to run across the trolley tracks without heeding the approaching car. The blow was a slight one, not severe enough to require the services of a physician.

EDUCATION OF MOTHERS.

In discussing the "Older and Newer Ideals of Marriage" in the April American Magazine, Professor W. I. Thomas claims that to handle the child wisely the mother should be as wise as society can make her. He says:

"The mother should be educated both in life and in the schools, and the solicitude and provision for her education should certainly not be less than for that of the scientific specialist. At the age of perhaps eight the child's brain is practically all in; he is short only in experience and practise. He can understand any abstract principle and any piece of literature, from the theory of evolution to the Hamlet of Shakespeare, but when he spends his time with an uneducated nurse or an uneducated mother he goes to school and even to college with a mind so barren that one of our great colleges has actually introduced a tutorial system by which an intelligent instructor practically lives with the boy and attempts the reparation of a misspent childhood.

"It is also true that there never was a time in the history of the family when it stood so much in need of an intelligent mother. Formerly life as a whole was largely comprehended within the family. The industries and arts, education and religion were carried on there. But these interests have now been abstracted from the home to such a degree that the family situation is left rather empty. Business pursuits keep the father away from home most of the time and even set very narrow limits to his intelligence, and it is therefore peculiarly important that the mother should be fit to represent the interests of life during that prolonged period before the child makes his connections with the outer world.

"Morality is, with reference to the welfare of society, not the appetites of the individual, and a theory or practise which restricts the interests of the mother and thereby stunts the life of the child is, in the profoundest sense of the word, immoral."

Friendly Greetings.

"Well, by Jove, this is lucky!" cried a young man as he heartily slapped the back of a gentleman whom he overtook in the street. The other turned round sharply and angrily, showing the face of a complete stranger.

"I thought it was my friend Jackson," said the young man, confused.

"All right," said the stranger; and he doubled the young man up with a tremendous blow in the waistcoat.

"What did you do that for?"

"I thought that was what Jackson ought to do," remarked the stranger, as he resumed his interrupted walk.—Tudor Jenks in Judge.

—The Florence Austin Concert Company, featuring Miss Austin, the violin virtuoso, will appear at the Plainfield Theatre, March 31, with a company of musical artists. Miss Austin has been heard here before, with great approval, but she appears to greater advantage this time at the head of her own company.

The only requirement is that the applicant be at least 18 years of age. See the "want adv." columns of this paper for further particulars.

Miss Van Horn's Narrow Escape.

The ceiling in the hallway near the law office of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., in the Vanderbeek building, at Park and North avenue, fell yesterday afternoon. Miss Adah VanHorn, stenographer for Mr. Hetfield, narrowly escaped being injured. She had just passed through the hall when the ceiling fell with a crash.

Deny Marriage Story.

Horace G. Adams, father of the young man, and Mrs. Ida M. Quinn, mother of the girl, today requested that denial be made of the report that Herbert Adams and Miss Tillie Quinn are man and wife. The marriage announcement was furnished by Herbert Adams.

What Will Well Dressed Men Wear?

Any man who is desirous of being shod as stylishly as his friend who patronizes the exclusive custom bootmakers need only come here and make his selections from our comprehensive stock of Metropolitan styles and shapes. He will save from three to five dollars on every pair and no one but an expert leather man can call the turn. Furthermore he will know just how the shoe fits and is going to look on his foot before he pays for it.

The popular style this Spring is a semi-narrow toe with plenty of snap and gingerbread, shield or wing tips, bluchei or lace cut. Materials are Gun Metal, Calf, Wax Calf, Patent Leather, Russia Tan and of course the always comfortable and easy going Vici Kid. We have all these good points incorporated in our $4.00 and $5.00 Shoes and we present the Van Arsdale line with more confidence than ever to the particular man who believes that his Shoes should be as "toppy" as his hat.

THE GREEN THAT WALKED

By JOHN L. CONSIDINE

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

"Captain," said the man on Post No. 13, "I'd like to be relieved. A couple of weeks' rest might put me right again."

"What's the matter? Sick?"

"Not exactly that, captain. It's my eyes; I've been seeing things."

The captain of the guard eyed the man sharply.

"Been drinking?"

"No, sir. "It's not that—no pink rats nor blue monkeys, nor anything of that sort. The fact is," and here he lowered his voice to the level of a confidential whisper, although the nearest man was the guard on Post No. 12, three-score yards away, "I've been seeing the grass walk."

"What's that?" snapped the captain.

"It's a fact, sir. I didn't pay so much attention to it at first, but now that it's happened three times, I'm beginning to think that my eyes are going back on me, or else that I'm getting hallucinations."

The captain looked at Guard No. 13 in dismay. Hitherto he had regarded this man as one of his sanest and steadiest subordinates.

"Tell me about it," he commanded.

"There's nothing to it, much, except that every afternoon a patch of grass out there in the alfalfa field begins to move slowly toward the south. At first I thought it was the bay breeze, rolling through the grass, but then, I recollected, its wave was toward the bay. Besides, it seemed to me that this grass just picked itself up in a patch and moved along, independent of the grass around."

"Does this movement always start from the same point?"

"No; each day it begins a little further south."

"Hum! A little closer to the south—a little closer to the bay, that is. At any regular time?"

"Why, I hadn't thought of that. Yes; let me see. Yes, I believe it was at the same time each afternoon. From half-past two to three, say."

The captain glanced at his watch. "It's 2:35 now,' he said. "Do you see anything?"

The guard peered long and carefully to the southward.

"Yes, sir," he responded. "It's on me again—the grass moves."

"Where?" inquired th captain.

The guard pointed to a spot near where the alfalfa field met the fence-line. Sure enough, as it seemed to the captain, a patch of green, probably six feet in length and three in width, was making speedy progress in the direction of the fence.

"Take aim," shot from the captain's lips. "Can you hit it?"

The guard raised his rifle, but with shaking hands.

"Let me have it," cried the other, with a scornful gesture.

Steeling his nerves, the guard fired. The grass was still.

The captain ran down the stairs, and toward it. Regardless of possible reprimand, the guard followed. Arrived at the spot, the officer stooped to lift, and examine, an ingenious contrivance. It consisted of two layers of burlap sacking, the upper one bearded with grass. The space between had been filled with loam, and from this, planted in wheat, the green blades had forced their way through the loosely-guarded interstices of the upper piece of cloth.

While the captain surveyed with admiration undisguised this novel garb of living green, the form of its designer, a man in stripes with shaven head, lay at his feet.

And beside the body, stricken with vain regret, knelt Guard No. 13.

"The first I ever killed,' he muttered dumbly. "May God forgive me!"

New Disease in Austria.

A Vienna correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette tells of a new infectious disease among children in lower Austria, to which the doctors have given the name of polyomyelites. Translated into plain language this means children's spinal paralysis. The first symptom is a high fever, followed by a severe headache, sickness and vomiting, and sometimes also accompanied by convulsions or cramp. The next stage is paralysis, either of the whole body or individual limbs. This paralysis occasionally takes a transverse direction, the right arm and left leg being affected. The disease does not appear to be fatal. Frequently a complete recovery is effected, but occasionally the limbs remain in a weak condition.

Bruce's Mother.

The inspector was examining Standard I. and all the class had been specially told beforehand by their master: "Don't answer unless you are almost certain your answer is correct."

History was the subject.

"Now, tell me," said the inspector, "who was the mother of our great Scottish hero, Robert Bruce?"

He pointed to the top boy, then round the class. There was no answer. Then at last the heart of the teacher of that class leaped with joy. The boy who was standing at the very foot had held up his hand.

"Well, my boy," said the inspector encouragingly, "who was she?"

"Please, sir, Mrs. Bruce."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

MERINGUE MUST BE RIGHT.

Directions for Making That Will Insure Successful Result.

First—Be sure the pudding or pie is cold before attempting to spread on a meringue. If you have store eggs, select those having dull, rough looking shells, as shiny shells are never fresh. The whites of two eggs will cover an ordinary pudding. Separate the white from the yolk by holding the small end down and breaking the egg through the middle. If a tiny bit of yolk falls into the white, remove with a piece of the shell. Beat stiff, then add one tablespoon of granulated sugar, a little at a time. Sprinkle over one-half teaspoon vanilla or lemon flavoring. The more you beat the better the meringue. Dip a teaspoon in cold water, then in the egg, and drop in little mounds on the pudding. If you have a coal stove, have the oven hot. Put in the pudding and leave the door part way open. If you use gas, heat up the broiler or the oven, set in the pudding, shut the door and turn out the gas. When it is a delicate brown, remove from the oven but leave it in the kitchen or in a warm room for one hour before setting it away. Meringue made this way never fails and is good the next day.

The Home.

By adding one tablespoonful of butter or a half-cup of cream to the batter pancakes can be baked without greasing the griddle.

Buy a coarse gray blanket if you do not have one and keep it to place on the floor when the baby is playing there. Put the toys on it and if it is necessary to quickly clean the room of toys pick up the blanket.

To remove ink from books, valuable papers and the like a solution of water and oxalic acid, citric, tartaric or any sour acid can be applied to the blemish and, while often the process must be repeated, it will finally remove the blemish.

The soiled linen will take much less room in the clothes hamper if the sheets, pillow cases, the table cloths and the napkins are folded before being put into it. It takes but a moment to do this. A small hamper does the work of a larger one if the plan is followed.

To make a lasting mop for the floor and give the small girls something to do, save all cord from parcels, winding into a ball and crocheting a strip about nine inches wide and about twenty-seven inches long. It fits through patent handles nicely and makes an inexpensive article.

Creamed Sweetbreads.

As soon as the sweetbreads are brought from the market put them in cold water. When ready to parboil free them from fat, cover with boiling water and let them simmer 20 minutes. Take from the fire, drain, throw into cold water and when cool enough to handle remove all the membrane and break into small pieces. Melt one tablespoonful of butter without browning; add one tablespoonful of flour, mix until smooth; add one cupful of cream and stir until it thickens. Add the sweetbreads and place over hot water until these are heated through, then season to taste with salt, pepper and one tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

Uncooked French Cream Candy.

Break into a bowl the whites of as many eggs as you think you will require for the amount of candy you wish to make. Add as much cold water as you have egg-whites, then stir in XXX powdered or confectioner's sugar until the mixture is stiff enough to mold into shape with the fingers. Flavor with vanilla to taste, and form into balls, cubes or lozenges, as you wish. Lay on plates or waxed paper to fry. The secret of success lies in the sugar used. Ordinary powdered sugar will not do.

Delmonico Mashed Potatoes.

Pare uncooked potatoes; cut them into very small dice; throw them into cold water and soak for 30 minutes. Drain, put them in a baking dish, cover with milk, dust with salt and pepper, add one tablespoonful of butter cut in bits, and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Serve with roasted beef or broiled steak.

Penuchi Filling.

One and one-quarter cups light brown sugar, five tablespoons water. Cook until it will form a soft ball when tried in water. Beat the white of one egg and pour the syrup slowly into the egg and beat until cool and thick enough to spread on the cakes. Sprinkle with nut meats if you wish.

Canned Apple Sauce.

Prepare your apples as for ordinary sauce, cook with as little water as possible for about three hours, slowly, make it fairly sweet, and seal in air-tight jars while hot. Have new rubbers, and run jars over so no air will be left in. This will keep all winter, is always at hand for pies or puddings.

Salted Almonds.

One housekeeper does her salted almonds in deep, hot lard, and drains off the grease on brown paper, salting them well while they drain. It is an easier and quicker method than doing the nuts in butter in oven.

Spinach Salad.

Use young, tender spinach leaves put in a salad bowl with shreds of onion and a sprig of mint. Pour French dressing over all and garnish with sliced hard-boiled eggs and little radishes.

CLASSED AS A NECESSITY.

"Twenty dollars for retrimming your hat!" exclaimed Mr. Madison. "But we agreed to spend nothing except for things that were positively needed."

"Well, John, this is. You see, my best friend has just had hers retrimmed and I have promised to go with her to the concert on Friday."

"Oh! all right. But I can't give you more than fifteen this morning, because I broke my meerschaum and must have it mended."

"Can't you smoke your old briar-wood?"

"Certainly, dear. And you can wear your old hat."

"John, let's begin to economize next month after we get things all straightened out."

"All right."—New York Herald.

A DEFECTIVE PICTURE.

Madam—Well, Mary, what did you think of the pictures at the academy?

Mary—Oh, mum, there was a picture called "Two Dogs," after Landseer, but I looked at it for nearly half-an-hour and I couldn't see no Landseer.—Royal Magazine.

Sincere.

"Sir," said the young man, respectfully, "I am a poor man and you are a millionaire. It seems presumptuous in me, no doubt, to aspire to the hand of your daughter. But my love for her is so great that I cannot be stopped by such considerations. Love scorns conventions and conveniences. Ah, sir, will you give her to me?"

The old magnate seemed interested. "But which of my four daughters do you want?" he asked, not unkindly.

Eagerly the suitor made answer: "Oh, I'll leave that to you, sir."

A True Detective.

Running his hands underneath the chairs, the detective said: "This is a bachelor apartment. No women have been here for months."

"How do you know that?" inquired the reporter.

"Because, sir," the detective answered, wisely, "I find no chewing gum concealed about the place."—Cleveland Leader.

At Two A. M.

Mrs. McSosh—You're very fond of your club, aren't you?

Mr. McSosh—Yes, m' dear—kstremely fond of it.

Mrs. McSosh—Then I'd think you'd be more careful of its reputation. Why don't you blame your condition on a theater party, or something you don't care about?—Cleveland Leader.

Her Little Plan.

The Spinster—Why, Mrs. Browning, what are you going to do with that pail?

The Widow—My late husband's last request was that his grave be kept green and as I am ab ut to marry again I concluded to give it a coat of green paint.—Chicago Daily News.

Disadvantage of Friends.

Mrs. Goldsteimer (they have just moved into a new place)—My dear, I do wish you would go out with me more, and meet some of the charming women here.

Goldsteimer—Vy should I know them? If I did, I'd have to be giving up my seat in der cars all der time.—Life.

The American Habit.

Briggs—I suppose if I accept your invitation to go to that dinner you will want me to make a speech.

Griggs—No, my dear fellow, you see it's this way. Everybody we have invited so far wants to make a speech, and what I am trying to do now is to get together a few listeners.—Life.

Scientific.

A Germ and a Goblin met one day, and the Goblin gave the Germ the wall. Grudgingly, however.

"I'd be as big a bugbear as you if only science had chosen to take me up as seriously!" muttered the Goblin, with a sour air.—Life.

Too Big a Job for One.

Darkie (boarding a train)—I heard 'bout youh wife dyin', Jim. Whar yo' gwine now?

"I'se off to join de Mormons; hit keeps one woman hustlin' too much to support a heavy eatah lak me."—Life.

Chose the Lesser Evil.

His Fiancee—Why did you not come yesterday to marry me, as you promised?

Mr. Snaileater—Ah, dearest, I had to fight a duel.

His Fiancee—Coward!

Pride.

"Are you the head of your class in school?"

"Not exactly," answered the sturdy youngster; "but the boy that is at the head of my class in school isn't in my class in foot ball."—Washington Star.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL TILL YOU TRY.

The way to succeed is to buckle right in
And go to your work with a will;
If you make up your mind that you will,
you can win.
Don't sit at the foot of the hill
And look at its crest, wishing you were up there,
And remark to yourself with a sigh;
"I can't make the grade, it's too steep,
I'm afraid."
You never can tell till you try.

Your chance is as great as your neighbor's, my friend,
What he has accomplished you can;
But you've got to keep toiling along to the end
And the prize always goes to a man.
You wish for success and you see someone win;
Opportunity passes you by
When you say to her flat: "O, I couldn't do that."
You never can tell till you try.

"I can't: O, I can't." That's where so many fall
When the roadway is hilly and rough.
Their paths must be smooth or they'll not go at all.
But, if you are made of good stuff,
You will make the attempt, be it ever
so hard,
You will win or will understand why;
For it's certain that you don't know what you can do,
You can never tell till you try.

How many great men that we honor today
Foresaw, in the distance, success?
And how many obstacles stood in their way
That none of us living may guess?
But all unafraid they went into their work,
Determined to do or to die.
"I can't" wasn't heard, for the phrase
is absurd,
You never can tell till you try.
—Edgar A. Guest, in Detroit Free Press.

Bustle in a Store.

Mrs. Hayseed (on her first visit to town)—One would think that big store I was just in would do considerable business, but I suppose most of the crowd jest looks around and goes out ag'in. My! Wasn't there a commotoin when I bought something and paid for it.

Hostess—A commotion?

Mrs. Hayseed—Mercy! yes. Just as quick as that clerk-girl got my money, she began yelling "cash" like mad—and half a dozen little errand-boys came rushin' up to see it.—New York Weekly.

REASONABLE SUGGESTION.

"Where do you suppose Reggy de Soft got that high handshake that he is always working?"

Harry—Taking cups from the ladies at high teas, maybe.

Common Profanity.

"I'll be deviled!" said the ham.
"I'll be switched!" said the train.
"I'll be darned!" said the sock.
"I'll be stumped!"said the tree.
"I'll be blowed!" said the horn.
"I'll be hanged!" said the picture.
"I'll be dammed!" said the stream.
—Judge.

Trouble.

"Ma, I didn't know the Browns kept horses."

"They don't, my dear. What made you think so?"

"I heard pa telling a man on the street yesterday that Mrs. Brown has the finest carriage of any woman he knows."—Cleveland Leader.

Prompting Him.

"If my memory," slowly answered the reluctant witness, "serves me right—"

"One moment," interrupted the cross-examining lawyer; "please remember, Mr. Slick, that your memory is under oath."—Chicago Tribune.

A Sad Situation.

"You are very forgetful since these investigations started."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "When it comes to signing a check to pay a government fine, I find it impossible even to write my own name."—Washington Star.

O, Come, Now!

Rivers—When it comes to marrying sporting men that blonde Miss Granstan takes the palm.

Brooks—Takes the palm? I should say. Her latest husband is a baseball fan.—Chicago Tribune.

Speaking of—

Indignant Philadelphian—He insulted a whole city. A man that will talk as he does ought to be pounding rock for a living.

New Yorker—Speaking of Hammerstein, aren't you?—Chicago Tribune.

Its Variety.

"So Binks, they tell me, has a fine new carriage. It is some kind of a chaise, isn't it?"

"Yes, one of them new French kind. His coachman told me it was a shay doover."—Baltimore American.

The Proper Tool.

"What on earth will I write this water supply article with?"

"Why not get a fountain pen?"—Baltimore American.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

A thirty-one-year-old horse, belonging to Ross Somers, at Gibbstown, stumbled yesterday and broke its neck.

Mrs. Robert Carton was severely bruised about the head and face by a fall at her home, in Millville.

Jacob Reitz, of Malaga, has been held under $200 bail on charges made by his wife of ill-treatment. Reitz is her fourth husband.

One of the largest steam saw mills ever built in South Jersey is being erected by William Reeves, on a tract of woodland which he has purchased near Hunter's Mill.

A wireless telegraph station seventy-five feet high has been erected by Charles Gibbon and George Hamilton, Millville boys, who expect to receive messages in a short time.

Assemblyman Isaac T. Nichols, of Bridgeton, addressed a large mass-meeting of men in the North Baptist church, Millville, under the auspices of the Men's League, Wednesday evening.

Accidentally shot in the side with a bullet from a rifle in the hands of a playmate, Thomas Patchel, fifteen years old, of Wildwood, was taken to Cooper Hospital, Camden, Wednesday night. His condition is not serious.

A dog which has been found to have been suffering from rabies, bit Mrs. Joseph Batten, of Winslow Township, Camden county. Instead of sending her to the Pasteur Institute the township authorities ordered the antitoxin from New York and she will be treated at her home.

After the Bell Telephone Company had erected several poles on the East Side at Woodbury permission to do the work was asked from the Council Wednesday night. The company also asked to be allowed to lay conduits on South Broad and Franklin streets. The latter is up to the Street Committee.

Atlantic City is to be made a "spotless town" for Easter, under orders of the Board of Health. A staff of inspectors will force the cleaning up of alleys and back yards, in preparation for the coming inrush of visitors. The inspectors will be armed with hose and brooms, and will flush out all alleys and generally polish up vacant lots.

Under instructions from Judge Starr, Sheriff Wilson has recalled the Gloucester County Grand Jury for today, when, it is understood, the case of W. F. Davis, of Glassboro, who insisted, under advice of counsel, in reopening his bar after his license was revoked, will be considered. A number of witnesses have been summoned. This case is being bitterly fought by both sides.

Although the Ocean boulevard bill, which has passed the Legislature, and only awaits Governor Fort's signature, does not include any highway for Long Beach, that section will not be behindhand in this matter. Already the Township Committee has voted to bond the township, by which the boulevard can be constructed from Barnegat Light, at the northern extremity, to Newton, or Little Egg Harbor Inlet, at the south, a distance of twenty-one miles.

Accompanied by a private detective, Rev. Matthias Tarnowski, of St. Joseph's Polish Catholic church, Camden, called on Mayor Ellis Wednesday, but after a conference in regard to the proposed peace commission to visit Bishop McFaul at Trenton and effect a settlement of the parish's troubles, the priest declined to discuss the matter. A delegation of the "insurgents" also called on the Mayor, who promised to visit the bishop concerning the matter today.

MEN'S CLUB FORMED.

Dr. Halsey Talks on "Missions," a Man's Job."

Over 100 men enjoyed an excellent dinner in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, Cranford, Wednesday night, and listened to an address by Dr. A. W. Halsey, of New York, secretary of the board of foreign missions, who spoke about "Missions, a Man's Job." Among other speakers was the Rev. Dr. G. F. Green, the pastor of the church. Ex-Mayor E. B. Horton acted as toastmaster, and music was furnished by an orchestra, with A. B. Lewis as leader. After the banquet the men formed the Men's League of the First Presbyterian church. Officers were elected as follows: President, A. B. Lewis; vice-president, J. S. Conkling; secretary, E. O. Valle, Jr., and treasurer, Thomas Hall.

Highly Practical.

"Your business college for young women seems to be all right."

"It is all right."

"Do you give the girls a good, practical business training?"

"In reply to that question I can only say that 60 per cent. of our graduates marry their employers the first year."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FIVE MILE MARATHON BOYS' RACE TOMORROW

Sixty-five boys will race for the five mile Marathon championship of the city tomorrow afternoon. That number of entries having been received by Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A.

While held under the auspices of the association, all boys in the city under sixteen years of age, are eligible. Besides the title of champion the winner will receive a handsome watch fob. The contestants will assemble at the Y. M. C. A. at 1 o'clock and at 1:30 sharp they will line up in front of the building and start at the crack of a pistol.

The route will extend to Scotch Plains and return, finishing at the starting point. It is expected that a large crwod will gather to witness the event, which is the first of a series of marathon runs being arranged by Mr. Listman.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Mr. Perrin will conduct the gospel meeting at the Rescue Mission Sunday night.

The Sabbath-school of the Seventh Day Baptist church, will hold its annual meeting Sunday night for the election of officers and reception of reports.

G. Stuart Simons will give an illustrated lecture on "Mexico," next Sunday afternoon at Hope chapel, during the Sunday-school hour. The slides are said to be fine.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church, will meet this afternoon in Vincent chapel. Miss May Randolph, superintendent, will be in charge of the program.

Jacob W. Ecob, of Brooklyn, will lecture on "The Church and Temperance," before the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church, in Vincent chapel, tonight. All men are invited.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, will preach at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the session of the Sabbath-school will be held immediately afterward.

The regular monthly meeting of the Christian Missionary Alliance will be held in the W. C. T. U., today. It is in charge of Rev. W. W. Newberry. The regular meeting of the Alliance will be held tonight at the usual hour.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church is rehearsing an elaborate program of Easter music to be rendered on Sunday, April 11. The quartet choir of the church will also have a special program under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist.

For Shore Train Service.

W. D. Thickstun is circulating a petition among the local patrons of the Jersey Central's shore route summer service asking the road's management to restore its 1907 schedule or one as convenient for the local patrons. In that year, a train left here at 4:12 in the afternoon, which connected with a train from Newark at Elizabethport getting the passengers to the shore in time for dinner. A year ago this train was taken off. The return service in 1907 was also much better than now. The petition will be sent to General Passenger Agent Hope.

Do a Great Stunt.

The Homan brother made a great hit at the try-out night performance at the New Plainfield theatre last night in a comedy horizontal act. The pair have been engaged by Manager Counihan for next Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern:—

Take notice that application will be made to the present (1909) session of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, for the passage of an Act of the Legislature to extend the time of the "Plainfield Horse Car Railroad Company", to complete all or at least two miles of its railway, from the time stated in the Act of the Legislature granting said company its charter (P. L. 1871, p. 1361), or in any other Act, general or special, by which such time has been extended, to the first day of July, one thousand nine-hundred and fourteen, and, if said charter has expired by reason of failure to complete said railway as specified in said incorporating act, or other acts general or special extending such time, to revive such charter.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 28, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Best missionary books, home and foreign.—Isa. lxii, 6-12

The importance of reading the best books upon any subject in which we are interested need not be emphasized. The student of history takes great delight in poring over the standard works of history, and so it is with the student of literature, philosophy or any other subject on which information is to be found in books. What is true of other subjects should also be true of missions, both home and foreign. If we are deeply interested in missions we should read the greatest missionary books and biographies upon the subject. And if we are Christians and not interested in missions there is all the more reason for our reading such books, that missionary interest and zeal may be aroused in us. Every disciple of Christ should be interested in missions, and nothing will so readily tend to develop this interest as the reading of the best missionary literature.

The missionary literature of today is especially worth reading. There was a time when missionary periodicals and books were most uninteresting. They were about as dry as the bones in the vision of Ezekiel. But the dry bones have been revived, and there is no more interesting reading in the world today than the stories of missions and missionaries. Their pages contain wonderful events, stranger, indeed, than the best fiction. Nowhere can more interesting reading be found than in the accounts of Christ's disciples in their work of evangelizing the world in accordance with His command. The life of John G. Paton among the cannibals of the New Hebrides cannot be excelled in its thrilling incidents and for the miraculous account of the way in which God kept him and gave him power among these barbarous peoples. What is true of Paton's life story is true of many others, and no one need feel in danger of ennui in reading such missionary biographies.

The benefits to be derived from reading missionary literature are also of importance. (1) Information. Ignorance is the cause of much missionary indifference. The reading of first class missionary literature will dispel this ignorance and with it the indifference. No one can read the life of William Carey or of Judson or Henry Martyn, etc., without having the keenest interest in missions aroused in him. If he can, there is something he lacks as a disciple of Christ. (2) Inspiration. Missionary literature is conducive to great inspiration. It inspires us to increased effort for the advancement of Christ's kingdom and awakens in many hearts a strong desire to devote themselves to the life of the missionary. The reading of the life of David Brainerd by Jonathan Edwards was the immediate influence that led one of England's greatest missionaries to go to the foreign field.

Missionary literature is popular today. Many books have been written upon it. We cannot read them all and hence should select the very best. First among all stands the Acts of the Apostles. Among the best of the others are the biographies of Livingstone, Moffat, Paton, Martyn, Carey, Judson, John Eliot, David Brainerd, Marcus Whitman, "Beach's Geography of Missions," "Barnes' Missions Before Carey," "Thompson's Moravian Missions," "Pierson's Miracle of Missions," "Presbyterian Foreign Missions," "Presbyterian Home Missions."

Let each Endeavorer strive to read at least one missionary book who has not done so. If this is done and something interesting of each book is told at this meeting, it will be instructive and inspiring.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Acts i, 1-8; xiii, 1-3; xvi, 25-34; xvii, 10, 11; xix, 17-20; xxvi, 27; Rom. x, 12-15.

The First Hypnotic Stage.

A widow was lamenting to a friend the fact that her three sons had all gone to sea. She lived far from the coast, and her boys had never seen the ocean until they left home to become sailors. On the wall of her cottage hung a picture of a ship in a storm, with the sailors clinging to the rigging. Pointing to this picture, the visitor said, "That was what made your boys sailors." Children, as Tolstoy says, are in what physicians call "the first hypnotic stage"—that is, they are easily impressed. The picture on the wall had been a constant suggestion to the boys to become sailors. The influence of our example in the home or in business is infinitely more potent in forming the character of our young people than all our moral axioms, our "don't" and our "do." In spite of apparent difference a careful analysis of our children's character will often reveal the fact that they are more or less faithful reflections of our own acts and thoughts and the environment in which the young people have grown up. It is the same with a Christian Endeavor society. Endeavorers copy the church and the pastor. They do it unconsciously. Hence one might almost formulate a law—thus, a going church, a going Young People's society—that is, if there is one, and there should be in every "going" church. A poor society ought to lead us to ask, "Do the young people reflect the spiritual condition of the church?" I have yet to see a vigorous church that cannot get good work out of a Young People's society. The church makes the society by an inevitable law. The relation of the two is worth pondering.—Ripple in Christian Endeavor World.

Spring Garments

That Are in a Class by Themselves

We've struck the keynote good and loud in Smart Apparel for Men this Spring. In Clothing particularly we lead 'em all. Wouldn't be satisfied if we didn't.

Long years of study and care toward the betterment of ready-to-wear, both in model and finish, find its strongest expression in Our New Spring Suits and Overcoats and places them in a class by themselves.

Take our Suits at $16, if you please, and they look like most $20 garments. The reason is plain. It's because they're fashioned and finished by the same staff of tailors that makes our highest priced garments.

It's only the quality of the fabrics that governs the price. The same shapliness, individuality and smart appearance stands out in all our garments, whatever the price.

The most modest dresser, as well as the ultra-fashionable young man, is equally appealed to in our New Spring Models.

Spring Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats, $12 to $30.

Boys' Suit Special!

Regular $5.00 and $6.00 Values at 3.68

This Suit Special has been taken advantage of by many a mother who wanted to enconomize on her youngster's Easter Outfit. But the choice is still complete. These are Two-Piece Suits, with an extra pair of bloomer trousers, cut full. Sizes, 7 to 16 years. They're all wool, fancy mixtures, in fifteen different patterns.

Men's $4 and $4.50 Oxfords, $3.15

They are this Spring's Oxfords, in gun metal and russet calf. All sizes and widths. The russets are both button and blucher styles.

"Newark's Best Cloak and Suit Dept."

THE COSTUMES

Every bit of them, from neck to hem, is absolutely new; the material the very latest silk messaline; one style has an elaborately trimmed front in hand-embroidered effect with tucked net yoke; other tucks and folds complete the costumes.

Still another style is rather more tailored in effect, cleverly constructed with tucks and wide plaits, also a net yoke; the skirt in the graceful clinging effect; worth fully a third more than our price - - - - 14.98

THE TAILORED SUITS

Each of the season's styles is well represented in the assortment. You will also find all of the various materials that are new. Space does not permit a description of each suit, there are so many. We are satisfied that no matter in what direction your thoughts run you will find the style you want in the color you desire and a size to fit you. In this lot of suits not one is worth less than $20, some as much as $25, at - - 14.98

[illegible] of Fay Stahl in "The Chorus Lady" [illegible] James [illegible] "The Chorus Lady," comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. "The Chorus Lady," now in its third season and still recognized as one of the leading successes now current on the American stage, is a play that has proved a remarkable drawing card since its first presentation at the Savoy theatre in New York three seasons ago. In one season "The Chorus Lady" performed the unparalelled feat of appearing in three Broadway theatres and carrying its capacity business with it from house to house. Forced out of the Savoy theatre by previous bookings, the production was given at the Garrick theatre until pre-arranged bookings again forced it out and the beautiful Hackett theatre was secured, where it remained the rest of the season, breaking all records. A four months' run in Chicago succeeded and was followed by similar engagements in the principal cities of the East and Middle West, so that when Miss Stahl closed her season in Boston last May to take a well-earned vacation, "The Chorus Lady" had played for nine-[illegible] consecutive weeks to a business average that was the talk of the entire theatrical world.

Manager Frank Thompson of "The Old Homestead," is authority for the statement that there is one town in this country where until last season the inhabitants, apparently, had never heard of the famous New England idyl. This town is Ottawa, Kansas. Mr. Thompson brought "The Old Homestead" there last season and even the manager of the theatre inquired what it was like, volunteering the information that if it was anything like "The Little Homestead" he didn't think it would do much business, as the people had already seen [illegible] "The New [illegible] will be seen here [illegible] and [illegible] April [illegible]

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Ways of Fighting Tuberculosis.

In every imaginable way the great white plague can be met and fought. In utilizing these weapons the wonder arises that man, with all his acquired knowledge, his mental capacity and his fear of death, should have until now so ignorantly given to the great enemy of the human race every possible weapon and every possible opportunity to strike down selected victims. We have acted in the case of tuberculosis much the same as the fatalist Turk did when his dwelling was ablaze. He sat himself down calmly amid his household effects and said: "What is to be will be," and let the fire burn. What is more, we have aided the scourge in many ways, and made its victims the carriers and disseminators of the deadly germs. For years a cure was vaguely talked of. The experiments of scientists like Professor Koch were eagerly watched and extravagant hopes were built upon them. Prevention was little thought of until of late, and infection went on just the same, in dwellings, on the streets, in institutions, in the schools and in railroad cars and everywhere. The common drinking cups, and even the communion cups, are purveyors of the disease germs. We know the evil of factory dust, of the badly ventilated and crowded tenements, of expectoration in public vehicles and places. We know the importance of isolation and of the utmost care to prevent infection. In short, we know the means of prevention, and to a much larger extent, also, the method of cure. With good organization, energetic effort and a thorough awakening of the public to the nature of the disease the victory will be won and tuberculosis will cease to figure in the vital statistics as claiming more victims annually than all other contagious and infectious diseases combined.—Newark Star.

Washington Rock.

Just as the Evening News suggested when the startling report was spread abroad that Washington Rock was to be destroyed, there is no foundation in fact for such a story to rest upon. "There never has been, says the Plainfield Press, "any purpose to locate a stone crusher at Washington Rock, nor has it ever been intended to desecrate this historic spot in any way. The truth of the matter is that the rock will be made more attractive than ever, after some contemplated improvements are made in the immediate vicinity." This comes from an authoritative source, and it is in accord with common sense and the usual rules of successful business. The time is coming when the southern slope of the Watchung Mountains, to the north and northwest of Plainfield, will all be laid out with roads and drives and will be thickly dotted with beautiful residences. What folly it would be, even from a business point of view, to destroy one of the chief attractions of the whole tract, and rob it of one of its chief assets. No money that could be made out of the crushed rock would begin to compensate for such desecration.—Newark Evening News.

Would Seem Not.

SOME NEW DAINTIES

TRIFLES FOR AFTERNOON OR EVENING PARTIES.

Delicious Sandwich That Is Not as Widely Known as It Should Be—Russian Tea Jelly—Recipe for Wafers.

At an afternoon bridge party last week a sandwich new to most of the guests was served. A paste had been made of the white meat of a cold chicken run through a grinder, pounded to a paste and mixed with a little whipped cream seasoned lightly with horse radish and salt and pepper and stiffened with a little dissolved gelatin. The paste, when it had set, was spread on thin slices of bread and was then decorated with olive rings, bits of cress and lettuce. There was no top slice.

A delicious dessert is made with prunes as a foundation. Steam the prunes until they are soft. Then take out the stones and fill them into a wet mold. Turn over them a jelly made of a cupful of sherry, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, the juice of two oranges and half an ounce of gelatin soaked in half a cupful of cold water and dissolved in half a cupful of boiling water. Serve with whipped cream.

Russian tea jelly, which is sometimes served like a frappe in place of ices at afternoon "at homes," is easily made. Turn two and a half cupfuls of boiling water and the juice of a lemon over four heaping tablespoonsful of tea, add a heaping tablespoonful of gelatin, dissolved and a little sugar. Stir thoroughly and strain into a wet mold.

Wafers are too ethereal to be taken seriously, but they are all right as a delicacy. Make a paste of one cupful of flour that has been sifted at least twice, a teaspoonful of baking powder, a spoonful of sugar, a very little salt, and the smallest quantity of milk possible to make into a paste. Roll wafer thin, sprinkle with granulated sugar, roll again, cut into squares, and bake five minutes. The sugar may be omitted in making them, and sprinkled over after they are done.

For an inexpensive but tasty dessert cook tart apples with the grated rind and juice of a lemon and sugar to taste. When the apples are soft rub them through a sieve, and for three cupfuls of the apples, add an ounce of gelatin that has been soaked soft in half a cupful of cold water and dissolved in half a cupful of hot water. Color the mixture with a little pink coloring paste, turn into a glass dish and stand in a cool place. Serve with whipped cream. An ounce of gelatin equals about two heaping teaspoonfuls.

For tomato jelly, stew a quart can of the fruit with a piece of mace and a bit of bay leaf, rub the pulp through a sieve and add an ounce of gelatin that has been soaked soft in cold water and dissolved in hot water. Fill the center with broken nut meats and celery broken into small pieces and dressed with mayonnaise. Garnish with whole nut meats and olives. The jelly may be molded in individual forms and served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise turned over it.

Coffee Bread.

Scald a pint of milk and stir into it two tablespoonfuls of cottolene or butter, two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar and a dash of salt. When blood warm add a half yeast cake dissolved in a half-gill of warm milk then beat in enough flour to make a soft dough. Set aside to rise and when light beat in a half-cup of seeded and halved raisins. Spread the thin dough on the bottom of a buttered baking pan, cover and set aside to rise again. When light brush over with butter, then sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake for a half hour, covering for the first quarter-hour with paper.

Old-Fashioned Vinegar Pie.

Bake the pie crust in a pie tin and set aside. Mix together three-quarters of a cup of sugar, two and a half tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one and one-half cups of boiling water, the beaten yolks of two eggs, a large tablespoonful of cornstarch wet with a little cold water, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and butter the size of a walnut. Cook all in the double boiler and when thick turn into the pie crust and set in the oven for 15 minutes. Use the whites of the eggs for a meringue for the top of the pie.

Delicious Fresh Mint Sherbert.

This makes a pretty addition to a company dinner. Pour two cupfuls boiling water over a bunch o. bruised, fresh mint leaves. Cover and let it stand for 15 minutes on the back of the stove to infuse, then add one cupful sugar. When the sugar is dissolved strain, cool, add two-thirds of a cupful of grape juice. Freeze to mush-like consistency. Serve in sherbet glasses, ornamenting the top of each glass with a crystalized cherry and sprig of mint.

Molasses Corn Balls.

Pop about [illegible] full to try your luck. To a cup of molasses and a half cup sugar and boil till it will get hard in cold water (not brittle). Just before you take it off add a pinch of soda to make it light. Pour over popped corn and stir till the molasses is well over the corn, then wet your hands in cold water and form into balls.

THAT SETTLED MR. CLERKLIE.

Happening That Decided Him on Seeking Another Restaurant.

For years Mr. Clerklie had eaten his frugal but well hing luncheon in a little restaurant half a block north from his office. He was an easily satisfied person, and what he ordered seemed always to suit him to perfection. The waitresses never knew him to complain.

But one day things went wrong. The butter was rancid, and the bread so moist that Mr. Clerklie, who had decided ideas about hygiene, would not eat it. He did his best, and left the table early.

The next day the same thing occurred, and the day after there was no improvement. He called the waitress to him.

"May I see the proprietor, please?" he inquired.

The girl disappeared for a minute and returned with the news that the proprietor was out.

The following day as well as the one after there was no improvement in the food, and no sign of the proprietor. Mr. Clarklie nearly made up his mind to seek another restaurant. He decided, however, to give them a chance, and on Saturday at luncheon again asked for the owner of the place.

"He's gone out," was the reply.

Mr. Clerklie became bold.

"This is ridiculous!" he exclaimed. "I come here at noontime every day, and every day he is out. Where is he, anyway?"

"We expect him back any minute," said the girl. "He has just stepped out to get his lunch."—Youth's Companion.

DUMMY DISHES FOR BANQUETS.

Are Used to Give Impression of Prodigal Display.

Cardboard cakes and other similar delicacies are, it seems, no longer confined to the stage, and at many functions requests for a portion from a particular dish might cause great consternation.

The use of these dummy dishes is increasing very much, for at many of the public banquets for which the tickets are almost ridiculously cheap it would not be possible for the caterers to supply the great show of delicacies and dessert which are exhibited on the buffets for so little payment, if they were real.

They provide, therefore, a certain amount of real food—poultry and game—and judiciously place dishes of dummy food among the real, to give the impression of a prodigal display.

The waiters alone know exactly what they may safely attempt to carve, and what to leave alone; and the most observant guest would have difficulty in distinguishing the real from the counterfeit.

Nothing is more deceptive than the fruit at some functions. What are those luscious hothouse peaches with such a perfect bloom on the dishes? A bite into one of them would bring cruel disillusion.

Around, perhaps, are arranged real bananas, apples and cheap grapes, but the big black hothouse grapes are also frauds.

The caterer cannot help himself. His supporters love a show, hence he must provide it as cheaply as possible.

How to Find the Blind Spot.

The "blind spot" that occurs in every eye, no matter how perfect may be the sight, is that precise point where the optic nerve enters the eye, about one-tenth inch nearer the nose than the center.

To discover this spot, take, for example, two rubber tipped lead pencils and hold them together at arm's length, directly in front of you, one in each hand; close your left eye, and fix the sight of the right eye on the left-hand pencil; gradually separate them until about six inches apart, when it will be found that you have lost sight of the rubber on the right-hand pencil. While this is a natural condition in all eyes, still the fact remains doubted by many till it is tried.—Sunday Magazine.

The Trouble with It.

An enlisted man at the post at Fort Leavenworth was not long ago ordered to the range for the first time for target drill. Out of 21 chances the newcomer made never a hit.

"Oh, you dub!" exclaimed an officer, standing near. "You've missed the target every time! What's the matter?"

"Well, sir," answered the recruit, nonchalantly, "the only reason I can think of at present is that the person who set up my target hasn't placed it in a straight line from here."—Harper's Weekly.

He Needed Buttons.

The surgeons were a trifle startled upon finding that they had incidentally sewed up a sponge in the patient. They hurriedly reopened him and extracted it. When all was neatly sewed up once more they came upon the discovery that they had forgotten a knife. They opened him up again and found the knife, sewed him up, and missed a large wad of cotton. When they had again reopened him, found the cotton, and closed him again, the patient opened his eyes in a weary way.

"Doctors," said he, "hadn't you better put buttons on me?"

A Danger.

"Why don't you read up on scientific farming?"

"I started that once," answered Mr. Corntossel. "It didn't pay. I got so interested readin' that I forgot to go out and farm."

PUT HAPPY END TO QUARREL.

Tactful Act That Reconciled Old Friends Long Parted.

The passenger on the car looked slightly alarmed. Investigation was proving that he had no smaller change than a five-dollar bill. He offered it to the conductor in vain.

"Can't make the change," said the autocrat, reaching for the bell rope.

The passenger started meekly for the door. A man in front of him stood up suddenly and said: "Let me pay your fare, John."

The other passengers looked relieved, but instead of accepting the happy offer, John scowled darkly at the speaker, to the great surprise of the observers, and evidently would have refused to accept the favor had not the other man insistently closed the deal with the conductor, in spite of John's protest, all the time keeping up a low conversation with John.

The scowl slowly melted from John's brow, and soon the two men were seated side by side, chatting congenially.

After John left the car, the stranger betook himself to the platform with his cigar, where he explained to the conductor.

"That man and I used to be good friends, but we had a quarrel and have not been on speaking terms for years. I have tried several times in various ways to make it up with him, but never before have succeeded. Even this time he was obdurate at first, but I didn't give him any chance to get away. He has promised to take luncheon with me today, and that will clinch the matter. Glad you didn't make the change."

SEE END OF MAN'S DOMINION.

Whole Matter Settled by Four Women Over the Tea Table.

The women, taking their tea by the club window, talked.

"They have a girl prompter at the Garrick theater," said one. "The manager told me last night that he'll have none but women prompters after this. Their fine, clear voices carry so beautifully across the stage, while at the same time they are quite inaudible in the auditorium."

"Of course," said another. "In teaching living languages, too, a woman is incomparably better than a man. A man has a thick guttural voice. His words are all mumbled and jumbled. But a woman's clear delivery—her open voice—gives every syllable its just value. In studying French or German or Italian, choose a woman, and your progress will be easier and faster."

"Norwegian horses," said a third woman, "are at once spirited and gentle. Do you know why? Because it is the women, the farm women, who break them. They make pets of them first; the colts feed from their hands and follow them about like dogs. After that their breaking is easy. It is only done by kindness. And the result is that Norwegian horses have the best dispositions in the world."

A fourth woman settled the whole matter.

"As mental power ousts muscular power," she said, "woman, save in such irremediably brutal vocations as surgery or pig-sticking, will supersede man all along the line."

Why Streams Are Disappearing.

Anyone who has reached the age of 75 has noticed the disappearance of the small brooks where he played in his district school days, while larger ones have shrunk to summer threads, and rivers that filled their banks all the year are hardly more than rivulets in summer. Commissioner Whipple of New York state tells up that the upper Hudson, in August of 1907, had no more than two inches of water where it used to roll a heavy volume. There is substantial agreement that this change has been due to the denudation of our hills and valleys of the water holding trees. It takes a century to grow such forests as we found covering the continent; it has taken half a century to destroy them.—The Independent.

The Bread and Pipe Baker.

The lecturer at the cooking school sometimes enlivened her remarks with an anecdote.

"The eighteenth century baker," she said, "was a pipe-cleaner as well, just as the barber a little earlier was a surgeon.

"Everybody in those days smoked clay pipes, provided, the same as cups or spoons, by the coffee houses. Well, each morning a waiter carried his master's stock of pipes—some hundred perhaps—to the nearest bakery. The baker would boil them out, then dip them in liquid lime, then bake them dry. They came out of the oven as sweet and white as new."

Disraeli Among the Lords.

Disraeli was a past master of the art of flattery, but his audacity carried him out of danger. Soon after his elevation to the house of lords he was asked by a brother peer how he felt in his new surroundings. "Oh, don't ask me," he groaned; "dead and buried."

Then remembering that his questioner was of the company which he was contemning, he added, "and in the realm of the blest!"

Resentment.

"Does you charge 30 cents foh dat little box o' strawberries?" asked Aunt Hannah, superciliously.

"Yes," answered the grocer.

"An' it 'ud take about a thousan' of dem berries to make one ten-cent watermelon! I doesn't mind de price, but I does hate sech impidence!"

JEALOUSY AND THE CAR

By D. C. BURGESS.

Betsy Grace was young and beautiful—very beautiful. Golden hair, blue eyes, fresh complexion, buxom figure; she was everything attractive. She would have done excellently for the heroine of a modern novel, externally; but look within. She was very honest and wholesome-minded, and almost inconveniently candid. That surely conducts her for the role. Everything she felt or did was thorough, and although, doubtless, she possessed one, she was never reminded that she had a liver.

She had ever been content with life as she found it; but content is not quite the same as happiness. Like all healthy girls—she was 20—she had always entertained a hope of marrying an exceptionally attractive and immensely wealthy man.

Unlike the many, she was now going to realize this ambition; nor did her good fortune end here—she loved this paragon devotedly, and he, wholeheartedly, reciprocated her affection. Content was changed into radiant happiness. There was no need for waiting; the wedding was to be at once.

She knew her paragon could never prove faithless; he had told her so. It is only those who have never known who murmur, "What nonsense!"

Nothing else could she think of that could possibly come between her and bliss, and she mentally crowed.

The honeymoon was over. Betsy had enjoyed it, and what was more, was not ashamed to say so. They had motored from place to place in her husband's car. Though perfect, he was one of those monsters bred of the twentieth century, the motor fanatic.

Betsy was the most obliging of girls, and it must not be forgotten, adored her husband. She had struggled to cultivate a deep interest in motors in general, and the motor in particular. But, after a month, she was bound to admit she had failed; and being one of the few who cannot put a feeling in the window of which they have not a large stock within, this grieved her not a little.

It wasn't that the paragon desired her to understand the car's "innards;" on the contrary, he was not a prude, but he shared the opinion of many men, that a girl with a truly mechanical mind is almost indecently unmaidenly.

But in spite of this he discussed motor matters incessantly, and referred to his own car as "she." Betsy could hardly believe it of herself; but to this latter she had a strong objection.

He, of course, drove his car; and, needless to say, drove it recklessly. She was not a coward, but life was too good to be risked at every sharp corner; so she chose staying at home while he went forth, worrying desperately till he returned.

His leisure time was spent in tinkering. He loved her none the less; she knew that to her comfort; but the time and attention spent away from her she grudged. The thing had a body certainly, but no soul—what charm could it have?

For a long time she said nothing about this growing feeling. She tried to see her own foolishness, knowing it was there, but failed.

Like everything kept to oneself its development was abnormal, until she was bound to admit that its name was "Jealousy."

Then she told her husband. He laughed—of course he did. Could a man, however fond, understand such a sentiment? Could a man, be he ever so loving, comprehend one-half a woman's feelings?

He spent less time over the car, thinking to please her; but she knew his motive, and was sorry she had spoken.

She grew to hate the sight of the motor, and she did that which she so disliked her husband doing. She mentally called it "she."

This was fatal. A feeling of vindictiveness was bound to follow.

For the first time in her life Betsy developed nerves. She was easily irritated, and when the motor was mentioned she felt—well, it's difficult to explain—but the feeling was rather like impending combustion.

She had a good fund of common sense, and decided she needed a change. She told her husband they must go away somewhere for a bit.

"Very well, dear," he replied. "What do you say to running down to Brighton in the car, and then—"

She interrupted him.

"I think I've changed my mind; we'll stop at home."

"What a fool I am," thought Betsy. "With everything to make me happy, and yet letting this ridiculous jealousy" (for so she now called it out loud to herself) "come between me and happiness."

At last a plan entered her head; it was too daring to put into immediate action. She couldn't weigh the consequences, for she could form no idea what they might be; but she had to wait for her most courageous frame of mind, and her husband's absence.

Both, in time, came simultaneously, and she went forth armed with a hammer to do the deed. She wished she could have laid hands on a pickax.

She crept quietly into the motor house (she couldn't get rid of the feeling that the thing could hear and see), opened the bonnet with decision, and hammered on the hapless engine, indiscriminately, till she was weary. Then, with a hatpin she punctured the tires.

Having done this a feeling of content took possession of her; nof, it must be admitted, unmixed with alarm at which might ensue when the paragon returned.

It was not long before he came home. Truth to tell, he was never long away from her.

Nothing was lacking in his greeting; but then, of course, he had not discovered her black deed.

Days went by, and still no mention of what was always uppermost in her thoughts. At last, she felt she must start the subject.

"You've not motored much lately, dear," she ventured.

"No," he said. "The poor cab is decidedly hors de combat."

"Had a puncture?" she interjected.

He laughed. "Several;" then he grew serious. "I didn't know I had an enemy in the world, but I must have. And the wretch, whoever he may be, has spent a good half-hour at least smashing the poor old machine. If he's done it to spite me, the man's a fool; he's only given me the joy of buying a new car."

"Why didn't you tell me before?" she asked, with as much composure as she could muster.

"Well, I've put the police on his track, and I thought it might alarm you to feel I've got an enemy who suffers from vindictiveness. But there's no cause to worry, dear, they'll soon find him."

"Or her," she said. And then she fell to weeping.

He cursed himself for having told her so much, and tried to comfort her.

Suddenly she dried her tears.

"I did it," she said. "I was jealous of the car, because you were so fond of it, and because you called it 'she.'" She ended with a sob.

The reason didn't strike him as a good one, but he'd have felt the same if she'd had no reason at all.

"Good-by to cars," he said. "I'll never have another. But you mustn't mind, Betsy, if I take your clocks to pieces sometimes. I must tinker with something."

She kissed him.

"I've got the best husband in the world," she said. "To-morrow we go to town to purchase a car."

He smiled.

"You sleep on that, you may have changed your mind about it in the morning; but one thing is sure, if ever I have another, I'll allude to it as 'It.' Why, you silly child, there's only one 'She' in the world."

Betsy was once more happy.

WANTED THE OFFICIAL NEWS.

Mrs. Attlebury Not Satisfied with Personal Knowledge.

The blizzard was doing its very worst. All the street cars were stalled up, and Attlebury was unable to get to town, being completely blockaded in his suburban home by the raging storm. Neither the milkman nor the butcher had been able to get near the house, and altogether the family was about as badly off as they would have been had Lonelihurst been in a state of siege. Nevertheless, Attlebury put a cheerful face on the matter and tried to make himself agreeable around the house, and would have succeeded rather well if it had not been for a great cloud of gloom that seemed to have settled on Mrs. Attlebury.

"Cheer up, dear," said Attlebury. "I don't mind taking an enforced holiday."

"It's awful," said the good lady.

"There won't be any bargains today," smiled Attlebury, "so you need not bother about that, and as far as breakfast was concerned, I can get along without milk and cream and an egg for one morning, anyhow."

"It isn't that," sighed Mrs. Attlebury. "I don't care any more about the milkman or the butcher than you do, but I do miss the morning paper."

"You are not expecting any particular news that you can't wait for, are you?" said Attlebury.

"No," said Mrs. Attlebury, "but I don't feel satisfied nowadays until I've read the weather reports. I want to know what kind of a day we are going to have."—Harper's Weekly.

To Discourage Opium Users.

A quaint touch of oriental ingenuity to harass the persistent users of opium has been invented by the superintendent of the police at Canton, says the Lancet's correspondent in China. This official has issued 20,000 wooden licenses, ten inches long by eight inches broad and three-fifths of an inch thick. On the front of these boards are characters giving the smoker's name and address, and the quantity allowed him per diem, and on the back are the opium regulations. The licensees are not allowed to cover their boards when going to buy opium, but must wear them conspicuously so that all may see them. Next year these wooden licenses are to be two feet long by one and a half broad and three-fifths of an inch thick.

Houses Built of Meerschaum.

The town of Vallecas, Spain, is almost entirely built of meerschaum. Vallecas has on its outskirts great quarries of a meerschaum too coarse for pipe making, and a meerschaum built town is the result—an ivory white town that shines in the Spanish sun. In Morocco meerschaum is so plentiful that they use it, when soft and fresh, for soap. It gives a plentiful and cleansing lather. Ekdischehr, in Asia Minor, supplies the world's meerschaum. There are 2,000 mines, large and small, there, and 8,000 Kurd and Persian meerschaum miners work day and night in them. The meerschaum comes from the earth yellow, and turns white after ten days' bleaching in the sun.

SOME CURIOSITIES OF COLDS.

Microbes Seem to Be Comparatively Harmless in Some Regions.

When I go to South Africa, susceptible as I am to colds, I can dip my head into every bucket of water I can see or put it under every tap I can find. After that I can put it out in the biggest draft I can discover—in front of an electric fan for preference—and yet I do not catch cold. Colds at sea seem to come from that which was brought aboard. David Livingstone, I am told, never got a cold in South Africa, but he got a bad one when he returned to Scotland.

Nansen and his friend Johansen could in the arctic region tumble into cold water, sleep out without a change, and yet keep well. At St. Kilda, I understand, a passenger with a cold is expected to remain on board; otherwise there may be influenza throughout the island. In Fair island, and to a certain extent in Shetland, something similar happens. When the inhabitants of these places visit this country they come among strange microbes, and their experiences may be unpleasant.

All this means two things. First, it suggests to us that in this world there are environments, where cold "producing" germs are few, which we know to be true; and second, that we can put up with homemade animals, but that it is dangerous to offer hospitality to menageries from abroad.—John Milne, F. R. S., in London Mail.

CALL LAKE FREAK OF NATURE.

Mysterious Body of Water in the State of New York.

The brakeman on the Long Island railroad was talking to two schoolboys. "Say, kids, did you know there's a lake down the island where the suicides disappear, and their bodies are found in the Atlantic ocean? That's a gospel fact. I lost a friend there once. We dragged for his body three days, and some fishermen picked it up near Oak Island beach, just outside Fire island inlet. Now, kids, what do you think of that? Ask your teacher. Maybe she can explain all about it." Needless to remark, the boys were much interested.

The lake referred to is Ronkonkoma, a freak of nature, about 48 miles from New York's city hall, and half way between Stony Brook and Sayville. Strange are the traditions hovering over this small body of water. The Indians around Islip used to call it Ron-konk-o-MA, but many of the present day Long Islanders say Ron-kon-KO-ma. Old "residenters" tell that the tide rises and falls there twice in 24 hours, sometimes six inches, at other times, two feet. It is believed that there is an underground connection with Great South bay, leading to the ocean by way of Fire Island inlet. At times, they will declare, the water is salt, and at other times fresh.

London's Erudite Cabmen.

The two cabmen authors who had just been brought to light deserve a place beside the erudite driver discovered by Sir Frederick Bridge. This cabman often drove Sir Frederick home from the Albert hall after the performances of the Royal Choral society, and one evening as he received his fare he astonished the eminent conductor by criticising the tempo at which he took some of the "Messiah" choruses on a previous occasion. This started a friendship between the musician and the cabman, and the former discovered in the latter a very solid foundation of musical knowledge and got to think highly of his opinions. On one occasion, indeed, the cabman asked him to perform a new oratorio by Perosi (which Sir Frederick had not then seen) and offered to lend him a copy of the score.—London News.

Work and Nerves.

Work, again, is the enemy of insomnia. The sufferer from bad or broken sleep is liable to give up duties or to be slack in their performance, to abandon exercise and forget his usual hobbies because of his anticipation of a night of distress. In reality, he ought to prepare himself for sleep by congenial activity, in which his mind will be weaned away from the fear of not sleeping.

Once more, work is an enemy to the fears and impulsions, to the strange sense of unreality and other morbid symptoms which accompany psychasthenia. Work restores to such a sufferer "the function of the real." It is only through contact with reality that man, whether normal or abnormal, can find abiding satisfaction.—Rev. S. S. McComb, in Harper's Bazar.

Sets Law of Kitchen.

A "law of the kitchen" has been set forth in England in an opinion by a county judge. He holds that where the mistress of a house goes to the kitchen to aid the maid of all work the two are brought on terms of equality such as would not be tolerated in larger establishments. The case was that of a cook and general maid who sought to recover a month's wages from her former mistress in lieu of notice. The mistress asserted that the servant always "answered her back," but the judge held that under the circumstances this was not sufficient to justify dismissal.

No Plagiarist.

"Great Scott, man, here you've got half a dozen novels, two French comedies, a book of epigrams, one of proverbs and several volumes of anecdotes on your writing table! What on earth are you doing?"

"Writing a new and original play."—New York Herald.

The Emergency Value

"Certainly, bring Mr. Blank home with you to dinner. It is late, but I can telephone the butcher and grocer and dinner will be ready when you arrive."

The unexpected guest to dinner, the engagement necessarily broken at the last moment, the delayed arrival of household supplies, the the sudden illness of the children—in these and a thousand and one other emergencies of home life the telephone is an ever ready, quick, reliable and efficient assistant. Have you a telephone in your home? If not, you should consider the question today. Rates are reasonable.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

March 24, 1870.

A meeting of the Executive Com. appointed by the Democratic Association will convene at Laing's Hotel upon Saturday evening, March 26th. By order of J. W. Yates, chairman. J. E. Martine, secretary.

A lady aged 53 years, residing in Elizabeth, has for ten months past been suffering from a pain in her mouth and only discovered a day or two since that she is cutting teeth for the third time.

A young lad named Monkton, employed in the Plaining Mill of R. A. Gibbs, next to the Gas Works, had two of his fingers taken off by a plainer on Monday last. He is doing well.

By reference to advertisement in another column it will be seen that the "City Hotel," Geo. Miller proprietor, will be opened to the public about the 11th of April. Mr. Miller has spent neither time nor expense in fitting up and remodelling the rooms of the house, and it is his intention to keep a first-class hotel, and if any one can do that he is the man. In connection with the hotel will be a fine Restaurant, Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon.

We call attention to the sale of J. S. Brown, advertised in another column. We are assured that the Stock, especially the four year old colt and the span of heavy mules, are very fine and desirable.

Basking Ridge is going to have a hotel, which the Somerset Messenger said is to be "first class" and to be opened in April.

A Connecticut editor fell on an icy sidewalk, and after picking up his bruised limbs exclaimed—"We don't cherish any ill will, but would not object to publishing the obituary of the man who owns this sidewalk."

On Monday, the 21st, the Episcopal Church in Plainfield, was according to notice previously given, set apart to the sole service of Almighty God by the Right Rev. W. H. Odenheimer, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese. This Church has been lately enlarged and beautified and though built some eighteen years since had never been consecrated, in consequence of a debt upon the building which, with the cost of the present enlargement, has now been paid off.

The freight depot of the New Jersey Central R. R., at the terminus south of Jersey City, was burned last Friday evening, together with twelve loaded cars and a quantity of freight.

AMUSEMENTS.

Blanche Bates' long New York run at the Balesco theatre in "The Fighting Hope" will terminate Saturday evening, April 10.

David Belasco's eminent star, David Warfield, is in his second great week of "A Grand Army Man" at the Lyric theatre, Philadelphia.

Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks have accepted a play by Mrs. Gertrude Andrews entitled "Through a Window," which they will produce early next fall.

Frances Starr will soon register her 100th performance as Laura Murdock in Eugene Walter's play, "The Easiest Way." There has not been a vacant seat at the beautiful Belasco Stuyvesant theatre since the opening night.

Frank Keenan is covering himself with new laurels at the West End theatre, New York, this week, where the Belasco character actor is appearing before capacity audiences as General Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia."

Frances Starr and "The Easiest Way" continue on the topmost wave of prosperity at the magnificent Belasco Stuyvesant theatre, where the delightful Belasco star and the gripping Walter drama of New York life are proving potent factors to attract capacity audiences at every performance.

Fannie Ward has purchased from Channing Pollock the English rights of a one-act play, entitled "With Her Back to the Wall," which she will present next summer in London. The piece was especially written for Miss Ward because of Mr. Pollock's recognition of her work in his dramatization of "In the Bishop's Carriage."

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire" is doing phenomenal business on the Pacific coast. Her season will not close until the middle of June. She will open in her new play, "The Widow's Might," by Edmund Day, in New York city, the middle of September. Will Archie, who is playing the part of the stable boy, will be featured in "Wildfare" next season.

Joseph Brooks has engaged Eleanor Moretti for the cast of the Egyptian, Iras, in "Ben-Hur" next season. Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks are organizing an exceptionally strong company for this play for next season and will present it in the larger cities, such as New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Washington, Baltimore, Chicago and Pittsburg.

"The Right of Way," Klaw & Erlanger's production of the dramatization of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, in which Guy Standing and Theodore Roberts are starring, is one of the successes of the season on the Pacific coast, despite the fact that the play was not received with the cordiality it deserved in the East. Messrs. Standing and Roberts remain together next season, appearing in an American play in which there are two big roles.

Major Guy du Maurier, author of "An Englishman's Home," is the elder son of George du Maurier, of "Trilby" fame and his "An Englishman's Home" is the invasion drama which has worked all England into a fever of patriotism. About four months ago Major du Maurier, who is serving with his regiment at Pietermaritzburg, in South Africa, sent home this thrilling play to his brother Gerald, the actor. Gerald was at once struck with its possibilities and set to work to alter its technique. A little later he called in J. M. Barrie, who supplied a few humorous touches, but who still modestly disclaims any share in the play. Then came a bitter blow. The censor of plays declined to pass the play for fear of causing international trouble. It was then explained that no mention whatever would be made to Germany in the play, nor would a German uniform be seen in the production. The "enemy" which invades England was named the "Empress of the North" and finally Mr Haldana, the Secretary of War, and Lord Roberts, who read the play, prevailed upon the censor to allow it to be played. The most remarkable feature of the production is the preponderance of young men over the usual matinee girls in the cheaper parts of the theatre.

"A Gentleman from Mississippi" at the Bijou theatre, New York, looms up a Gibralter of rock-ribbed success among the many failures of the New York season. It is not only the best laughing entertainment on Broadway, but it is full of charming love interest and vibrant with the theme of honesty in and out of public place. Although the action flashlights the social and political life of Washington, its personages are chiefly Southern people and its atmosphere is quaintly Southern. But there is no Mason and Dixon line in its broad area of genial fun, and the little theatre of famous successes, packed to capacity always, resounds with roars of laughter, and the players are recalled again and again at the end of each act. The courtly old-fashioned United States Senator from the South, and his audacious and alert young Northern secretary, are a great fun-making combination, and their fight for honesty in the naval base scheme is gallant and exciting. "A Gentleman from Mississippi" has firmly gripped the elusive fancy of New Yorkers and out of town play goers since late last summer, and there is no sign of waning popularity. Very significant are the crowds of women and young people who attend the Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

RINGLINGS AMAZE NEW YORK.

Opening in Madison Square Garden Biggest Hit in Fifty Years.

Ringling Brothers' circus has made the biggest hit of any similar amusement enterprise in the past fifty years in New York city. One of the biggest audiences that ever filled Madison Square Garden was amazed at the brilliant performance last night, when the big circus opened its season.

The long program was one succession of surprises. The Schuman horses from the Circus Shuman at Berlin, Germany; Robiladello, the wire wizard from Mexico; the Lorch family of acrobats, also from Germany; the double somersaulting automobile, presented by a young French girl; the Arthur Saxon trio of strong men, also new to America; the telephoning elephants; the Curzon sisters, in their charming aerial suspension act, and the brilliant new opening spectacle are a few of the features that gave the performance distinction above all others ever seen in the Garden.

A more distinguished audience never before gathered in the big auditorium, and from the grand entry to the very last act the building rang with applause. The Ringling Brothers have scored as they never have in the past. Their invasion of New York has been a triumph. The engagement will be a short one, and out-of-town visitors will do well to send their orders for seats in without delay as the demand for seats is larger than ever before in the history of circus affairs in New York.

Allaying His Fears.

CHURCH BAZAAR REFORM

Customary Methods of Conducting Fairs a Form of Petty Blackmail.

THE MERCHANTS ARE "BLED."

Husbands Annoyed and Customers Buncoed—Sane Ideas Are Needed, Says Rev. Mr. Warner.

An experiment is being tried at the Church of the Holy Cross which will be of interest to all church workers in this community. On the part of the present rector, Rev. George A. Warner, since the last fancy bazaar was held there has been a quiet but firm opposition to "the church fair" as it is generally understood. The objection being based on well established observation to the effect that usually in such affairs local merchants are requested to give donations and often cannot well refuse for fear of losing the good will or trade of customers connected with the church organization—a form of petty blackmail to be deplored and in no way condoned.

Again the articles on sale at such fairs or bazaars are often of the fancy variety upon which an exhorbitant price far in excess of its real value is placed. There is not real value given for money spent; a source of dissatisfaction is here most apparent and the sale in one aspect is only a benevolent good nature which permits itself to be bled. Many of the articles are just so much useless truck and of no permanent value. The burden of such a bazaar or fair usually falls upon women who have to solicit and toil for weeks ahead with resultant nervous and often irritable conditions in the feminine department of the home life which make the men inwardly groan and execrate the church activity—which takes such a form and from which they as consistently stay away. Some of the men going so far as to say, "I'd rather give outright ten or fifteen dollars than to suffer this upset condition of the women and the home life."

The effort is now to be made of a simpler effort, along sane and reasonable lines. Useful articles, simply made (without any rush or hurry) and easily handled by a few workers are to go on sale. Local merchants are asked for no contributions. Every article on sale is much needed in some department of the home. Aprons, towels, dust cloths, ties belts, home-made preserves and useful articles will be sold at prices on a par with the lowest price for the same goods in any local store; the promoters of this effort will see that the highest priced article on sale does not exceed one dollar. The whole aim and desire of the workers interested is to do away with objectionable and questionable methods too often employed in church fairs. Grab bags, fortune telling booths and catch-penny expedients will be eliminated.

The social side will be attended to by the well appointed tea table where women can sit and rent and chat. The usual feature of a laborious church fair supper in connection with the sale will give way to the simple cup of tea.

The experiment has the hearty endorsement of those who have had in times past to work hard, etc., and contribute most lavishly of time and articles to the church fair.

The sale will be in the church parish house on Monday. Tickets of admission not being required at stores none will be required at this sale.

Exhibition by Athletes.

The physical department of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. will give a demonstration of the work next Friday night. The senior and junior classes will go through various exercises, including a grand march, dumbbell drill, figure march, kangaroo relay race, floor ball, mat work, apparatus work with the horse, parallel and horizontal exercises by a picked squad and wand drill. The exhibition will be under the direction of J. L. Keer, the physical director.

Warns Public Against Imposter.

Rev. J. Thomas Diggs, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, calls the attention of The Daily Press to the fact that he has been informed that a man calling himself a Methodist preacher has been begging about the city for his church. Pastor Diggs wants it known that no one has been authorized to beg for money for his church and takes this means of warning people from giving sums to anyone not authorized to receive such contributions.

MEEKER CHAIRMAN OF SEWER COMMISSIONERS

Robert A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. McDonald, who were appointed sewer assessment commissioners by Mayor Charles Joel Fisk met in the Common Council rooms last night and organized by electing Mr. Meeker chairman and Mr. Wilbur secretary. Ernest Sharp and J. D. Loizeaux, who are interested in some realty holdings in the Netherwood district of the city, appeared before the commissioners for the purpose of explaining that Mr. Loizeaux would pay the sewer assessment. They are identified with the Mercantile Realty Comapny, formed to develop local property.

It being the first public meeting of the commissioners there was little business. As they will be expected to make the assessments for benefits and damages covering the past two years for sewer improvements, it will be necessary for the commissioners to hold many sessions. They will meet from time to time as the occasion requires and arrange to confer with property-owners to suit the convenience of all concerned.

"CHURCH AND TEMPERANCE" LOCAL OPTIONIST'S THEME

James H Ecob, of New York, a lecturer of the American Institute of Social Service, spoke on "The Church and Temperance" before the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church last night. His talk was on the progress of temperance, and he made a strong appeal for the support of the local option movement.

Local option, the speaker declared, is the solution of the liquor problem in New Jersey as it had proved to be in many other States. Summarizing the spread of the movement in the West and its value in controlling the liquor trade, characterized the East as "lawless" in this respect and said that New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are "the blackest States in the Union in regard to temperance. Mr. Ecob, who was an active local option worker in Augusta, Maine, at the time when the State went "dry," told of his experiences there, and said that it was the individual's duty to suppress the legalized sale of liquor by the support of the local option movement. "Local option," he said, "is the biggest step toward prohibition," and it is the duty of every good citizen to use every measure to suppress the evil of liquor."

Following the talk, there was an open discussion of local option, in which the speaker's remarks were endorsed by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, Samuel Bingaman, Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, Nelson A. Miller, Maurice McGrath and William R. Codington. About fifty members of the church Brotherhood were present.

FIGHTING FOR A SLICE OF TEN MILLION ESTATE

Mrs. Warren Marsh, of Arlington avenue, who was a beneficiary under the will of her uncle, John P. Packard, who died at Marysville, California, about six months ago, will attempt to break the will. The estate is valued at $10,000,000 and Mrs. Marsh was bequeathed $10,000, while the bulk of the estate was left to two cousins, Edward Winslow Packard, of Salt Lake, and Theodore R. Shear, of New York. Mr. Shear died about a month ago, leaving a family.

Mrs. Marsh, who is represented by her brother-in-law, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, alleges that her uncle was of unsound mind and unduly influenced when he made his will and she seeks a third of the estate. Mr. Packard made his vast fortune in mining ventures. He was never married. He spent most of his latter years at Salt Lake iCty and Marysville, California. After his death his body was buried at Albany, N. Y

N. P. H. S. Dance.

A dance given by the N. P. H. S. Athletic Association at Debele Hall last night, while not largely attended, owing to having been arranged on short notice, was an enjoyable affair for those who attended. Given for the benefit of the school athletics, it marked the closing of the gymnasium work for the season, the hall which is used for that purpose, having been rented only to April 1.

JERSEYMAN INSURED ANTARCTIC EXPLORER

The safe return of Lieutenant Ernest R. Shackleton, Royal Navy, from his partially successful trip in search of the south pole is of more than ordinary interest to Jerseymen, inasmuch as one of their number succeeded in obtaining a heavy life insurance for the explorer after British agents had made a hopeless failure of an attempt to do so. For many months prior to his departure, the English naval officer had made futile endeavors to arrange for proper provision for his relatives in case of his meeting with death while in that strange and unexpected frozen region. No company would take the risk and the lieutenant undismayed had resolved to make the perilous journey without insuring himself.

It was in the summer of 1907 when all England was discussing Shackleton's nervy scheme and at that time Charles J. Wetzel, of Newark, a frequent visitor of this city, was sight-seeing at the British capitol, his health having been impaired from over-work. Wetzel was chatting with friends at his hotel when one of them remarked causually that it was peculiar that no life insurance company would accept a risk on the explorer's life. Without loss of time, the Newarker investigated the rumor and finding it to be well founded set about on his own hook to "make good." He sought out the Lloyds', but after trying in vain to interest one of its thirty life insurance concerns, he turned to the English companies in London and Liverpool. With them he got the same treatment hearing the same old story from each that Shackleton's representatives had made a similar application over and over again only to be refused. Finally he got in touch with the actuary of the Liverpool and London and Globe Company. In true Yankee fashion he brought his arguments home and succeeded in obtaining a rate of one and one half per cent extra on the face of a non-participating ordinary life policy.

Then the Newarker hunted up the naval officer. The result was that he insured him for $20,000 and the policy was delivered to the explorer before he departed in October, 1907, in search of the south pole. It was the first policy on such a risk ever written and Wetzel made enough as commission to defray the expense of his pleasure and health trip to England.

Wetzel is well known among the insurance men in New Jersey and New York. For the last twenty years he has been paying periodical visits to Jersey's bigger cities including Plainfield, where he is as well known as in Newark.

EDITOR TAKES OVERDOSE OF NUX VOMICA BY MISTAKE.

George W. Shampanore, publishers of The Weekly Review at Whitehouse Station, and father of Andrew Shampanore, an employee of The Daily Press, had a narrow escape from death by poisoning at his home, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Shampanore has been a sufferer with stomach trouble for a long time and has been in the habit of taking medicine regularly.

Thursday afternoon he went to his home and from a number of bottles on a shelf took down one which he supposed contained a harmless remedy for indigestion. Instead it contained nux vomica and he swallowed a large dose before discovering the mistake. A physician was summoned and in a few hours he was out of danger.

Papers on Chinese Missions.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Barnes on Mountain avenue, interesting papers on Chinese missions were read by Mrs. Frank Jones and Miss May Shreve. The former told of the work among the Chinese in their own country, and the latter showed what was being done for them in America. Miss Minnie Serrill led the devotional service. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

Foresters to Give Banquet.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, received one application last night. Three accepted applicants will be installed at the next Court meeting. It was decided to give an entertainment and banquet at the last meeting in April. The committee promises an excellent program of vocal and instrumental music and in addition prominent high and supreme court officers will be present and make short addresses on fraternalism.

HOME MISSIONARY WORK

ONLY ONE CHANGE IN OFFICERS

Reports Show That Much Has Been Accomplished Within the Past Year—300 Present.

All of the old officers, with the exception of the second vice-president, were re-elected at the afternoon session of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions in the Presbytery of Elizabeth, which was held in Westminster church Elizabeth, yesterday. For the office of second vice-president Mrs. W. W. Casselberry, of Dunellen, is succeeded by Mrs. Stains, of Westfield. The other officers are:

President, Mrs. Augustus S. Crane, Elizabeth; first vice-president, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, of this city; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Gideon E. Ludlow, Westfield; recording secretary, Miss Catherine N. Reeve, Basking Ridge; young people's work, Mrs Adrain Lyon, Perth Amboy; freedmen, Mrs J. Anderson Frazer, Elizabeth; literature, Miss Laura Vanderbeck, Somerville; treasurer, Mrs. J. Edward Keron, Elizabeth. While there was no definite decision as to the holding of the next session, Metuchen will very likely be the place.

The meeting was a success from every standpoint, and the various reports submitted showed that much had been accomplished during the year past.

The program for the afternoon session included a conference on Young People's Work at 1:15, hymns, scriptural readings and prayers. The Rev. S. R Spriggs, of Alaska, gave an interesting talk on "Work at Point Barrow" and Mrs. Augustus S. Crane, the president, told of a recent trip to Porto Rico, explaining the missionary work there, and also giving an entertaining talk on the island and its natives. Reports of the various committees were submitted and received and the meeting was closed with the offering of benediction by the Rev. William B. Hamilton, of Hope chapel.

There were about 300 women in attendance and they were entertained by the Elizabeth members. The Elizabeth Presbytery includes Elizabeth, Westfield, Dunellen, Metuchen, Plainfield, Rahway Basking Ridge, Bethlehem and scores of smaller towns.

At the morning session Miss A. A. Alwood, of Basking Ridge, led the devotional exercises, which was followed by an address of welcome by Mrs. R S. T. Cissel. Mrs. Augustus S. Crane responded in behalf of the society.

Mrs. Gideon E. Ludlow, of Westfield, reported as corresponding secretary, telling of what had been accomplished by that branch of the work. Mrs. Adrain Lyon, of Perth Amboy, secretary of the Young People's Work, reported that that work was in a flourishing condition.

An interesting report was given by Mrs. J. Anderson Frazer, of Elizabeth, secretary of the work for freedmen. She told of her recent trip through the Southland, where she had a fine opportunity to observe the work which is being done for the freedmen. Miss Laura Vanderbeck, secretary of the literature department, gave an interesting report as to the work of her department.

According to the report of Mrs. J Edward Keron, the treasurer, the total amount received for the Woman's Board during the year ending March 15, was $6,223.68 and for the Freedman Board, $800.51, making a total of $7,024.20. This is an increase of $396.68 on the account of the Woman's Board, and $295.29, making a total increase of $638.97.

Greetings were received from some of the early officers of the society, among whom were Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. John Leggett Miss May White and Mrs. J. H. Owens.

Party for Miss Wilson.

A party was given in honor of Miss Ida Wilson at her home on Harmony street, Thursday night. The evening was spent in dancing, music and games and at a late hour refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Emma and Ellen Wahl, Emma Meir, Pauline and Anna Maritz, Edith and Agnes Maritz, Edith and Agnes Runyon, Helen Powers and Charles Wilson, Joseph Wahl, James McClinton, Joseph Carol, Clarence DeRoner, Alvah Latourette, Alfred Jacobson, Lawrence Powers and Henry Maritz.

WHO SMASHED UP DE HART'S CROCKERY?

Because somebody entered the apartment of Charles De Hart, colored, of Richmond street, last Saturday night while he and his wife were away, and smashed up all the crockery, china and glassware in the place, De Hart had Thomas Brooks, colored, haled before City Judge Runyon at the session of court today as the smasher. The burden of Brooks' testimony was "Who? Me? I'm not the Man" and a cross questioning could not bring out any reason why he should wreck the place. He proved an alibi, almost, but a little girl who came as De Hart's witness, stated positively that she had seen Brooks at the door of the De Hart home on the night in question and shortly before the breaking-up fest. The girl probably told the truth, because she had a clear idea of the meaning of an oath. She defined her understanding of testimony under oath by saying "It means to tell what you seed and nothin' else."

De Hart, whose glassware was smashed, was away Saturday evening, being down town doing his marketing. His wife and Mrs. Brooks, her guest for supper, were also out. De Hart gave a vivid description of the wreckage before the court. He told how thec hint closet had been cleaned out and its contents "deliberately smashed" and piled up on the table. Hhe told how the "communicating door" between the two rooms had been "busted open" and a lamp and a few vases broken. He felt that Brooks was the man, because he had an idea that his wife and Mrs. Brooks spent too much time together and felt that this fact might irritate Brooks.

Nothing could be done toward proving the alibi, however, and when Brooks swore that he had no grudge against the De Hart family, Judge Runyon concluded that it would be best to postpone the case until one, Mr. Coleman, said to have been with Brooks, could be brought to the witness stand. The case will be continued next Saturday morning. F. J. Blatz is Brooks' attorney

WOULD CONDUCT SHOW IN DEBELE'S HALL.

A moving picture show may be started in the borough next week. W. B. Huff, of New York, has been looking over the ground and has open negotiations for Debele Hall. His application for a permit has not been acted upon by Mayor Townsend as yet, his honor being desirous of hearing the opinion of the public in regard to such an invasion of the borough.

Personally, the Mayor believes the moving picture show, properly conducted, to be an excellent inexpensive form of amusement, and one which any wage earner may enjoy. The promoter seems not in the least disturbed by the experiences of three similar enterprises within the last few months in the city.

JOSEPH M'INTYRE TO GIVE 'CELLO AND SONG RECITAL

Joseph McIntyre will give a 'cello and song recital Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue. The program will be of exceptional interest. Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, will be the soloist. He will play a sonata by Handel, for piano and 'cello.

Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold, soprano, will be heard in groups of French, German and English songs, and her appearance here should attract many lovers of music. Mr. McIntyre will be at the piano. Those wishing extra tickets for the recital should communicate at once with Mr. McIntyre.

Class in Social Problems.

At the Congregational Sunday-school tomorrow noon a class of young men will begin the study of living social problems as arranged by Dr. Josiah Strong, of the American Institute of Social Service. The class will be led by Harold Nomer whose special interest in such questions at Williams College makes him peculiarly well qualified to conduct such a class. The topic for tomorrow will be "Civic Corruption." The class taking up subjects of public interest will be open to the public. Any young man will be welcome, either as listener or student.

Colonel Chandler Speaks Tomorrow.

Colonel Alfred A. Chandler, principal of the Salvation Army Training school in New York, will conduct the services at the local Salvation Army headquarters, 157 East Second street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Colonel is one of the Army's most able speakers and a large audience is expected. The hall has been enlarged for the occasion. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

Miss Edith Pearson, of East Front street, is entertaining Miss Dolly Wilson, of New York, and Miss Sadie Bearsley, of Bayonne.

UP-TO-DATE APPARATUS NOT FOR NEW FIRE HOUSE

The Councilmanic fire committee met last night for the purpose of discussing the bids received for furnishing the city with a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for the East End fire-house. The bid of James Boyd & Brother, of Philadelphia, $1,430, for a combination chemical and hose wagon, to be drawn by horses, was considered the lowest, and the committe proposes to make further inquiry into the standing of the concern and what it will do for the price named.

It has practically been decided to recommend the purchase of a horse-drawn apparatus, because the city's means will not permit anything else. Councilman Herbert Buxton appeared before the committee last night and made a strong effort to change the plans of the committee in favor of an automobile apparatus. He presented a resolution, suggested for adoption, and tried to show the members how the city could purchase such an apparatus and finish the new fire-house within the appropriation, but the committe could not agree with Mr. Buxton. Nothing further will be done until an investigation is made and a report received concerning the bid of James Boyd & Brother.

A. H. DURAR FIRST IN Y.M.C.A. MARATHON RACE

A. H. Durar won the five mile marathon race this afternoon and the championship of the city for boys under sixteen. He went the distance in 36 minutes, 25 seconds, finishing one hundred and fifty yards ahead of Andrew McDonough. Ray Manley was third, crossing the tape fifty yards behind McDonough.

The race was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Physical Director George L. Listman being in charge. It was open to all boys in the city within the specified age and out of sixty-five entrants, forty started in the race.

They were off at 1:25 o'clock. The route was in Watchung avenue to Mountain avenue, thence to Scotch Plains and return to the starting point, corner of Front street and Watchung avenue. A large crowd witnessed the start and the finish.

The judges were: William Banks, William H Russell, Charles B. Batchelor, Clifford Vail and Alfred Manley. G. L. Listman held the stop watch.

MISS ELEANOR WOODCOCK GIVEN A LINEN SHOWER.

A linen shower was given to Miss Eleanor Woodcock, daughter to Mr. and Mrs Clarence Woodcock, of West Seventh street, Thursday night, at the fire-house, Fanwood, by a large number of her Plainfield friends. Miss Woodcock and William Gaston, also of this city, will be married during April.

Miss Woodcock was the recipient of a large collection of useful articles in linen and was showered with the best wishes of her friends. The fire-house was attractively decorated for the occasion with American flags and bunting. Dancing was the feature of the evening and was continued until a late hour. The committee in charge comprised C. Bertram Leggett, Rollin Williams and George Bentley.

New Steam Roller Here.

The new ten-ton steam roller and scarifier, purchased by the city, is here and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett had the roller at work on East Sixth street, yesterday. It has a great many improvements over the old roller and according to the manufacturers, the Buffalo-Pitts Company, should last from ten to twelve years. All the parts for the scarifier have not yet arrived, but as soon as they do, this will be used in the new street work planned by the street committee.

Sale at Y. M. C. A.

The Women's Auxiliary will hold a sale of home-made articles in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the athletic field fund. Supper will be served from 6 to 7:30 o'clock in the evening. There will also be a Japanese table and a sale of ice cream, cake, tea and coffee and second-hand books.

W. E. Brock.

W. E. Brock, well known as an inventor, died at his home on Mountain avenue, yesterday following a long illness. He was a resident of the borough for twenty-two years. He was born in Vermont and was formerly a resident of New York. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sutphen, of Newark, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Minton, of East Sixth street.

BALTUSROL CLUB BURNED

Club House and Its Rich Furnishings are Completely Destroyed by Fire.

ESTIMATED LOSS IS $100,000.

Chef Jumps for His Life Breaking Both Legs—New Jersey's Wealthiest Golf Club —To Rebuild.

The clubhouse and contents of the Baltusrol Golf Club, near Summit, was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning, causing a total loss of $100,000. The blaze so far as can be learned started over the kitchen and was caused by a defective flue.

The fire was discovered by Gasson Fesso, chef at the club, who occupied a room just above the kitchen. He was trapped by the flames and smoke and was obliged to jump out of a second story window. In falling both his legs were broken and he was taken to the Summit hospital, where his condition is said to be critical. More than a dozen prominent Plainfielders belong to this club.

Steward Jaquith and several waiters, who lived at the club, had great difficulty in escaping with their lives, several being compelled to jump out of windows. As quickly as possible one of the waiters reached the telephone in the clubhouse and summoned the Springfield fire department.

When the firemen reached the scene the whole structure was ablaze and there was no possibility of saving anything. Aside from the loss to the building the greates damage to the club includes all of the valuable trophies, paintings and handsome furnishings, for which it was noted. Many of these things can never be replaced.

The fact that Chef Fesso had a room so close to where the blaze started was possibly the only thing that saved his life. He was first awakened by a choking sensation caused by the smoke and then the crackling of the fire thoroughly aroused him. He immediately tried to escape, but found all avenues shut off. He then called loudly for help and in this way he awakened Steward Jaquith, who in turn aroused the waiters.

Owing to the lack of sufficient water supply the employes of the clubhouse were greatly handicapped and were helpless to fight the flames. The Springfield firemen could do but little better and they were practically powerless to cope with the fire which by this time had enveloped the whole structure. There was nothing to do but let it burn itself out.

The great blaze illuminated the heavens for miles around and hundreds of people were attracted to Baltusrol by automobiles and carriages. The whole Watchung Mountain range was lit up and made a beautiful sight.

The clubhouse, one of the most famous in the east, and considered one of the wealthiest organizations of this character in this part of the country, was of the old fashioned type, but during the past year or two large sums of money were expended in making additions to the building. It occupied a picturesque site and was the mecca for a great many New Yorkers. The interior was also of the old-fashioned style, quaint and attractive and besides the costly furnishings were a great many trophies that have been won by the members in competition.

The officers and directors of the club held a meeting this morning and it was unanimously decided to rebuild the clubhouse on a more elaborate plan. It will be modern in every respect and thoroughly equipped with all improvements.

When the flames were at their highest in the clubhouse sparks flew to the squash court buildings, barns and auto garage. They took fire and lit up the surrounding country for miles and the people from several of the nearby suburbs, including those from Short Hills, flocked to the scene of the conflagration.

The Baltusrol Golf Club is one of the best-known golfing organizations in the East. The membership runs up nearly to 2,000, and it is comprised mostly of New Yorkers. Many of big golf tournaments have been held over its famous course, including the national championships for both men and women, the professional championships, the metropolitan championships for men and women, the New Jersey tournament and the Intercity tournament between New York, Philadelphia and Boston. The programme for this season included several big features.

Louis Keller, of New York city, organized the club about fifteen years ago. The site is on the eastern slope of the Watchung Mountains and affords a beautiful view of the surrounding country. From time to time additions had been made to the building, until it occupied property to the extent of a city block.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tonight to rehearse Easter music.

Under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist, a concert will be given at the First M. E. church, on Tuesday night by the choir. There will be several solo numbers.

"Foreign Missions on the Home Field," was the subject of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. Miss Elmira C. Runyon was the leader.

The members of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school have received as souvenirs copies of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem, "The Two Kinds of People." They were the gift of Superintendent George E. Hall.

"A Utility and Novelty Sale" will be held in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, Monday afternoon, under the auspices of the women of the parish. Fancy and useful articles will be offered for sale and tea and cake will be served.

Rev. Garret M. Conover, who has relatives and friends here, and who is pastor of the Reformed church at Rocky Hill, has announced that he will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday, April 3. Immediately afterward he will become pastor of the Grand Avenue Reformed church at Asbury Park.

GOLF.

It is not unlikely that another important golf tournament will be added to the already long list on the New Jersey schedule this season. As yet nothing official has been given out with regard to the Metropolitan open championship, an event that was decided at Baltusrol last fall, but no one need be surprised if this club's neighbor, the Canoe Brook Club, should offer to handle this year's championship.

An official of the Canoe Brook Club said yesterday that the sentiment was in favor of giving a tournament for professionals this season, but he was not certain whether it would be advisable to fly as high as the M. G. A. open for a starter. Thus far, the most important competitive affairs held at Canoe Brook have been East Jersey Golf League tournaments, and there are those among the club's governors who believe that before anything so pretentious as a Metropolitan open is attempted it would be wiser to wait a little longer.

For that matter, Canoe Brook has heretofore been ineligible to hold a Metropolitan championship, either amateur or professional, for the simple reason that it did not belong to the association. The Summit organization was, however, recently admitted to membership. Last season was the most successful in the history of the club, while the constantly increasing membership presages a bright future. Orrin Terry, the new professional, has been empowered to go ahead and trap the course, which means that as a scoring proposition it will become more exacting than ever.

BASEBALL.

It was reported around Hot Springs, Ark., where the Boston Americans are in training, that John I. Taylor, owner of that club, lost $20,000 at gambling recently, but a Hot Springs sporting man declared there was no truth in it and said Mr. Taylor was the winner of a snug sum.

Ty Cobb, champion batsman of the American League, is doing some tail hitting in practise games with Detroit. In the first three contests played by the Tigers the "Great Ty" clouted out ten safeties.

"Boston will finish one, two or three in the American League race next season," declared John I. Taylor, owner of that club, in Chicago recently.

Charley Hemhill, utility outfielder of the New York Americans, has blossomed out as a real estate dealer. Before going South with the Yankees, he purchased six apartment houses in his home town, Youngstown, O., and is negotiating for the purchase of several more.

The Buffalo Eastern League and Wilkes-Barre New York State League teams will play in Wilkes-Barre April 20 and 21.

The Trenton Tri-State League Club has ordered James Brady, who managed the Hazleton team of the Atlantic League last year, to report at Trenton for practice.

Manager Harry Lumley and his Brooklyn outfit showed the Jacksonville team a thing or two about the national game this week, when the Dodgers trounced the South Atlantic Leaguers to the tune of 11 to 1.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Two Liability Bills.

It would hardly take a Philadelphia lawyer to point out all the differences in the two employers' liability bills that were before the Legislature this week, but it would seem as though the less effectual of the two had been selected by the Guardians for enactment. The successful measure was fathered by Senator Ackerman, and it went through the Senate with but little opposition. The House bill, introduced by Assemblyman Blauvelt, was the cause of one of the most exciting log-rolling spectacles witnessed in the present Legislature.

The essential provisions of the two bills, as pointed out by their respective sponsors, are these: The Ackerman bill does not affect the common-law liabilities of employers for accidents to their employes, except in these particulars: Under the common law the master is not liable for injuries to a servant caused by the negligence of a fellow-servant. This bill makes the employer liable for injuries to a servant resulting from the negligence of a fellow-servant, if the latter stands in the position of a superintendent or foreman. It also requires that the injured party commence suit within 120 days, instead of two years as under the common law.

The Blauvelt bill holds the employer liable whether the fellow servant is a superintendent or not; whether an inferior, a superior or an equal—that is, if the injured servant is not guilty of any negligence of his own part. Mr. Blauvelt contended that this is the doctrine advocated by President Roosevelt, and he insisted that under the Ackerman bill an injured employe would have no redress if hurt through the negligence of a fellow servant. Furthermore, the Blauvelt bill leaves the period two years in which suit for damages may be brought.

It would hardly seem as if these distinctions ought to puzzle legislators, and yet, when the Blauvelt bill came to a vote there was such a flopping as hasn't been seen in many a day. Ward, of Bergen, voted first aye, then no, then aye and then no again. He seemed to have been undecided whether to vote as he wished or as Senator Wakelee, who sat beside him, suggested. Stille, of Cape May, voted on both sides in succession, so did Bowden, of Essex; so did Schade, of Salem. It was finally announced that the Blauvelt bill was beaten, having received but thirty votes but it is certain that at one time it had a clear majority in its favor and would have been passed had log-rolling and wire pulling and the work of the Guardians been prevented.

The Ackerman bill, which seems booked to go through, does less for the employee than the Blauvelt bill, and that may be one reason by the Board of Guardians stood back of it and pushed so hard. The scenes and votes in the House indicated that the Guardians' advice had not been as generally disseminated as was intended before the Blauvelt bill came to a vote. Earlier instructions might have saved much embarrassment.—Newark News.

SAYS WIFE FLED WITH MONEY.

Newton, March 27.—Jacob N. Crawn, a carpenter, of Sussex street, is looking for his wife, whom, he says, left him Wednesday night, immediately after a public auction of their household effects, taking the whole of the proceeds of the sale, amounting to over $200. Mr. Crawn was left penniless and was compelled to sell keepsakes to provide himself with funds. William Sergent, Jr., a young man and a former boarder at the Crawn home, is missing.

The Crawns intended to open a grocery in the Flickhue storehouse on South Main street and were reducing their stock of household goods, as they intended to live with a relative. It is known that Mrs. Crawn, the missing woman, hired a conveyance of a local liveryman and drove to Andover Junction, where she boarded a train, and from there her movements are a mystery.

Nuss-Detmer.

Miss Edith Detmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Detmer, and Otto Nuss were married in St. John's church, Somerville, Wednesday, by the Rev. Clarence C. Stilvester, the rector. Miss Edna Taylor was bridesmaid and Edmund Kraft best man.

ANOTHER PROD FOR GOVERNOR J. F. FORT

In a letter sent out by the State Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics, and signed by Grafton E. Day, State councilor, reply is made to Governor Fort's recent communication on the public school funds. The Governor is charged with continued assaults upon the income of the public school system while pretending to be friendly to the schools.

The letter is as follows and addressed to the subordinate councils:

"Your atention is called to a new form of an attack on the public school moneys of this State by the introduction of Assembly bill No. 430, by Mr. Colgate, of Essex county, in which he proposes that the Legislature shall appropriate the sum of $2,000,000 to be taken from the railroad taxes assessed for 1908, to be paid to the schools for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910. This is taking from the schools the money that is already theirs and giving them back a part of it. 'Beware of the Greeks bearing gifts,' especially when they are giving you a part of the contents of your own pocketbook.

"You will notice that this bill, say $2,000,000, is to come from the taxes of 1908, but the schools are not to receive it until June 30, 1910. This bill is absolutely destructive to the law of 1906 and repeals it in effect.

"The Governor, while pretending to be friendly to the public school system in this State, continues his assaults upon its income. In an open letter, published March 23, he intimates that the Junior Order United American Mechanics are aiding the railroads, in protecting the public schools. This intimation, or suggestion, is petulant and false. If the railroads can get the school moneys back into the State treasury then there would be no danger to them of an increased taxation on railroad property.

Advocates Law's Repeal.

"The Governor advocates this plan of repealing the law of 1906, taking the money from the schools and placing it in the State treasury. This, the Junior Order United American Mechanics oppose. 'Who is protecting the railroads?' The Governor has changed his so-called 'my plan' of diverting the school moneys, and now proposes, in the Colgate bill, No. 430, to appropriate $2,000,000 this year 'out of the moneys that already belong to the schools.' You will notice that this bill makes no provision, except for one year. The Junior Order United American Mechanics contend that the law of 1906 should remain intact. Let it alone, and then there is no necessity for Assembly bill No. 430, for the reason the law of 1906 now provides the appropriation of this money, not for one year, but perpetually. The money received from railroad taxes belongs to the municipalities and our public school system.

"We urge you, as before, to call upon all friends of the public schools, School Boards, members of the order, and urge upon them the necessity of at once calling upon and writing to the representatives of their respective counties and urge upon them the necessity of opposing this bill, No. 430, and all bills that will in any manner affect the law of 1906.

"There are but a few days left for work. The Legislature will adjourn very shortly. Whatever you do must be done at once."

WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

Hackettstown, March 27.—Testimony was heard here yesterday at the office of James Fisher before former Judge I. W. Shultz, of Phillipsburg, sitting as a special master and examiner of the Court of Chancery, in a decree of divorce instituted by Samuel Miller, of Phillipsburg, against Margaret Ellen Bowman, formerly of Schooley's Mountain, on the grounds of illegality of marriage.

Mrs. Bowman, whose husband and sons reside near here, went to Phillipsburg about a year ago, and, representing herself as a single woman, made love to Samuel Miller and their marriage followed. In a few months husband No. 2 learned of the existence of husband No. 1, and he had a warrant issued for the woman's arrest on a charge of bigamy. She was indicted and convicted at the September term of court, 1908, and was sentenced by Judge Shipman to three years in State prison.

YOUNG WOMAN A SUICIDE.

Trenton, Mar. 27.—Biding her companions in the weaving shop of Roebling's mills farewell, saying she would not return, Miss Theodosia R. Lenox, eighteen years old, went to her sister's home, spent an evening in gay mood until they retired and then committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. Neither her acquaintances nor her relatives can give any reason for her act.

Miss Lenox lived with her sister, her parents being dead. She spent most of the evening amusing the baby of her sister. About midnight the latter, awakened by her child crying, went downstairs to get it a warm drink. She found Miss Lenox dead on a sofa. She had filled a tin cup with the poison and swallowed most of it.

BATTIN SCHOOL IS TWENTY YEARS OLD.

Mansion Built by Anthony Dimock Was Presented to Elizabeth March 26, 1889.

The twentieth anniversary of the taking over by Elizabeth of the Battin High School fell yesterday. The magnificent building was presented to the city by Joseph Battin, on March 26, 1889, he then being president of the Elizabethtown Water Co.

The mansion was built by Anthony W. Dimock, while he was president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and previous to the panic of 1873. It originally cost $250,000. The interior is all of carved oak and mahogany, costing in al $80,000. The winding staircase was constructed at a cost of $40,000. The gift of Mr Battin included a large portion of the grounds, 155 feet on South Broad street, the entire width on South street to Williamson street, and 170 feet on the latter.

WIFE SEEKS HUSBAND.

John Conners, Who Left Her in December, Has Disappeared.

John Conners, of 103 Hamilton street, Rahway, is anxiously looked for by his wife and three small children, whom he deserted on December 12 last, at which time he was employed as painter by D. B. Dunham & Son, carriage manufacturers. Conners, on receiving his weekly pay, left Rahway, and his wife has been unable to locate him.

He is described as being five feet, seven inches in height, with dark hair and mustache, blue eyes, light complexion, and weighing about 160 pounds. It is said Mr. and Mrs. Conners had a disagreement previous to his taking his sudden flight. Those who profess to know the whereabouts of the man say he is in Canada. Mrs. Conners is in very straitened circumstances.

QUITS JOB TO FARM.

Matthew Dorsey Will Leave on Monday for Tipton, O.

Matthew Dorsey, of 144 Pine street, an old resident of Elizabeth, and for thirty years an employe of the Singer Manufacturing Company, leaves next Monday for Tipton, O., where he has purchased a fifty-six acre farm and a twelve-room house.

Mr. Dorsey is the son of the late John Dorsey, who was attached to the local police department for many years and left an estate valued at about $25,000, which was recently settled. The elder Dorsey resided for many years at First and Pine streets. Shopmates of Mr. Dorsey have extended best wishes to him on his departure for rural scenes.

The Woodhull & Martin Store

Permanent Shubert Comedy Co.

The company which is now presenting Clyde Fitch's latest farce comedy, "The Blue Mouse," is to be hereafter as the Shubert Comedy Company and is to be the first of a series of permanent organizations to be formed and managed by the Messrs. Shubert. For more than a year, it has been a favorite contention of Mr. Lee Shubert that the demand for farce comedy, produced with truly competent players, was much greater than recognized by most theatrical managers and that the interest of the public in an emotional problem play did not detract from the popular appreciation of plays in lighter vein. The great success of "Girls" justified this conviction, and the still greater success of "The Blue Mouse has proved it beyond doubt or question. The Shubert Comedy Company, now offering "The Blue Mouse," will continue in that piece for exactly a year, and will then be supplied with yet another farce comedy, also from the pen of Clyde Fitch. The other three "Blue Mouse" companies will continue indefinitely in the present piece and then, if the success of the next farce comedy production by the Shubert Comedy Company justifies such a course, will change to the next offering of the central company.

Had the Old Man Cornered.

"Do you think you can support me in the style to which I have been accustomed?" she asked.

"I don't know," he replied, "but I know this I'll be able to support you in a better style than you will be accustomed to after this, if you don't accept me. Your dad has sold short on July wheat and I've got it cornered."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Unwritten History.

The winter has been sorely disappointing,
It's knocked the interest out of romance;
But possibly the spring that's now unjointing
Will give the old inhabitant a chance.

can be well done or poorly done—all depends on where you buy. It stands buyers in hand to be wary of furniture bargains in unreliable places, "bargains"—so-called, that are to be had in endless variety. In many cases "regrets" would be a better word than "bargains."

We give you high value at low cost. The housewise need never feel that the low price paid here for any article implies inferiority or old style. Here is where the idea of reasonable prices are always maintained; where the best and choicest Furniture and Carpets are always found and sold at low prices—low prices and genuine worth make genuine bargains.

WARSHIPS MAY BE BUILT IN CAMDEN.

Reported That Larger Part of Argentina's $40,000,000 Will Be Spent in U. S.

S. M. Knox, secretary and treasurer of the New York Shipbuilding Company, whose yards are at Camden, N. J., who has been bidding on the construction of about $40,000,000 worth of battleships, torpedo boats and destroyers for Argentina, returned yesterday on the White Star Line steamship Adriatic from London, where he had gone to attend the opening of the bids.

Mr. Knox refused to talk about the matter, but some of his fellow voyagers with whom he chatted on the trip said that the capital for the construction of the warships had been put up by prominent United States financiers, and that the American shipbuilders would get the larger part of the job.

McFADDEN ON SOURCE OF THE HUMAN ENERGY.

All the muscles of the body must be used to a certain extent in order to develop their highest degree of strength, but remember that this strength depends upon increasing the vigor and vitality of the spinal region. This represents the human power-house. Here is where the nervous energy is stored, here is where it is given out to the various organs and muscles of the body, and by strengthening these parts, you thereby are able to add vigor and vitality to every part of the organism.

BITTEN FINGERS IDENTIFY BRUTE.

Charles Brown, a negro and ex-convict, was committed without bail yesterday by Judge Mahon at Elizabeth, on complaint of Mary Varga, 18 years old, who charged him with attacking her Sunday night.

In her struggle to free herself, the Polish girl severely bit his thumb and third finger. The police, learning that Brown was in town, arrested him Thursday night and discovered the wounded fingers. Later the girl identified him and he confessed the crime.

L. Kirchgassner Buried.

The funeral of the late Leonard Kirchgassner, of Rahway, president of the Board of Education, of Rahway, whose death occurred on Monday, took place yesterday at 2:30 p. m., from hie late residence, 140 West Grand street. The Rev. K. Kunzinger, of the German Evangelical Lutheran church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Cooder, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The bearers were old friends of the deceased, Samuel Moy, George Helmstadter, Edward Urban, Carl Hoenicke, William Sabling and Frederick Augie.

Drug Store Under Hammer.

The drug store of H. Philo & Son, at Cherry and Irving streets, Rahway, was sold yesterday morning at auction by Constable M. Boyne to George H. Holeran for $600. Against the business were three chattel mortgages and claims amounting to over $2,000.

Falls Into Sewer; Breaks Leg.

Tony Samaton, an Italian laborer in the employ of Matthew Wade, a contractor, fell into an excavation for a sewer on Jersey avenue, near Bayway, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and sustained a broken leg. He was removed to the Alexian Hospital.

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell household goods at 126 Watchung avenue on Monday at 1 o'clock. **

BURIED BABY IN YARD OF HOME.

Olsens, Poor and Ignorant, Put Child Who Lived an Hour in Starch Box.

Mrs. Louis Olsen, wife of a laborer, gave birth to a child Monday at her home, 327 Johnson avenue, Jersey City. The child lived less than an hour. The Olsens are poor and had no money to provide for the burial of the infant. Olsen got an old starch box, placed the body in it and made a grave in a corner of the yard of his home, into which he lowered the box. Neighbors who had known of the birth of the child called to congratulate Mrs. Olsen, and they were surprised to find her engaged in her housework. The child was not to be seen. They communicated their suspicions to the police, who, after an investigation, dug up the box and turned it over to the overseer of the poor.

Because of their ignorance and poor financial circumstances the Olsens were not arrested.

MORMON TO SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A. MEN'S MEETING.

Hans P. Freece, of the Graduate School of Columbia University, will be the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon. His topic will be "The Inside of Mormonism." Mr. Freece was born in the Morman church. His mother was a plural wife and his father was one of the early Mormon settlers who walked from Council Bluffs to Salt Lake city. As a mere lad he came under the influence of Christian missionaries sent out from the east who inspired him with a desire for an education. After graduation from college, he became a lecturer for the Presbyterian church for two years and now continues his work in the lecture field after graduate training in Columbia.

Mr. Freece knows the Morman system and has experienced many sad things resulting from it. His information is personal and he is in close touch with every phase of the Mormon problem.

DEATH WARRANT SIGNED; COUNSEL OBTAINS A STAY.

Governor Fort yesterday afternoon signed the death warrant of Archibald Herron, who was convicted of having murdered the Rev. S. B. D. Prickett, of Metuchen.

Herron was under a reprieve which expires next Monday. The warrant directs that he be electrocuted during the week beginning next Tuesday. The warrant was served upon Headkeeper Osborne, of the State Prison, late yesterday afternoon, by the executive clerk, Charles A. Ransom.

Judge Bergen at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon granted Herron a stay, as his counsel wants a jury trial as to Herron's sanity.

Dr. T. S. Barbour to Preach.

At the First Baptist church tomorrow, Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Barbour, of Boston, foreign secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, will speak both morning and evening. In the morning his topic will be "A New Day in the Farther East." Dr. Barbour has just returned from a six months journey in India, China and Japan, visiting the mission fields. His address will doubtless be of extraordinary interest. In the evening the pastor will administer the ordinance of baptism to a number of persons who have recently made a confession of faith.

South Plainfield Church Social.

A successful musicale and entertainment was held at the South Plainfield Baptist church last night. An orchestra of nine pieces rendered several selections, including a clever medley. Miss Gladys Thorne, Mrs. Charles Jackson and Mrs. T. A. Linnaberry sang solos and a quartet comprising Mr. and Mrs. Linnaebrry, John Linnaberry and Mrs. C. Jackson sang. There were recitations by Mrs. David Bibgy and Rev. C. W. F. Attlee. A social hour followed the entertainment.

GIRLS SOLVE PUZZLES AT THE Y. W. C. A. PARTY.

The girls of the Tuesday evening gymnasium class of the Y. W. C. A. had a good time solving progressive puzzles last night. Miss Olive Delaney held the most punches and was proclaimed the champion.

The occasion was a party given by the association committee to the class. Miss Margaret Mosher, the physical director, acted in the capacity of hostess. Refreshments were served and other features provided for the pleasure of the guest.

Those present were: Misses Lona and Elizabeth Becker, Mirtie and Lillian Fedderman, Louise Harral, Sadie Johnston, Olive and Hazel Delaney, Harriett Matteson and Stella Kline.

Rival Carnivals.

Mayor Fisk, it transpires, has issued a permit for neither the Knights of Columbus nor the Clinton Avenue Baseball Club carnival as he explains none is required when conducted by local residents for such a pupore. The knights plan to hold their fair in June while the baseball nine aims to conduct its enterprise in May. Anxious that neither conflict with the other, Mayor Fisk has advised the two to get together and agree on dates. Accordingly committees representing each will meet at his office on Tuesday afternoon for that purpose.

An Easter Social.

An "Easter Social" was held at Grace M. E. church last night by the members of the Epworth League. An enjoyable time was had and games pertaining to Easter were indulged in. The committee having charge of the affair were Miss Ada Van Horne and Raymond E. Miller, assisted by the Misses Mary Hoagland, Nettie Bauersachs, Edith Mager, Lucetto and Grace Clark, Mary Steiner, and Russell Harden, David Smalley and Benjamin Schuck.

LEARNS ON DEATH BED HE WAS LOVED.

Youth, Told by Rival that He Had Been Jilted, Shoots Himself in Breast.

Reunited to his sweetheart on his death bed and the realization that the attempt to end his life was mere folly were the experiences of Stephen Haramil, 18 years old, who is dying at St. Francis' Hospital, Trenton, from a self-inflicted bullet wound in his lung.

The physicians at the hospital say the boy will not live, and his sweetheart, pretty 15-year-old Susie Madaci, refuses to leave his bedside since she learned last night that her lover tried to end his life because he thought her faithless. A rival of the boy, who was opposed to the girl marrying young Haramil, was responsible for the attempt at self-destruction, and the girl has denounced him.

For the past eight months Haramil had been courting Susie. Several weeks ago Michael Albanasi, a dashing Hungarian youth, began to pay attention to Miss Madaci, and Haramil believed he had been jilted. The girl reassured him that this was not the case, as she did not love his rival. Haramil told his sweetheart then that if he could not marry her he would end his life.

"I cannot live to see any one else win you," he declared pleadingly. On Tuesday night Albanasi stopped Haramil on the street and told him it was useless for him to continue his attentions to the girl they both loved. Albanasi declared he had "cut him out."

Haramil went directly to the Madaci home. Miss Susie was not at home, but her sister Bessie assured him there was nothing in Albanasi's story.

"I believe it. She has deserted me. Tell Susie I die for love of her."

With these words the heart-broken lover whipped a revolver from his pocket and sent a bullet into his breast.

Miss Madaci wanted to marry her dying lover last night, but the physicians forbade this because of his condition. She did not persist when told it might only cause him more pain. She thought the ceremony might restore his confidence and perhaps give a ray of hope for his life.

PYTHIAN ALTAR IN ELIZABETH.

Presented to Volunteer Lodge by Members of Lafayette Lodge of Jersey City.

Scores of prominent members attended the presentation of a Pythian charity altar last night by Lafayette Lodge, No. 79, K. of P., of Jersey City, to Volunteer Lodge, No. 110, of Elizabeth. The presentation took place in Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, Broad street.

The object of the presentation is to create a Pythian home by voluntary contributions, and also to bring about fraternal gatherings among the various lodges. There were appropriate speeches by several of the visiting and local lodge officers. The affair was concluded with a luncheon. The hall was thronged with representatives of the three local lodges, Harmony, Volunteer and Olive Branch, and also with out-of-town visitors.

Among those in attendance were the following: Grand Vice-Chancellor A. Lewis Bricker, of Elizabeth; Deputy Grand Chancellor Charles Schroll, of Jersey City; Chancellor Commander Decker of Lafayette Lodge, Jersey City; Past Deputy Grand Chancellor George A. Foster, Jersey City; Chancellor Commander Reed, Grant Lodge, Jersey City; Chancellor Commander Shafer, Centenary Lodge, Jersey City; Deputy Grand Chancellor J. H. Pool, Elizabeth; Past Deputy Grand Chancellor William Searle, Elizabeth; Thomas Searle, Elizabeth; A. B. Jones, Elizabeth; John Schneider, Elizabeth; Chancellor Commander Bert Rixon, Elizabeth; Chancellor Commander Eckert, of Harmony Lodge, Elizabeth, and Past Deputy Grand Chancellor Clarence Cook, of Linden.

Among the places represented were: Rahway, Jersey City, Linden, Troy, N. Y., and Connecticut. The committee in charge consisted of C. D. Gibson, B. Frankenthal, E. McEarnan, W. Harry Smith and A. Lewis Drucker.

Somerville Elks.

The Somerville Lodge of Elks held its annual meeting in Somerville Thursday night, and after reorganization had been effected an elaborate feast was served. The new officers are: Exalted ruler, A. W. Mack; esteemed leading knight, Frederick A. Pope; esteemed lecturing knight, Bogart T. Conkling; esteemed loyal knight, Chester A. Cawley; trustee, William E. Maxwell; tyler, Howard Stryker; secretary, Joseph V. Woodruff; treasurer, Calvin D. McMurtry; esquire, Guy H. Noble; prelate, A. M. Beekman; inner guard, George H. Thompson.

Only One Postoffice Banquet.

The clerks and carriers in the Elizabeth postal service have decided to have only one banquet this year, instead of separate ones as heretofore. It will be held at Bender's Loraine Hotel, April 24, and a committee made up of William Barry, William O'Brien, Fred Adams and Peter Scherf is at work on the program.

Walter Kennedy, of New street, is ill at his home with an attack of pneumonia.

ONLY ONE.

The Record in Plainfield Is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Plainfield citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back, and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was the irregular action of the kidney secretions. While suffering from a spell of this trouble, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Randolph's Pharmacy and shortly after I was well again. Since then hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

IDEAS HOUSEKEEPERS WILL FIND OF VALUE.

Hot Gingerbread with Whipped Cream Makes an Excellent Dessert—How to Serve Sauerkraut and Its Accompaniment.

Have you ever tried hot gingerbread served as a dessert with plenty of whipped cream on top? If the gingerbread is spicy and has a few raisins added it is an improvement. Hot gingerbread is delicious for lunch, eaten with butter and maple sirup.

If you like stewed tomatoes over mashed potatoes, a more artistic way of serving your favorite combination is to put the potatoes in a baking dish, pour over tomatoes which have been previously stewed, cover with bread crumbs and brown in the oven.

The sauerkraut luncheon need not be dreaded if the kraut has an onion cooked with it. This seems to keep the odor from going through the house, probably on the homeopathic principle that one bad smell kills another.

Sauerkraut should have as accompaniments nothing but roast pork, mashed potatoes, thin bread and butter and a cup of weak tea. Never serve it with several courses. If there be a dessert, it should be something in keeping.

Baked apples and cream make a digestible dessert after sauerkraut. Too simple for company? The devotees of kraut don't care whether they eat a dessert at all, and guests who do not like the cabbage delicacy should never be invited to a sauerkraut feast.

Fruit cocktails may be served at breakfast, dinner and luncheon, as a first course at the first and last, and either as a first course or dessert at lunch.

The successful fruit cocktail must be icy cold; the fruit must be freed of all skin and pulp; it should have been sugared and allowed to stand in the ice box for several hours to draw a juice and assimilate the flavors, and soft fruit that blackens, like bananas, peaches or cubes of canteloupe, should not be added until just before serving.

A New Turnip Dish.

A nice way in which to conibine meat and turnips is the following: Select small white turnips, pare them smoothly and cook them until nearly done in slightly salted boiling water. Take them out of the water, hollow out the centers, leaving a cup-shaped receptacle, dust lightly with seasoning, and fill them with chopped cooked meat of any kind mixed with just enough rich gravy to make slightly moist. Brush over the turnips with soft butter and dust them with fine crumbs, put them in a baking dish with two tablespoonfuls of butter, and bake them in a good oven until perfectly tender. Place them on a heated dish, and put a little of the melted butter in the pan of each. They should be basted two or three times with the butter while cooking.—The Housekeeper.

Prune Whip.

One-third pound of prunes, 18, one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice, whites of five eggs, one-half cup of sugar. Cook prunes, remove seeds and cut into small pieces, add sugar and then cook five minutes. Beat whites of eggs until stiff; add prunes and lemon juice; pile lightly in buttered pudding dish. Bake 20 minutes and serve cold with soft custard over it. Soft custard: Take two cups of milk, yolks of three eggs, once-fourth cup of sugar, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla.

Celeried Oysters.

Wash and drain the oysters, dip in beaten egg and broil in melted butter after rolling in fine dust; arrange on platter, sprinkle with chopped celery and cover with the following sauce; Blend two tablespoonfuls of butter with two tablespoonfuls of flour, add a little salt and pepper, then, gradually, a cup of scalded milk; over all sprinkle a little chopped parsley; serve on delicate slices of toast; sauce should be cooked in double boiler fifteen minutes. Rich and delicious.

Jawbreakers.

When baking bread, make these, and do not let the name frighten you. When the bread has risen the second time cut narrow slices from it and dip each of these in a small stew kettle half-filled with boiling fat. When well-browned dip into a sirup made by boiling together a cup of sugar, a little water and a half-teaspoonful of cinnamon boiled until it candies. Set the pieces of bread aside to dry.

Orange Frappe.

Into a bowl squeeze the juice of six large oranges and the grated rind of one orange. Add sugar to taste and enough water to make of the desired strength. Turn into a freezer and freeze until thick, but not too stiff. To make it frothy put in the unbeaten whites of three eggs before grinding.

Butter Pie Tins.

When making pies, if the pans are greased with a little butter it will make the bottom crust brown and flaky, and thus prevent the crust from becoming soft, which is so often the case with custard or pumpkin pies, and also makes it easy to remove from tin.

GETTING AT THE FACTS

"I'll find out," said Emmeline, cheerfully.

"You can't," said mother, dolefully. "I know because I've tried and if ever there was a boy who kept things to himself it's your brother. He doesn't confide in me! I asked him right out as a mother should. I said, 'Henry, are you in love with that Cora Carter girl?' He said 'Certainly not.' But it looks that way."

"It does," said Emmeline. "I haven't been paying much attention, though. I fear I haven't been taking a proper interest in my own brother. I'll find out."

"You'll have to be tactful," said her mother. "As I was. You can't get anything out of Henry as you can from other people."

"I don't see that you got much," said Emmeline with the distressing frankness one uses in the bosom of one's family. "You leave Henry to me!"

"It was terribly windy down-town today," Emmeline remarked to her brother that evening. "Lots of the girls were down shopping, though."

"Who?" asked Henry, unfolding his evening paper.

"Oh," said his sister, absently, "Grace and Vera and—and Marie—I don't just remember."

"You said lots," objected her brother. "That isn't many. Anyone else?"

"Oh, yes," said Emmeline, "I saw Cora, too. Cora Carter. You know her. Awfully good-looking man she was with. Say, did you get that book for me at the library?"

"No—yes," came from behind the evening paper. "I'm trying to read. Don't bother me."

"Excuse me," said his sister, meekly.

A silence of five minutes followed.

"It's funny," said Henry in an injured tone, "that a girl never will put herself out to entertain her brother! When I stay home nothing happens! You'd chatter fast enough if it were some of the fellows calling on you!"

"I thought you wanted to read," said his sister amiably. "I hope this horrid windy weather will stop. There were some spring hats—"

"Don't you ever think of anything but clothes?" interrupted Henry, severely. "I never saw anything like it! Now, there are girls who occupy their minds with other things—music and books and—er—well, other things. They take an interest in the world."

"Who?" asked Emmeline, bluntly.

"Lots of them," said her brother with dignity. "Where did you say you met—"

"You are right, Henry," interrupted his sister. "I am glad you like that kind of girls. I should hate to see my brother throw himself away on one of the frivolous kind. There's Martha—just the sort you describe. She's devoted to her literature classes and her mission work! She doesn't waste time over foolish clothes!"

"H'm!" said Henry, a little savagely.

"Don't you like Martha?" asked his sister, surprisedly. "She's a lovely girl."

"No doubt," said Henry carelessly. "Did you say—"

"It's such a mistake to be carried away by a girl's pretty face," said Emmeline. "I'm glad you're more sensible. If you'd seen the idiotic way that man was mooning over Cora! Goodness! That reminds me. I must telephone the dressmaker to see if—"

"Oh, you can telephone her any time," said Henry. "You might stay here and talk to me awhile. You're always kicking because I won't devote an evening to you now and then. Who was the man with Cora Carter?"

"Henry," said his sister, joyously, "I know what we'll do! We'll have a nice game of cribbage! I'll get the—"

"I don't believe I care for cribbage," said Henry, gloomily.

He subsided into his paper. Occasionally he growled to himself as over some bit of news. After a little while he laid the paper down determinedly.

"Where'd you meet Cora Carter?" he asked.

Emmeline looked vague. "On State street—no, it was in Peters' store," she said. "Why?"

"I just wondered," said her brother, getting out his pipe. "Did you say her mother was with her?"

"Did I?" asked Emmeline, frowning in her effort to remember. "I'm so absent minded. Why, Henry?"

Henry stood upright after slamming down his pipe viciously. "There's no use trying to have any connected conversation with you!" he said.

"I don't see why you're so dreadfully interested in who was with Cora Carter!" said his sister.

"I'm not," said Henry. "It doesn't make a particle of difference to me! She can go with a dozen different men for all I care! I was just trying to be social and talk with you, but you don't seem to want to talk. I'm going out. I wasn't at all interested in Cora Carter or who she was with. I—I—just happened to hit on her name! As if it made any difference to me! A fellow can't expect comprehension of his simplest motives from his own family!"

"I do remember now," said Emmeline. "There wasn't anyone with Cora. It was Marie who had the good-looking man with her."

"Well, why did you say he was with Cora, then?" fumed Henry.

"Because I wanted to find out something," said his sister with malicious sweetness. "And I found out!"—Chicago Daily News.

REMAINS ALWAYS SEALED BOOK.

Mystery of Mentality Seems Designed to Be Hidden from Mankind.

We say of one who has destroyed his life: "He must have been mentally unbalanced." Was he? What is the proof that comes from an action merely contrary to the ordinary rule of life? And what is balance? In every walk of life we meet with the unbalanced, or the mentally dying. The fanatic is the man with large mental force, but with only one outlet. He looks on the world through a single window. His salvation is to open many windows to his soul. The business man struggles with singleness of purpose. The student lives among the fancies of his brain. But extreme application brings the same results as extreme inattention. The rush of urban life and the desolation of the farm produce identical results. In a thousand persons the gradations from the extreme of brute physical domination to the extreme of nervous force are found, and all are susceptible to the unknown law which, without warning, extinguishes the inner light and leaves the afflicted groping in the darkness.

Was poverty, ill health or dishonor confronting the hapless one? Did he have the things that men desire, and was he about to lose them? Did any one of a thousand things impend which try men's courage and test their powers of resistance and philosophy? And if we cannot find one of these tangible, material things, we shake our heads sagely and leave the question unanswered. Why should it be unanswered? There are things we know and things we may not learn. And among the latter is the mystery of mentality.

MUST RISK MAKING MISTAKES.

Man Afraid of Taking Chances Will Never Accomplish Anything.

The man whose career means deeds, results—the man who does things—is not afraid to risk mistakes. He of whom it can be said: "He has never made a serious error of judgment—his record is flawless," will be found to be one who has done little or nothing worth while. He is so cautious in contemplating a move that he hardly dares to make it before its possible effect has been minimized or lost. Guarding himself against the reproach of public failures, he denies himself the satisfaction of work well done. It is his habit to study a situation until the time for action has passed. He shrinks from responsibility, as he fears criticism. He is swayed by the supercaution that goes with a futile mediocrity.

The other type of man investigates, decides and does. Criticism and the change of ridicule are ignored by him. Between action and hesitation he chooses action every time. When it comes to taking a chance or waiting to see what will happen he takes the chance. He would rather risk a mistake than do nothing. He is willing to listen to both sides and then acts on his own judgment, welcoming the responsibility. If he meets with failure he does the best thing possible to amend it. If he is successful he gathers new hope in dealing with the next problem. That's the American spirit.

Jurymen in Hard Lines.

Grievances of present-day jurymen are mild compared with those inflicted on them in the past. Until the passing of an act of parliament in 1870, British jurymen were prohibited from having meat, drink, or fire (candle-light nly excepted) while considering their verdict. In some ancient courts they were even subject to physical violence. They were told to "lay their heads together" as an indispensable preliminary to finding a verdict. No sooner did the jury dive beneath the level of their boxes than an usher, armed with a willow wand, took up a position near them. If any juryman presumed to come to the surface before the verdict was arrived at down came the wand on the head of the offender.

Early Italian Surgery.

Benvenuto Cellini (1500-1571) tells of early Italian surgery. He had got a bit of chipped steel in his eye, "so far into the pupil that it was impossible to get it out, so that I was in very great danger of losing that eye." But the surgeon came to the rescue with the pigeons. The surgeon, making me lie upon my back, with a little knife opened a vein in each of their wings, so that the blood ran into my eye, and I was thereby greatly relieved. In the space of two days the bit of steel issued from my eye, and I found that I had received considerable ease, and in a great measure, recovered my sight."

Man's Contrariness.

One of the most curious traits of that most curious creature, Man, is the fact that the very things he most admires in a sweetheart he condemns or ignores in a wife! Before they were married, when she coquettishly stuck a flower in her pretty curls he went into rhapsodies of romantic fervour. After the honeymoon, when she tries the same little Cupid's trick he most likely does not even see that she has adorned herself with a floral wreath to win a compliment or a kiss.—Annesley Kenealy, in Woman's Life.

Taking No Chances.

"You always speak kindly to your wife?" said the prying friend.

"Always," answered Mr. Meekton. "I never think of giving Henrietta a harsh word."

"Because you believe in ruling by gentleness?"

"No. Because self-preservation is the first law of nature."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The choicest bits of scenes the world affords are revealed in Lyman H Howe's new program at the New Plainfield heatre tonight. The program is a veritable series of excursions to remote parts of the world. Among the subjects of this kind are included a trip through "forbidden" Russia; a visit to southern France through scenes of such surpassing beauty that the spectator feels transported to a fairyland, and a voyage down the Nile showing Egypt past and present.

To the New Plainfield theatre Monday night comes Patricia O'Brien, the famous chorus girl heroine of James Forbes' play, "The Chorus Lady," with Rose Stahl still portraying the living realty of this wonderful stage character. "The Chorus Lady" has achieved new triumphs, and the company is just back from a brief but wonderfully successful tour of the principal cities of the Pacific coast, where business records were broken right and left. The local engagement will in all probability be the only one of Miss Stahl in this play here as she plays but three more weeks in the country as the star and her players are to be sent to London the latter part of April to present the play in the Vaudeville theatre there for a long engagement.

"The Old Homestead," that masterpiece of New England rusticity transplanted to the stage by Denman Thompson, has not yet lost its charm, though the present is the twenty-third season of the old play. This quaint and entertaining glimpse of New England farm life still has a strong hold upon the public. It is clean, wholesome, pure drama. One that mother can take boys to see and find a good lesson in the presented show. It may not rank very high as literature, but it touches the true human chord. We all know about "The Old Homestead" just as we know about "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and it is pleasant to know that it loses none of its interest and pleasing qualities by repeated iteration. "The Old Homestead" comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday for matinee and night performances.

A. G. Delamater and William Norris have engaged one of the most prominent of the younger dramatic stars, to create the title role of "Beverly of Graustark," which will have its initial production at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, April 10, preparatory to a long run at the Walnut Street theatre, Philadelphia. The actress in question is said to be young, beautiful, possessed of extreme talents and to have created no less than a dozen important roles under the management of the Frohmans, appearing almost exclusively at the Empire, Lyceum and Daily's theatres, New York, for six years.

SERVANT LOOTED AUSTRIAN'S HOUSE.

Carried Off Among Other Things Uniform of Brother of King's Chamberlain.

Henry Krohna was committed to the county jail at Elizabeth yesterday on a charge of stealing articles, valued at more than $3,000, preferred by Rudolph von Stefenelli, a New York artist, ex-Austrian army officer and brother of the chamberlain to the King of Austria.

Von Stefenelli comes from a noble family in Europe. Upon arriving in this country, after resigning his commission in the Austrian army, he went to Pittsburg, where he took up his occupation as an artist. While there he acquired a farm. Krohna was hired to look after the farm and some time ago he was left in charge of the place when Von Stefenelli took up his residence in New York city. Letters were sent to Krohna, it was alleged by Von Stefenelli, in which he told him to dispose of certain articles on the farm

The complaint alleges that Krohna packed up most of the things in the Pennsylvania place and left. Von Stefenelli traced him about the country and finally several days ago located him in Elizabeth. It is charged that Krohna took with him an imported statue of Venus, valued at $75; a pair of buckskin riding trousers, valued at $50; the uniform of an Austrian officer, valued at $150; three children's beds, two brass beds, one single bed, one mahogany chiffonier, one kitchen range, one parlor stove, four tables, four dining-room chairs, one rocking chair, articles (including equipment of an Austrian officer) in a trunk, two clocks, one china dinner set, automobile fixtures, articles of cut glass, one fruit jar, tools and utensils for repairing automobile, three rings, one couch, one cradle, silverware, kitchen utensils, two curtains, bedspreads, camera, albums an oil painting, pictures frames, box of water colors and other things.

City Attorney James C Connolly appeared for the artist.

Falls Thirty Feet; Little Hurt.

While at work on top of a big tank at the Standard Oil Company's plant in Bayway yesterday, Michael Vareinck, 21 years old, fell to the ground, a distance of thirty feet. He was taken unconscious to the General Hospital, where it was found that outside of bodily bruises he had escaped injury.

Jacob Pfaff, of North Branch, has been visiting relatives in Plainfield.

CAMPBELL'S ALLEY BOWLING RESULTS

For the third time during the week a new high team score in Campbell's two-man tourney was established last night, Vanderbilt and Eller rolling a total of 465, surpassing the score of Laing and Stout by three pins.

Notwithstanding this the Scotch Plains "champers" were successful in but two games, winning one from McLaughlin and Thiers and one from Shannon and O'Keefe. McLaughlin and Thiers made rapid strides to the front by taking five games.

The scores on the whole were low, Vanderbilt being high with 235. O'Keefe put in 233 and Eller a 230. The scores:

Eller	136	186	151
Vanderbilt	158	187	159
	294	373	312
McLaughlin	161	168	170
Thiers	155	185	180
	316	353	350
O'Keefe	198	145	156
Shannon	156	202	172
	354	347	328
McLaughlin	199	165	186
Theirs	156	200	184
	355	365	370
O'Keefe	173	233	175
Shannon	171	157	189
	344	390	364
Eller	230	184	156
Vanderbilt	235	165	170
	465	349	326

Mr. Wiggins, the Somerset street grocer, who has been ill for a few weeks, is able to be about again.

SENTENCED TO DEATH, IS GRANTED A NEW TRIAL.

Dominic Mangano, the Italian who is in Trenton under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Dominick Zervasi, at Peterstown about a year ago, received word today that through his counsel, William R. Wilson, a new trial has been granted him.

It is expected that he will be taken to the county jail at Elizabeth within a few days and that the new trial will begin within the next two weeks. The trial of Mangan was one of the most sensational in recent years and was bitterly fought from start to finish.

Venable Wins Contract Case.

The case of Arthur Venable against the Mercantile Realty Company, of Orange, on contract, was tried before Judge Jones at the Orange District court yesterday, and Venable was awarded $240 and costs. The action was brought to recover money for some grading done by Venable on the company's tract at Rahway. William G. De Meza represented Venable.

Funeral of John Hess.

The funeral services of John Hess, who died at the home of his brother, Eugene Hess, of Clinton place, Thursday night, was held at St. Mary's church this morning. Father B. M. Bogan officiated and the interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall-bearers were Eugene Hess, Edward Marshall, John F. Casey, Jr., and John J. Gallagher.

FOR LUNCHEON OR "HIGH TEA."

Try This Way of Preparing and Serving Baked Virginia Ham.

Nothing is more delicious for luncheons and "high teas" than a Virginia baked ham. To prepare it, take a ham weighing from seven to nine pounds, scrape and scrub the outside, rinse well, cover with cold water and let stand 24 hours. Put to boil in cold water and simmer gently until tender. Take the kettle from the fire, but leave the ham in it until the liquid is lukewarm. Take out the ham and remove the skin, which should come off easily. Prepare a dressing of one beaten egg, two spoonfuls brown sugar, rolled bread crumbs or cracker dust, a level teaspoonful dry mustard with a little sour wine or cider to moisten. Spread this mixture over the ham, dot with cloves and put in a pan to bake. Pour a pint of sour wine or cider over it and bake, basting often until the cider is absorbed and the ham well browned.—Emma Paddock Telford.

USE FRESHLY BOILED WATER.

An Absolute Essential for the Making of Good Tea or Coffee.

There is more to the art of cooking than can be covered in any number of bare recipes. There are many little ways of doing things practiced by the best cooks which are not to be found in the ordinary cookbook.

One of these apparently trifling matters is the care of the tea kettle. Empty it and wash it out at least once a day—oftener if it be a small one.

If you wish good tea or coffee the secret is to make it with freshly boiled water. It is a great mistake to use water that has bubbled in the kettle from early morning till the afternoon, with a pitcherful added to it now and again to keep up the supply. Water that has been boiled and reboiled for an indefinite time is unwholesome and a frequent cause of indigestion.

Genoa Cake.

Required: Half a pound of flour, six ounces of butter, six ounces of castor sugar, four eggs, four ounces of sultanas, three ounces of mixed peel, half an ounce of shelled almonds, one grated lemon rind, half a teaspoonful of baking powder.

Line a flat square or oblong cake-tin with three layers of greased paper. Cream the butter and sugar until soft and white. Beat the eggs, and add them gradually to the butter and sugar. Sieve the flour and baking powder, and stir it lightly into these ingredients.

Clean the fruit, chop the peel, mix these with the lemon rind, and stir them in thoroughly, adding about half of the shredded nuts. Put the mixture into the prepared tin, shake the remaining nuts all over the surface, and bake the cake in a moderately hot oven for about one hour and a half. It will weigh about one and three-quarter pounds.

Checkerboard Cake.

Light part: One and one-half cups of white sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, whites of four eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla, two teaspoonfuls baking powder in two cups of white flour. Dark part: One cup of brown sugar, one-fourth cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, yolks of four eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder in two cups of white flour, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one-half nutmeg. Mix the dry spices, baking powder and flour together. Now place a spoonful of dark in the center of your jelly pan, then a ring of white, then dark again, so on, till pan is filled. Next pan out a light center, a dark ring, then light again, so on, till the pan is filled, then alternate layers.

Delicious Meat Loaf.

Two pounds of round steak, one pound of fresh pork, three green peppers, one-quarter of a nutmeg, one egg, three biscuits rolled fine, one large cup of stewed tomatoes. Season all well with salt and pepper. Put meat and peppers through chopper, then add seasoning and tomatoes. Have cracker crumbs on molding board, forming the above into loaf thereon. Put loaf into spacious, well-buttered pan and bake three-quarters of an hour. Baste frequently with butter.

Prune Pie.

Make your crust quite rich. This is a good recipe for crust. Take two cups of flour for two pies, add a little salt, one-half teaspoon of soda, one of cream tartar. Sift together with one teaspoon of sugar, two large tablespoons of lard and one of butter. For filling take one pound of prunes, wash in warm water, soak over night in one quart of water and boil very slowly till tender, then stone and mash. Add a pinch of table salt, two cups of sugar. This will make three pies.

Walnut Cream.

Rub a cream cheese to a paste with a silver fork. If not soft enough add a little melted butter or sweet cream. Season with salt and pepper. Make into small balls and into each press the halves of an English walnut. Lay on young, crisp lettuce leaves and stand where it will get cold. When ready to serve pour over it mayonnaise dressing and send to the table with thin slices of toasted bread.

Orange Jumbles.

One-third cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, one-third cup milk, 3¼ cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon orange extract. Cut with doughnut cutter, sprinkle with sugar and bake in moderate oven.

"JIM" MARTINE'S RECORD

In Forty Years "Farmer-Orator" Has Made 4,105 Political Speeches.

ONCE SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE.

The Picturesque and Admired Citizen Has Run for Office Many Times—Never Discouraged.

After having scanned over his diaries and done some calculating, James E. Martine, "the farmer-orator of Cedar Brook," and the undisputed idol of New Jersey's Democrats has figured it out that to date he has advocated the principles of Democracy from the rostrum approximately 4,105 times. This estimate does not include the countless private arguments and hear-to-heart talks he had had on the subject during the forty years in which he has held State fame as a warhorse of Jeffersonian ideas.

"Yes," it is safe to say that I have spoken 4,105 times on behalf of the political principles which are my religion," said Mr. Martine to a Daily Press reporter. "I have not figured out how many words I probably have expended during such a long period in enunciating the great truths of my party. Life is too short to waste time that way. But someone asked me a day or two ago how often I had talked and I confessed I had no idea. That led me, however, to look the matter up, and I'll be darned if it didn't surprise men. No, I haven't figured how much I have spent in railroad travel and other such expenses and what's more I don't care for I count it a good investment. I don't begrudge one penny of it.

"It's all a myth about my never having won as a candidate for office," continued the interesting Martine. "Why, bless your soul, I was elected a member of the Common Council right here in this Republican city away back in 1872. All told I have been a candidate before the people thirteen times. On one occasion I have been a candidate before the Legislature. That was when I was the minority's choice for United States Senator to succeed Mr. Dryden. I have been a nominee for the Assembly four times; three times I have run for State Senator; twice for Congress, once for Sheriff and once for Mayor, and once for Council.

The picturesque Martine home, known to every Jersey Democratic politician of any consequence, is almost in the heart of Plainfield. It comprises fifty acres of valuable land. Situated in the centre of the estate is the quaint house, which is by all means the oldest landmark in this section of the State. The original structure was built in 1685 by Sir Thomas Gordon, an Englishman of great wealth. The estate then comprised 1,500 acres, and had it been kept intact until today, it would be of immense value. The Gordon home was only fifteen by twenty feet and was nothing more than a shack. When Sir Thomas' wife died and was buried in St. Peter's churchyard, Perth Amboy, the estate was sold to the DeCamp family in 1717. The house was practically rebuilt and the original part used as a kitchen. Since then it has been changed but little. At later periods it was the home of Edmund Clarence Stedman, the banker-poet, and his mother, Elizabeth Stedman, the Quaker-poetress. William B. Kinney, minister to France under President Franklin Pierce, and William E. Dodge, the New York philanthropists, at various times also made it their home. Forty-six years ago, Daniel Martine, of New York, the father of "Jim," purchased the estate and it has since remained in the family.

Must Lessen Work.

Acting upon the advice of his physician, Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, has announced that his health will not permit him to continue at the head of the Holy Cross Club, a strong organization comprising nearly 100 boys and young men of city and borough. The announcement, made by Rev. Mr. Warner at the meeting of the club held in the church parish house, Saturday night, was received with genuine regret by the club members, and the club has not yet announced its plans for the future.

P. H. S. JUNIORS NET $135. BY PERFORMANCE

Pupils of the Junior class of the Plainfield High School successfully presented two clever playlets at the school auditorium Saturday night. A large audience taxed the seating capacity of the hall to the utmost. Harry Van Zandt, president of the class, announced today that $135 had been netted by the affair, and this will be used for the class gift for the school.

"A Case of Suspension" was the title of the principal play presented, and it was preceeded by "The Facts of the Matter," as a curtain raiser. "A Case of Suspension" is an unusually clever piece, and the numerous comic situations were ably presented by a carefully trained cast of the pupils.

The cast follows:

"Dorothy Talcott," Miss Katheryn Moynihan; "Molly Stockton," Miss Louise Andrews; "Mildred Bartlett," Miss Grace Parker; "Harold Ellis," James Mauger; "Tom Jenkins," Thomas Ricketts; "Jack Robinson," Otis Hovey; "Miss Ophelia Judkins," Miss Barbara Fleming; "Professor Emilius Edgerton," Howard Runyon; "Kathleen," Miss Lila Duy; "Jonas," Willet Gano.

The best acting in the curtain-raiser, "The Facts of the Matter," was by Miss Bessie Alpaugh, as "Mrs. Grosvenor, a widow," and Miss Ouida Hetfield, her French maid. Those who took part:

Miss Bessie Alpaugh, "Mrs. Grosvenor, a widow;" Miss Ouida Hetfield, "Mathilde, her maid;" Miss Muriel Collins, "Millie Camp;" Willet Gano, "John Armstrong;" Douglas Davis, "Peter Twine."

During the intermission between the plays, the Plainfield High School quartet sang three selections. The members of the quartet are F. Clyde Doane, Guion Fountain, Roy Titsworth and Charles Prior.

GREENBROOK RESIDENTS FAVOR A SEWAGE PLANT

Opposition to the proposed plan to locate sewage disposal beds in North Plainfield township, for the joint use of Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Fanwood and Scotch Plains, is rapidly disappearing. At a largely attended mass meeting of citizens of the township at the Greenbrook Schoolhouse on Saturday resolutions were unanimously adopted favoring the idea. These resolutions provided that if North Plainfield Borough makes application to locate such a plant in the township that the Greenbrook Improvement Association recommend to the township committee that it be granted, provided that the site chosen be west of Sebring's mills. The association, under whose auspices the meeting was held, went on record as being strongly opposed to the selection of a site east of the mills.

The resolutions also impose several conditions, which to the majority of the members are considered fair. Among these are that the borough shall pay satisfactory damages to any property-owner effected by the introduction of the proposed plant; that the borough shall pay the township for permission to enter its territory and that the amount to be agreed upon by the borough and township committee. Other conditions provide that the borough pay each effected property-owner for pipe line or disposal plant without charge at any time. Provision is also made that the system be the most improved and efficient and that a written agreement be signed before any permission is given.

President McCauley of the association in speaking of the matter, said: "It is the general impression that if it is necessary to locate a sewage disposal plant in the township it should be in the most isolated spot possible, which can only be found west of Sebring's mills. This location would give the borough of Dunellen an opportunity to join with North Plainfield and Plainfield for one general disposal plant. Our people are very anxious to get rid of the present Plainfield beds which have been and are so obnoxious. We trust that all necessary arrangements can be made to carry the matter to a successful satisfactory completion."

It is said that within the next two or three years Plainfield would have to spend at least $50,000 to improve its present sewage disposal plant. This would include the purchase of additional land for new beds.

Dr. Mary Patrick to Speak.

Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, president of the American College for Girls at Constantinople, will speak at the Hartridge School on Thursday night. Her subject will be "The Conditions in Turkey Since the Revolution." Mrs. Henry Villard will preside and it is probable that Dr. Talcott Williams may also speak.

CONVERTING THE HEBREW

Miss Ruth Angel Tells of Her Work in Address Before Trinity's Endeavorers.

GIVES STORY OF HER LIFE.

Jewish Women Firm in Their Faith—Rabbis Organized to prevent Conversions to Christianity.

Miss Ruth Angel, a missionary among her own people in New York, addressed the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, last night, telling of the trials of the missionaries in the Hebrew quarters. Her mother was a Roman Catholic and her father a Roumanian Jew, of the Tribe of Levi, a tribe of Ortnodox Jews. Miss Angel's father, according to her story, was preparing to be a rabbi in the Jewish seminary at Hanover, Germany. During the course of instruction a rabbi teacher said, "We will skip the 53d chapter of Isaiah." When asked why he said, "The Christians refer that chapter to their belief in Christ." Her father then became interested and thoroughly studied the chapter. In referring to this incident, Miss Angel said that as it is the custom of all Jews to learn as many languages as possible, her father decided to learn English and he was told to go to New York, where he was informed there was less possibility of his being converted.

Continuing Miss Angel said:

"One day he said to his wife, whom he had met and married on the way to this country, "let us go to the mission and listen to the preacher." They went and they were converted. When he informed his parents about the matter they told him that he was to consider himself dead to them."

While in Chicago, Mr. Angel went to the Union Theological Seminary, and before completing his course he established a mission there. Later he went to New York and continued his work among the Jews. He has been there for fifteen years and has been instrumental in the conversion of a thousand Jews.

Miss Angel said that the words the Jews base their conversion on are those inscribed on a certain arch in Rome, "and all Israel Shall be Saved." "It is claimed by a great many Jews," said Miss Angel, "that Christ was and is equal to any Jew on the face of the earth today, but a great many say that He is not equal to any of them. Christ's first followers were Jews. Saul of Tarsus was a Jew, she said, and she did not see why the Jews did not accept the teachings of the New Testament. There is now in New York city, according to her story, a party of rabbis trying to stop the conversion of the people of their race and these rabbis go to any extremes.

Miss Angel declared that the Hebrew could be converted and would be converted as the race is now allowing itself to be more fully enlightened on "Christianity." There are now in New York one million, one hundred thousand Jews, and the needs for their evangelization is necessarily great, she said. Two missions are now being conducted in the Hebrew district of New York and the average attendance at meetings, 200 or 300, while at the opening of the mission but ten or fifteen came. The prejudice of the women is hard to overcome, also, and there is strong opposition from the rabbis, but gradually the work is progressing and Miss Angel stated in closing that "With the help and co-operation of the Gentile Christian the Hebrew people will be saved."

GAVE DINNER IN HONOR OF Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES.

The dinner given to the championship athletic and basketball teams of the Y. M. C. A. by the Women's Auxiliary at the association parlors Saturday night, was one of the most enjoyable events given by the organization this season. It was attended by a large number of the best athletes in the city, and its success reflected great credit upon the women.

During the dinner honor medals were presented to Carl Steiner, Harry Rottberg and R. J. Lawrence. Speeches were made by Secretary H. E. Parker and Harry Gilmore.

An Evening of Song.

An evening of song is announced for tomorrow night at the First M. E. church at 8:15 o'clock by the choir under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist. There will be a chorus of thirty voices and the following soloists: The Misses Florence Conroy, Laura E. Gesswein, Helen J. Hall, Hope Irene Miller, Helen R. Smalley, Bertha vanNuis Willis, Mrs. Arthur B. Price, Mrs. Harry R. Moyer and Fred C. Kreidler, Harry R. Moyer and Bertram F. Tallamy.

"CHORUS LADY" TONIGHT

Miss Rose Stahl to Appear Here in the Famous Comedy of Stage Life.

FOR DAY NURSERY'S BENEFIT.

H. B. Harris Presents Her In James Forbes' Great Show With Rest of Original Cast.

For the benefit of the Day Nursery, Miss Rose Stahl appears tonight at the New Plainfield theatre in "The Chorus Lady," James Forbes' famous comedy of stage life. Miss Stahl, who leaped to the pedestal of instant fame in one great bound when "The Chorus Lady" was first disclosed, will again portray her inimitable role of Patricia O'Brien, member of the chorus and apostle of cheerfulness under all conditions; favorable or otherwise.

"The Chorus Lady" is a comedy in four acts depicting certain momentous incidents in the life of Patricia O'Brien, of the chorus, who is in love with Dan Mallory, the owner of a racing stable at which her father, Patrick O'Brien, is employed as a trainer. Mallory having experienced a series of reverses on the track, has been compelled to take as a partner, Dick Crawford, a well-known man-about-town, who is attracted by the beauty of Patricia's younger sister, Nora. Patricia arriving home unexpectedly through the closing of her company, finds that Crawford is trying to evilly ingratiate himself into the affections of Nora, and she determines to remove Nora from his influence.

The second act discloses the dressing-room for chorus girls at the Longacre Theatre in New York, occupied by a half dozen members of the musical comedy chorus. Nora, because of her prediliction for betting, has involved herself with these young women and incurred the enmity of Sylvia Simpson, a "show girl." In her endeavors to extricate herself, she has accepted the aid of Crawford. The un-looked for arrival of Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien precipitates a series of dramatic complications that are illustrated in the tremendous third act scene, which takes place in Crawford's rooms, and are happily solved in the fourth act, which shows the Harlem flat occupied by Patricia and Nora.

ADDRESS S. S. WORKERS

Many Parishes Represented at First Meeting of Episcopal Institute.

TO ELECT OFFICERS IN MAY.

Rev. E. M. Fergurson, Rev. Dr. H. H. Sleeper and Rev. G. A. Warner Give Talks.

The first meeting of the Plainfield Sunday-school Institute, an organization formed to systematize Sunschool methods and to secure better results by teachers in the Episcopal Sunday-schools in this vicinity, was held Saturday afternoon at Grace church. In addition to delegations from Grace, Holy Cross and St. Stephen's Sunday-schools, Episcopal Sunday-schools at Bound Brook, Somerville, Bernardsville and Dunellen were represented.

Rev. E. Morris Fergurson, general secretary of the New Jersey State Sunday-school Association, spoke on "Methods of the Modern Sunday-school" and "Teachers' Training" was the subject of a helpful address by Rev. Dr. Henry Hale Sleeper, rector of Grace church, Elizabeth. Rev George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, made an address on "The Boy Problem."

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, presided, and was in charge of the short devotional service. An opportunity for questioning and comparing experiences was given at the conclusion of each address. Coffee was served in the parish house at the conclusion of the meeting. The institute will meet again early in May, at which time an organization will be effected and officers chosen.

"GOSHEN" ESTATE CLAIM

Colored Woman Wants Share of Estate of Showman who Posed as White Man.

REAL NAME GEORGE SCOTT?

Ejectment Proceedings Brought Against Owners of Land Formerly Belonging to the "Colonel."

In the ejectment proceedings brought by Mrs. Eliza J. Newby, of Metuchen, against Joseph J. Blakeley and William H. Wyckoff, both of Franklin township, Somerset county, which will come up for trial in the Supreme court, in Somerset county, next month, is a story that reads like a romance. Mrs. Newby, who is a colored woman, sues to recover her share in the lands, purchased by the Somerset men, as a daughter and heir of Colonel Ruth Goshen, who was a partner of the famous Phineas T. Barnum in the show business shortly after the Civil War.

According to an affidavit made by Mrs. Newby's mother, Mrs. Eliza Scott, who resides in Kansas, the latter claims to be Col. Goshen's widow. In a remarkable affidavit, Mrs. Scott alleges that she was born a slave, in Kentucky, in 1825, and that when twenty-four years of age she was married to George Scott, also a slave, whose master owned an adjoining estate to that of her owner. The ceremony, she says, was performed by one Rev. Joseph Dudley, and as a result of the union three children were born to them. To escape being sold by his master, the husband, according to her oath, escaped and made his way to Canada in 1857. Because of the lightness of his skin, Scott found it easy to pass as a white man, and "realizing the greater possibilities of a white person, he made an agreement with his wife and children that they were not to reveal his real identity, and not disclose the fact that he was colored." He corresponded regularly with his wife but always under an assumed name.

Soon after the Civil War was brought to a close, Scott, it is alleged in the affidavit, joined P. T. Barnum and obtained an interest in the latter's show. To Barnum and others he was known as "Col. Ruth Goshen." His daughter visited him about this time, the mother swears, and received some money from her father. Later, when the circus was showing at St. Louis, Mo., a son paid a visit to his father and asked for money. The colonel offered him $2,000, but the young man demanded more. When the father refused his demands, young Scott as a means of revenge told Barnum that his partner was a negro. This information resulted in a severing of all business relations between the showmen.

The next heard of "Goshen," according to Mrs. Scott, was when he had settled at Middlebush, Somerset county. He wrote his wife, she alleges, that he would shortly join them at their home in Junction City, Missouri. Before he could do so, however, he was taken ill and died. Mrs. Scott also swears that she and "Goshen" were never divorced.

"Col. Ruth Goshen" died on Feb. 12, 1889, and his will was filed at Somerville on April 8, 1889. One Mary L. Goshen, of Elgin, Ill., was named as next of kin, according to the document in question, she being his wife. Frances Sylvester was left a life interest in all his estate and in case of her not having issue the estate was to devolve to one Mrs. Margaret M. Gelling, of Rochester, N. Y. A caveat was filed by Mary L. Goshen as the alleged wife and another was filed by Frances Sylvester claiming the estate as the heir at law but without stating the relationship. The will, however, was admitted to probate by the late Judge J. D. Bartine in the Somerset county Orphans' Court on Jan. 17, 1896.

According to the papers in the case, Willard P. Voorhees, now a justice of the Supreme Court, brought two actions for Mrs. Eliza Scott on November 27, 1905, as the real wife of "Col. Ruth Goshen," claiming dower rights, against Wyckoff and Blakeley, whose total of fifty acres of land near Middlebush had been owned by "Goshen." Judgment by default, it appears, was entered in the Wyckoff suit. The Blakeley suit comes up for trial next month. Mrs. Eliza J. Newby, the alleged daughter of Mrs. Scott and "Goshen," is the wife of Rev. Lafayette C. Newby, a colored preacher located at Metuchen. She retained Winfield Scott Angleman, of this city, to bring actions of ejectment against Blakeley and Wyckoff to recover the "Goshen" lands. Suit was started against Blakeley on Dec. 15 last and against Wyckoff on Feb. 8.

Miss Stella Smith, of Millstone, is spending a few days with the Misses Van Cleef, of West End avenue.

TO SUGGEST CHANGE IN HACK ORDINANCE

The Councilmanic license committee held a conference with the cab drivers and operators of taxicabs in the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Saturday night, when questions relative to that business were discussed. The cab drivers expressed the opinion that the motor vehicles would injure their trade to some extent, but made no serious objection.

The Plainfield Taxicab Company has been operating two machines here for several weeks, the rates being the same as charged by the cabmen, but this is only a temporary arrangement. The company has filed its proposed rates and they have been incorporated in an amendment to an ordinance proposed for adoption by the Common Council.

According to these rates the company will carry from one to four passengers a half mile for thirty cents with an additional charge of ten cents for each quarter mile thereafter. The cabmen charge charge twenty five cents for each passenger carried within the limits of Grant and Johnston avenue and Randolph road and Greenbrook. No doubt the cabmen will revise their rates to conform to those of the taxicab company, provided the Council adopts the proposed amendment. No exclusive franchise would be granted to the Plainfield Taxicab Company and nothing would be done to prevent any person from employing a motor vehicle in this business if they desire.

It is the intention of the Common Council to adopt the amendment to the hack ordinance at the April meeting, the conference Saturday night being chiefly to get the views the cabmen as well as those identified with the Plainfield Taxicab Company.

MRS. E. M. ZEREGA DIES IN HER 100TH YEAR

Eliza M. Zerega, widow of Augustus Zerega, died in New York on Friday. She was born on the island of Saint Thomas on January 3, 1810. Her father was Dr. Von Bretton, a Danish nobleman. Her mother was an English lady. At the age of fifteen, on April 9, 1825, she married Mr. Zerega, who was then twenty-one. His father was Italian, and his mother English, and he was born in the French island of Martinique.

Shortly after his marriage Mr. Zerega engaged in mercantile business at La Guayra, Venezuela. He removed to New York in 1835, where he had a prosperous career in the shipping business. He died in December, 1888, having retired from business many years before. It will be noticed that the couple had more than sixty-three years of married life, and that Mrs. Zerega survived her husband more than twenty years—a remarkable instance of longevity.

They had eleven children, of whom eight survive, one of them being Mrs. Samuel Huntington, of Franklin place. Mrs. John Constable Moore, of Watchung avenue, is the daughter of a deceased son. Early in Mr. Zerega's married life he adopted Mrs. Zerega's young brother, Albert. He formerly resided on Park avenue, in this city, where his widow and children still live.

STATE BOARD DECLARES 'PLAINS DOG WAS MAD.

The Board of Health of Scotch Plains has received word from the State Board of Health that the dog shot Tuesday afternoon by Clinton Clark, was suffering from the rabies. The local board is considerably alarmed over the report for it does not know how many canines were bitten by the mad dog. In a number of instances dogs attacked have been chained up and closely watched.

Several owners of dogs have said that they would shoot their animals if the State Board report was adverse. Fortunately, no person was bitten by the mad dog, although there were several narrow escapes. The 'Plains board will issue a notice today that all dogs found running at large without a muzzle will be shot.

ARREST WELDY'S "WIFE"

Annie Nelson, a Dane, Taken in Custody Here for the New Brunswick Police.

PROBING INTO MURDER CASE.

Slain Man's Brother Suspected of Crime Behind the Bars at the Middlesex County Jail.

Annie Nelson, who for the past year has been living with friends in this city, was arrested by Patrolman Maurice Higgins Saturday on a warrant by Detective Charles Oliver, chairman of the New Brunswick police committee, to tell what she may know as to the murder of Allen Weldy, of New Brunswick, who was killed on Liberty street, New Brunswick, Saturday night, Nov. 21. The woman says she is the wife of Atwood Weldy, a brother of the dead man, whom the New Brunswick police, it is said, believe to be responsible for the crime.

The prisoner was brought before City Judge Runyon at the session of court today and was informed that she will be held until the arrival of the Middlesex county police officers who will take her to New Brunswick.

The object of the murder, which was a most brutal crime, was robbery. Two hundred dollars and a valuable watch were taken from the murdered man's body. The crime was committed at midnight on Saturday night, November 21. Weldy was stabbed several times in the back and beaten with a heavy club. The murder was committed in front of the New Brunswick opera house, almost directly under an arc light. The autopsy showed that death had been caused by a blow on the head with the club.

Atwood Weldy, the dead man's brother, was arrested immediately after the crime, and although the New Brunswick police say that the evidence at his trial was incriminating, the grand jury failed to return an indictment. Annie Nelson was living with Atwood Weldy in New Brunswick when the crime was committed, and immediately afterward came to this city, where she has since made her home. She is a Dane, and is about thirty years of age.

The New Brunswick authorities are again active in their hunt for the murderer, and this is said to be due to the change of party in the city government at the recent election. Detective Oliver, chairman of the city's police committee, was active in his work on the case last year and has seen to it that the police have kept careful watch of the movements of Atwood Weldy, who is believed to be the murderer because of the fact, it is alleged, he threatened to kill his brother in a quarrel between the two a few days before the murder. Atwood Weldy was arrested Saturday night by the New Brunswick police.

HIS "NIGHT OFF" GOT HIM INTO TROUBLE.

"My night was off" was the explanation given by Herman Springer, a gardener employed by a prominent West Eighth street family, when he was arraigned before City Judge Runyon after his arrest at his employer's home Saturday night for drunkenness. Not only was the man arrested, but he was "fired," for his clothes were sent to police headquarters this morning along with his wage money, amounting to $16.67, which was turned over to him by the Court after his announcement that sentence would be suspended.

Springer's "night off" and its sequel brought about the man's arrest when he returned to his employer's home with some bread. The man explained to the Court in rich Teutonic accents how willing he was to go for the bread. Complaining that he had grown tired of an alleged persistent diet of pickled herring and "oyster soup." The prisoner said he would "go quick by Hoboken" but waited around police headquarters after examining his baggage because he found that his overcoat and hat were missing.

Hurt Playing at Station.

Stephen Murphy, ten years old, of North avenue, fell while playing with some of his young comrades at the Park avenue approach to the North Avenue station yesterday afternoon. The boy was sliding down the bannister of the steps at Park avenue, when he lost his hold and fell heavily. His playmates became alarmed and called for help. Patrolman John Kelley carried young Murphy to F. L. C. Martin's garage, where he was restored to consciousness. He was able to go home.

Easter Suits and Dresses in Profusion

Individuality in garments is what every woman seeks—but that individuality must conform with accepted style, but beyond this the more distinctive the more it pleases—excellence in style, qualities and making of garments we show are fashioned with an art and tempt you with their becomingness and superiority.

Distinctive Tailored Suits—The product of the best tailors, the models are semi-fitting, some button from rever to bottom, others fastening with one or two buttons at the waist, rich notch collar styles or fancy trimmed neck with streamers, great variety serges, prunelles, worsteds, broadcloths, adapted to all figures; jackets 30 to 40 inches, in navy, black, tan, green, reseda, gray, and many other colors; Skinner satin or taffeta lined $29.50

Stylish Tailored Suits—Ladies' and misses' sizes—you will be delighted with these beautiful style suits, we say they are the best values in Newark at $19.50; you may compare them and we will submit to your judgment, the quality is same as in more fancy styles at $27.50 and $30.00, linings are excellent, no cheap linings, fit and finish perfect, variety of good colors and black; materials are splendid quality worsteds $19.50

Splendid Tailored Suits—New styles, new numbers, in the store a few days. Suits without a peer in Newark at the price, many that sell at $20.00 are no better. Buch & Juel worsteds, that are so scarce this season, plain superior serges; jackets are in the plain tailored or collarless, with a touch of braid at neck and front and back, 3 button or 6 button, with trim at neck, and 3 button fastening in front. Black and all the leading colors $15

Sumptuous Cloth Dresses—Tailored dresses—really they are costumes of a character that you will like. Two models, one of serge with sleeves and lace yoke; panel and the entire body of the waist of solid soutache embroidery; Empire back; colors and black. These dresses are perfect new models, supremely stylish, becoming and genteel, and surely worthy of a higher price.... $29.50

Fine Separate Skirts—Models found nowhere else in Newark, and those that never fail to provoke admiration. Splendid quality Panama or Sicilian, several models; some trimmed with straps and others with narrow folds; piped with satin; also mixtures $7.50

Silk and Cloth Coats, $15.—Imported pongee, 50 inches; full loose back or black satin collar and cuffs; or handsome broadcloth or serge in 34 inch semi-fitted models; regulation collar and cuffs; single breasted; best satin taffeta lined $15

CLAIM THEY ARE HEIR TO ESTATE OF $80,000,000

Miss Pearl Drake and Mrs. Henry Walling, of Port Monmouth, claim to be heirs to a fortune accumulated by Sir Francis Drake, the English discoverer and will take means to secure their share of the money. According to their understanding, when Sir Francis died he left a large sum of money in the Bank of England. This, with interest, it is reported, aggregates more than $80,000,000.

Not long since a member of the Drake family living in Virginia received word that the bank authorities had ordered the money removed from the institution, and, according to report, this has occasioned a stir among the reputed relatives of the discoverer. Miss Drake who is an orphan, makes her home with Mrs. Walling, who is a cousin. Miss Drake asserts that her share of the fortune amounts to about $20,000.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

There could be no more welcome announcement for the amusement-loving public than the appearance here of "The Old Homestead" at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday matinee and night. The dear old pastoral play itself is by this time so familiar to everyone that any attempt to describe it would be superrogation. The mere mention of the names of Joshua Whitcomb, Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, Aunt Matilda and Rickety Ann, is sufficient to bring to mind all of these delightful rural characters, and at the same time arise in the background the pictures of the old farm, the homestead in Swanzey, Grace church on Broadway in New York city, and the aristocratic mansion of Henry Hopkins, the metropolitan merchant and millionaire. The company this season is practically the same as last, and the production is said to be perfect in every detail.

"Beverly of Graustark," at the New Plainfield theatre, April 10, although a sequel to "Graustark," is an entirely different, though quite as charming a story, and perhaps the best novel Mr. McCutcheon has yet given us. The book has been more widely read than any of his other works, and should make an exceedingly interesting and charming play.

PERSONAL.

Miss Edith Kutz, of Watchung, is visiting relatives in Newark for a few days.

George K. Schmidt, of Watchung, has returned from a visit at Silver Lake, N. Y.

Miss Edith Schomp, of Somerville, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, of Prospect place.

George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, has returned from a business trip to Pittsfield, Mass.

John Utzinger, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday with his brother, Albert Utzinger, of Crandview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver R. Pearson, of Manson place, entertained relatives from Belleville, yesterday.

SOME ODD VAGARIES IN EASTER HATS.

Who knows what will be worn on the feminine head for Spring?

"Flower-pots," "pudding-bowls," "basins"—thus yclept are the devices the merry milliner seeks to slap upon our unoffending heads.

Certain it is that if we turn back the fashion-book pages to a hundred years ago, there we shall see just such odd little hats as are shown in these early days, when Spring blooms in the shops however it may yet conceal itself from the streets and fields.

The curious high-crowned scoop bonnets, very like an upside-down flower pot with a grocer's sugar scoop attached, are such as parade through the pages of the history of 1804 and 1815 and thereabout. All they need to complete the illusion are three-cornered shawls and more voluminous skirts.

The tall, crowned scoop hats are deliciously trimmed. One of rough straw has on front an enormous poppy as big as a tea plate, and on the side a great velvet bow, hat, poppy and velvet all in a deep catawba grape color. On the front of an other is tossed a big loose bunch of pansies, cowslips, roses, violets and great pond lilies, all nodding as high as the lofty crown.

Then there is, too, the demurest little mushroom hat, small and meek and unoffending, with a chaste little bow of velvet at one side, and a ladylike little posy on the other—quite like the feminine headwear that marched through Godey's Lady Books we used to find in our grandmothers' garrets and cut paper dolls out when we were little.

Numerous adaptations of the Charlotte Corday appear. And there is a dear little picture hat on the Henri IV. order, small, with plumes sweeping from the brim that rolls up on one side.

Most of the hats are undeniably diminutive. The Merry Widow and her ilk is "layin' low" as Br'er Rabbit for the nonce.

Several things are certain about the new hats:

Colors and color harmonies are exquisite.

Velvet is the ribbon par excellence, blending better than anything else with the lovely toned flowers used.

Poor old overworked satin takes a back seat.

Flowers are so wonderfully realistic that you involuntarily sniff the air to catch their sweetness. The new roses in particular are enough to make nature herself envious.

The Inference.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

The latest announcement is that Somerville is not to have a team this season because of its inability to obtain Altmont Field. Manager Bogart Conklin is said to have resigned and no attempt will be made to organize a team.

Clifford Randolph, of Grant avenue, who is with the Newark Eastern League club, writing to a friend here, says that he is doing well and hopes to land a permanent berth with the Newarkers.

Joe Weaner, of this city, who pitched such fine ball for Flemington last year, will probably be seen with the Bound Brook team this season. Manager Newhouse has made Joe an offer which he will probably accept. He is in fine condition.

Efforts to obtain the vacant land on West Front street, near Grant avenue, as a baseball field have thus far failed. Brady Brothers, of Bayonne, own the property, and the Clinton Avenues have been trying to get a lease. The terms are such, however, that they are practically prohibitive. It would make a fine ball field, being easy of access.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the First Baptist church will be held Thursday night, April 8.

The Easter exercises of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school will be held Sunday night, April 11.

Hugh Fawcett, of the borough, conducted the gospel meeting at the Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, last night.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a business and social meeting in Vincent chapel Friday night.

An evening of song will be given by the choir at the First M. E. church tomorrow night. The proceeds will go toward the music fund of the church.

There will be an election of trustees at the First M. E. church Monday night, April 5, to succeed James W. Jackson, James R. Joy and Samuel Bingaman, whose terms expire.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a dual leader service Friday night. The leaders will be Miss Jennie Giles and Miss Louise Harral. The topic will be "Life Lessons from the Book of Proverbs."

The anniversary of the Women's Missionary Societies of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Ida Faye Levering, a missionary for India, will make an address. In the evening at the mid-week prayer service Dr. Levering will speak.

The session of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday school yesterday was devoted to an interesting talk on temperance by Charles F. Dayton, temperance secretary of the school. He has a fund of knowledge on the subject and held the close attention of all throughout his talk.

Rev. James O'Brien, rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Roselle, was pleasantly remembered Friday night by his flock on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of his pastorate. Aftr the Lenten services had been performed, Rev. Father O'Brien was asked to come to the parish hall, which he found filled with members of the congregation. There they presented to him a solid gold chalice, the base of which was studded with diamonds. The gift cost $700, which was contributed by the people of the parish.

CITY JOTTINGS.

CONVERTED MORMON'S ADDRESS AT Y.M.C.A.

Hans P. Freece, of the International Reform Bureau of Columbia University, spoke before a large audience of men at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon on "Mormonism." Mr. Freece is the son of a Mormon, and his wide experience in the doings of the inner workings of the Mormon church enabled him to give a very clear interpretation of the belief.

During his discourse, in which he tried to point out the evils of the Mormon faith, Mr. Freece stated that both his father and mother had turned infidels, owing to the corruptness of the church laws. As it was, the son, who had been converted to the Christian religion and was doing all he could to prevent the growth of Mormonism. Mr. Freece's father was aiding him in every possible manner to collect data that would be of use to him in his work.

At the conclusion of the service, Secretary Parker stated that Mr. Freece would speak next Sunday, on the subject of the "Mormon and Politics."

HERTZ AND SILBERT FORM LACE STORE PARTNERSHIP.

A partnership has been formed between Marcus Silbert and Martin Hertz in the lace and fancy goods business, and the East Front street lace store was opened under the joint management today. The building is owned by Mr. Silbert.

Mr. Silbert is planning to retire from the jewelry business, in which he has been engaged for many years. His is the third oldest jewelry business in this city, and was started in a small store on Somerset street. Failing health has made it necessary for him to give up the jewelry business.

Preached Two Fine Sermons.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of this city, occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning and evening, preaching to good-sized congregations. In the morning his theme was "Things to Forget," Philippians 3:10, "Forgetting those Things Which Are Behind." It was a fine discourse and held the close attention of all present. In the evening his theme was "Contentment," Philippians 4:11, "For I have Learned Whatsoever State I am, therewith to be Content." This was also an able discourse and greatly enjoyed by the congregation.

Cake Sale a Success.

The cake sale under the auspices of the visitors of the home department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, Saturday afternoon, was a success. There was a generous supply of fine cakes and all were disposed of at good prices. The proceeds will go toward a fund with which to purchase flowers and fruit for sick members.

INTERVISITATION PLAN FOR THE ENDEAVORERS

State President John T. Sproull is sending out to all Christian Endeavor societies in New Jersey a suggestion for intervisitation among the societies. The plan is a systematic effort the carrying out of which cannot fail to be beneficial to the societies. It is a part of the general movement for emphasis upon specific objects in specific months.

It is hoped that there will be a hearty response to this suggestion of the State president, whose own work in increasing the spirit of fellowship among the societies is well known.

Concerning the intervisitation plan and other matters of interest to New Jersey Endeavorers, Mr. Sproull says:

"Dear Endeavorers:

"We regret exceedingly that J. K. Harriman, superintendent of the fresh air department of the State, in consequence of his many business obligations, and because of the very successful work that he is doing in his own county union, of which he is the honored president, has found it necessary to resign his position on the State work.

"S. D. Riddle, of West Orange, has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Harriman as superintendent of the fresh air department, and we most heartily commend him to your sympathy, support and co-operation. Mr. Riddle has had considerable experience in this kind of work as it is largely through his personal efforts that the Essex County C. E. Union has been enabled to put up its new fresh air home at Roseland, and I congratulate the Endeavorers of the State on his acceptance of the position, feeling assured that through his helpful and practical suggestions to meet the varying needs of each locality you will be enabled to do more definite work for the needy children. You will hear from him soon.

"In pursuance of our new plan, we would like the month of April observed throughout the State by the different societies as intervisitation month, not that we want any society or its members to go "gadding" or for the "fun of it," but for the definite results that will undoubtedly accrue from a thorough and careful planning of the work.

"We would suggest that there be planned an interchange of workers by grouping all of the societies together and assigning three to six workers from each society to visit some other society on each of the four successive Sunday evenings, or the evenings upon which the meetings may be held. These designated workers to visit, of course, a new society on each succeeding meeting night. In this way no society will have a small meeting or lose in attendance, in that while a society may send three to six of its workers to another society, it will on the same evening receive the same number of new workers visiting them from some other sister society.

"We all know the inspiration of a new voice in a meeting or of an outside leader, and we feel that if this interchange of workers and leaders shall be carefully and prayerfully planned and carried out during the month of April, each society will receive a new impetus in the work, and if backed up by earnest, believing prayer may bring new life to many weak societies—new consecration to many Endeavorers—touch many lives for Christ. In arranging this interchange would suggest that representatives of societies get together and make a schedule of each individual society and the workers to be depended upon from each society who will during the month visit other societies; have them regularly assigned meeting by meeting to the individual societies which they are to visit and have the night, and what society their members are in return to visit.

"Have as these visiting delegates your best workers. If only one C. E. society in your place, unite with the other young people's societies (without regard to denomination or name), in this interchange of workers, or at least in an interchange of leaders. Arrange if possible to have a schedule covering all four meeting nights in April, thus swinging around in a circle, leaving out no society and giving each society a visit on each meeting night of at least three to six workers. If possible have these visiting workers meet for a short prayer service together before starting for each appointment; and this entire series of intervisitations a subject of prayer in each society during the month.

"In the month of May we desire to take up extension work along the line of the organization of new societies, either Senior, Y. P. S. C. E., Intermediate or Junior, in every church, in every town or village where it is possible either to organize or reorganize such societies. We want to secure at least one thousand new societies in New Jersey before July 1. This can readily be done if every society will definitely take up this work, thoroughly planning it out in advance and use tact and judgment in presenting the matter where no such society exists. There are many churches which have one of these societies and where by intelligent effort more could readily be organized, as for instance, where there is only a Y. P. S. C. E. and no Junior or Intermediate Society with ample material for such other organization and with great benefit to be derived therefrom."

THE FORUM.

Dog Ordinance Recommendations.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I would like to make a suggestion in regard to the proposed ordinance for licensing dogs. I advise that a very much higher fee be imposed on bitches than on dogs—at least five times as much. This will check the evil at its source and help us in two ways. It will shut off the supply of worthless curs; they are "funny and cute" when they are puppies, but that stage soon passes and they go out on the street to become a nuisance to the community and a burden to themselves. Furthermore by driving out all bitches but those of real value it will improve the character of the dog population while diminishing the number.

If a fee of say five dollars is imposed on females and if it is enforced it will soon eliminate all but those of good blood and breeding.

I also wish to emphasize what you said a few days ago about strap muzzles. A dog sweats from his tongue and must be able to keep his mouth a little open, especially in hot weather. To fasten it shut is extremely cruel and should make the offender liable to punishment. If the muzzle is loose enough to allow him to open his mouth three-quarters of an inch he can sweat properly and cannot bite.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

REVIVE INTEREST IN Y.M.C.A. FOR 'PLAINS

The question of establishing a local branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Scotch Plains is again being agitated, this time by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Baptist church. As yet no definite plans have been made, but Mr. Mathiews believes that there are sufficient men at the 'Plains who would be interested in such an organization.

It was ten years ago that this matter was discussed and as a result Dr. J. Ackerman Coles gave the use of the old school building on Grant street for the purpose. Nothing more than placing a Y. M. C. A. sign on the building was accomplished. Rev. J. S. Braker was then at the head of the movement. It is believed that Dr. Coles will allow his old offer to hold good, provided an organization is effected.

VARIED PROGRAM AT TRINITY SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

The Sunday-school session at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday was made of special interest through a varied program arranged by Superintendent F. E. Smith. There was a large attendance of members of the school and all joined heartily in the exercises. The first twenty minutes were devoted to a rehearsal of Easter music and then Superintendent Smith gave a ten minute temperance talk from the desk.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school Missionary Society was then held and these officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Henry Seader; first vice president, Miss Mabel Wilson; second vice president, Mrs. J. M. Tier; third vice president, Mrs. H. E. Gayle; secretary, Miss Eliza Dufford; treasurer, Charles Layton; committee of arrangements, Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Miss Ethel Young, Miss Harriett Randall, Mrs. H. E. Gayle and Mrs. J. M. Tier.

Mrs. F. E. Woodruff gave an interesting mission study lesson on Arabia, using a map to point out the various mission stations supported by the Reformed Church of America and in which Trinity church is interested. There was keen interest shown in missions and the school pledged an increase of $50 a year to missions provided the present missionary plans of the church are adopted.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL OFFICERS OF SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS.

The Seventh-Day Baptist church Sabbath-school held its annual meeting, last night, when reports for the year were presented, officers were elected and other business transacted. Orra S. Rogers, the superintendent, presided. The reports showed the school to be in good working condition.

The following officers were reelected for the ensuing year: Superintendent, Orra S. Rogers; assistant superintendents, Henry M. Maxson and Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Nathan S. Wardner; treasurer, Charles F. Neagle; librarian, Miss Nettie Stillman; pianist, Miss Eva Rogers; chorister, Theodore G. Davis; auditors, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph and Mrs. Orra S. Rogers. Miss Ida L. Spicer was continued as superintendent of the primary department and Miss Nancy Randolph of the home department.

Besides the appropriations ordered in behalf of the denominational work, others were made for the various local charities, which has been the custom of the school for many years. The officers and teachers of the school are much encouraged over the progress made last year.

IN HIS NAME CIRCLE HOLD SUCCESSFUL TEA AND SALE.

A successful tea and sale of cake and candy was held Saturday afternoon under the auspices of In His Name Circle, of King's Daughters, at the home of Miss Ruth Timpson on Hillside avenue. This circle is the youngest in the city, having been organized recently. The membership consists almost entirely of young girls, whose mothers are identified with older branches of the organization.

Mrs. Frederic W. Butler is president of the circle, and the various heads of the different committees were as follows: Cake, Miss Marian Wean; candy, Miss Gwendolin Gough; jig-saw puzzles, Miss Eleanor Iredell. Miss Ruth Timpson poured tea in the dining-room. The rooms were attractively decorated for the affair, there being a profusion of daffodils and roses. The attendance was large and liberal patronage was accorded. The proceeds from the affair will go toward the King's Daughters' work in the city.

REV. DR. T. S. BARBOUR TALKS ABOUT MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Barbour, of Boston, foreign secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, delivered an interesting missionary talk at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. He recently returned from a missionary tour through India, China and Japan and he possessed a fund of knowledge of the work being accomplished there by the Baptist missionaries.

His words were full of encouragement and showed that during the past year great progress has been made and there have been hundreds of converts throughout these countries as a result of the work of Baptist missionaries. He also related many pathetic incidents. Last night Dr. Barbour preached an excellent sermon on the theme "Faith."

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Over $12,000 has been subscribed for the Woodstown branch of the Salem County Farmers' Exchange.

Members of Billingsport Fire Company have dug the cellar for an addition to the fire-house and will erect the building themselves.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has given out a contract for building an extension from Bowentown into the west side of Bridgeton.

Announcement that the Keramic Society of Hoboken has abandoned the idea of an art exhibition for which it has been preparing for the last two years has occasioned much regret.

Cooper Hospital doctors took several stitches to close a gash in the scalp of Thomas Cox, forty-four years old, of 315 North Eleventh street, Camden, caused by a fall from a step.

Miss Agnes Cain, of Beverly, a student at Burlington High School, while making an experiment in physics, spilled a vessel of nitric acid on her hands, burning them so seriously that she cannot use them.

Smith Wilson, an aged man, who was struck by a trolley car in North Woodbury over a year ago, received a check yesterday for $2,000, the amount of the verdict found by the jury in the case.

After being attended by twenty-eight different physicians for a complication of diseases without being cured, Harry Bradshow of Mantua, one of the leading men, left Saturday for Kansas City, Mo., with the hope of being at least benefited.

A shipment of four carloads of cables, for use in the construction of the Panama Canal, was made last week from the works of the Trenton Iron Company, in Trenton. There are thirteen cables in the shipment, each 890 feet long and two and one-fourth inches in diameter.

Following a general demand for a fire-station in the heart of Atlantic City's hotel district, members of the Fire Board of City Council decided Friday to purchase a lot on Pacific avenue, between Ocean and Tennessee avenues, and erect a model engine and truck house.

Dr. J. William White represented the University of Pennsylvania at the annual dinner of the University Alumni of Atlantic City at the Hotel Chelsea Friday night. The dinner was an elaborate affair and was attended by a number of graduates from Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

Several residents of Barnegat are on the anxious bench, having received Black Hand letters through the local postoffice. Who the sender may be is a mystery, and some think them the work of a practical joker, but those who have received the letters fail to see the fun and are worried.

Two chicken thieves met a warm reception, when they visited the hennery of John S. Perkins, on the Mt. Holly road, near Beverly, and one of them is suffering from a bullet wound. About midnight Perkins heard a noise in his coop. Armed with a revolver he went out to investigate. He found two men about to jump into a buggy. They refused to stop and Perkins fired at them. One of them groaned and both men got away.

Trenton's Police Department is attempting to dismiss Patrolman John McCarthy from the force in spite of the tenure of office act. The department does not want to pay the policemen for a period he was absent from his post on an excuse of illness. Police commissioners allege that McCarthy rendered himself ill by visiting too many saloons. The charges will likely result in the test of the tenure of office act, and this will be watched with much interest all over the State.

Judges' Pay Bill in Balance.

If the two Newark District Court judges expect to get their salaries increased from $4,000 to $5,000 by the Young bill, House 338, they will first have to assure Mr. Young that they will preside over their courts at least five days every week. Otherwise Mr. Young will let his measure die in committee or at the most will oppose its being reported. The Young bill has received the indorsement of the Lawyers' Club of Newark, and is also looked upon favorably by other members of the Newark bar. There has been much complaint, however, Mr. Young says, over the number of days the Newark judges officiate each week, and for that reason he has decided not to let his act get before the Legislature until he has been assured there will be five day sessions. The measure is in the hands of the Judiciary Committee, of which Mr. Young is a member, and is marked "not to be reported until Mr. Young says so."

How About the Diamonds?

Manager—Hurry up or you'll miss the train.

Actress—I can't find my diamonds nor my purse.

Manager—Let 'em go.

Actress—But my purse had nearly two pounds in it.

Taking Something For It.

"Klepamania," remarked the physician, "is a disease."

"I guess that's right," rejoined the plainclothes detective, "I've noticed that its victims are always taking something for it."—Chicago News.

Successful Furnace Fires

PATENTED

The BOYNTON Square Fire Pot

makes tending the furnace easy, but best of all it makes a joyous fire. Round fire pots burn strongly through the center with a rim of half dead clinkers at the edge and when you shake the fire the middle drops out. You've noticed it. Fires built in BOYNTON Square Pots are all live coals. A shake down is an even shake. The whole fire settles. There is no waste. The fuel being equal, a square pot will develop almost twice the heat, or the same heat for about half. The square pot is our patent and can be had only in the BOYNTON furnaces. We have a dealer in your town. He will be glad to show you.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

THE BOYNTON FURNACE COMPANY,

PianoExtravagance

Consists Only in Buying the Wrong Piano at Any Price

As home entertainment is a necessity for the welfare of the family circle, and the fact that a good piano is the best investment you can make for increasing the pleasure of your home, the only mistake you can make is in buying the WRONG PIANO AT ANY PRICE. The purchase of a

Hallet & Davis Piano

is economy personified. You want your dollars to go as far as possible. You want the best at the right price. This is what you get in a Hallet & Davis, to say nothing of the quiet joy and satisfaction that inheres in the ownership of good and beautiful things ---this makes Hallet & Davis pianos true bargains.

Our small payment plan makes piano buying easy. Write for catalogues of pianos and special offerings in Player Pianos.

REMAINS OF PRIMITIVE MAN.

Discovery That Seems to Clear Up Disputed Point.

The name Neanderthaloid has been used to denote an extremely ancient race of men, of which remains were first found in 1856 in the Neander valley, Germany. Since then an entire skeleton of an adult woman of the same type was found in Dordogne, France, in 1905, and only a few months ago, near the same place, there was unearthed the skeleton of a youth showing the typical characteristics of the race—strongly developed supraorbital ridges, powerful maxilla, large teeth, etc. The wisdom teeth were still in their alveoli. The lower jaw was prognathous to an extent almost calling to mind the muzzle of an animal. The canine teeth were not very highly developed, as in anthropoid apes. The bones of the limbs were entirely in accord with the type known to us in paleolithic man, the femur massive and stubby, the radius curved. Near the human remains were found those of Bos primigenius.

The attitude in which the body was placed seemed to indicate that it had been placed there for burial. This is of special interest, as it has hitherto been somewhat generally held that primitive man did not bury the dead, and that this was an indication of his entire lack of all religion.

GET OUT OF WORRYING HABIT.

Exercise of Reasonable Amount of Will Power Is Necessary.

It will usually be found useless to try to stop worrying by simply saying: "I won't worry." That is the negative way of reaching the trouble. Something must be put in its place. Having assumed the general attitude of resistance to it, fill the mind with thoughts of other things. Get an interesting book indoors and keep outdoors as much as possible, and get into good physical condition. People in sound health are almost never known to worry. A person who has worried habitually for a long time has developed grooves into which his mind easily slides. He can change the direction of his thought very much by auto-suggestion. The last thing before going to sleep or just after awakening, when the subconscious self is said to be easier to reach, suggest new topics, and if this is persistently done and a reasonable amount of will power exercised, the worries will scatter. Even if the worst happens, it will generally be found not as bad as what had been dreaded. "The sense of death is most in apprehension." There are few people who are not at some time confronted with situations calculated to cause uneasiness. Business troubles threaten, disease attacks, plans miscarry, friends prove false, but when you have faced the cause of trouble, whatever it may be, and decided on a course of action, dismiss it from your mind.

Surnames in Bosnia.

Bosnia is a land where a man's surname very often varies according to his religion. In the old days families often divided their members between Christianity and Islam, so as to be certain to have friends on the winning side, much as old Scottish families in some cases deliberately divided themselves between Jacobite and Hanoverian. In such Bosnian cases, Sir Charles Eliot explains, all representatives of the original family recognize each other as relatives, but generally they use different names for the two branches, conveying the same meaning in Slavonic and Turkish respectively. For example, there are the names Raikovich and Jenetich ("Rai" and "Jennet" both meaning paradise), and Sokolich and Shahinagich ("Sokol" and "Shahin" both meaning falcon).

Swelling Her All Up.

Paris judge tells a lady all about herself just before sending her up for manslaughter. He said, in part:

"You are a female Apache. You received as many stabs of the knife as you gave, and as many revolver shots as you fired. Two years ago a dagger was plunged into you by your lover, and the wonder is that you survived.

"Last year another lover blew out your eye with a revolver. How you survived this is also a mystery. You paid this savage lover back by stabbing him during sleep. He was sent to the hospital, and almost miraculously recovered."

Outside of that she was probably a great kid.

Birthdays and Health.

For several years I have noticed that in a period of from about three to two weeks preceding the anniversary of my birth I have had a feeling of returning vigor, a renewal of vitality such as I have not experienced at any other time of the year. This has lasted for from two to eight days, but has always ceased some days before the anniversary. Hence it has occurred to me that there may be some connection between the approach of the recurrence of one's birthdate and the maintenance of one's health. —Letter in London Graphic.

Chinamen at Communion.

An infrequent visitor to St. Paul's chapel was amazed to see three Chinamen go up to the communion rail one recent Sunday, come back to their seats, and sit very quietly and intently throughout the partaking of the communion by the others.

"It is not at all strange," said the clergyman in charge. "There are very few nationalities that are not represented here in St. Paul's chapel."—New York Press.

A Real Hero

He Had Never Received Any Encouragement.

"I'm engaged! I'm going to be married! No more bachelor quarters or stag dinners for me!

"It's almost too good to be true. I'm pretty brave, after all, or I never should have had the courage to propose to Jennie.

"How delightful it is to have the agony over! When I think of my procrastination—

"It wasn't so hard to propose as I had imagined it would be. I'm glad to discover that I'm brave.

"Many a time I had thought the moment propitious for proposing to her, but I always found my tongue frozen to the roof of my mouth, even though it had been glib enough until one of those unspeakable silences came and the very air seemed charged with a proposal of marriage.

"How I wished she would help me! But now I am glad she isn't that kind. A man ought to do the asking. Jennie, I know would have died rather than lead me on.

"Yet our conversation somehow often got around to matrimony. Jennie seemed to think it the right thing for a man to marry.

"'True happiness is only for those who are married,' Jennie would say.

"'Now's my time,' I would think. Then my jaws would become set, as if they were paralyzed. Being certain that a perfect girl like Jennie never would accept me for a husband, I felt it would be only a case of making myself ridiculous if I should ask her.

"'Of course I should hate to see you marry,' she said one evening. 'You are such a dear friend to us all that it would be almost like losing one of the family.'

"'Let me be one of the family!' I blurted out. 'Let me to a—a brother.'

"Why did I speak that final word? I didn't mean to, but she couldn't know that.

"'Certainly, if you like,' she answered, rather frostily, I thought. Doubtless she felt that I was presumptuous. I shriveled with despair.

"However, I nerved myself for one final effort, as a doomed man risks his all on a last desperate struggle.

"'Can—may a brother hold your hand?' I asked her. I was perspiring at every pore from sheer agony.

"'Some one else's brother might—if I cared for him,' was all she said.

"Her words mystified me greatly. I was at a loss what to say next. The conversation dropped. I couldn't think of a single idea. If she only had given me the slightest hint of encouragement how I should have jumped at it! But Jennie is not that kind.

"'It's getting late,' I said at last. 'I'd better be going.'

"How I wished I could have kicked myself down the steps.

"But it's all over now! Actually, I don't even know how I did it. Jennie says it turned out all right because I was so brave. I think so myself. 'Intrepid' is the word Jennie used. That's a fine word; still, I'm afraid Jennie values me above my merits.

"I vowed weeks ago that another year should not end without my knowing whether Jennie would marry me or not.

"That brought a brilliant idea into my head. I would buy her a ring for Christmas and just offer it to her in a general way. If she put it on her third finger I would speak. If she didn't—well, then I should laugh a hollow, mirthless laugh and brokenheartedly wish her a merry Christmas.

"So I went to the jewelers. Even there, however, my courage nearly failed me. Some women were standing near the ring counter. I didn't dare look at them or ask for rings.

"I walked along to the scarf pins and bought some, though I didn't want them. Still those women hung around the rings. It was very provoking. I bought more scarf pins. I began to feel as if I were going to start a pawnshop.

"Suddenly some one slapped me on the back, and the brother of Jennie's girl chum said: 'Hello, Dick! Did you come to buy the engagement ring? My congratulations!'

"'I—I—' was all I could stammer out, I was so surprised.

"'There's no use denying it,' he insisted, 'Jennie told my sister herself. When is it to be?'

"'I'm not—' I began. Then suddenly I became as bold as a lion. 'The first of the year,' I said. 'I'm buying the ring now.'

"I flatter myself that I can rise to an emergency.

"I felt that those women at the ring counter were listening, though I did not look at them. However, I did not care any longer.

"'Engagement rings,' I said to the clerk, in a loud tone. 'You may as well show me plain gold rings, too.'

"'Do you—do you want me to try them on, Dick?' asked the dearest voice in the world. 'I've been here ever so long looking at some pretty ones—if they are not too expensive.'

"Jennie and her girl chum! How fortunate!

"'Nothing is too good for you, Jennie,' I said at once. 'I'm awfully glad I'm brave and quick to seize an opportunity.'

"A girl is certainly a great help in selecting rings. Jennie knew just what she wanted. O, I'm in big luck!"

A Proof of It.

"Girls certainly can be contrary."

"I should say so. There's Miss Prettyface. She knows how to give a positive negative."—Baltimore American.

A POETIC DIFFICULTY

Markley Sought Aid in a Rhyme for "Loosed."

Mr. Markley was engaged some time ago in writing a poem, and in the course of the work he got stuck upon a verse, and it occurred to him to call upon Rev. Dr. Potts to ask for assistance. When the doctor came down to the parlor, Markley said:

"Doctor, I called to see you confidentially about a matter that has been troubling me, and I want to get some advice."

"Very proper, very proper," said the doctor. "I am always glad to find a young man turning his thoughts to serious things. Now just tell me what your experience has been, and then I will give you a couple of good books to read, so as to prepare you before you make formal application for admission to the church."

"I think you misunderstand me," said Markley. "The trouble to which I refer is not exactly that nature. I—"

"I see," said the doctor, "you have committed some crime; you are a prey to remorse. You want to unbosom yourself to me. Go on, sir go on! Tell me the whole melancholy story. Nothing can be better than for a criminal to confess before he makes restitution. Have you embezzled money, or have you—"

"Oh, not at all. The fact is that I am writing a poem, and I have got to a place where I must find a good word to rhyme with 'loosed,' and I can't. It bothers me like the mischief."

"Oh, that is it! Well, now, what is the situation? What are the facts of the case?"

"Well, you see, there is a girl who has been captured by the Indians. Her lover, who is the hero of the story, pursues the savages. At last he overtakes them, and, after driving them off, he finds that girl tied to a tree. They were going to kill her, you know. Well, now, my point is that he unloosed her and tried to get her out of the way before the Indians returned, but I can't get the right word to rhyme with 'loosed.'"

"It seems hard that you should suffer when there are so many words in the dictionary. H-m-m! lemme see; how would 'boost' do? Would it do for the lover to boost that girl up that tree?

When once he had unloosed her,
Up the tree he tried to boost her.

how's that?"

"It hardly is the thing," said Markley. "The rhyme is good, but the idea of the lover boosting his darling up a maple tree is not sufficiently affecting; there is not enough poetry in it."

"Perhaps not," said the doctor. "Well, then, what do you say to 'roost?' 'Roost' is a good rhyme.

When the maiden was unloosed,
She went up the tree to roost.

Something like that, you know."

"I thought of 'roost,'" replied Markley, "but upon the whole I think I'd rather not send the girl up that tree, and as she is out in the midst of a trackless wilderness there's actually no other place anywhere about for her to roost. Can't manage it anyway you fix it."

"No? Well, let's see, loosed—loosed—noosed; how about 'noosed?' You might make the lover chase the Indians with a lasso, and catch one in the noose.

When his darling was unloosed,
A savage brave he noosed.

Now that seems to me to be first-rate."

"Don't strike me favorably," said Markley. "The way I've got it he has nothing with him but a double-barreled gun, and he couldn't lasso an Indian with that, now could he? And anyhow, he is a salesman in a millinery store in New York, and those people hardly ever know how to throw the lasso, any way."

"Well, what do you say to 'used'? You might put it:

She was glad to be unloosed,
For to it she was not used.

Or suppose you take "amused,' for instance and say:

At his efforts to get her unloosed
She was very greatly amused.

And then you might use the word "refused" and fix it somehow this way:

After he got her completely unloosed
He wanted to kiss her but she refused.

Or:

To kiss him she couldn't be induced.

"I'm afraid not," said Markley, "Tennyson and those other fellows never make 'amused' rhyme with 'unloosed;' and as for the others, I couldn't say she refused to kiss him, for in the very next line I assert that she rushes into his arms and smothers him with her endearing kisses. Blamed if I know what we'll do about it. I've got a notion to write to Rudyard Kipling to ask him."

"How would it do to invent a new word?" asked the doctor. "It would be original and it would attract attention. Say, for instance, you construct such word as 'glugloost,' and arrange it in this way:

When his darling was unloosed
They leaped upon their horses and glugloost.

"Nobody would know what it meant, and it would give the poem a wild, unearthly air, a kind of mysterious, and weirdlike, and awe-inspiring appearance that would make people's hair stand on end."

"It's a good idea," said Markley. "I'll think it over. Much obliged to you. Good morning."

And he bowed himself out. The poem has not yet appeared, and I don't know what word was used to rhyme with "loosed," but I feel certain that the whole poem will be calculated not only to raise people's hair but to drive them to suicide.

Our booklet, "The Trust Department," tells why we think it would. May we send it to you?

PLAN ANOTHER MARATHON FOE SATURDAY, MAY 15

So big a success was the boys' marathon race, Saturday afternoon, that another such event will be held by the young runners May 15. It seems the boys are not satisfied with the time that was made, of 36 minutes and 25 seconds but as it was the boys smashed the old record held by the men, of 39 minutes.

The race Saturday was made in remarkably fast time. The distance which was over five miles, gave the boys a good wind test, and to show their condition, all but five boys finishing. The Plainfield High School had more first men than any other organization. L. H. Durar, the winner, bringing first colors to the P. H. S. Others who finished close were Andrew McDonough, P. H. S.; Ray Manley, Y. M. C. A.; William Taylor, Y. M. C. A.; Ray Cline, Holy Cross; D. S. Minck, Y. M. C. A., and A. S. Campbell.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. WM. H. LARRABEE.

Three ministers officiated at the funeral services of Mrs. William H. Larrabee, of Willow avenue, at her late home this afternoon. They were Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, of which she was a member; Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, of Bloomfield, and former pastor of the local church, and Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were particularly numerous.

Interment was made at Hillside cemetery. The pall bearers were F. S. Cutter, Harry Thorn, Wilbert Pennington, Dr. James R. Joy, George White and Henry A. McGee.

HE CLAIMS COMMISSIONS OF OTHER AUTO AGENTS.

The F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company, of this city, is defendant in the District Court, Elizabeth, today in an action brought by Hippolye Raismes, an automobiles agent of Elizabeth. According to the complaint Raismes was engaged to handle exclusive goods of the F. L. C. Martin Company. He claims that the company employed other agents in his territory and he sues to recover the commissions on the business of such other agents.

The case is in the nature of a test one and the result will be of unusual interest in the trade. Edward Nugent represents the automobile company and Jeremiah Kiernan the complainant.

Callahan Was Drunk.

John Callahan, who at one time had to report each week to City Judge Runyon in order that the police might be sure he was keeping on the water-wagon, was arrested by Patrolman Higgins at Park avenue and Sixth street, Saturday night, helplessly drunk. It has been more than a year since his last arrest, and Judge Runyon let him go free, with the announcement that "next time" it will be forty days straight.

Discussing Dog Ordinance.

The Councilmanic committee on laws and ordanances which has been drafting a proposed new dog ordinance, has held several conferences with Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh with a view to deciding on certain legal points. The question now engaging that attention of the committee chiefly is that in reference to muzzles, it being the purpose to adopt one that will not prove an irritant to the dogs.

MISS DONNA CAMPELL FOUND IN BROOKLYN

Miss Donna Campbell, the fourteen-year-old schoolgirl who disappeared from her home on East Front street last Monday morning, has been located finally in Brooklyn, where she has a position in a hospital. She is the daughter of Mrs. Louise A. Campbell, of 214 East Front street.

The girl is a member of the freshman class of the Plainfield High School, and previous to her disappearance complained to her mother of the irksomeness of school life. She started off with her school books in time for school last Monday morning, but instead of going to the high school, went as far as the North Avenue station where she boarded a train for Elizabeth.

The girl has an uncle who lives in New York city, and Mrs. Campbell told a Daily Press reporter last Wednesday that the girl had been located then at her uncle's home.

POLICE HOLD FITZGERALD; DOUBT HE OWNS TEAM.

Dominick Fitzpatrick drove into Perth Amboy with a team of horses this morning offering to sell them for $150. Chief P. J. Burke becoming suspicious as to their rightful ownership, telephoned Chief Kiely.

Fitzpatrick had given his name as "J. Conners" and his residence as 221 Duer street. He had told Perth Amboy people that he had driven over from this city this morning. As the name and address were plainly fictitious, the chief told Burke that there was something wrong and promised to investigate. In a short space of time Chief Kiely learned that the man with the team for sale was Fitzpatrick. The Perth Amboy police are holding him pending an investigation.

Necklace for Their Dramatic Coach.

Miss Katherine Ball, of the Plainfield Night School faculty, who acted as coach for the pupils of the Junior class of the school in preparing for the dramatic entertainment given in the school auditorium Saturday night, was presented with a gold necklace at the performance. The presentation was by Harry Van Zandt, president of the Junior class. The necklace is set with topaz.

Miss Agnes McInnes a Bride.

Mrs. Frank Mague, of this city, today announced the marriage of her sister, Miss Agnes McInnes, daughter of James McInness, of West Front street, and Emil Smith, of Elizabeth, which she says took place Saturday night in Elizabeth, a justice of the peace performing the ceremony. Among the witnesses was Richard Conrad, of Elizabeth. The couple plan to reside in this city.

Raid Gamblers at Raritan.

Prosecutor John F. Reger, of Somerset county, conducted a gambling raid on the borders of the James B. Duke estate at Raritan, yesterday afternoon, which resulted in the arrest of twelve prominent young men of the town. A score of others escaped. The men were brought to the county jail and later released on bail to await the action of the grand jury.

W. E. Brock's Funeral.

The funeral of W. E. Brock, of Mountain avenue, took place this afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church. The pall bearers were William A. Woodruff, W. W. Rowley, Frank W. Jones and J. Walter Mundy. Interment was made in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

Planning for Memorial Day.

The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., are preparing for its annual observance of Memorial Day. At the next meeting of the post committees will be appointed so that the various details can be taken up at once. The veterans plan to hold a short parade with appropriate exercises in the afternoon.

Preached Farewell Sermon.

Rev. W. W. Dietrich preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the Scotch Plains M. E. church last night. There was a large attendance of members. The church was attractively decorated with flowers for the occasion. He expects to settle in Ohio.

Col. Chandler Speaks.

Colonel A. A. Chandler, of the Salvation Army Training School, was the speaker at the Salvation Army Hall last night. There was a large attendance to hear Colonel Chandler, who is a most interesting speaker.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haring, of Union street, Hackensack, have announced the engagement of their daughter Helen to George Gordon Andrews, of this city and Brazil, Ind.

Addressed the Sunday-school.

Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer spoke on "Local Option" before the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

Rev. Dr. T. S. Barbour, of Boston, who preached sermons of great power at the morning and evening services of the First Baptist church was entertained at the homes of Dr. Norman Probasco, of West Seventh street, and former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street.

ACCUSED OF ATTACKING LITTLE GIRL AT LINCOLN.

Charged with attacking the seven-year-old daughter of the housekeeper at William S. Rapp's hotel at Lincoln Saturday night, John Weber, twenty-four years old, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Rapp as he got off a freight train at Pond's Tool Works at 11:30 o'clock today. The arrest was made by Sergeant Overbaugh and Patrolman O'Gorman. William S. Rapp heard the child's cries and he set upon the assailant and beat and kicked him but Weber made his escape.

Rapp swore out a warrant for the young man's arrest at once and Constable Robert Pierce, of Dunellen, learned today that Weber had come to this city. He secured Chief Kiely's assistance in the case, and Policemen Overbaugh, O'Gorman, Charles Flynn, Saffron and Higgins were set to watch the coal trains when it was learned that Weber, who was traveling with Neil Splane, of Lincoln, would try to escape by "jumping" a freight. The patrol of the railroad proved successful, and Weber was easily caught.

Weber was held a prisoner at the city court until the arrival of Constable Pierce, who took him to the Dunellen jail. He resides at Lincoln.

Julian Linke Receives a Watch.

Julian Linke, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, of West Second street, was announced in today's New York American, as one of two contestants to win a gold watch for securing the greatest number of paid-in subscriptions to that paper between March 22 and 27. The American is conducting the contest on an elaborate scale, the first prize being a trip around the world for the school boy or girl complying with certain conditions.

Morley Got Forty Days.

Robert Morley, who has a chronic craving for strong drink, was sentenced to forty days in the county jail at his arraignment before City Judge Runyon today after a drinking bout which resulted in his being found helplessly drunk on Somerset street Saturday night. The arrest was made by Patrolman Vanderweg.

—The amateurs of the Monroe Avenue church have their final full dress rehearsal tonight for "The Village Postoffice."

—Rev. James T. Shock, who has resided at 37 Prospect street for several years, has rented Thomas Doud's house, No. 59 Duer street, and will take up his residence at the latter place April 1.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Webster, who have resided for a number of years at 74 Duer street, will remove this week to Summit avenue. The owners of the Duer street property propose to remodel the house and make several improvements to the interior.

Six young persons were baptized at the First Baptist church last night by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. Frederick W. Gray, 969 Hillside avenue, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LOCAL OPTION DEFEATED

Anti-Saloon League Beaten in Fight for Home Rule in Excise Matters.

MR. ACKERMAN'S STRONG PLEA.

Union County Senator One of Six Voting for Plummer Bill—Senator Frelinghuysen Votes "No."

New Jersey's Anti-Saloon League again has lost in its fight in the Legislature for local option, its bill to enable municipalities to prohibit the sale of intoxicants being killed in the Senate at Trenton last night by a vote of 14 to 6. The final vote, following a long debate, was as follows:

For—Ackerman, Union; Bradley, Camden; Gebhardt, Hunterdon; Gaunt, Gloucester; Minch, Cumberland, and Plummer, Salem.

Against — Brown, Monmouth; Corning, Warren; Fielder, Hudson; Frelinghuysen, Somerset; Hand, Cape May; Hillery, Morris; Hinchliffe, Passaic; Leavitt, Mercer; Osborne, Essex; Price, Sussex; Robbins, Burlington; Silzer, Middlesex; Wakelee, Bergen, and Wilson, Atlantic.

When the bill came up for final passage Senator Plummer explained that it applied only to the municipal unit with power to vote on the proposal in two years. In stating that he knew it was impossible to pass the measure now, he felt that the cause had made progress and that his bill was the fairest ever offered in a New Jersey Legislature. Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union, favored the bill because of the principle of home rule.

Senator Ackerman said: "I think no one will question the fact that it is a plain sign of the times that the people wish to take a direct and active interest in all matters of public importance. By defeating this bill the people will justly reason that they have been denied the right of deciding a subject of public importance which directly concerns them, and the surroundings of their homes. I shall vote for this bill for the following reasons:

"First. Local option is not prohibition—It is home rule.

"Second. The sale of intoxicants has always been regulated by the police powers of the State and there is no inherent right to sell the same. It has always been a matter of license and only at the will of the State.

"Third. The Legislature is acting within the limits of the Constitution if it refers a complete act to the people to be effective only on their approval.

"Fourth. The right of the people to vote on a question of this character cannot be logically denied.

"Fifth. When the people demand that right a refusal to grant it cannot be successfully defended.

"Sixth. The State Constitution recognizes the principle of the referendum with respect to debt. If the people are permitted by local referendums to decide such questions as bond issues, franchises, consolidations and other important matters relating to the power of the purse, why not the subject of the liquor trade?

"Seventh. In carrying the liquor question direct to the people for settlement, it gives the advocates of high license, etc., an equal chance before a jury of the voters.

"Eighth. If local option is put justly and fairly before the people will it not take the saloon question out of party politics?"

SMALL-POX VICTIMS RAPIDLY RECOVERING.

At a meeting of the Board of Health yesterday there was a consideration of the small-pox situation in this city. It was reported by Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow that there are but three cases here, James White, John Woodston and Willard Hammond, all inmates of the isolation hospital, and they have about recovered from the disease and expect to be discharged next week.

The Board announced that the period of incubation or exposure is over and it does not expect any new cases as a result of the recent outbreak. Every possible precaution was and has been taken to prevent a spread of the disease and the means proved effective.

"The Harmony of the Races."

Bishop Wesley J. Gaines, of the A. M. E. church, from Atlanta, Ga., will preach at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church tomorrow night on "The Harmony of the Races." Presiding Elder J. T. Hammond and other clergy of the church will be present and there will be special music by the choir.

—John J. Carroll, who is connected with the law department of the Central Railroad, has taken up his residence in West Fifth street.

AMERICAN AUTHORS INTEREST WOMEN'S CLUB

A delightful program in charge of Miss E. E. Kenyon entertained the members of the Monday Afternoon Club yesterday afternoon at their informal meeting in the Hartridge Auditorium. The occasion was the fifth Monday of the month devoted to "Readings from American Authors." Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell read Roosevelt's oration on Abraham Lincoln delivered on the centennial of his birthday; Mrs. Hugh F. Fox read selections from Sidney Lanier and the "Subway Express" and Mrs. George H. Campbell gave some Uncle Remus stories with true southern accent. The readings were interspersed with some charming songs by American authors sung by Mrs. George S. Ring, the accompaniments to which were played by Miss Corey.

An informal expression of preference for books found helpful by club members closed the literary program and was followed by a social half hour over the tea-cups.

"CHORUS LADY" MAKES $250. FOR DAY NURSERY

"The Chorus Lady" with Rose Stahl in the stella role, was presented before a capacity audience at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, for the benefit of The Day Nursery. The production was undoubtedly one of the best that has been seen here since the house was opened, and was given in the same faultless detail that has marked its successful run of two years. The company was the same as appeared in New York.

Miss Stahl as "Patricia O'Brien," was of course the life of the play. She kept her audience convulsed with laughter for the most part, giving as fine a bit of acting as one could possibly expect. In the more serious lines she displayed rare emotional qualities.

The play was presented here under the auspices of Edwin S. Hooley, Mrs. Frederick W. Butler and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, who are interested in The Day Nursery. As a result that charity will receive at least $250 as its percentage of the receipts.

MISS DORA WEISMAN IS MR. ROSENBAUM'S BRIDE

Miss Dora Weisman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weisman, of Newark, and Samuel Rosenbaum, of this city, were married Sunday night in Columbia Hall, Newark, by Rev. Dr. Brodsky, of that city. It was one of the largest Jewish weddings held in Newark in a long time, there being five hundred guests, including many from this city.

Mrs. Samuel Weisman, of Newark, was matron of honor and Samuel Weisman was the best man. The bridesmaids were the Misses Sarah and Rose Kirstein, of Newark; Rose Rothberg, of this city, and Sadie Rothberg, of New York, and the ushers were Louis Hoffman and David Berger, of Newark; Alex L. Kramer, of New York, and Louis Goldstein, of Plainfield. The flower girls were Ida Goldstein, of Newark, niece of the bride, and Sadie Rothberg, of this city, cousin of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weisman gave their daughter in marriage and Kalman Rothberg, of this city, gave the groom in marriage. A reception followed, during which Max Fisch, representing the Ladies' Auxiliary of Court Clover Ionian, Newark, presented the bride, who was the financial secretary, with a handsome gas lamp. Samuel Rothberg, of this city, introduced President Meyer Molodesky, of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, of this city, who presented the couple with a silver service. The groom is a member of the association. The couple will reside in this city.

Walking to Philadelphia.

Elmer Barrett, colored, claiming New York as his home, who has been Westonizing it from New York landed here last night, but as he did not have any money, was forced to stay on the streets. Patrolman Nolan arrested him early this morning as a suspicious character. Barrett told Judge Runyon at his hearing today that he had lost his job in New York and was footing it to Philadelphia in search of work. He was discharged and will continue on his way to the Quaker City.

Fined for Fighting.

John Bishop and Martin Muldowney, arrested Saturday night in North Plainfield for fighting on the street, appeared before Recorder Dolliver this morning. Bishop was fined $5, and Muldowney $3.

GUNN OBTAINS DIVORCE

Decree Given Husband But Wife Who Deserted Him Gets Custody of Child.

PREFERRED DANCES TO HUBBY.

Father Must Pay For Support of a Six-year-old Son and Also Counsel Fees.

Vice-Chancellor Howell yesterday in the Chancery Court at Newark, granted a divorce to John Gunn, of Watchung, but gave the custody of their child to Mrs. Gunn, and ordered Gunn to pay her $2 a week for its support, and also a counsel fee of $20.

Gunn testified that his wife Ella, since May 21, 196, preferred to "go out to dances and one thing and another," as he phrased it, to staying at home with him and their young child. Because he didn't like such doings, he said, she left him. After the alleged desertion had continued for the statutory two years, Gunn brought suit for divorce through Codington & Swackhamer. William G. DeMeza and W. L. Angleman appeared for Mrs. Gunn.

In his petition Gunn asked that the custody of their boy, who is six years old, be awarded to him. The petition alleges that Mrs. Gunn is unfit to have the care of the boy.

Mrs. Gunn denied both the desertion and the statement that she was not a proper person to have the child.

Mrs. Gunn testified that she left her husband after a quarrel, in the course of which he told her that he would give her $50 if she would go away. She further told the court that her husband, on that occasion, hired a wagon and helped her to move her things to her mother's home.

The Vice-Chancellor in giving his decision said that it had not been shown that Mrs. Gunn was unfit to look after the child, and that he would give her the custody of the child and compel the husband to support him.

SALE OF UTILITIES NETS $80 FOR CHURCH.

Practically making an innovation in the "value received" idea in church sales, the women of Holy Cross church held a highly successful utility sale at the parish house yesterday afternoon. Useful articles and things to eat were disposed of at "unreasonably reasonable" prices, which compared favorably with those asked at the stores. More than $80 was netted, and this will be used for new choir hymn-books and choir music.

Mrs. F. W. Creesy was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, and was assisted in the arrangements by a committee of the church women. The articles sold were made by the women of the church so that the receipts were net. The affair was largely attended and tea was served by these women of the church: Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. Gertrude Cochran, Mrs. Frank Allen, Mrs. George A. Warner, Mrs. T. E. Rhoades, Mrs. Francis DuBois and Mrs. F. O. Ball. Assisting were the Misses Marjorie Hart, Emma VanAlstyne and Harriet Nischwitz.

Those in charge at the various tables were as follows: Mrs. Hiram Woodruff, aprons; Mrs. J. W. Coddington, household utilities; Mrs. Frederick Dietz, home-made preserves, candies and sundaes; Miss Miriam Carmen, ties and belts, and Mrs. G. V. Van Hoesen, bags.

Sale at the Y. M. C. A.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a sale in Y. M. C. A. Hall this afternoon and tonight for the benefit of the new athletic field fund. Home-made articles, second-hand books, ice cream and cake and Japanese articles will be offered at attractive prices. A large grab-bag will be provided for children. The sale will be conducted afternoon and evening. In the evening, the association orchestra will play. Admission will be free.

It's a Big Night Tonight.

The greatest bill ever for a try-out night performance is promised at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. You'll miss a great show and barrels of real fun if you don't take it in. Holman brothers, comedy horizontal bar artists; Boyd and Moran, jokes-smiths and Pintues, the comedy juggler, fill only a part of the bill. Moving pictures galore and some amateur stunts are among other features.

Alvah Ryno.

Alvah Ryno, who was taken to the State Hospital at Morris Plains, Monday of last week, died at that place last night. Mr. Ryno had been a resident of Scotch Plains for several years, prior to living in Brooklyn. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ella Rogers, of Brooklyn.

ACKERMAN BILL FOR JOINT SEWER BONDS

Of particular local interest is the bill introduced yesterday in the State Senate by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, which provides for additional bond issues in the case of two or more municipalities joining in the construction of outlet sewers.

The bill, which is known as "Senate Bill No. 322," is intended as a supplement to the act of March 15, 1899. If passed the act will enable Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen to jointly construct and operate a sewer in the Greenbrook section of North Plainfield township. The measure was referred to the committee on corporations.

SAYS HE WAS SWINDLED OUT OF EIGHT DOLLARS

Sigmund Macris, who recently started in the grocery business at No. 43 Somerset street, believes that he was swindled out of eight hard earned dollars yesterday by a clever old chap for whom the borough police have been asked to search. According to the tale told by the grocer to Mayor Townsend, he purchased a bill of goods from a salesman representing Potts & Kauffman, of Perth Amboy. It was agreed that payment should be made today personally to the salesman.

After the wholesale grocers' agent had departed yesterday afternoon, a stranger entered the store and introduced himself to Macris as Mr. Kaufman, of the Perth Amboy firm. He had come to see if his concern could afford to have Macris run an account with them, explaining that the salesman was ill and that the goods would be shipped as quickly as possible. Before the stranger left, Macris gave him $8 on account. Not until this morning when the salesman in question put in an appearance did the borough grocer learn, he says, that he had been buncoed out of his $8.

WOMAN COLLEGE HEAD TO SPEAK ON TURKEY

Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, who has been heard far and wide in college and club circles, in the past few months, has consented to speak here on "The Conditions in Turkey Since the Revolution." Miss Hartridge has issued invitations to hear Dr. Patrick on Thursday night. Mrs. Henry Villard will preside at the meeting and it is hoped that Dr. Talcott Williams will also be able to speak.

Dr. Patrick is president of the American College for Girls at Constantinople, the only college for women in the Western Levant. This college, though situated in the political key of the East, on the Bosphorus, is a corporation under the State of Massachusetts and is supported by such Americans as Miss Helen Gould, Miss Grace Dodge, Mrs. Russell Sage, John H. Converse and others.

In her talk, Dr. Patrick will show some very beautiful views that she has brought from Constantinople and tell of her wonderful experience in establishing the college which draws its students, not from civilized America but from an area including Greece and Alhamia on the west, the region of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers on the east, Egypt and Syria on the south, and Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia and Russia on the north. These students return to their homes to save and to elevate the women of their race and some of them have become powerful factors in the political struggles of their people. Such work as this college is doing must appeal strongly to us in America.

Funeral of Mary E. Barley.

Rev. Samuel Tilden, pastor of Bethel chapel, officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Barley, colored, who died Sunday. The service was held at the woman's home on East Second street last night and the body was sent to Richmond, Va., today for interment.

Surprised Miss S. E. Crate.

In honor of her birthday anniversary, a surprise party was tendered to Miss Sarah E. Crate, of Watchung avenue, last night. There were about twenty-five friends and a pleasant evening was spent playing games, after which refreshments were served.

Chief Kiely Stops Runaway.

Chief of Police Kiely stopped a fractious horse drawing an empty depot wagon on North avenue, near Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. The animal had strayed from the Plainfield Cab Company's stables. No damage was done.

HELD AS A HORSE THIEF

Fitzpatrick is Suspected of Stealing in Somerset and Hunterdon Counties.

OWNER CLAIMS HIS TEAM.

Good Work of Perth Amboy Police Results In Prisoner Being Detained for Somerset Authorities.

Dominick Fitzpatrick, of No. 521 Duer street, the borough, who was arrested on suspicion yesterday when he tried to sell a team of horses at Perth Amboy for $150, is being held at that place to await the action of the Somerset county authorities. It has been learned by the police that the team in question were stolen from John Wyckoff, a farmer, of New Germantown, but the Hunterdon county charge will not be pushed until the Somerset authorities compel Fitzpatrick to answer as to what he knows about the disappearance of some horses from that section. It is said by the police that the prisoner will also have to answer for some horse thieving in Morris county before they are through with him.

Immediately after Chief Kiely, of this city, had informed the Perth Amboy police that their prisoner, who had given the name of J. Conners, was really Fitzpatrick, the Middlesex authorities got busy. They learned that Wyckoff had missed a pair of fine horses recently and sent for him. The Germantown farmer identified the horses as his property and was anxious to have Fitzpatrick sent to jail. From Somerset came the information that there would be a chance of proving the prisoner guilty of horse stealing in that jurisdiction and it was finally decided to let the authorities there put the man on trial first. It is expected that Fitzpatrick will be taken to the Somerville jail tomorrow.

Shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the alleged horse thief drove the Wyckoff team into Perth Amboy and telling a hard luck tale offered to dispose of both animals for $150. Horse flesh is no cheaper there than elsewhere in the State and the suspicions of some Perth Amboy people were aroused. As a result Police Chief Burke was notified. Fitzpatrick was told to accompany the chief to headquarters for a little chat. Claiming that he lived in North Plainfield and that his name was "J. Conners," the man was detained while Chief Burke had a conversation over the 'phone with Chief Kiely. The local chief sent one of his men out to investigate and a little later the Perth Amboy police were informed who their prisoner was.

E. C. DEAL IS WELL RECEIVED IN THE SOUTH.

E. C. Deal, who was recently division superintendent of the electric department of the P. S. C., with headquarters at Elizabeth, and who is the new manager of the street car system for the Public Service Corporation at Greensboro, North Carolina, has evidently made a favorable impression among the southerners. The Greensboro Telegram, under date of March 25, has the following to say of Mr. Deal:

"The new manager of the street car system here is E. C. Deal. He is a young man of pleasing appearance and of marked modesty, giving one the impression that he is a man to do things rather than talk. Despite his youth he has had large and varied experience in his line of work.

"As has been stated, the plant is now owned by the North Carolina Public Service Company, this corporation having come into ownership at noon on Tuesday. The officers of the company are L. H. Hole, president; Bird S. Coler, vice-president; Z. V. Taylor, first vice-president and counsel; L. H. Hole, Jr., secretary and treasurer."

Will Entertain Church Clubs.

The Board of Trade will hold its regular monthluy meeting Thursday night and it will be of unusual interest as a number of important matters will be acted upon. All of the men's clubs of the city and borough churches have been invited to be present and listen to an address by Emerson E. Parvin, of this city, on "Ocean Transportation." Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Removals.

L. A. Beekman has removed from 39 Somerset street to 321 East Third street; Chief George Weiss, from 37 Summit avenue to 106 Duer street; John Dickson, from 106 Duer street to 131 Duer street; E. W. Barrett, from 309 West Fourth street to 304 Central avenue; Arthur S. Mosher has removed from West Fifth street to Watchung avenue, near Codington avenue.

"UNDER THE INFLUENCE" BUT WAS "NOT DRUNK"

Arrested for intoxication by Patrolman Nolan last night, Harry Witters, who has no home, stoutly denied that he was drunk at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today.

"This charge of drunkenness," he said, "is false. A man is not drunk unless he is tee-totally down and out,—like a bag of meal. A man can be under the influence of liquor and not be drunk. I claim that I was only under the influence of liquor."

It has been three years since Witters was in court, and believing that he is trying to keep away from the booze, Judge Runyon suspended sentence. Seeing that he would probably go free, when the Judge began to speak, Harry drew a plug of tobacco from his pocket and bit off a large chew. When he heard that he was really free, he reached up and shook the Judge warmly by the hand. "You're all right, Your Honor," he said.

JEFFERSON BANQUET ON TUESDAY, APRIL 6

Loyal Democrats to the number of about one hundred will pay tribue to the memory of Thomas Jefferson, whose birthday is to be celebrated April 13, by gathering at the Hotel Kensington, Tuesday night, April 6, for a "Jefferson Dinner." The arrangements far the affair have been practically completed by Walter C. Linbarger, chairman of the committee. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer will be the toastmaster.

Democrats of prominence from all over the State will attend the dinner, for which elaborate arrangements have been made. "Farmer-orator" James E. Martine heads the list of local speakers, which will include former Mayor William L. Saunders and Mayor Samuel Townsend, both of North Plainfield. Col. Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, will respond to a toast, as will also former Mayor Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton; former Chairman Robert S. Hudspeth and Mayor Otto H. Wittpenn, both of Jersey City.

ADMITTED TO PRACTISE FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, is today being congratulated upon the completion of fifty years as a practicing physician and surgeon in this city. Throughout his long and honorable career as a physician he has always enjoyed the highest respect and confiedence of his fellow-townsmen and today is the dean of the Plainfield medical fraternity.

Dr. Tomlinson was connected with Muhlenberg Hospital from its organization until a short time ago, being a member of the staff of the institution. He recently resigned after a long and faithful service, much to the regret of the Board of Governors. Dr. Tomlinson has for a great many years been an active and prominent member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Those who called to congratulate him today extended best wishes for a continuance of health, happiness and success.

Fanwood Committees Acts.

At a meeting of the Fanwood township committee last night action was taken on the report received from the State Board of Health concerning the mad dog which was killed in the town last week. The committee issued a proclamation that all dogs must be kept tied until further notice and all dogs found running about the streets will be shot without warning.

Piano-Player Concert.

Under the auspices of a New York piano-player concern, a concert was given at the Plainfield High School last night, when the school instrument was successfully demonstrated. The program included selections by Emma Pilat-Greene, violiniste; James Stanley, basso, and M. F. Betts, pianist.

Girl Bitten By Dog.

A brown dog belonging to William Smith, of West Third street, bit the ten-year-old daughter of J. J. Leahy, of West Fifth street, yesterday afternoon. The animal did not show any symptoms of hydrophobia and the girl's condition is not serious. The police destroyed the dog today as a precaution.

L. R. THURLOW RESIGNS

Efficient Health Officer Has Accepted Position With McAdoo's Company.

ASSUMES DUTIES ON MONDAY.

To Supervise Local Department's Work Until His Successor Is Appointed—His Career Here.

Leon R. Thurlow, who has been health officer of Plainfield since December 1, 1901, has tendered his resignation and will be relieved from active duty Monday, April 5, on which date he will enter the employ of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, with offices in the Hudson Terminal Building, 30 Church street, New York. Mr. Thurlow will be identified with the engineering department of the company, his position being one of great responsibility and trust and with a promising future.

Mr. Thurlow is a native of Lowell, Mass., and received his education in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston. While pursuing his course of study he resided at Brookline, Mass., and immediately following his graduation for a short time he was an assistant engineer in the employ of the Boston Board of Health. He left that position to come to Plainfield.

During his residence here, Mr. Thurlow has accomplished much in sanitary matters, and through his efforts the work of the Board of Health has been brought up to its present high standard, second to none in the State. When Mr. Thurlow came here the Board occupied one room in Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh's building on Park avenue, and Health Inspector W. H. Addis and Miss Mattison, a clerk, were the only two employes of the department. Today the Board has finely-equipped quarters in the Kenney building on North avenue, with all appliances to make analysis of milk and water and conduct a first-class department.

Perhaps, the most important work accomplished by Mr. Thurlow is that of introducing an approved system for milk inspection and analysis. This department is so well organized that it is practically impossible for contagious disease to get out of the control of the Board or spread to any extent.

This fact has been illustrated time and again, especially in the case of two outbreaks of small-pox since Mr. Thurlow took charge of the health department. The Isolation Hospital was established soon after he came here and the detail work of the health department has grown steadily until it can no longer be measured by mere office hours.

One thing that has been appreciated by the residents is the way that the milk supply has been safe-guarded and brought up to the highest standard. Every department of the Health Board has been protected in the same way.

The new position taken by Mr. Thurlow will require considerable executive ability and his college training and work in this city has fitted him in every way for it. The Board of Health regrets that the department is to lose Mr. Thurlow's services, but realizes that it is impossible to keep him here under the circumstances. A successor has not been chosen as yet, but until that is done, Mr. Thurlow will continue to have general supervision of the health department out of his New York business hours.

CATES AND JONES ARE FAST FRIENDS AGAIN.

An altercation over a pool game in a Watchung avenue poolroom last Saturday night landed James Cates, colored, in police court today on the complaint of Wade Jones, a colored friend of his. It seems that Jones was appointed stake-holder for a match game of pool, and the settlement of the bet involved high words and alleged insults.

When Cates took the stand, he appeared to be a peaceable party, who mildly denied any wrong-doing. He stated that he and Jones had always been good friends, "and I am still a good friend to him," he concluded. It seems that there is a woman in the case, and Cates smilingly remarked: "Naturally, she care more for me than she does for him."

Judge Runyon finally succeeded in pursuading Jones to withdraw his complaint and renew his friendship with Cates. The two colored men had a long hearty hand-clasp, while the genial Cates spoke of his pleasure at patching up all the difficulties.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of First place, will have charge of the midweek prayer-meeting in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church tomorrow night.

Making the Wheels of Trolley Cars Go

PUBLIC SERVICE has told within the last few weeks about the number of street car lines it operates, the miles of track in use, the hundreds of cars in commission, the millions of passengers carried, the hundreds of thousands of transfers redeemed, the army of men employed and the manner of recruiting that army.

The object of giving all this information is to let you know something definite concerning the immense problem PUBLIC SERVICE has to contend with and to show what an enormous task it is to cater to three-fourths of the population of a State.

This talk is in furtherance of that object and has to do with the power that makes the car wheels revolve, the factor which has made possible the wonderful development the street railway business has undergone during the last fifteen years.

WHERE POWER COMES FROM.

If you were asked as to the source of the electricity which makes the cars go you would undoubtedly say it comes from the power house. But how many persons know that only a small percentage of the propelling force goes from the power house direct to the cars? And how many know how this much-used, yet mysterious, force is generated, directed and diverted to perform the very useful function of carrying millions to and from their homes.

It is not a very difficult matter to follow the course of the current from the coal pile to the car wheel. The coal makes the steam which runs the dynamos which generate the electricity. And PUBLIC SERVICE, for the purposes of its street railway service, has fifteen generating plants in operation. These are located in Newark, Jersey City (two plants), Hoboken, Secaucus, Paterson, Orange, Elizabeth, Cranford, Metuchen, Plainfield, Perth Amboy, Milltown, Camden and Gloucester.

ALTERNATING AND DIRECT CURRENT.

In all of these plants current known as "alternating" current is generated at a potential, or strength, of 13,200 volts. Now, as the operation of trolley cars requires "direct" current of a voltage of about 550, it is necessary to reduce and change the character of the power produced in the generating plants before it is available for use. It is true that in a few of the power houses direct current of the proper voltage is generated and fed direct to the trolley wires, but most of the power produced is the high potential alternating current.

The practical reason for generating alternating current is that such current can be transmitted a long distance at high voltage over a small amount of copper, while the amount of copper required to transmit direct current at low voltage would be so great as to make the cost of transmission prohibitive.

TRANSFORMING THE CURRENT.

To meet the conditions and utilize the power as economically as possible the territory served by the trolley cars is divided into sections and each section is provided with a sub-station. PUBLIC SERVICE has fourteen such stations. Each is equipped with a rotary converter which transforms the alternating current of 13,200 volts into direct current of 550 volts.

The direct current of proper voltage is fed to the trolley wires at various points, according to the load required, and passes down the trolley pole to the controller operated by the motorman. It travels through the controller to the motor mounted on the axles and, after making the wheels go around, passes through the wheels to the tracks and finds its way back to the sub-stations or generating plants.

VAST, INTRICATE POWER SYSTEM.

When one is told that PUBLIC SERVICE operates fifteen generating plants and fourteen sub-stations to supply power which is carried through 889 miles of feeder cables and wires to 675 miles of trolley wires and connections, the latter held in position by 629 miles of span wires, perhaps one can appreciate the extent and intricacy of the power system necessary to keep the cars going. Incidentally, perhaps, one can better understand why accidents which cause delays will sometimes occur in spite of all precautions.

MILLINERY SUPREMACY

Almost any store can show a fairly representative line of very high priced trimmed hats, but the truest test of a good millinery organization is in the production of $10, $7 and especially $5 hats. For many seasons past we have made a specialty of the above mentioned lines, but this Spring we set about to accomplish still greater results, and now that the various lines are complete, we are abundantly pleased and claim your attention with the most elaborate collection of popular priced millinery ever assembled in Newark. We have a separate show room devoted to the exclusive sale of $5, $7 and $10 trimmed hats and the exquisite creations which we are showing at these modest figures will astonish you. Your inspection is invited.

A Visit to Our Millinery Opening Will Reveal the Right Hat for You.

This is a season of liberal range in Hat styles. If the extreme large shapes do not become you, or if you think them trying to wear—choose a more conservative medium size. Or, if you look best in a small Hat, you can wear one without infringing the edicts of fashion.

We show every good style, size, shape and color. Dashing big Hats; high-crowned hats; beautiful flower-decked hats, fresh and Spring-like; rose and red, grey and black. . And in the complete assortment there's just the hat for you.

Our millinery prices are remarkably low—you can do much better here in hats than elsewhere. A visit will prove it.

Specials in Bedspreads 98c to $3.49.

We are ready to supply your needs in Bedspreads at prices very much below actual value. Our collection of Bedspreads includes many choice new designs—all are firmly woven, snowy white and of a fine appearance.

Don't delay in making a choice—

98c to $3.49.

The Big Failure of Geo. Gebbie & Co. Publishers of Fine Books

Brings You These Subscription Sets At One-Fourth Their Real Value

The failure of Geo. Gebbie & Co., of Philadelphia, and the widespread depression among subscription book publishers, threw lots of fine De Luxe Editions of Standard Authors on the market at prices that had never been known before. Grasping the opportunity that presented itself, we made enormous cash purchases, secured entire edition remainders, therefore are able to offer our public these magnificent De Luxe books at less than one quarter their value.

These elegant library editions, hitherto sold only by agents at high prices, include the well-known, high class publications of John D. Morris & Co., Gebbie & Co., The Chesterfield Society, The Devos Press, etc. Represented in the collection are the Great Dramatists and Historians, as well as the works of the Great Masters of Romance.

The books, as you would expect in De Luxe editions, are bound either in three-quarter leather or full silk cloth, beautifully tooled and ornamented in gold. The paper is soft and luxurious to the touch, and of a quality that makes the biggest volumes light in weight, and the plates from which they are printed are clear and clean cut type which it will be a pleasure to read.

Just see how cheaply we are selling these fine books:

Among the patronesses of an entertainment to be given in the interest of Stony Wold Sanitorium next Friday afternoon at Carnegie Lyceum, New York, is Mrs. Pierre Mali, of New York, whose summer home is on East Front street.

STATE EDITOR TO QUIT GIRLS' HOME BOARD.

Thomas B. Holmes, recently appointed State commissioner of reports by Governor Fort, has tendered to the Governor his resignation as a member of the board of managers of the State Home for Girls. The resignation is to take effect at the convenience of the Governor. It has been presented in that form in order that Mr. Holmes might serve on the board until the Governor decided who was to succeed him. He is treasurer of the board, so that his resignation will necessitate filling that office. It is not known yet who will be appointed.

There is already a vacancy on the board, due to the resignation of James Mitchell, of Paterson. It is understood that Governor Fort is endeavoring to find a Hudson county man to take his place. The successor to Mr. Holmes will probably come from Mercer county.

Alleges Rival Got His Goods.

The second trial of the suit of Edward Kursheedt, of New York, against the Standard Bleaching Company of Carrolton Hill, Bergen county, was commenced yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Parker and a struck jury at Hackensack. Kursheedt is an apron manufacturer. He sues for $20,000 damages, alleging that goods sent by him to the defendant company's plant to be bleached were sold by the bleaching company to one of his business rivals. On a previous trial of the case a verdict for the defendant was rendered. The new trial was ordered because it was alleged that certain evidence had been omitted which could be secured only from the books of the defendant. The court ordered counsel for the bleaching company to produce its books in court.

Thieves at Work in Hackensack.

Thieves visited two homes while the families were absent at Hackensack Saturday night, and got in all about $33 in cash and jewelry valued at $250. At the residence of Frederick J. Van Saun, at Prospect avenue and Berry street, the cash and a diamond stickpin were taken. The pin was found yesterday on the sidewalk in front of the house. Mrs. A. E. Ogden, of Central avenue and Third street, returned from a theatre about 11 o'clock to find that her home had been visited and jewelry gone from a bureau drawer. At each house the intruders left marks of a jimmy on the casing of rear windows through which they effected entrance.

HALL CORPORATION TO DEVELOPE REAL ESTATE.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Elizabeth today by the George E. Hall Corporation, organized to buy, sell and develope real estate. The incorporators are George E. Hall, of Plainfield; Selden Wicketts, of Southampton, L. I., and Hastings E Page, of New York. The concern is capitalized at $50,000. The stock is divided into one thousand shares of $50 each. There has been paid in $30,000.

The company owns and controls about one hundred acres of land near Fanwood. It proposes to develope the tract and erect a number of modern houses.

BOROUGH MAYOR TO NAME SEVERAL COMMISSIONS.

Mayor Samuel Townsend plans to announce the appointment of several commissions, in the near future, for North Plainfield. Chief among these will be a shade tree commission, similar to that in this city, and it is probable that Henry C. White will be named as its chairman.

In all liklihood, the Park commission will be composed of private citizens, although the brook committee, which will co operate with a similar committee from the city in cleaning up Green brook, will be made up of councilmen.

McFADDEN ON SOURCE OF THE HUMAN ENERGY.

All the muscles of the body must be used to a certain extent in order to develop their highest degree of strength, but remember that this strength depends upon increasing the vigor and vitality of the spinal region. This represents the human power-house. Here is where the nervous energy is stored, here is where it is given out to the various organs and muscles of the body, and by strengthening these parts, you thereby are able to add vigor and vitality to every part of the organism.—Physical Culture Magazine for April.

OFFER TO DONATE LAND FOR CITY-BOROUGH PARK

J. W. Lawrence, of the Plainfield Park Association, submitted to the Borough Council last night a tentative map showing the exact location of the property owned by that organization. The majority of the property, which consists of about seventy-five acres, lies between West End and Rock avenues, Green brook running through it. It is the purpose of the association to convert a certain part into a public park, and at the junction of Green and Stony brooks to make an artificial lake, perhaps a quarter of mile in length. The chief purpose of the association is to lay out a sight for building lots.

The association is willing to deed to the city of Plainfield and North Plainfield, or to a joint commission appointed by the proper authorities, or to such trustees as may be mutually agreed upon for the purpose intended, upon proper conditions as to the maintainence of the premises by municipalities. In other words the association will turn the property over to the city and borough for a playground.

No action was taken by the borough fathers. It is understood that Mayor Townsend will refer the matter to a committee for further consideration.

NEWARK CONFERENCE WILL OPEN TOMORROW

The fifty second annual session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, will open in Centenary M. E. church, Newark, tomorrow. According to the law of the church, thirty distinct questions must be asked and answered at each annual conference. Familiar faces will be missed from the body when it assembles, among them the late Rev. Dr. James F. Dodd, who was secretary of the conference for twenty-eight years, whose death occurred a few months ago.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, Rev. C. S. Kemble and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastors of the local M. E. churches, will attend the session, as well as many laymen and women, who will attend the missionary society meetings. No changes are expected in the local M. E. churches this year.

Mrs. G. W. Shipley.

Mrs. G. W. Shipley, of Peekskill, N. Y., who was for many years a resident of this city, stricken by apoplexy, died yesterday at her home. She was sixty-nine years of age. Mrs. Shipley, who is survived by her husband, lived on East Second street during her residence here. She was a sister of Mrs. John M. Griffin and Mrs. I. W. Rushmore, of West Seventh street. The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at Peekskill, where burial will be made.

Dr. Sherman Cooper On Trial.

Dr. Sherman Cooper, the well-known Westfield physician, is on trial in the Union county court, today, charged with malpractice in the case of Miss Nellie K. Drake, of Broadway, Elizabeth, who died in the Elizabeth General Hospital in February. Dr. Cooper is represented by Samuel Kalisch, of Newark, while Prosecutor C. Addison Swift represents the State.

Given a Verdict for $119.

Hippolyte Desraismes, of Elizabeth, who was the plaintiff in an action against the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company, in the District court, Elizabeth, yesterday, was given a verdict for $119, representing commissions on business done by other agents for the company in territory said to have been given to Desraismes exclusively.

New Jersey Cricket League Busy.

The New Jersey Cricket League met at the Continental Hotel, Newark, Saturday night and decided on the teams to comprise the membership this season. The clubs include Bound Brook, several members of which are Plainfielders. A schedule, which opens May 22 and closes September 18, was adopted.

Old Ball Player Dead.

"Mike" Cavanagh, of Elizabeth, well-known throughout the county as a baseball player, having played in this city many times, died at his home today of Bright's Disease. He was thirty-seven years old and for several years was employed at the Singer Works, Elizabethport.

The Borough's Budget.

At the meeting of the Borough Council last night the budget was one of the things discussed but no definite action will be taken until next Friday night.

Charles Bostwick, of DeLacy avenue, the borough, instructor in manual training at the Plainfield High School, is recovering from an operation performed bby Dr. Norman H. Probasco at the hospital this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Orton G. Dale, of East Seventh street, have left for Europe, where they will spend six weeks touring that country. They sailed on the White Star Liner Oceanic. Upon their return they will reside at 134 East Sixth street.

It is pleasing to know that there was on Sunday morning last a deep and general sympathy expressed by the other Churches of this City, for the M. E. Church in their loss by the burning of their House of Worship. We learn from the Pastor that two Churches immediately offered to share their accommodations with them, and others would have done so had they not been informed that the generous offer of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church had been accepted.

The managers of the Waverley fair ground have decided to hold no spring fair owing to a lack of interest among horse dealers.

Read the advertisement in another column of E. D. Bellis. He has a fine assortment of Groceries, Provisions, &c., which he is selling low. It is worth the while of buyers to examine his stock before purchasing elsewhere. Buying low for cash he can afford to sell low for the same. Read the advertisement.

On Friday afternoon last, a narrow escape from fire occurred in the new building opposite Laing's Hotel owned by Mr. Stevenson, and designed by him as a Bakery. It seems that the oven had been fired up for the purpose of drying athe same out, and becoming heated set fire to the woodwork surrounding the same. The danger was happily discovered in time, and by prompt exertions the fire was soon extinguished without serious damage.

The "Town Clock," which has for some time been a source of complaint by our citizens on account of its refusal to keep correct time, is now no more. The fire fiend has warped and broken its machinery so that it will necessitate the putting in new works before it can keep even incorrect time. So note it be.

POTTED PLANS AS HOUSE DECORATION.

During spring months potted plants of flowers are much used in decorating a house for social functions. Tulips, primroses, hyacinths, narcissi, when massed together or scattered through a room, give a charming effect at comparatively small cost.

This cost can be further reduced if one understands the art of massing. Three plants can be made to do the work of half a dozen, if, instead of standing each pot upright, two are turned on their side and the central one is tilted slightly forward. This brings the blossoms in a solid mass and makes a fine showing.

For mantelpieces, tops of bookcases or shelves, tilted plants are best; on tables, piano or tabouret, do not attempt massing, but select fine individual plants, taking care to place them with regard to the background and color effect.

One large, full-flowered plant on a table looks better than a cluster of several smaller ones.

Do not mix colors in decorating. This is somewhat hard to avoid in spring plants, but if one has a collection of pink hyacinths, yellow narcissi and red tulips, at least see that they are not grouped together, and as far apart in the room as possible

A few yards of smilax to drape, with massed pots and green tissue paper to cover the pots, stood singly, add greatly to the general effect. After use on special occasions the plants can be made to last a long while if they are all stood upright in a sunny window or where they get a good light.

If the living part of the house is overheated, plants will bloom longer if they are taken at night into a temperature of not more than 60 degrees.

Never let pots go dry, but do not keep soil water-soaked. Cut off blossoms as soon as they fade.

Treated in this way primroses continue to bloom until late spring, and hyacinths, tulips and narcissi retain their flowers much longer.

Furnishing a Home Now-a-Days

can be well done or poorly done—all depends on where you buy It stands buyers in hand to be wary of furniture bargains in unreliable places, "bargains"—so-called, that are to be had in endless variety, In many cases "regrets" would be a better word than "bargains"

We give you high value at low cost. The housewife need never feel that the low price paid here for any article implies inferiority or old style. Here is where the idea of reasonable prices are always maintained; where the best and choicest Furniture and Carpets are always found and sold at low prices—low prices and genuine worth make genuine bargains.

What Will Well Dressed Men Wear?

Any man who is desirous of being shod as stylishly as his friend who patronizes the exclusive custom bootmakers need only come here and make his selections from our comprehensive stock of Metropolitan styles and shapes. He will save from three to five dollars on every pair and no one but an expert leather man can call the turn. Furthermore he will know just how the shoe fits and is going to look on his foot before he pays for it.

The popular style this Spring is a semi-narrow toe with plenty of snap and gingerbread, shield or wing tips, blucher or lace cut. Materials are Gun Metal, Calf, Wax Calf, Patent Leather, Russia Tan and of course the always comfortable and easy going Vici Kid. We have all these good points incorporated in our $4.00 and $5.00 Shoes and we present the Van Arsdale line with more confidence than ever to the particular man who believes that his Shoes should be as "toppy" as his hat.

ONE RECORD BROKEN AT ATHLETIC MEET

A large and enthusiastic crowd attended the annual meet of the Sunday-school Athletic Association, held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night. The meet which was one of the best ever held, showed that the boys from the city churches were athletes of some promise, and one of their number broke the record for the running high jump.

Of the seven churches that took part in the events, the First Baptist proved themselves winners in both the senior and junior games, and at no time during the contests did their rivals have a chance to make them feel uneasy. With such men as Miller, Butler and Krewson in good condition it makes a hard combination for any team to beat. The individual star of the evening, Carl Steiner, of the Congregational church, who broke the running high jump. Steiner made the new mark 5 feet 3 inches, thereby going one inch above the old record.

Crescent Avenue also put a good team in the field and won second place, Wyckoff and Borden being the chief athletes to uphold the honor of their church. For the First Presbyterian they had to content themselves with but three points, while the Seventh-Day Baptist, Warren chapel and Trinity Reformed didn't qualify in any of the events at all. For the winners cups were given to each team, and medals to each winner of a contest. The points are as follows:

Junior First Baptist, 23; Crescent Avenue, 13, and Congregational, 9. Seniors, First Baptist, 18; Crescent avenue, 14; Congregational, 10, and First Presbyterian, 3.

Those who won the events are:

15-yard dash (boys)—L. Church, of the Crescent Avenue, was first, with V. Borden, of the same church, second.

15-yard dash, Juniors — Ray Wyckoff, Congregational, first; William Zook, second.

Three standing broad jumps, Junors—Ray Wyckoff, Congregational, first; George Townley, First Presbyterian, second.

Three legged race—Butler and Krewson, First Baptist, first; Chandler and Patrick, First Baptist, second.

Running high jump—Carl Steiner, Congregational, first, 5 feet 3 inches; C. Lee, First Baptist, second, 5 feet 2 inches.

Potato race (boys) — Borden, Crescent Avenue, first; M. Krewson, First Baptist, second.

Running broad jump—E. M. Daniels, Y. M. C. A., first, 15 feet 11½ inches; second, C. Steiner, Congregational, 15 feet 7½ inches.

Running hop, step and jump—R. Miller, First Baptist, 33 feet 2 inches, first; L. Randolph, Crescent Avenue, second, 31 feet 97-4 inches.

¼ mile potato race—M. Rushmore, Crescent Avenue, 1 minute 52 4-5 seconds; E. M. Daniels, Y. M. C. A., second, 1 minute 53 seconds.

220-yard potato race—R. Miller, First Baptist, first, 53 seconds, and J. Manning, First Baptist, second, 53 seconds. Race being in dead heat.

James DeNitzo Severely Burned.

James De Nitzo, of Stanbury avenue, Scotch Plains, was severely burned about the face and hands a few days ago, while working at the buffing machine at the Rushmore works on South avenue. The injured man was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment, after which he was able to return home. Mr. De Nitzo is a brother of Felix De Nitzo, who was killed at the 'Plains stone crusher two months ago.

Instituted New Council.

Star of Westfield Council, No. 60, Daughters of America, auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M., was instituted at Westfield, Friday night, by Martha Washington Council, No. 23, of this city. About forty charter members were initiated. Lodge No. 19, of Newark, and Star of Elizabeth, No. 37, were guests. Supper was served after the institution.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

VARIOUS SPORTS.

By winning the five-mile marathon for boys under sixteen, A. H. Durar has established both a record for himself and the Y. M. C. A. It makes the other boys take more interest and also booms the organization.

Miss Mary Fownes, of Oakmont, and Miss Ethel Check, of Englewood, N. J., were the winners in the semi-final round in the women's golf tournament at Pinehurst, N. C., last Saturday. The Jersey players have won many golf matches in the Southland this season.

The West Point fencing team composed of the same members as last year, again won the intercollegiate championship, held at the Squadron A gymnasium Saturday night.

J. Wheaton Chambers, the Princeton swimmer, won both the 50 and 100 yard dashes at the Intercollegiate Swimming Association meet Saturday. Chambers, who is a Philadelphia boy, is one of the best swimmers the Orange and Black ever had.

Ora Morningstar, the billiard expert, is playing the greatest game of his long career. The American expert now leads the tournament with three straight wins.

The progress of the Motor Cycle Club shows signs that Plainfield means to keep pace with the other towns in the world of sports. Such a club is a credit to the city and goes to uplift all good clean sports.

Now that basketball season has closed, the next to sports for the ladies to htink about is golf and tennis.

Just at present the international motor boat races to be held at Monte Carlo next month. The swift American boat Dixie II has now arrived and will take part in the races.

When the next boys' marathon race takes place at the Y. M. C. A. there will be far more interest shown than last Saturday. The boys think the time was far too slow and want to show they can do it at least three minutes less.

By a number of experts Dorando Pietri is looked upon as the favorite in next Saturday's marathon. Even such runners as Alfred Shrubb and Tom Longboat are not looked upon as winners.

Professor Briggs, of Harvard University, in no way agrees with Dr. Eliott in the question of football. The Harvard president has long opposed the game on account of its brutality, while Professor Briggs claims to cut out the game will cause the student body to loose heart in athletics.

The P. H. S. Scrubs more than surprised the Leal Seconds by the score of 27 to 22. For awhile it looked as if the Leals lads were in for a big victory, but fast continuous play told a different story.

The bicycle club is now getting ready for its first run, April 4.

C. M. Daniels, the swimming champion, continues to break a record nearly every week.

Stanley Kitchell can now afford to shout as much as Jack Johnson about the heavy-weight title. Johnson claims he is Jeffries' master at the game, while Kitchell claims he is willing to settle the difference with Johnson.

GOLF.

Somewhat earlier in the season than usual but compiled with accustomed precision, the spring handicaps of 1909 are ready for distribution by the Metropolitan Golf Association committee: J. E. Erickson, Plainfield Country Club, chairman; F. J. Phillips, Dyker Meadow Golf Club, and J. R. Turner, Wykagyl Country Club. As in the last two years the list is limited to those at nine strokes or under, the total by the elimination being now 546 names instead of nearly 3,000 as when all to eighteen strokes were included. The latter rule is still followed by the Massachusetts State Golf Association, which lists from 2,600 to 2,700 players each season.

The Metropolitan Golf Association ratings, as they are based on a par score and include the present and some former national champions, are often accepted as a standard of comparative "class" outside the M. G. A. district.

Jerome D. Travers, the amateur champion, and W. J. Travis are rated at scratch, and they concede two strokes to Findlay S. Douglas and Frederick Herreshoff, with a greater allowance to others. There are eight to receive three strokes, among them Charles H. Seely, twice Metropolitan Golf Association champion; Robert Abbott, former intercollegiate champion; Gilman P. Tiffany, for four years titleholder in the Hudson River Golf Association; George T. Brokaw, A. M. Reid and Max Behr, runner-up the last two years to Travers in the New Jersey championship. Bracketed with the twenty-one at four is R. C. Watson, Jr., winner last week of the Southern Cross championship at Aiken from the hitherto invincible Harold A. Sands. There are thirty-nine on the five stroke mark, seventy-six at six, 127 at seven, 144 at eight and 127 to receive an allowance of nine.

The handicap committee proposes to keep the list up to date, and for that purpose club handicappers are requested to send in reports throughout the season whenever one or more players show any improvement in their game. The request is needed, for last season not a single club handicapper sent in a voluntary report of this nature. The committee in a footnote to the list reiterates the rule that "Any player who is a member of a club belonging to the M. G. A. if not rated on the printed M. G. A. list must present before starting a letter from his club secretary or handicapper stating how many strokes he receives from some player of his club who is rated on the printed M. G. A. list." Lacking this information, all tournament managers have authority to place such a laggard on the scratch mark.

The members of the Plainfield Country Club included in the list and their handicaps are as follows: Robert Abbott, 3; C. W. Abbott, 9; J. Whitney Baker, 6; Dudley H. Barrows, 4; Leighton Calkins, 9; Howard A. Colby, 7; Augustus R. Fisk, 8; W. Lester Glenney, 6; William T. Glenney, 8; Henry D. Hibbard, 9; F. C. Jennings, 5; S. D. Lounsbery, 9; C. B. Morgan, 9; Arthur Murphy, 8; Frank O. Reinhart, 5; N. P. Rogers, Jr., 7; R. S. Rowland, 8; George F. Schoonmaker, 9; Frank C. Talmadge, 6; Willard Wadsworth, 6.

BASEBALL.

The Somerset Field club would like to arrange games with any team averaging fourteen to sixteen years. Address all letters to Malcolm Krewson, 30 Summit avenue.

The Y. M. C. A. team is now getting ready for out door practice this week. On the team this season will be seen some new faces, which Manager Listman hopes will strengthen the team.

Doane, of the P. H. S. team, is getting his eye on the ball early this season. Last week he was hitting the fast ones in good style.

If Riffert can get in condition for baseball, he was in football last season, there will be no better player on the P. H. S. He is fast, uses good head work and a sure fielder.

Little Willie Keeler, the New York American fielder who is well known in this city, is still the life of Stalling's team. Keeler, who has been playing in fast company for many years, is far from a has been.

The North Plainfield teams still have a number of good players that will cause both the captain and manager to put on their thinking caps before they can choose their regulars.

The Clinton Avenue manager thinks he has a pitcher who will equal Cliff Randolph.

It now begins to look as if the University of Pennsylvania will put forth one of the old-time teams.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Young Men's Club will meet at Hope chapel tonight.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Campbell, of the borough, will lead the special Lenten service at Hope chapel, Thursday night. The subject will be "Perils of Power."

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Hope chapel will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be an address by Rev. Robert M. Craig.

The foreign missionary offering of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church has been increased to $2,500 and it is hoped to make it $2,600, the amount asked for by the church.

The annual meeting of Hope chapel for the election of treasurers and ways and means committee, and for hearing reports of the past year's work will be held Wednesday night, April 7.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday night for Bible study, under W. D. Murray. The Book of Psalms will be the basis for mission study.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The subject will be "Pioneers; Our Inheritance from the Past."

On Easter Sunday, April 11, opportunity will be given at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, as last year, for all who wish to give flowers in remembrance of friends. This custom has of late years grown among many of the church and last year proved to be one which a great many among the members of the Crescent Avenue church were glad to observe.

—Lester Matthews, of Somerset street, has changed his residence to the Hotel Kensington.

—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Schwed, of the borough, have removed to their new home on Evergreen avenue.

Fat is Out of Style.

To paraphrase Caesar's remark, the directoire gown came—was seen—and has conquered. So fat ladies are reduced, so to speak, to the necessity of either reducing at a very rapid rate or eliminating themselves from public view until the fashion dies out. Otherwise they risk being ridiculous.

Since many fat ladies will not eliminate themselves, however, but, per contra, will insist on wearing the curveless gown, no course is open to this well-meaning scribe other than to tell them how they may eliminate the fat.

What is there, then, that reduces fat safely? What pleasant inexpensive article is there on druggists' shelves that can reduce a pound a day without causing wrinkles or stomach ache? What can the pharmacists offer as an improvement over scanty victuals or ten mile walks without breakfast? Is there anything pleasant to take and inexpensive to buy that will reduce one uniformly, quickly and innocently thirty pounds a month? Here is the answer: Either write the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., or ask your local druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets, and for 50 cents they or he will give you one large case of these safe fat reducers, containing so generous a quantity of tablets that sometimes one case only is needed to produce the desired results. Can you match that for a simple solution of your problem?

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

It seldom happens in these swift days that a play rises to the dignity of being what may be considered a kind of theatrical institution. There are a few such, however, and in the list of the most substantially founded must be placed Denman Thompson's famous drama of New England country life, "The Old Homestead," which is now in its twenty-third year of phenomenal success. The long life of this popular drama, and its constant hold on so large a section of the amusement-loving public, are the best possible proofs that in spite of vagaries of taste, the wholesome and the true in the drama are valued at their proper worth. For more than twenty years this grand old play has, season in and season out, been teaching its lesson of brightness, hope, innocent merriment, forgiveness and love the country over. Nobody ever saw it, or possibly can see it, without feeling the better for its natural touches of rural existence, its overflowing humor and its tender pathos. Faith, generosity, wit and piety are active in its heart-appealing story, not taught with the sternness of a moral lesson, but entering the soul with the sunshine of laughter and happiness. The company giving the play this season has been carefully selected by Denman Thompson himself, and embraces many of the old favorites. The famous double quartet of farm hands is presenting a new repretoire of songs. "The Old Homestead" comes here Saturday, matinee and night.

"Beverly of Graustark," which which be produced at the New Plainfield theatre April 10, dramatized from George Barr McCutcheon's most popular novel of the same title, lends itself most advantageously to picturesque, massive and elaborate scenic settings. The first part representing a wild pass in the mountains was painted by John Gergania, a noted Norwegian artist, whose landscapes are hung in the National Art Gallery at Washington. The second act is the council chamber in the government palace, and is a reproduction of a similar room in a castle now in existence in one of the smaller Balkan principalities. The third and fourth acts represent the exterior of the government palace in the springtime, affording the scenic artists unlimited opportunities for effective colorings. This act has been painted by Castle and Harvey, who are responsible for Viola Allen's "Twelfth Night" production. The famous Nat. Goodwin's production of "A Mid-Summer's Night Dream" and who are conceded to be the best scenic artists in America.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings, of Somerset street, spent Sunday in Warrenville.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Professor A. S. Clark, organist of the Woodbury Presbyterian church, who has been away under treatment for injuries received in a fall in Philadelphia, returned home Saturday greatly improved.

The 120 employes of the Atlantic Brick Works at Mays Landing were made to rejoice Saturday over an announcement that the plant will resume operations April 1, after an idleness of five months.

A tramp camp, set up on the Gloucester side of Newton Creek, with a dozen lusty rovers hovering over a big fire, was spoiled by the police yesterday, and the rovers moved in the direction of Camden.

The book reception given by the Pitman Fire and Police Patrol Saturday night proved a great social success, was participated in by at least 500 persons and more than 1,000 volumes were received.

Bruce Blinn, aged sixteen years, fell while jumping from one freight car to another at Vineland, Saturday, and ruptured one kidney so seriously that physicians removed it in an effort to save his life.

For several weeks there has been more or less rowdyism on the late Salem train Saturday night, but last Saturday night four railroad detectives accompanied the train and there was not the least disturbance.

A. J. Town, of Philadelphia, paid three of the girls who were unable to get the wages due them at the fireworks plant at Gloucester as a result of his partner's alleged flight, and announced that all the others will be paid promptly.

During an altercation at the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal in Camden early yesterday morning Edward Dailey, of 646 Line street, was stabbed in the hand by a stiletto. James Isadore, thirty-six years old, is under arrest on a charge of having inflicted the wound.

D. Clarence Gibboney, of Philadelphia, spoke at the men's meeting in the Pitman M. E. church Sunday to the largest crowd that ever attended one of these meetings. Mr. Gibboney confined his talk to civic righteousness and used figures in telling of the continued and protected crime in Philadelphia.

Accused of the theft of several boxes of candies from a wagon in the stable of A. Obus, a confectioner, Anthony Bonmento, Michael Pantello and Angelo Painter, eight, twelve and ten years old, respectively, are being detained by the Camden police for a hearing. The stolen goodies were recovered.

As an expression of gratitude to the institution in which he was successfully treated, William J. Morris, a wealthy contractor of Trenton, has offered to erect a building for X-ray work and electrotherapeutics for Mercer Hospital, in that city. Several of the members of the hospital staff are making special studies in these lines, and it is likely that the offer will be accepted.

Mrs. Annie Irving Keeler, Camden's only woman lawyer, was taken to Cooper Hospital, that city, Sunday seriously ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Keeler, who is forty years old, has been ailing all winter, but it was not until last week that she was compelled to abandon her practise. Dr. F. W. Marey, her physician, stated last night that he looks for Mrs. Keeler to successfully combat her ailment.

Alfred Pennock, member of the Buena Township Board of Education, went to his home in Vineland Saturday, to find his home in ashes. Mrs. Pennock was taking a nap when the neighbors saw the house burst into flames. They had scarcely time to arouse the sleeping woman and get out a few pieces of furniture before the house was doomed. The loss is estimated at $3,000, with small insurance.

Trenton's city comptroller, Edward S. Parkinson, is traveling somewhere in the South, and until he returns or can be communicated with many Trenton men will be unable to get money for work and material furnished the city. The city treasurer will not pay the bills until the warrants are signed by the comptroller. Before going away Mr. Parkinson signed a lot of blank warrants, but the supply is exhausted.

Farmers at Newfield have been robbed so much that loaded guns are kept handy, and the tramps have turned their attention to railroad stations, several of which have been robbed lately. At Buena Vista station, Miss Maud Corseglia, the telegraph operator, foiled the robbers Saturday by locking the inner office so securely they could not get in. The robbers, however, made sad havoc of a passenger's trunk which they found in the waiting-room.

Fire Near Elizabeth Alshouse.

A fire at noon yesterday destroyed a small barn and a wagon on a farm adjoining the Elizabeth Almshouse and located on Neck lane. The lane is the boundary line of what was formerly Clinton Township, now a part of Newark. A horse perished in the fire. The loss is about $1,000. The local fire department by hard work saved the farmhouse and a big barn that stood on the premises. The side of the latter was badly scorched by the flames. It took nineteen lengths of hose from the nearest hydrant to enable the firemen to get a stream on the blaze.

BROWN AND MATTHEWS DO SOME FINE BOWLING

The two man tournament at Campbell's alleys still continues to keep up the bowling interest. Every night the alleys become more crowded as the contest draws nearer its close. At present the scores are beginning to creep up and no sooner is one record broken than another follows. In this way it keeps each leading team on the lookout for fear of losing its place.

Last night Matthews and Brown were the star bowlers. In two games they passed the 400 mark with perfect ease, Brown making a great score of 225 twice in succession. Causbrook and Kiely, while not up to their standard, were the second, Causbrook getting a mark of 224 in one game. The other teams showed some improvement over last week. The scores are as follows:

Connoly	140	166	165
Reville	162	157	175
	302	323	340
Matthews	181	225	225
Brown	204	198	181
	385	423	406
Kiely	192	177	183
Causbrook	224	178	166
	416	355	349
Matthews	169	204	200
Brown	133	211	198
	302	415	398
Kiely	185	199	172
Causbrook	209	150	203
	394	349	375
Connoly	123	193	192
Reville	180	161	127
	303	354	319

De Blakers' Dogs Make Hit.

De Blakers trick monkeys and dogs are the best attraction that has yet appeared at the Proctor theatre. To see the dogs perform their tricks and the monkey ride his bicycle is enough to amuse the little folks at least. The pictures are the best and are very humorous.

ATWOOD WELDY'S "WIFE" IS STILL HELD HERE.

Annie Nelson, the "wife" of Atwood Weldy, is still detained at police headquarters here pending the arrival of a New Brunswick policeman who will take her there to tell what she knows about the murder of her alleged husband's brother, Allen Weldy, in that city, on November 21. Atwood Weldy is in jail in New Brunswick.

The police say that the Nelson woman has made some statements that will be used no doubt when the Middlesex grand jury investigates the charge against her alleged husband.

Building Permits.

At the meeting of the Borough Council last night building permits were granted to these persons: Dr. Elmer A. Giddis, Grove street, auto house; W. G. Debele, No. 111 Somerset street, brick addition to storehouse; I. R. Giles, 32 Fairview avenue, wagon shed; Katie M. Ely, Westervelt avenue, dwelling; Mary A. Martin, Summit avenue, dwelling.

NELSON WOMAN INDICTED

Middlesex Grand Jury Finds True Bills Against Atwood Weldy and "Wife."

TAKEN TO NEW BRUNSWICK.

Pair Will Probably Be Arraigned on Tuesday—To Answer for Murder of Weldy's Brother.

Implicating Annie Nelson, arrested here Sunday night, as an accomplice in the murder of Allen C. Weldy, the New Brunswick liveryman, who was killed in a New Brunswick street on October 18 last, the Middlesex county grand jury yesterday returned indictments against her and Atwood Weldy, whom she says is her husband. Police Chairman Charles Oliver, who caused the arrest of the Nelson woman here, came to this city today and took the prisoner to New Brunswick. Atwood Weldy is now in jail there.

Justice Bergen will be at New Brunswick on Tuesday and the pair will probably be arraigned at that time. It is expected that at that time a date will be set for the trial.

Chief Kiely said today that he had talked with the Nelson woman, but would say nothing about the conversation. Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, spent about an hour in her cell with her yesterday and he likewise refuses to discuss the matter. New and what is said to be convincing testimony, it is said, has been secured against Weldy, against whom the grand jury found no indictments when he was first arrested in December. At that time his alleged wife was held only as a witness, but when brought to trial she will be charged as an accomplice. She is said to have been living with Weldy in New Brunswick at the time of the murder and it is alleged that she and her alleged husband jointly planned the crime, the motive for which was robbery.

Atwood Weldy, who is a brother of the murdered man, has been transferred from the New Brunswick jail to the Middlesex county jail, where the Nelson woman was taken by Detective Oliver today. It is understood that the authorities will keep the man and woman apart until the trial.

When arresed here, Annie Nelson told Chief Kiely that she and Weldy had never been married, but stated that she considered herself his wife. She has been living with friends in this city since the murder was committed last October, and Atwood Weldy has frequently visited her here.

THIS GOOD SAMARITAN SAYS HE GOT "STUNG"

Because he tried to be a good Samaritan, and gave lodging to Fred Stillger, of Grant avenue, who was "locked out" Saturday night, Harry Snyder, of Manson place, is shy $10.60 and had Stillger haled before City Judge Runyon today, charging him with stealing it from his rooms last Monday morning. Stillger was held under $100 bond to await the action of the grand jury. He was taken to the county jail this morning.

According to Snyder's story, Stillger came to his house about midnight last Saturday night and asked if he might sleep there. He said that he had been locked out of his Grant avenue house. Snyder gave the man a place to sleep and Stillger also spent Sunday there and slept there Sunday night. The two men started off together Monday morning, when Stillger said he was going to Dunellen.

At about 10 o'clock in the morning, Stillger came back to the Snyder home, according to the story of a woman who lives in the same house, and, saying that he had left his watch there, asked permission to go upstairs and get it. The woman heard him walking around through the various rooms. When Snyder returned home, the money, which had been left under a mattress, was missing, and some small change had been taken from the bureau. Snyder swore out a warrant for Stillger and the man was arrested by Patrolman Andrew Saffron yesterday afternoon.

DEFER HEWITT CONTEST

Argument Against Probate of Millionaire's Will to Take Place Monday.

LOCAL COUNSEL IN THE CASE.

Fresh Air Home Left $100,000—Plainfield Relatives Want a Share of the Estate.

As counsel for Mrs. Charlotte B. Arnet, of Elmira, N. Y., a sister of the testator, John B. Stanchfield has obtained a postponement of the contest to set aside the will of Frederick C. Hewitt, of Oswego, N. Y., until Monday. Hewitt died two months ago and when his will was offered for probate at Oswego it was found that his entire estate, estimated at four millions, was bequeathed to charitable, educational and art institutions in and near New York city. Among the beneficiaries he named was the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, of this city, which was given $100,000.

Among those who have joined with Mrs. Arnot in the contest to prevent the will being probated are Mrs. Tunison B. Hewitt, a widow, who claims to be a sister-in-law of the wealthy tes ator and her two sons, James Hewitt and Tunison Hewitt, who have filed caveats as alleged nephews. The relatives have banded together to make a contest on the ground that Hewitt was not of sound mind when he made the will in question four years ago and had not recovered his mental faculties at the time of his death. Mrs. Arnot, his own sister, was not left a penny and neither were his other blood relations. V. W. Nash, Jr., as counsel for the Plainfield relatives, will attend the hearing before the special surrogate, Frank A. Bell, of Oswego county, as will also Winfield Scott Angleman, who represents the Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

Frederick C. Hewitt was a bachelor. During his younger days he was captain and owner of a seagoing vessel. He accumulated his riches emy's ships during the Civil War. mys' ships during the Civil War.

PLAYED "HOOKEY" TO SEE MOVING PICTURES

Seven-year-old Julius Richards, one of the seven children of Ike Richards, of Somerset street, was haled before City Judge Runyon at the session of court today on the complaint of Miss Adelaide Ball. It appears that the boy has the moving picture mania, and "cuts" school every afternoon he can get money to watch the films roll by. Ike told the Judge that he had to give most of his time to his business, and couldn't keep very close watch over the boy. He said the little fellow was unmanageable.

Weeping copiously, little Julius told the court how he had been prevented from going to school by larger boys, and said that one of these habitually stole money from his family that the two might go to moving picture shows. The Judge recommended corporal punishment by the father and Julius' sister will be his custodian to and from school each day. The father was given to understand that the next appearance of the boy at court would mean the payment of a fine, and Richards promised that there would be no more complaints.

GEORGE COOTE HURT BY PREMATURE EXPLOSION.

George Coote, of Watchung, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while attempting to blow out stumps with dynamite at the Rose hill farm. The young man's left hand was so badly mangled as a result of the explosion that at the hospital it was found necessary to amputate two fingers and a thumb.

It is supposed that Coote in trying to fix one of the sticks under a stump, either cut the fuse too short or gave it a sudden jar thus causing an explosion before he could get out of the way, and that one of the large fragments struck him on the hand.

CHURCH PEOPLE AMUSED

"The Country Postoffice" Caused Lots of Fun for Monroe Avenue Congregation.

EVERYONE GOT A LETTER.

J. Stephen Higham As Postmaster—To Repeat Entertainment Tonight.

"The Country Postoffice," a rural comedy affair familiar to nearly everyone, delighted a capacity audience at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night. The entertainment, in which a large number of adults and younger people took part, was arranged by J. Stephen Higham, who for several weeks has been drilling the participants, until they reached a high state of efficiency.

The platform of the church was arranged to represent a typical corner grocery with "The Village Postoffice" as the central point of attraction, for it was here that everyone called for their mail and there was a letter for each person. These letters were read before the audience and furnished lots of fun. The program included a "knock" for everyone of prominence in the church, all in good humor. In one corner of the store this sign appeared on a piano: "Uprite Pianny For Sail," and "Hyam's Fifty-seven Varieties," caused a hearty laugh. During the evening there were vocal solos by Mrs. C. K. Shreve and E. C. Martin. The characters and those who impersonated them were as follows:

"Postmaster William Jones," J. Stephen Higham; "Jerushy Jones," his wife, Mrs. Mansfield Smith; "Elyzabythe Jones," his daughter, just home from boarding school, Mrs. Louis Tallamy; "James Henry Jones," his son, C. K. Shreve; "Col. Gibson," big story teller, Robert L. Lee; "Joseph Robinson," bigger story teller, Thomas Jacob; "Silas Hardhack," still bigger story teller, Louis Tallamy; "Deacon Slocum," horse trader, John R. McCormick "Lizy Ann Slocum," his wife, Mrs. C. K. Shreve; "Betsy Winslow," dressmaker, Mrs. R. L. Lee; "Rev. Tobias Dusenberry," Blanchard Randolph; "Reuben Ricks," stuttering boy, Harry Lude; "Samanthy Denew," Mrs. John W. Daub; "Mandy Baker," Lillian Payson; "Patrick O'Mulligan," Edward Beekman; "Dr. Dolliver," Blanchard Randolph; "Delilah Martin," Miss Agnes Brown. "Norah Cassidy," Bessy Gunzleman; "Martha Reynolds,' Miss Stella Rink; "Francis Sinclair Bigelow," John W. Daub; "Anna Goodwin," Miss Edna Garretson; "Jenny Brown," Miss Louisa McCormick; "Mary Slocum," Miss Edna Garretson; "Johnny Dolliver," John Grey; "Susan Smith," Miss Anna Lee; "Widow Gray," Mrs. Edward Beekman; "Lee Sing," C. K. Shreve; "Mrs. Joseph Robinson," Mrs. J. W. Daub; "Mary Anna Stedman," Mrs. Edward Beekman; "Cyrus Depew," Mansfield Smith; "Bobby Robinson," Archie Thompson.

The entertainment will be repeated tonight with the same program and in addition there will be extra musical numbers.

FOUND "NEGRO BILL" DEAD IN HIS CABIN

"Negro Bill," a well known character in this city and vicinity for at least thirty years, was found dead in his cabin on Mountain avenue by James Myers, of the Watchung Spring Water Company, early this morning. The aged negro had been ill for a long time and was being cared for by Myers who took him provisions every day. When Myers arrived at the cabin this morning he found the man lying in his bunk as if asleep, but upon trying to arouse him found that he was cold and stiff. A hasty examination showed that he had been dead for some hours. As soon as the death was reported at the water company's plant word was sent to the police of North Plainfield and to the coroner, Dr. Long, of Somerset county.

To many people "Negro Bill" was well known as a fiddler of no mean ability. His occupation was that of farm-hand, doing odd jobs for those living near him.

BROTHER WANTS SHARE OF L. E. HART FORTUNE

Before Judge Atwater in the Union County Court, today, a contest is being heard in the will case of Lemuel E. Hart, who died at his home on West Front street a short time ago, leaving an estate valued at $100,000. Mr. Hart was survived by a wife, but no children. He also left two brothers and three sisters to whom he bequeathed from $1,000 to $2,000 each.

Levi Hart, of this city, one of the brothers, through his counsel, Winfield S. Angleman, filed a caveat against the probate of the will and the argument is being heard today. Codington & Swackhamer represent the executors of the estate. The estate left by Mr. Hart includes many fine properties in this city. The bulk of the fortune was left to the widow.

FAIR FOR BENEFIT OF ATHLETIC FIELD FUND

The fair given by the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the athletic field fund was held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon and evening, and a goodly sum was netted. Ever since the proposed project was first suggested general interest has been taken in it. The auditorium was trimmed with palms and cut flowers, while the many booths were decorated with green and white. At the fancy article tables those in charge were Mrs. Albert C. Zabriskie, Mrs. J. K. Roundy, Mrs. Robert A. Meeker, Mrs. Thomas Osment, Mrs. J. H. Manning and Mrs. John M. Lewis. Those at the book counter were Mrs. Harry C. Runyon, Mrs. H. V. Hubbard, and the Misses Ethel Titsworth and Florence Hawkins. The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Charles Dayton, Mrs. L. M. French, Miss Margaret Swain and Miss E. A. Palmer. At the cake and pastry counter, which was one of the chief centers of attraction, were Mrs. J. W. Gavett, Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs. J. H. Carman, Mrs. Marcus Clawson, Mrs. A. J. Jenkins, Misses Carrie Dewey and Eleanor Demarest.

During the evening the Y. M. C. A. orchestra rendered selections which were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Roundy acted as accompanist.

CAPTAIN SMITH PAYS A POOR MAN'S TAXES.

Captain W. C. Smith, of North Plainfield, who appeared before the Borough Council Monday night in behalf of James Huntington, of Pearl street, in regard to the intended sale of enough personal property to pay the old man's taxes, caled at the tax collector's office this morning and settled the bill amounting to $5.66.

Huntington, who is seventy years old, has been a cripple for the past two years and has just been about able to earn enough to keep from asking support of the borough.

Announce Annual Excursion.

Harry M. Slauson, chairman of the committee of arrangements, has announced the date for the annual excursion of the Crescent Avenue rPesbyterian church to Asbury Park. It will occur on Thursday, July 8, and the Bethel chapel, Grace, St. Stephen's, Heavenly Rest, Holy Cross and Seventh-Day Baptist churches will join in the day's outing at the shore, making it one of the largest of the season.

LENTEN RECITAL CHARMS

Superb Song and 'Cello Entertainment Under the Direction of Joseph McIntyre.

MISS GOOLD THE SOPRANO.

Vladimer Dubinsky 'Cellist with Mr. McIntyre as Pianist—At Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna's.

The song and 'cello recital given at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna, on Watchung avenue, yesterday by Joseph McIntyre, comprised several features which made it one of the most delightful musicales of the season. The charming home was thronged with lovers of music who never seemed to tire of the fine program. Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold, soprano, and Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, were the assisting artists, with Mr. McIntyre at the piano.

In the selection of the program, the artists displayed excellent taste, it being of such a varied character that the large audience found much to please them. The opening number was Handel's "Sonata in G Minor," for piano and 'cello, and in the various movements the rendition was perfect. The harmony of the two instruments perhaps was never heard to better advantage and the possibilities of each were fully shown.

Mrs. Goold, whose appearance here was the first in a long time, delighted all. She sang groups of French, Italian and English songs and they were so arranged that the interest was held until the very end of the musicale. In the first group of songs, perhaps, her singing of Puccini's "Valse de Musette" from "La Boheme," was the best. She has a voice of great range, sweetness and purity and showed that she was entirely familiar with her work. The rendition of "Stars with Golden Sandals," by Franz, was pleasing. Other numbers in this group included "Maman dites moi," Old French; "Un doux Lien," Delbruck; "In dem Shatten Meiner Locken," and "'Tis Spring," by Wolf, while for an encore she sang "All in the Summertime," accompanying herself at the piano.

In his 'cello work, Mr. Dubinsky again proved himself a favorite. This artist never fails to meet every expectation and yesterday his playing was greeted with a storm of applause. He handled his instrument with a master hand and in a faultless manner. His numbers included "L'Adieu," Davidoff; "Madrigal," from "L'enfant Prodigue," and "Tarantelle," Popper, and in conclusion he gave a charmiag encore.

The progam closed with five numbers by Mrs. Goold, the best of which was "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Haydn. In this selection her singing appealed to everyone and won for her much applause. "Come Lassies and Lads," Old English, was full of life, while the other two numbers, "But Lately in Dance I Embraced Her," by Arnsky, and "Ecstasy," by Rummel, and an encore, afforded Mrs. Goold excellent opportunity to display her voice.

As for the work of Mr. McIntyre it was of the highest order. He accompanied Mrs. Goold and Mr. Dubinsky in a manner that added greatly to the charm of the numbers and made the musicale the decided success that it proved to be. The patrons of these two Lenten affairs at Mrs. Ginna's home fully appreciate Mr. McIntyre's efforts and he never fails to attract real lovers of music wherever he appears.

Will Live at Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. Salmon C. Baker, of West Fifth street, who have been residents of Plainfield for a great many years, have decided to leave this city early in the summer, when they will make their home at Cape Cod, Mass., where they own a fine residence. Their present home will be occupied by their son, Albert Baker, and he will lease his home on West Fourth street. Mr. and Mrs. Baker have many friends here who will regret that they are to leave Plainfield.

Always the Same Result.

Miss Carrie Egel, of the borough, lost a gold watch, advertised the fact in The Daily Press. A. M. Nichols, of 229 Plainfield avenue, a reader of this paper, found the watch, saw the advertisement and returned the timepiece to the owner yesterday.

Pierce's New Office.

Robert L. Pierce, the Dunellen real estate dealer, has moved his offices from the Gise building to the Siriski building, on Main street, in that place. Mr. Gise is now tearing down the old structure and will soon erect a modern one.

BIG CONCERN FORMED

Plainfield Supply Co. to Deal in Ice, Coal and Lumber Here and Elsewhere.

CAPITAL HALF A MILLION.

Business and Real Estate of Natural Ice Company and McDonough Brothers Is taken Over.

Articles were signed this morning for the formation of the Plainfield Supply Company, whose capital stock will be $500,000 and whose business will be to deal in ice, coal and lumber at both wholesale and retail. The concern has acquired the real estate and business of both the Natural Ice Company and McDonough Brothers, both here and at Bear Creek, Pa., where a lake of some sixty acres was recently purchased.

The concern proposes to enter into competition with the Lake Hopatcong Ice Company, controlled by the Brady brothers, and will dispose of its commodity all along the lines of the Jersey Central as far as Atlantic City. In like manner it will sell lumber through the same territory, buying outright direct from the mills and not selling on commission.

It is proposed to erect a large ice house on the hygeia plant grounds where it will store the natural product from Bear Creek. The artificial ice plant is now being overhauled at an expense of $20,000, and when the improvements are made the concern will be in a position to supply ice not only here but through a large territory now almost exclusively covered by the Hopatcong company. The hygeia output will be forty tons a day.

Those who are interested in the half million dollar concern are the four McDonough brothers, Andrew H. Wilson, Harry H. Coddington and Harry Titus, all local men.

The articles of incorporation of the company were filed by Attorney George W. Bird at Elizabeth today. According to the plans William Titus will look after the wholesale ice business outside of Plainfield, and Patrick McDonough will attend to the sale of lumber outside of the local territory, while Andrew H. Wilson will have charge of the company's ice business in Plainfield.

The mild weather of the past winter is responsible for the reorganization of the business as conducted by the Natural Ice Company on a more extensive scale, and the company now feels assured that in the future it will be in a position to meet the demands of trade in ice, as well as coal and lumber.

SPEAKERS FOR UNION GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, minister of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who was appointed a committee of one to arrange for a special musical service to be held in his church on Good Friday in place of the former plan of having several ministers speak on "The Seven Words of the Cross," has decided that the musical service is not practical and that the program will be as in past years.

The entire program has not been arranged as yet, but Dr. Zelie has made the following selection of speakers for the service: Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, Rev. John Y. Broek, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, Rev. J. W. Musson, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and Rev. Edwin Shaw. The music will be appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preside and other ministers not mentioned will have parts assigned to them. The change in the program is a great disappointment to many who anticipated a change this year.

Adjourned Teachers' Meeting.

The adjourned teachers' meeting of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church was held last evening at the home of Miss Serrell, of Union street. Ernest K. Powilson resigned from the office of secretary and Raymond Carver was elected to fill the vacancy. The resignation of B. J. Shreve, librarian, was received, and Robert Sherwin, assistant librarian, was elected to the office. Discussion of matters of interest to the school was followed by refreshments and a social half hour.

Watson Was Down and Out.

Patrolman Saffron found Malacha Watson helplessly drunk on East Second street early yesterday afterday afternoon and had him transferred to a police court cell. Watson, who lives on Grant avenue, has never been arrested for drinking before, and City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

DO YOU WANT A HUBBY?

Any Plainfield Lassie Longing for One Only Has to Consult "Lord Mayor."

CHANCE NOT TO BE MISSED.

Model Young German—Says So Himself—Writes Mr. Fisk from Tubingen to Help Him.

When Mayor Charles J. Fisk opened his official mail this morning, he found among it a letter addressed "To the Lord Mayor of Plainfield, U. S. N. A., Amerika," and postmarked Tubingen, Germany. "Umph," said the banker-mayor after the epistle had been translated for him, "I am not a shatchen but I believe that every man should be married and I would like to help this fellow along. Any girl that's pining for a fellow to marry can have this man's name."

In his appeal to the "lord mayor of Plainfield," the subject of the Emperor William in question says:

"In all German newspapers at the present time, it is stated that there is in your city such great need of young men that marriageable ladies are prevented from fulfilling their highest destiny. In order to slightly relieve this situation and personally because I have few women friends from whom to select a loving wife, may I trespass upon your very great kindness in helping me to become acquainted with some marriageable lady?

"I should prefer a young, pretty and amiable lady (or widow) and should like to have a photograph in case such a lady may be found. I, myself, am twenty-four years of age and am of good family. I am of good appearance and education and without any vices, a medical student, and a Catholic but liberal in my views.

"This is, of course, making a great and selfish trespass upon your Excellency's kindness, but I did not know whom else in Plainfield to turn to and beg that you will pardon my presumption. Should one of the far famed American girls consent to correspond with a man on this side of the ocean, I should be under a great obligation to you in advance for your praiseworthy kindness."

The matrimonially-inclined German youth enclosed some postage stamps for a reply, but the "Lord Mayor" would not say whether he intended to answer the letter. He did say that it was the first time that he ever heard of a scarcity of young men in this city and that in his opinion there was an ample supply of a very good quality to answer all requirements.

TEACHERS AND PARENTS DISCUSSED PROBLEMS

The Parent-Teacher Association met at the Franklin School, last night, and discussed the question, "The Advisability of Detaining Children After School Hours.' There were many opinions on the subject, but no decision was reached. Many of the parents present expressed the idea that some other form of punishment should be adopted for infraction of rules, but in the opinion of Dr. H. M. Maxson and several teachers it seemed to be the only one that had proved satisfactory in the past.

The discussion brought out the point that where a child is repeatedly detained after school hours as a penalty for disobedience he is likely to become hardened to the punishment and eventually show a "don't care" spirit. This was admitted to be true by the teachers, yet they had been unable to find any other means of reprimanding the child. It was also brought out that children were often detained for trivial matters and it seemed to be difficult to decide where to draw the line. It was agreed that the discussion had been helpful even though it had been found impossible to recommend any other method of punishment.

Another interesting feature was an informal talk by William D. Murray on "Children's Rights." This subject in a measure had a bearing on the first question considered, and Mr. Murray presented many helpful suggestions which should prove of benefit to both the child and the teacher.

Samuel Culter Arraigned.

Samuel Culter, a young man who claims Plainfield as his home, and who was arrested sometime ago at Westfield on a charge of stealing a watch valued at $6, was arraigned in the Union county court today. The prisoner entered a plea of guilty and was put in charge of the probation officer and ordered to pay the latter fifty cents a month for one year.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Carl Steiner showed he was of some class at the Chruch meet Monday night. The Congregational athlete was certainly going after some kind of a record when he nipped the running high jump.

The First Baptist church believes that the body must have the proper care, from the way their boys are showing up in the athletic events. First they won the basketball championship, and now they won both the senior and junior athletic meet.

The Plainfield golfers are now getting ready for a big season, already many of the golfers are beginning to get out their sticks to take a day off and practice.

Percy Lawrence, the latest bicycle star from the Pacific coast, will make his first professional appearance in the East at the Vendome track next Sunday. Lawrence will ride with such men as Frank Kramer, Joe Fogler and such fast ones.

The Carlisle Indians are now getting ready for their football season. Glenn Warner, the head coach, has but one regret, that being the Redskins won't have a chance to defeat Harvard.

Jem Driscoll, the little Welsh pugilist, who made such a wonderful record during his stay in this country, will return some time next September, when he will meet Abe Attell.

Jack Johnson, the heavy-weight fighter, may look good to the fans in Australia, but when the big black reached New York his boom wasn't quite so big.

The big Marathon race which will be held next Saturday is creating more excitement than any run ever held in this country. There will be at least six of the world's greatest runners to take part. Among them will be Dorando, Shrubb and Longboat.

BASEBALL.

The Dunellen boys are getting out on the diamond every night. It is expected that in a few weeks there will be enough teams around that town to keep up the interest for the rest of the season.

The last two days has kept most of the boys off the field, the weather has been too cold for the wise ones who know the meaning of sore arms and stiff legs. It is better to keep in a few days than to run chances of being laid up for a long time.

The P. H. S. boys are out for practice whenever they get a chance. Captain Snyder wants to have his team in first-class condition for their practice game which will be on Saturday.

Brooklyn is putting up a better game at this stage of the season than she has for many years. It begins to look as if the Dodgers will surprise some of the would-be champion teams next October.

Nothing has been heard of Cliff Randolph since the Newark team broke up their training quarters. Cliff is by no means a lost lad and he will soon turn up with another big surprise for his baseball friends.

The New York Americans put up a great game against the Columbus team Monday, by shutting out the Buckeye players with a score of 4 to 0.

Bill Russell, the pitcher who will heave them over for the Y. M. C. A. this summer, is getting more speed as the days go by. Bill hasn't been dining on buttermilk this past winter for nothing.

Napoleon Lajoie, of the Cleveland team, is hot on the trail of Kid Eberfield, of New York. The Cleveland manager thinks if he can secure the naughty Kid, the pennant is his.

BOWLING.

Brown and Matthews, the Somerville cracks, did certainly make a great hit at Campbell's Monday night, but that doesn't scare either Stout and Laing, who are liable to make the pins fall for scores that will make even the big ones feel a little nervous.

Whether Chief Kiely can bowl better before St. Patrick's Day or not has yet to be proven. At present the Chief is fast rounding into first class form.

Those Park Club bowlers have begun to show some of their old time form. Since the championship games there has been a big slump in the scores from over the Brook rollers.

Nash and Blatz, who made the pins fall for keeps a few weeks ago, have something of a surprise before the season closes. When these two local chaps get their swing on the head pin it means woe to some of the leaders.

Shannon is the one man many of the bowlers fear, as all know it means a hustle for the man who wants the honor of the high score.

THE FORUM.

The Sewage Problem.

Editor The Daily Press:

Recently you published a communication from Dr. Richard Moldenke on the "sewage problem," and still later you have published other letters, and your news columns have contained references to this subject.

Now, there are a few general principles and some concrete, definite facts that seem to have escaped the attention of Dr. Moldenke and of some others who have expressed their views on the sewage problem.

Let us, then, for the purpose of briefly considering some phases of this very important matter, start with the concrete fact that the so-called filtration plant already established on the banks of this beautiful Green brook does constantly and foully pollute this stream, rendering the water of the brook not only disgusting to the sight and smell, but unfit for any use whatever. No person with any regard for decency and propriety, not to mention the question of health, will allow his cows to drink the water of this brook at even a distance of many miles below this sewer bed; and, notwithstanding the fact that the city of Plainfield has secured from the State Board of Health certificates to show the absolute purity of the stuff that flows from its filthy deposits, its own boards of health have attempted to stop the sale within the city of milk from cows that were allowed to drink the water of the brook. If any way could be found to prevent the sale of this milk, without nullifying the claim that the water of the brook has not been polluted, there would be no delay in enforcing an order to this effect. The milkman might not be able to keep his cows out of the water which the city of Plainfield had contaminated, but he could sell his milk to some other community; he would not be allowed to offer it to Plainfield. As a matter of fact, the water is not fit for any use. At the time of floods the stench is not noticeable, and the occasional floods are all that saves this stream from becoming a vile and fetid flow of corruption. Throughout the summer season the brook is always disgusting. Not only does the water lose the sparkling life that distinguishes a pure running stream, but it is offensive to the smell, and on its surface may be seen a never ending procession of solid particles of scum from this model filtration plant, some of which keep on towards the sea, or to the "brimming' river;" but many of which find resting places along the charming green banks, under drooping willows, in pretty whirling eddies, or withing the grateful shade of some spreading tree in every place formed by nature for the exaltation of the soul and the refreshment of the body great brown frothy blotches of filth will be found. Plainfield may deny this, and the health boards may see only a limpid stream of matchless purity, but the writer of this communication has for the past six years been so sorrowfully conscious of the exact conditions just described that he can not believe he has been thus affected by a mere hallucination.

It appears that North Plainfield is taking measures to purify this brook where it flows through the limits of the borough. What frame of mind would this borough be in with these sewer beds above instead of below its homes? Let those who would line this brook with these disgusting piles of filth answer this question. Neither Plainfield nor North Plainfield would view with any patience an attempt to establish a disposal plant on this stream above their limits, though the chemists and health boards of a dozen States should declare the out flow from such a plant to be a pure stream or water—purified of all that it might contain upon leaving the waste pipes of a thousand homes.

In all the discussions of this matter the only phase of the question touched upon is the effect upon this people and properties in the vicinity of the beds. The larger and more important question of the pollution of the streams of the State is not mentioned, but the day can not be far distant when the contamination of any stream will be prohibited, and other means will have to be invented for disposing of sewage. Whether the sewage shall be destroyed by fire, or be swept into the sea, or, best of all, be mingled with the soil, filtration plants will not be allowed to stand on our beautiful streams, even if there shall be discovered means, which truly have not yet been found of really purifying the discharges from the waste pipes of a city. The sea is so large in comparison with all the water that can be emptied into it, that this partially purified refuse water, if thrown in at the places unsuitable for human habitation, could not seriously pollute the sea water, but the streams must be cleaned and be kept clean before many years, and the wise city will plan to meet this condition of the public mind. Not only will the building of these plants be prohibited, but those plants already established must soon be abated. Plainfield, North Plainfield and the other municipalities interested in the present agitation of this sewer question will do well to believe that the beds now in operation in the city of Plainfield will not be endured much longer, and also that any great plant that may be established in accordance with the plans now being considered will be reduced to the dust when a well informed public shall rise in its might. If present legislatures pass laws to favor such plants, and through State boards may now be composed of men who, for the sake of upholding such plants, are blind to the defilement that runs from the foot of these beds down the streams of the State, later legislatures may repeal these laws, and State boards with wider visions may be installed. The time will come when the people of this State, and of all States, will have their waterways clear of all suspicion, and will not allow one of these virulent filtration plants along a single stream; and the wise municipality will build far enough into the future to avoid the trouble that will certainly come to those who are blind to the progress and trend of the times. If necessary a day will come when a Governor and a Legislature will be elected on the sole issue of clearing the streams of sewage pollution, and then there will be regret enough that a far-sighted policy and a decent consideration for the health and comfort of the State at large did not prevail.

The importance of preserving the purity of streams should be well understood even now, but, lest some reader may feel that too much stress has been laid on this matter, it may be interesting and profitable to quote the following from the Madison (N. J.) Eagle, of March 26:

"Sir James Grant, an eminent physician of Canada, was in New York on Sunday. He was asked what, in his opinion, was the most important question confronting the people of North America, and he unhesitatingly replied: 'The disposal of sewage. Turn to practical account general sewage, as is done in Japan, untilize this sewage for the fertilization of unproductive areas, and there is no saying how many lives may be saved and how many millions be added to both the United States and Canada by so desirable an undertaking.

"'In this whole subject the matter of public health stands out prominently, and the conclusion now arrived at is that sewage from the towns and cities discharged into the streams of both countries is doing much to generate typhoid fever and other diseases so fatal in their results. If we will utilize this sewage as Japan is doing today, great results will follow. The purity of water thus conserved has a most important bearing on the purity of milk, which, as an article of diet, is almost looked upon today as the pabulum of life.

"'The debilitating influence of impure water and impure milk cannot be over estimated. This has, in my opinion, most to do with a general lowering of the system, which prepares the body in thickly crowded localities for the production of tuberculosis, the mortality from which is not less in this republic than one hundred thousand lives annually.'"

Coming to the narrower question of the relative cost of the different systems of sewage disposal, why is it an impossibility, as stated by your correspondent, for the immeasely wealthy communities of Plainfield and North Plainfield to finance their part in building the more desirable system? Is it a harder proposition for these rich municipalities to furnish the means for the disposal of their own filth than it is for the people some distance down the stream to suffer ruin to their property, some of them losing perhaps nearly every dollar they have in the world, by reason of the dumping at their doors of the offensive effluvia that they have had no part in producing? Your correspondent talks of the greater good to the greater number, and asserts that a few who have no interest in the sewer should suffer for the benefit of the many. This is a monstrous proposition in the application which he makes of it, and has no foundation in reason, law or righteousness. The fact that North Plainfield's soil is becoming saturated with sewage from her cess pools does not warrant the sending of a deluge of festering, disease-breeding excrement to the home of one single human being outside the municipality. Individuals and communities should give each other sympathy and support when necessary, but none is called upon to offer his premises as a dumping ground for the offensive refuse of another, especially when means may be found of disposing of such refuse without danger or discomfort to anybody.

There will not be space in this letter to discuss the legal aspects of the question, but these may be taken up in a later communication. Briefly it may be said that the writer can not believe there is any constitutional support for a law empowering a township committee to license the dumping of sewage at the door of any individual or community that has no interest in the sewer, and no part in its uses. The condemnation of private property for public uses presupposes that those whose property is taken have equal rights and opportunities with all other persons in the use and enjoyment of the public service secured by such condemnation; and the writer can not believe that this rule of law and right will allow any community, even by act of legislature, to defile any other community, or the property of any disinterested individual, by the establishment of sewer beds.

Finally, let the rich men of Plainfield and North Plainfield, as well as of the other communities of the State, display a little of the public spirit shown by a widow of the borough of Dunellen some years ago, when she offered to give ten thousand dollars, which must have been a tenth of her whole fortune, to assist in the building of a trunk sewer line to the ocean, and some clean, inoffensive means, free from danger to health, will be found, without financial embarrassment, for the disposal of sewage, which, instead of coursing down our streams, spreading disease-breeding stench of the air, should indeed be returned to the earth, where its exhausted energy restored, it would revitalize the soil and play its appointed part in the economy of nature and the support of life.

Yours respectfully,
F. D. BAERMAN

TRUANTS HAVE COUNSEL TO FURNISH EXCUSES

For the first time in the record of truancy proceedings in the city court, two defendants were represented by counsel at their hearing before City Judge Runyon today. Samuel S. Swackhamer appeared for Mrs. Mary Winston, colored, of South Second street, mother of Mary and Frank Winston, supposed to be pupils at the Washington School. He explained that the family was in a condition of abject poverty, and said he had volunteered to handle the cases. Miss Adelaide Ball, attendance supervisor of the local schools, and Superintendent Henry M. Maxson were in court also.

Miss Ball testified that the two Winston children, the girl of twelve and the boy of seven, had been irregular in their attendance for the past two years, and declared that the reasons given for their non-attendance were not good ones. Dr. J. C. Anderson told the court that there had been a time when the girl was physically unfit to attend school, but he added that as far as he knew both children had no reason to stay home from school on account of their health. Mrs. Winston, the mother, said that the two had no shoes or underclothing and could not go out on cold days. Since an operation, Mary, the mother declared, had always been sickly and she told how Frank's recent absence had been caused by a severe sore throat. The poor woman showed that the boy's shoes had no soles and had been padded with newspapers that he might come to court.

"Instead of haling these children before the court," said Mr. Swackhamer, after Mrs. Winston's testimony had been received, "it seems to me that these good people (indicating Miss Ball and Dr. Maxson), ought to look more closely into conditions in the home and see to it that it is possible for the children to attend school. I think that a rich city like Plainfield ought to look after just such children instead of having them arraigned for non-attendance at school when they are ragged and practically bare-footed at this season of the year.

"No child in Plainfield," quickly replied Dr. Maxson, "need ever stay away from school because of lack of proper clothing. Whenever this is given as an excuse for non-attendance, Miss Ball refers the matter to the Plainfield Relief Association and, if the parent so desires, clothing is provided. The teachers in the various schools report children whom they have reason to believe are inadequately clothed, and an effort is made to better conditions."

Little Frank Winston was wearing clothes supplied by the Association when he came to court, but the appeal for assistance from that organization has been but recently made. Dr. Maxson told the court that he would personally see to it that the children were fitted with proper clothing, and further stated that he would have the school medical examiner pass on the health condition of the two. The understanding is that if the children are able to attend school, the truancy law will be strictly enforced.

"If this is done," said Mr. Swackhamer, "the Winstons will stand by the ruling, for the mother says she is anxious to have her children educated." Mrs. Winston is the sole support of the family now, for her husband has been unable to work since his recent discharge from the hospital after an operation.

BEANS CALLED OUT FIREMEN.

While John W. Cash, a compositor in the Westfield Leader office on Broad street, Westfield, was at work yesterday afternoon he heard an alarm of fire sounded, and, turning to the foreman of the shop, asked where the fire was. Cash appeared to be worried and remarked that he had left a pot of beans cooking upon a gas stove in his flat across the street.

It was the beans that caused the alarm and when the firemen arrived they found the flat enveloped in smoke and the beans burned to a crisp.

Mrs. C. D. Opdyke and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tyler, of this city, are registered at the Hotel Wolcott, New York, for several days.

WITHDRAWALS CAUSED LOAN CONCERN COLLAPSE

How withdrawals by shareholders of the State Mutual Loan Association of New Jersey, of which there are a number in Plainfield, precipitated the collapse of that wrecked organization was retold yesterday before Vice Chancellor Leaming at Camden. The burden of withdrawals was shown to be enormous.

The hearing was a continued one on the rule to show cause why the receivers—Messrs. Robbins, French and Bergen—should not pay a dividend of from 15 to 20 per cent. to all stockholders alike.

Certain of the stockholders, about eighty, represented by Ralph E. Lum, of Newark, and G. Harvey Carr, of Camden, have argued that they are preferred creditors because they gave notice of withdrawal before failure.

Mr. Carr represented these "withdrawers" yesterday; Judge Louis Starr, of the Assets Realization Company, which bought up many claims, and former Judge J. H. Gaskill, other persons at interest.

Lemuel Ware and Wilbur McAllister, bookkeepers for the State Mutual testified yesterday afternoon that during the year beginning April 1905, the amount of the withdrawals for which no notices had been given were $10,783; withdrawals, with notice, $30,544.

In the succeeding year the withdrawals climbed up some, the stockholders having got wind of trouble. Ending April, 1906, the year's withdrawals on notice were $7,808, while those without notice for March, 1907, were piled up to $72,417. This was a month before the collapse.

The total number of withdrawals on file, the witnesses testified, after deducting loans on stock, were in April, 1907, $232,145.

The hearing was finally adjourned until next Friday at 10 o'clock, when the three receivers will take the stand, and the vice-chancellor will try to learn from them how they value the real estate assets they have. If those who "withdrew" on notice are held to be preferred creditors, their claims being paid first, the gentral dividend may be reduced to 10 or 12 per cent.

AN "EVENING OF SONG" DELIGHTS BIG AUDIENCE

The evening of song under the direction of Edmund Skiff, at the First Methodist Episcopal church last night drew a large audience, and proved most enjoyable. The soloists, of which there were eleven, were selected from Mr. Skiff's pupils, and while some were well-known church soloists of this city and Westfield, others were new to the Plainfield public. They sang with exceptional skill and ability.

One number that was particularly pleasing was the women's quartet, of which a repetition was demanded. The quartet was made up of young singers whose voices blended exquisitely. One of the chorus numbers was omitted, but the two given were rendered with splendid finish, the attack and shading being exceptionally fine.

Mr. Skiff directed the chorus with Mrs. Harry Taylor, of Westfield, at the piano. For the soloists Mr. Skiff acted as accompanist. The women's quartet consisted of the Misses Florence Conroy, Helen R. Smalley, Jennie DeMott and Hope Irene Miller. The soloists were Mrs. Harry R. Moyer, Mrs. Arthur B. Price, Misses Florence Conroy, Hope Irene Miller, Helen J. Hall, Bertha van N. Willis, Helen R. Smalley and Laura E. Gesswein, Messrs Fred C. Kreidler, Bertram F. Tallamy and Harry R. Moyer.

The others taking part were: Mrs. Joseph S. Dunham, Mrs. Albert Lederer, Miss Mildred Stiles, Miss Annette Beeching, Miss Jessie Haynes, Mrs. Morris McGrath, Miss Katharine Taylor, Karl M. Ball, Joseph S. Dunham, Clarence Kinsey, Arthur H. Osmun, Arthur Stiles, Leslie Leland, Charles Prior, Walter Sampson.

—Mr. and Mrs. George E. Volk have removed from Elmwood place to Watchung avenue, between Regent street and Codington avenue.

GERMS THEME OF TALK TO COUNTY FARMERS

Germs and their uses and benefits to the soil will be the topic of a lecture to be delivered by Professor Loomis, of New York, at the meeting of the Union County Board of Agriculture at the Courthouse at Elizabeth, tomorrow afternoon. Professor Loomis will have with him a microscope and a number of specimens of bacteria.

There will be a discussion among the members on potato culture, and it is probable that a communication will be read at that time from the State Board of Health in response to notification of the action taken by the board at its last meeting in regard to pure and impure milk. There will probably be some discussion of the matter of school gardens. It is likely that as a result of the agitation along this line by the Board of Agriculture, school gardens will be started at Berkeley Heights, Union, New Providence and Clark Township, and that the matter is seriously considered by school authorities in Fanwood and Westfield.

This meeting would ordinarily be the last one this season as it has been the custom to discontinue them when the spring work begins, but there are so many things which have been started that have not yet been carried to completion that it may be necessary for President Collins to call one or two extra meetings.

Immediately following the meeting of the Board of Agriculture, there will probably be a short meeting of the Union County Stock Breeders' Association.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Just as twenty-two years ago a preceding generation of playgoers rejoiced in the rustic simplicity and unaffected goodness of the characters of Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" and laughed at their homely ways and rough humor, so this, the twenty-third season of the play, finds a new generation of theatregoers who mingle laughter with tears as they listen to the humor and pathos of dear Old Uncle Josh. Although not to be taken as a model of dramatic construction, and of little moment from the viewpoint of literature, to which it should be said in justice that it does not pretend, yet it has that atmosphere of human kindness, that sane and healthy outlook upon life and morals that render it doubly welcome as a breath of fresh air in the midst of a plethora of products of the dramatic hothouse. No effort of intellect, no strain upon the imagination, no sounding of the deeper emotions is required of an audience, and it is probably just these facts that explain in a large measure its long lease upon life. No doubt thousands of present-day playgoers date back their earliest recollections of the theatre to a performance of "The Old Homestead," and surely for the youth of the country no better introduction could be asked than this homely picture of the simple virtues and diversions of farm life in New England. "The Old Homestead" will be seen here Saturday afternoon and night.

"Beverly of Graustark," to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre on April 10, should not be compared in any way with "Graustark." For although "Beverly" is a sequel to Mr. McCutcheon's earlier work, there is no similarity in either the novels or the plays. In fact, one is almost an exact antithesis of the other, for in "Beverly of Graustark" it is an American girl, Beverly Calhoun, of Virginia, who, accompanied by a colored servant, visits Graustark, and then falls in love with an exiled prince whom she believes to be a mountaineers. Jessie Busley, a former Frohman and Lieblber star, who for the past two seasons has been playing Nance Olden in the star part of Channing Pollock's dramatization of Miriam Mitchlehouse's "In the Bishop's Carriage." Miss Busley's supporting company includes Douglas J. Wood, famous leading man with Mannering; Edythe Shayne, formerly with Clara Bloodgood and the "Lion and the Mouse;" Mrs. Charles Craig, formerly with "The Warrens of Virginia;" Grace Andrews, who played the Frances Starr parts in Belasco's "Rose of the Rancho;" Francis Justice, former leading juvenile in "The Heart of Maryland;" Horace Vinton, and a score of other noted players.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tomorrow night.

Plainfield members of the A. O. U. W., have learned with deep regret of the death of William H. McCullough, of Swedesboro, past grand master of the order, which occurred a few days ago at his home. Several members from here attended the funeral held today from the late home.

Miss Stella Smith, of Millstone, who has been visiting the Misses Van Cleef, of West End avenue, has returned home.

Allen E. Beals, of East Front street, who has been detained at home several days by illness, has recovered and returned to business.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shotwell, of Bayonne, will remove to 15 West End avenue about April 15.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Plainfield But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help.

Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed.

Not one so important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It is the kidneys' cry for help Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys ;help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Plainfield citizen.

Mrs. M. Newman, 532 West Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Violent headaches and a constant pain in my limbs were the principal symptoms of my kidney trouble. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy, and soon after I began taking them, the pains in my head and limbs disapepared. I heartily endorse this splendid preparation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Don't Be A Furnace Slave

The BOYNTON

Square Fire-Pot
PATENTED
FURNACE
reverses the usual order of furnace facts. It requires the least amount of fuel and the least amount of care. In return it gives the biggest, hottest fire you ever knew; a clean, clinkerless fire. It burns all the coal and when you shake it all the dust goes up the chimney. BOYNTON furnaces are clean. They give the maximum of heat for a minimum of expense. We will gladly give you the name of the nearest BOYNTON dealer, so that you may investigate.
There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

VALUE IN MILK AND CREAM

Depends on Quality as well as Price.

Our Cream for instance, is worth from half again to twice as much as that of most other dealers, on the ground of richness and consequent greater cost to us.

No artificial "thickeners" or preservatives in ours either. Our cream is thicker because richer.

8,597 SPECIAL PENSIONS IN SIXTIETH CONGRESS.

Washington, March 31.—During the Sixtieth Congress 8,597 special pension acts were passed by Congress, according to a statement just compiled by Senator McCumber, chairman of the Senate Committee on Pensions. While many of these acts were to increase pensions already received by veterans, the result of the legislation has been to increase the annual payments by about one million dollars.

Since 1861 there have been granted by special acts 26,324 original pensions and 17,500 veterans were granted an increase of pension, all of which have an annual face value of about $5,250,000.

Since the close of the Civil War in 1865 there has been paid in pensions the sum of $3,654,653,365, and the cost of maintaining pension agencies and administration of the pension bureau has been $112,852,477.

NO M'ADOO TUNNEL TO GO BEYOND NEWARK.

New York, March 31.—President William G. McAdoo, of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad, denied yesterday the report that his company purposed building a tunnel extension to the Oranges and Montclair. Mr. McAdoo said:

"The Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company has no intention of constructing lines in New Jersey to the Oranges or any other suburban point. We have repeatedly denied this rumor. The only suburban line in contemplation is the one to Newark, and this is to be a joint service through our tunnels and over the Pennsylvania tracks to Newark."

Denounced Court, Then Fainted.

Perth Amboy, March 31.—Angered because her husband lost a case which he brought against his mother in the local police court Monday night, Mrs. James Cahill denounced the court savagely. With her lips uttering a bitter arraignment of Recorder H. E. Pickersgill, she fell to the floor in a faint. Spectators rushed to her aid as she fell and dashed water in her face, reviving her with difficulty. When she recovered consciousness, Mrs. Cahill left the city hall without further comment on the kind of justice dealt out there.

Failing to get a response to her supper calls, Mrs. James Kilroy found her husband dead in bed last night at Camden. Coroner Litchfield assigned acute indigestion as the cause. Kilroy was fifty years old, and resided at No. 1800 South Seventh street.

Nolle prosses were entered to the indictments pending against Simon Shore and Lewis Husick, both of Camden, for illicit distilling of liquor, in the United States District Court at Trenton yesterday. The government found that it lacked proper proof.

PianoExtravagance

Consists Only in Buying the Wrong Piano at Any Price

As home entertainment is a necessity for the welfare of the family circle, and the act that a good piano is the best investment you can make for increasing the pleasure of your home, the only mistake you can make is in buying the WRONG PIANO AT ANY PRICE. The purchase of a

Hallet & Davis Piano

is economy personified. You want your dollars to go as far as possible. You want the best at the right price. This is what you get in a Hallet & Davis, to say nothing of the quiet joy and satisfaction that inheres in the ownership of good and beautiful things—this makes Hallet & Davis pianos true bargains.

Our small payment plan makes piano buying easy. Write for catalogues of pianos and special offerings in Player Pianos.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern:—

Take notice that application will be made to the present (1909) session of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, for the passage of an Act of the Legislature to extend the time of the "Plainfield Horse Car Railroad Company", to complete all or at least two miles of its railway, from the time stated in the Act of the Legislature granting said company its charter (P. L. 1871, p. 1361), or in any other Act, general or special, by which such time has been extended, to the first day of July, one thousand nine-hundred and fourteen, and, if said charter has expired by reason of failure to complete said railway as specified in said incorporating act, or other acts general or special extending such time, to revive such charter.

Dated March 24, 1909.
Signed:
3 25 9 MARY W. BOARD.

TWO MAN TOURNEY SCORES AT CAMPBELL'S

Skelly and Miller were last night's winners in the two men tournament at Campbell's alleys. There were no large scores made during the evening. Miller got the highest, 226. Stout made 223 in his fifth game, but fell down in his last. Neither Kiely or Causebrook were up to their standard. The best the Chief could do was 208.

Skelly	220	156	180
Miller	203	159	226
	423	315	406
Stout	169	149	152

Laing	181	174	204
	356	397	369

BOWLING.

George Vanderbilt is one of the men who expects to be in perfect trim after April 1. George puts it that is the time for one to work off the spring fever.

The best tonic for a tired bowler is a strike, while the worst he can get is an impossible split.

Little is going on in the duck pin line of late. The little pins require much work with few large scores.

Baseball Team Elects Captain.

The Young Men's Bible class of Trinity Reformed Sunday-school met last night in the church parlors and elected Charles A. Doeringer captain of the baseball team. They also made preparations for an entertainment for the purpose of raising money for the benefit of the class treasury. The date of the entertainment will be announced later.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Association of Warren chapel will meet Friday night.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a business meeting in its room tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Preparatory services will be held at Warren chapel tonight and communion with reception of members on Sunday morning.

Charter Day Committee Meets.

The Charter day celebration committee met at the office of Secretary Herr last night but little was accomplished. There was some misunderstanding as to who has charge of the enterprise, the representative of some organizations stating that they had not been informed that the Board of Trade had arranged to conduct it and desired the co-operation of the various organizations. Captain William C. Smith, as chairman, will call another meeting in a short time.

New Pictures at Proctor's.

Among the new pictures that will be seen at Proctor's this afternoon and evening will be "Master Goes Shopping," "Cremation," "Three Mountain Climbers," "Love Is Blind" and "Lucy De Lammemoor." This will also be the last day that De Blaker's trick dogs and monkeys will be seen.

Mothers' Association Annual.

The annual business meeting of the Plainfield Mothers' Association will be held at the Plainfield High School Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after which Mrs. J. Hervey Doane will give a talk on "The Heart of the Child."

Co. K. In Battalion Drill.

Co. K will go to Trenton, Tuesday night, April 6, for battalion drill. The members will wear blue uniform, overcoats and black shoes. The company will assemble at the armory at 7 o'clock.

Sesame Club to Meet.

The Sesame Club will meet at the home of Mrs. L. L. Ross, 403 East Seventh street, tomorrow morning.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, have returned from their trip around the world.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, has returned from a missionary trip to Salemville, Pa., and will preach at his church Sabbath morning.

Miss Katherine Huntington, a junior at Vassar College, is spending the Easter vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Huntington, of Sherman avenue.

W. C. Crook, of South avenue, was removed to the hospital this morning where he will undergo an operation for an affection of the knee which has troubled him for a long time.

Teachers' Tenure Bill.

It rests with the State Senate to say whether teachers are to enjoy life tenure of positions in the public schools of New Jersey. The House passed Amos H. Radcliffe's bill in amended form late yesterday and as Governor Fort approves the Senate can make it a law.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in its room, 100 Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

E-M-F "30" $1,250 F. O. B. Detroit.

4-cylinder, 30 Horse Power, selective type, sliding gear, 107-inch wheel base, 5 lamps, generator, horn, kit tools and splitdorf magneto. $1,250 F. O. B. Detroit.

Weighs only 1,800 lbs (60 lbs for each horse power); expense for tires and up-keeps reduced to a minimum.

Design, workmanship and material is the best that money, brains and experience can produce.

The factory is making 12,000 of this one model for 1909. This makes the price of $1,250 possible. Were they only building a few hundred of these cars it would be impossible to sell them for less than double. The list price includes a splitdorf magneto, full lamp equipment, horn and kit of tools.

We guarantee all E-M-F cars sold by us free of repairs from defects for 3 months. Let us demonstrate it to you.
